Her words, received in silence by the older women and applied at by Anna, who was going to be married in the Spring to Knut Sandi, who lived near and had built a two-roomed house, found a sympathetic listener in Helmi, who was then thirteen. Her mother and Anna might be content with Finland, but Helmi's eyes had caught the vision of the far country.

The resolve to see this wonderful country for herself was definitely taken when she saw the beautiful picture Aunt Lili brought her. It was a colored picture, shiny as ice and flashing with light and color, called "Jenny's Flower Garden." It showed an old fashioned garden bursting with roses and hollyhocks and Canterbury bells. Down the brick walk came two lovely ladies, one in a crimson velvet dress, the other one in fairy blue; a little fairy-haired girl followed at them clad in white, carried a green basket brimming with roses.

Helmi believed that little fairy and wondered how her Aunt Lili could be so dark an enchanted place even to come for a visit to the old country. Aunt Lili had used soap wrappers to get the picture, and had left it behind—enough in the point of need for a dozen more—and where all concerned might see from whence it came. But to Helmi the picture symbolized Aunt Jenny's Flower Garden." It was too thrilling a thought to love, so she did not ask confirmation.

Aunt Lili stayed for the Black Festival, and then returned to her home in Canada, but the pleasure she left with Helmi kept the fires of her imagination and desire burning.

Eighteen still she burned after her mother died and the questions would beg grandmother came to direct the home with her self-willed and wayward mother for his family. Anna had married and entered upon the stress-ful process of a baby a year.

With monotonous work and routine now crushing all around her the exquisite soul of Anna, who was really living her real cheeks and her light heart, Helmi held to the vision Aunt Lili had given her of the Promised Land. The roses in the picture produced approval, the Canterbury bells were fetching, the pleasure she had ladies, still mannering along the garden path, smiles into her eyes and whispered "come and be one of us."

There are great moments in every life. When Aunt Lili sent the money and Helmi, now seventeen, held the letter in her hand, with its mysterious foreign stamps, and the precious note said was money, she was suddenly to reach up into another world. Now all things were possible, for here were the wings with which she could fly away. She, too, would come back with gifts others that crowded her as long as sadness, and purses and toys for Anna's children. Grama would be sorry then for the things she had said, but she would tell her that the past was gone. She was sorry for Ferguy, who would weep, sorry for Anna.

Helmi made the journey to Saint Paul, Minnesota.

It was well that her young heart was brimful by so many pleasant thoughts upon the way, for life's disappointment and sorrow were here which she met at. Aunt Lili the darling Aunt Lili, who seemed to defy sorrow and death just as she defied convention and traditions by clothing a living battle with a pleasant air, in a cheerful little room in the land owned by her husband they lived. In his London days he had been a shadow of the great Aunt Lili, and her last one prayer between life spells of vomiting, that she would live until her young niece came and then have breath enough to tell her what she must be told.

Later, after a long time, to go to Finland, and although she had written to Anna as she saw how serious her condition was, she feared her message might not arrive in time to save Helmi the journey. She need stay alive for Helmi's sake Helmi had always been her favorite black, Helmi with her golden hair, and eyes the color of the green brown moss in the bottom of the running pure as home. "Oh, just enough time to see Helmi and tell her things—please . . . please . . . God!"

And so the frightened Helmi, who had expected to be met by the Great Person who had frightened her childhood, came into the dark and dreary room, where only vivid spot was the white face on the soiled pillow with its two burning eyes.

"Don't kiss me, Helmi. Ah! It aw-ful! It is a bad disease I have which goes from me, I thought it was just a cold like I often have, but it's worse than that. Anyway, I only wanted to see you and tell you. Don't stay with Mike. He says he will keep you. You go to your self the money—it was mine. He wants you because you are young and pretty. The girls tell me he is acting bad already, and he not dead so soon. I have money enough to send you back, Helmi, that will be best. You know what is ahead of you at home. It might be worse. You will go back, won't you, Helmi?"

Helmi fell on her knees beside the bed.

"But isn't it a good country, Aunt Lili, like you said? I get alone, you die also?" she sobbed. "I can work, Aunt Lili, like you did."

"It's a good country, Helmi," said Aunt Lili when she could speak "just like I said, only men are so bad, and it's hard for a young girl alone, and I am so afraid for you. Men just want their own pleasure. Mike was good to me while I was sick, and nursed me, and while I did not say a cross word to him for what he did to me, when they get drunk, he takes their money, Helmi. I can't stand that. I threatened him I'd go and tell, and then he struck me with a chair. Promise to see me now, Helmi, and be made me take this room above the bar because when people are drunk they want to sleep. He says, 'You're awake, anyway, with your cough, so what's the odds?' Helmi, go home and all for self. The trouble started when my little Helmi was on the way. I had her name from my own home, but Mike, they're too much trouble. He was mad and cross at me because I was not smart and was sometimes sick, and when little Helmi came she only lived a day, and he was glad. Then I hated my child—I hate him now, and an dean sometimes sick, and when one is going to die, but I cannot help it, Helmi. I wanted to warn you not to get mixed up with men—they break your heart."

Seek Sunken Treasure

Divers to Plumb Depths of Dangerous Reefs off the Coast of France

Further treasure, regardless of the cost of finance, is the goal of divers who plan to explore the dang-rous reefs and shoals off the western coast of France. The treasure-seekers, all of many hours of diligent search, have purchased the old hulk, sold at auction recently in the open air by the port of La Pallice, and will contribute more than anything else towards obtaining a round and handsome profit on the enterprise's endeavors. For men of a more ad-ventur-ous disposition than the average business man, the prospects are alluring in the extreme. Not only is there the possibility of finding the treasure of many generations of galleons that have foundered on the reefs of Oleron, but the gold was lost and the wealthy endeavor find a new true lure in pearls. One enterprising company of divers is seeking to locate the treasure.

Moderation in Exercise

If Carried to Excess it May Become Dangerous

Do not carry Samson or Hercules. The strong man, says an expert adviser, is often the one who weakens first in the struggle for life. The man with moderate physical strength is the one who is likely to retain his health the longest and to get more enjoyment out of life.

A man who devotes much of his time to training his muscles is an exaggerated development, expecting at the same time to acquire a normal constitution, is making a fatal mistake. In the first place, he injures his health through overexertion, and then his muscles assume a grotesque appearance which is the antithesis

If we observe the statues of ancient Greece, he will notice at first sight that there is no exaggeration in the muscular development. Perfection and beauty demand moderation

While the practiced in moderation produce beneficial results, while if it is carried to excess it becomes distinctly harmful. The man who wants to through overexhaustive will sooner than he thinks, have to pay for his folly in ill health.

Lame and young men seem to have a great admiration for athletes. Anyone, I mean, who is able to compete in any athletic contest. Perhaps a boy who has to take up his mind to become an athlete. For this, I think, they are largely to blame, as they often cite an athlete to their sons, as an ideal of manhood. It is rather remarkable that very often an athlete is a man of mediocre intellectual development.

The ideal training question is asked What athletic ideal exercises recommended? Is it to develop a strong heart, lungs, liver and the mind —mens sana in corpore sano?—the basis of statistics as are the many other questions which I am constantly being asked. "For grown up boys and young men exercise in the open air and sunshine are probably the best. I will contribute more than anything else towards obtaining a round and handsome profit on the enterprise's endeavors. For men of a more ad-vanced age especially those of sedentary habits, I consider the best exercise is that which is taken in the open air, every morning, if will suit the purpose"

World Girdle the Globe

Colossal Number of Papers Printed Every Week on Souvenir Street, London

For many years the "News of the World" has been produced in Bouverie street—a comparatively short thoroughfare leading southward from Fleet street to the Thames embankment.

Despite its size, Bouverie street produces more newspapers than any other street in the world. If the pages of the papers sent out of this small thoroughfare in a week were placed end to end they would girdle the globe.

The vast weekly issue of the "News of the World" would provide a quarter of this belt, for, if the pages were placed end to end, they would make a pathway from London, across the Atlantic, across the United States, and a few hundred miles out into the Pacific Ocean on the way to Japan

About 27,000,000 newspapers are published in Bouverie street each week, making a broad total total of 1,350,000,000 copies per annum.

To get the 4,000,000 copies of the numbers in time to distribute them over the length and breadth of the British Isles, big Scotch machine are at work over the year of the world's fa-t-est printing press ever put together for rotary work. The battery of printing presses must produce copies of the "News of the World" at the rate of 7,000 per minute, or 150,000 per hour.

Each issue requires 400 tons of white paper, 10,000 tins of black ink, and to tie up the parcels, 70 miles of string

V.A.A.A. Have Fine Day For Annual Sports

Big Parade, Large Crowds and Keen Competition Marked Program

Two thousand people cheered Alderman Holick, an hysterical Vermilion boy when he raced down to the tape on the last lap of the three-mile road race at the annual field day sports of the Vermilion Athletic Association Friday, winning the silver cup donated by President J. W. G. Morrison. The race was one of the outstanding features of the program presented for the day. The race was set by Joe Douglas, of Edmonton, for over two miles when Holick spurted on and took the lead. Douglas was unable to recover and finished second winning the silver medal donated by the association. Farmer Bill Sale also of Edmonton was the third strange competitor but he dropped out on the last lap.

Holick's first effort and he appeared to carry the run without much difficulty, and finished strong His time was 22:30.

Following a veritable elombarst Thursday night, the day broke fine and clear and conditions for a sports day were ideal. The event opened with a big parade in the morning, headed by the citizens' band. This was one of the largest and best entitled floats put on, and included many beautifully decorated autos, business displays, comics, Boy Scouts and Cubs, bicycles and tricycles, etc. The band, not to be outdone, had rigged up in various motley costumes, which however did not interfere with the inspiring march tunes rendered along the route of the big parade which extended some four blocks A long list of athletic events was carried out in the afternoon on the athletic grounds, in which competitors were entered from all over the district.

Baseball Tourney

The baseball tournament was another big drawing card for the day. There were six teams entered, as follows, Marwayne, Mannville, Lloydminster Vermilion, Islestone and Vermilion. Marwayne and Mannville played first the former winning by 2 to 1. In the next game Islestone won from Lloydminster by a score of 2 to 2. Vermilion and Vermilion then went on the diamond and played probably the best game of the tournament Both teams were well balanced and played some ball from first to last. It was a duel between Ellis Robinson for the home team and Reg O'Lee for the visitors. Low batted 1 strikeouts to Robinson's 4. Only one error marred the game and this was by Vegerville. Vermilion won 2-0.

Vermilion then met Marwayne and disposed of them 10 to 1 The final game saw Vermilion playing Islestone for first and second money. This was an exciting game, Vermilion topping by a score of 6 to 1, thus taking first money and Islestone second. Al Hubbard and George Bell handled the games

Baseball Tourney

The football tournament was won by Vermilion, defeating Lloydminster two goals to 1. D. Whiteley and G. McLean scoring for the locals on these in each case. This is the first time that Vermilion has succeeded in winning from the border town which have travelled in football for many years. It was a hard fought struggle, A M West was referee

Basketball

In the basketball competition there were six teams entered Mannville defeated Lloydminster Hinduvill won from Vermilion; Vermilion "B" took a game from Sipiel Heights; Mannville won from Hindvills and defeated Vermilion "B" by 8 to 5. Hindvills taking second place on winning from Vermilion "B". The associations after challenge cup game to Mannville who won by a score of 10 to 9 after a hard fought game. Law and Order, or Chaos?

The action of the British and Canadian governments in breaking off diplomatic and trade relations with the Soviet Government is the culmination of a long series of acts of aggression against the lives and properties of British subjects in all parts of the world. Prior to the signing of a commercial agreement between Great Britain and Russia, in March, 1921, everywhere abroad and at home in Canada, British interests were clamoring for the establishment of diplomatic relations. Latter interests all were in a state of chaos, or disorganization, owing to the British form of government and its breaking up of Tsarist Empire.

Wherever in any part of the world unrest was rife, or likely to arise, wherever trouble loomed up, there the Soviet agents were carrying on their immoral propaganda, and always getting results. Russia, Poland, Bavaria were in any wise concerned. The British Government, in contrast to agents of Bolshevism and Communism, and their associates in Germany, Poland, Bavaria, Hungary, Turkey, Persia, Afghanistan, China, Mexico, and elsewhere, had to conduct its affairs in accordance with the principles of international law, and the usages of civilized nations. Between the Soviet Government and the British Government there could be no compromise. Between the two governments there could be no peace. Astounding Development Awaits Establishment of Stable Government

"Tendencies of affairs in China must be by the Chinese, and without foreign interference," declared Robert Dollar, San Francisco merchant and manufacturer, who, possibly, enjoys the confidence of the leaders of Chinese himself like many of the Chinese living white man. In no interests at Ottawa. He is a former Ottawa boy, whose remarkable life story is told in the famous character of "Cappy Ricks."

"A most astounding development of the past year will take place in China," declared Mr. Dollar. "It awaits only a stable and strong government which must unquestionably be established soon, or another war occurs. In 1920, the Chinese cannot do it. Further war now and June none is wanted.

"The Middle Kingdom is the greatest undeveloped country left. Its people are peace-loving and law-abiding. In the north, Chinese troops are disciplined and trained by Japanese officers. In the south, Canton is under the control of Sun Yat Sen, who is a graduate of Honolulu and Hongkong universities and is a Christian. Between these two extremes are the provinces of the interior, which are controlled by military governors, who are practically independent of the central government.

"Under a stable government, China will develop rapidly. Railroads will be built, mines opened, and industries established. Her people are industrious and thrifty. Her resources are enormous. Her future is unlimited."

The Red Cross

appeals to YOU for support

SINCE the War, the Red Cross has disbursed over Seven Million Dollars for the Soldiers, Women, Children and Frontier Families of Canada.

About half of this has been spent for disabled soldiers —half in the other services of the Society about which you have been told. The Treasury is almost empty.

$1,000,000 Needed Now for Red Cross Work

The Red Cross brings cheer to our disabled warriors and their families. It stimulates the children of Canada to healthy living and good citizenship. It relieves suffering, and brings skilled attention to Canada's frontier districts remote from other aid. Its work is indispensable.

It now appeals to YOU, as a patriotic and humane Canadian citizen, to contribute generously to its need for funds.

Road Race Cup To Be Presented

Presentation to be Made at the Columbia Theatre Saturday Evening

The silver cup donated by President Morrison of the Vermilion Athletic association for the three-mile road race and which was won by Andrew Holick at the sports held on June 3rd, is on exhibition at Curley's jewelry store. It is a handsome cup It has to be won three years in succession in time it can become the property of the winner There is also a silver medal donated by the association and which will be presented along with the cup at the Columbia theatre next Saturday evening. The presentation will be made by His Worship MaMyor Fallon

Holick went over the course in a little over 22 minutes but would have made better time had he been anyway closely pressed. Andy had been in training for some weeks prior to the day of the race and was therefore in fine shape to go over the weary grind or a three mile race, easy as it may appear. It is understood that next year there will be several competitors for this cup, but it means that who ever does compete must be in perfect condition physically. Manager Pilkie has made the necessary arrangements for the presentation of this cup and medal

POPULAR RESIDENTS MOVE TO EDMONTON

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Sanborn Will Take Up Future Home in Capital City

The departure this week for Edmonton of Mr and Mrs. J. H Sanborn who have been residents of the well known Poplar Farm a few miles east of town for the past twenty years is a matter of regret to their host of friends both in town and the district. They will reside in the Highland section of the city where they have purchased a home Mr. Sanborn will not do interest a few months now and retire from farm pursuits. On his coming to Vermilion he engaged in the lumber business and then became the present farm where in the last few years he built up a large dairy business and took a leading part in the agitation for pure bred cattle for dairy purposes. In disposing of his interests one of those cows was sold for twelve which gives an indication of the class of animals used by him in that business. Mr. Sanborn was one of several men identified with the Vermilion Agricultural societies and was the recipient this week of a [illegible] some pipe out from the directors an expression of appreciation by them of the services rendered the board by

Trucked Hogs Grade Well

With the extension of good highways from the marketing centres into the country the number of hogs delivered to the stockyards and packing houses by truck is constantly increasing Not only is the delivery accomplished quickly, and therefore in good condition, but as was pointed out at a number of swine meetings in Eastern Ontario by Mr. Eric B. Hanmer, the sheep and swine promotor of the Live Stock Branch at Kingston, he tends to rapid improvement in the grades because the farmer can see for himself the type of hog for which the highest price is paid. This explains why the percentage of sides to hogs trucked to market is usually higher than where they are shipped by rail

Source of Chinese Munition Supply

Great Britain is Only Country Not Sharing in Business

Russia has hitherto been given the credit or discredit of being the chief source whence the warring Chinese factions have obtained their supplies of arms and other materials of war. Russians have been frequently reported to be serving in both the Northern and Southern armies, and the chief adviser of the Cantonese government during its drive to the Yangtze Valley was Michael Borodin, the chief agent in China of the Soviet government, believed to be still in Hankow, the seat of that faction of the Kuomintang most deeply imbued with the Communist ideas. Analysis to get fresh light on the origins of the Chinese arms supply, the consular letter to the Nation and New Athenaeum, of London, England, who uses the pen name of Kappa, conducted a private investigation of his own, uncovering a number of interesting facts. He found that Great Britain had contributed both arms supplies and men to both sides, some other nations only to one, namely the Vanished. Contrasting material is used to bind the edges and the patch pocket is embroidered in an attractive design. No 1599 is for sizes 1, 2 and 3 years. Size 2 requires 1¼ yards 27 inch material and ¾ yard 7-inch contrasting for binding Price 10 cents the pattern

Employment at High Point

Returns Show That Employment is Now at Highest Peak Since 1920

Reports up to May 1 of this year from 5,316 firms showed that employment in Canada was at the highest point it has been since the Canadian Government Bureau of Statistics began to keep employment records in 1920

The payrolls of the 5,316 firms reporting on May 1, showed that there were 539,859 persons employed. Manufacturing, construction and transportation recorded the most pronounced improvement, but large gains were also noted in trade, services and communication.

The official returns on employment in Canada do not include farmers, in the months of April and May there is always a considerable demand for farm labour to help in the seeding, particularly so in Western Canada, where millions of acres are sown to wheat and other grain crops.

Woman Radio Expert

Has Worked Up Well Paying Business in Brooklyn, N.Y.

Three years ago Miss Harriette F. Quick, of Brooklyn, N.Y., bought a radio set. It intrigued her. She took it apart to see what made it work, and finding that it was not mostly made, she rebuilt it to suit herself. Later Miss Quick showed the rebuilt set to some of her friends and they liked it so well they ordered sets like it. That started her in business and she set up a workbench and started filling orders. To-day she does nothing else but build radio sets, except when she is erecting aerials or trouble shooting. She is probably the only woman radio engineer and one of the few feminine radio experts in the world

PETER TEACHES GOOD CITIZENSHIP

Golden Text: "Love worketh no ill to his neighbor."—Romans 13:10. Lesson: 1 Peter 2:11-17; 4:7-8. Devotional Reading: Psalm 146: 5-10.

Explanations and Comments

I. The Seemly Life, 2:11, 12.—"Beloved, I beseech you as sojourners and pilgrims"—thus Peter addresses his readers. Peter is here speaking metaphorically; he wishes them to realize that life is a journey, not a goal, and that the attainment of character which is eternal should be their aim; they were living, as it were, in exile on earth, heaven was their true home.

"The Christian looks for a life eternal. In comparison thereof the best things of this time are of little account. It is but as a lodging for a brief night, and at dawn the traveller sets forward for his true home.

Since they had but a short time to stay on earth, they must live their life nobly. "I beseech you" to abstain from all fleshly lusts, which war against the soul," says Peter's epistle.

"The not let us narrow its interpretations that the majority of us escape the grip of the vicious. In [illegible] Let us attribute a comprehensive reality to the unwelcome word 'lust.' 'Lust' includes the entire army of unclean forces which are antagonistic to the exalted realm of the spirit. It includes not only the carnal desire, but the jealous eye and the fighting palm. Fleshly lust is everything in life which steams the windows of the spirit. Fleshly lust is therefore hesitancy of purpose, cowardice, insatiable selfishness, and in ordinate ambition." —J. H. Jowett.

"Having your behavior seemly among the Gentiles; that, whereas they speak against you as evil-doers, they may by your good works, which they behold, glorify God in the day of visitation." How like an echo from the Sermon on the Mount this seems! "Let your light shine before men; that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father who is in heaven." "So Christ's light from such a track of light behind him; he is a light-bearer. The phrase 'in the day of visitation' suggests a fear in the apostle's heart but the response to this sense might not be the response it might have to noble Christ's own heart. The hope of visitation which will also be the hour of illumination is still more, and then all the 'Lost' Jesus will tell the holy walk, the patient endurance, the high behavior, the life that is fair to see."—J. M. F. Ross.

Per Capita Savings

People Now Saved Three Times Better Off Than in the Year 1900

Some interesting figures were recently made public regarding the per capita savings and per capita wealth of this country. The figures are worth quoting for only as cheque statements sometimes heard to the effect that we are worse off than we were in the good old days of a quarter of a century or more ago. In 1900 the per capita savings deposit in the banks amounted to $22 and the per capita life insurance in force to $76, about a total for both of $100. At the last [illegible] in 1926 the per capita savings deposits amounted to $152 and the life insurance in force to $526, or a total for both of $787, or over seven times the total of 1900 Figures of per capita national wealth, compiled by the League of Nations are: United States, $2,916; Great Britain, $2,625; Canada, $2,166; France, $1,570; Germany, $1,060; and Japan $541.

Getting The West's Money

High Pressure Salesmen Getting Worthless Securities to the Unwary

The Saskatchewan Farmer calls attention to the "high-pressure salesmen peddling highly speculative or worthless stock who are 'infesting' the Western Provinces." These men, it says, are considering what has been the case of the biggest investment campaigns in the history of the West. Some of them are selling oil stocks without any apparent value, and others are disposing of alleged gold-mine securities, while more or less uncertain industrial securities are also being offered.

It is the old story of indicious people to believe they can get rich quickly. It is being told in the East as well as the West, but perhaps the latter appears like a more remunerative field at present. The farmers are prosperous, and they may not have the wealthy which have been given from time to time in this part of the country.

Letter Tells of Wonderful Relief After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Coniston, Ontario.—"After a severe operation and a three weeks' stay in a hospital I returned home so weak that I was unable to move a chair. For four months I was almost frantic with pains and suffering until I thought sure there could not be any help for me. I had very severe pains in my left side and suffered from nervousness. I had a friend who had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and who advised me to try your medicine. My husband got me a bottle of Vegetable Compound at once and I took it. I started a second bottle, and to my surprise and joy the pains in my side left me entirely and I am now able to do all my work without help. I am a farmer's wife, so you see I can't be idle long. In all, I have taken six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, five boxes of the Universal Tablets, two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine, and have also used the Sanative Wash."—Mrs. L. LAJEUNESSE, Box 180, Coniston, Ontario.

"Are they all bad, Aunt Lill?" asked Helmi tearfully.

A long spell of repulsing delayed the answer.

"They don't want to settle down in their home like we do; they don't like a little way, a nice quiet life—though they will tell you they do. You are pretty Helmi; that's why I am afraid. I don't want Mike to see you if I can be helped. You are too young for him. He wanted me, Kate, the cook, will keep you safe. All the girls are my friends. . . . Remember what Aunt Lill said, Helmi."

Having received the extension of time she had asked for, and having delivered her message, Aunt Lill gave up the fight without a struggle. The silence of the room was broken only by the stormy sobs of big Kate the cook, and the two upstairs girls. She [illegible] and goodbye to all the girls in the house the night before. Her last and tenderest words were for her young ward.

"If you could only talk English I would stay," she had said, "it is a good country, but it is no place for a pretty girl who has no English."

"I can learn dear Auntie," said Helmi, kissing the little face that was "like you did, Aunt Lill," but Aunt Lill did not hear

Mike Laine, the proprietor of the "Farmer's Rest" hotel, was on his way of his niece's arrival and asked to see her. He pinched her arm affectionately the day she landed and told her to call him "Mike" and not the "Uncle" stuff. His burning eyes made her shudder.

For three days Helmi disappointed, roamed, hiding during the intervals having made friends and learned all their English words. She was down in the kitchen when Mike Laine, coming suddenly into the room, was taken aback at the sight of her. C. F. Pitblado, Canadian government emigration agent at Omaha, Nebraska, is on a short visit to his parents Mr and Mrs P. G. Pitblado here. Mr Pitblado was for a number of years in charge at Dr. Barnardo's home, but had to give up on account of his health. He has now promised two or three years out to the Omaha office, as, satisfactory as the service of the Western states. Recently he was offered the office at Liverpool England but for personal reasons he was asked to decline the position. It is considered as one of the best offices in the service of the department besides international there is a general or interstate competition at all state fairs and the exhibits of Canadian farm products placed under the direction of Mr Pitblade have almost invariably taken first place. The seeing up of exhibits appears more or less a hobby with Albert, their personality of purpose contributing very strongly with his competitors.

Speaking of emigration to Canada Mr Pitblade stated that recently the government offices are becoming and there appears to be more interest in Canada through local exhibits in Canada as compared with it's high priced properties in the western states. The land here is better adapted as a rule for the man without large capital Recently settlers from Nebraska bought land in the vicinity of Lloydminster and Mr Pitblade feels that Alberta's turn will come soon. The Vermilion district he says is well advertised throughout the country and he feels that before very long settlers with capital will be coming here in increasing numbers. He thinks it would be in the best interests of the district if the farms had substantial buildings, as he finds that very often a big immediate inducement in conditions of things in the Vermilion district and will carry back with him the story of good crops and a growing mixed farming area.

VERMILION CEDES TO CATTLE POOL

Livestock Protective Association Meeting Decides to Sell Stockyards' Interests

At a largely attended meeting of the Vermilion livestock protective association held Friday it was decided to poll out interests in the local stockyards to the Alberta Cattle Pool, the consideration being $1,500.

The yards were erected several years ago. Last year the association did a business estimated at nearly $200,000.

Expressions of opinion at the meeting was that interests of cattlemen would be best served by consolidation with the larger pool. There will still be a local association but forming a part on the provincial body.

The report submitted at the meeting were most gratifying C. F. Gillespie was re-elected president.

THE LURE OF THE MOUNTAINS

Many people throughout the Dominion in working to fill in their every spare the hills. In all ages mountains have had a fascination over the people on the earth. Early races worshipped upon hills or looked to the mountains as the dwelling places of their deities in these days the mountains have an irresistible lure to all classes who are in a position to make the necessary trip to reach them, and in Canada we are indeed fortunate in having mountain scenery which in variety and extent cannot be surpassed anywhere.

The Rocky Mountains with the Selkirk and Coast Mountains in a veritable mountaineer's paradise. The tourist is no treat as to provide roads trails and decent thrift such as one finds in Switzerland and Mr Pitblade says that Alberta's turn will come soon. The Vermilion district he says is well advertised throughout the country and he feels that before very long settlers with capital will be coming here in increasing numbers. He thinks it would be in the best interests of the district if the farms had substantial buildings, as he finds that very often a big immediate inducement in conditions of things in the Vermilion district and will carry back with him the story of good crops and a growing mixed farming area.

The C. P. R. will move major portions of the grain rates as far west as Northern Glen next fall.

CARNIVAL OF NATIONS A SPLENDID SUCCESS

Over $100.00 Realized for the Woods Orphanage

The Carnival of Nations and strawberry festival held last week on the beautiful lawn of Mr. and Mrs. Geddes, was a highly successful or well as enjoyable affair. It was held under the auspices of the local lodge of the I. O. O. F. and in aid of the Woods' Orphanage at Calgary. Fully $100.00 was realized as the result of the thrilling efforts of the members. The "Carnival" was something quite original in that it was in the shape of a cafeteria festival, the patrons being served as they passed from one "counter" booth to the other, finally reaching a table provided over by Mrs. Hay who, in other words, acted "as the boss of cuisine." Everything from the good old home beef to the modern delicacy of transparent rabbit and ice cream was to be had and in plentiful proportions. The serving was by ladies and girls dressed in the costumes of the nations they represented and the study and research necessary to make the correct costume quite original in that it was in the shape of a cafeteria festival, the patrons being served as they passed from one "counter" booth to the other, finally reaching a table pres

Canada's Diamond Jubilee

Only once in the history of any nation does the opportunity come to its people to celebrate the diamond jubilee of its reigning Canadians will enjoy that opportunity, on July 1st next, and it is gratifying to note that the celebration will be worthy of the occasion. Great events await Canadians. Not only will the "original free" and enfranchisement celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of confederation but for a few years to come, the year 1927 will be a year of celebration in life and death. Canada is to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the existence of Canada as a nation. The greatest monument to the great sacrifices that were made should be added to that ever-lasting memorial of our people in this year of the Diamond Jubilee.

Children born this year will be the centenarians of next century. Two hundred years of Confederation will be one of the greatest events in the history of the world. Canada's population will be doubled before the end of the century. Nothing remains to be done to make this country the greatest nation on earth, and to make its people the happiest and most prosperous, but to take part in the celebration of the Diamond Jubilee.

It is the especially appointed year for celebration. It is fitting that it be participated in by every people of all parts of the world. Canada and Canadians are the hosts. Every person in the Dominion should be a participant in the celebration. It is the spirit of the celebration that is important. It is the spirit of the celebration that will be the most lasting memorial. It is the spirit of the celebration that will be the greatest benefit to the people of Canada and to the world.

The National Committee has therefore urged that there be at least one simple little ceremony which is to be the same, and it is suggested that, at twelve o'clock noon on July 1st in every community however small, bells should be rung, whistles be sounded, factory hooters be blown, and that, if possible, a gun be fired, or a feu de joie, or a running salute be given, in the name of Canada. July 1st, 1927—a day of universal festival and celebration to be held for a single day throughout the length and breadth of the Dominion.

As a further marking of Canada's sixtieth birthday anniversary it is proposed that some public park or place in every community be named "Canada Place" or "Canada Square." If all such places are already bear names, then some like declaration of which has no special significance, might be given to mark the occasion with due recognition.

Every child educated in a public, separate or private school in Canada in this Jubilee year is to receive a medal struck in the Royal Mint at Ottawa from the gift of the National Committee. The presentation of these medals to the children will afford a splendid opportunity to extend all over the Dominion a fitting observance of the Diamond Jubilee. Such a celebration has meant and has answered for, Canada need be given and the best and style of today need to render health and devotion to Canada and dedicate their lives in service to their country.

Like most people living in northern climes, Canadians are not much given to showing their feelings. Their patriotism is something they do not talk about to any extent, and they are averse to display. But this Diamond Jubilee is one year in which the people of Canada may well unbend a little display their Fourth of July enthusiasm about and cheer. It will be a fitting celebration of the achievements of the past and the hopes and aspirations for the future. Let the whole country be organized to record Dominion Day 1927 as a red letter day in their calendars and celebrate it accordingly.

A Country of Centenarians

Spain Has Large Number of Persons Over Hundred Years Old

Spain is the land of centenarians. The latest official census states that 214 persons are living in that country who have passed the age of one hundred years, and of these no fewer than 203 are women. Of the remainder two are men who have reached 110 years.

There are 22,156 men and 24,294 women more than 90 years old.

It will be seen that women are particularly endowed and it can be seen at a glance in which of these provinces the longer lived men and women are to be found. In many few or no reduction plants, and where their appears to be room for further enterprise in this line.

At the present time there are 24 plants in operation, which produce oil, meal and fertilizer from salmon, halibut and other offal, pilchard, herring dogfish and whales.

The Canadian National Railways are erecting oil tanks of 250,000 gallons capacity and the Canadian Pacific Railway is erecting a tank of similar capacity and a 170,000 gallon tank. There is a large demand for these products, principally which can be shipped direct from Brit h Columbian ports to Europe and Asia.

Loss Has Into Billions

Forest Fires in Canada Last Year Were Costly

The forest fire situation in Canada during 1926 was again a very serious one. There were marked contrasts in the hazard conditions between the East and the West and consequently wide differences in the total fire losses in the two parts of the Dominion. In Eastern Canada both the spring and fall were cool and rainy so that very few records for forest fire losses were established. A midsummer period of fire hazard occurred in the East generally but it passed without any great damage being done in Western Canada, 1926 closely followed the two previous years both in the intensity of the hazard and in the fire losses. Danger conditions continued, generally throughout the season and the scant precipitation afforded little relief from early spring to late fall.

According to figures prepared in the Forest Service of the Department of the Interior, there were 5,328 forest fires in Canada last year which burned over a total area of 1,854,018 acres. The total great damage and loss is estimated at $7,462,342

Casualties in Long Flights Greater Than the Successes

Since Lindbergh made his way through hail and fog and night to Paris, men have begun to talk about flights to Honolulu, to Australia, and to Japan. It is quite possible that, in time, such feats may be accomplished, but in spite of the Atlantic flight so far no record-pinched as a mere matter of course is to fly into the city of yesterday. Lindbergh had extraordinary luck as well as skill, got to Paris But in the meantime he fell into the ocean near the Azores Lieutenants Carr and Gillman, flying from England to India fell into the Persian Gulf, and Lieutenant Greiner and Call flying across the Atlantic disappeared

That is a price in casualties which ought at least to qualify some of the easy optimism about over the ocean flights

Why Firestone Tires Are Better

One of the outstanding developments by Firestone Engineers is the Gum-Dipping process which impregnates and insulates every fibre of every cord in the tire, building strength in the cords and reducing internal friction and heat which causes blowouts.

The Firestone Dealer is your locality will gladly explain to you the extra value of Gum-Dipping. Let him demonstrate how the cords of the carcass are saturated in a rubber which makes patching more economical with added comfort and safety.

Canvas 120 Feet Long Depicts Coronation Procession of 1911

A remarkable picture 125 feet long, has been painted by a prominent artist of the Royal Academy, Hugh Room at Windsor Castle. It depicts the coronation Procession of 1911. Over 200 faces in time are shown in the drawing, which is to the same scale as the Bayeux Tapestry at the Queen's Gallery. Those on the painting shows the fine white horse which headed the procession, followed by detachments of troops, the Royal Coach drawn by the eight famous greams, the distinguished guests and the remainder of the Sovereign's escort.

Too Undignified for City

Master's head of burden, the horse, has been barred from the streets of New York. The police department with animal, which for example has packed engines of roaring progress to the fire. Motorized fire horses which motor traffic and according to an official order just issued, give no undignified aspect to a civilized city.

The remains were brought to Vermilion on Saturday morning's train and taken to the undertaking parlors of J. Waring, who prepared the body in a pinding sheet for burial. Highway Matters Discussed Before B. of T. Executive

Ask That Main All-Weather Road Be Built

C. H. Grant, K.C., president of the Alberta Motor Association and D. W. Warner, of the Three Hills branch of the A.M.A. addressed a meeting of the executive of the Vermilion board of trade on Saturday night last. The gentlemen spoke on the necessity of the completion by the government this year of the main highway from Lloydminster to Jasper Park and to gratefully note that same as a promise to be carried through next year.

The next importance to this portion of the province in having this main highway built into an all weather road, was strongly stressed. A campaign is on now to urge the dominion government to renew the policy of federal aid for provincial highway systems and the Alberta Motor Association is calling upon the various public organizations of the province, and the other provinces of Canada, to co-operate in the campaign towards this end. The sum of $50,000,000 is to be asked for main highway systems on a mileage basis to the several provinces. The Alberta committee is also to be requisitioned to appropriate the sum of $10,000,000 for provincial roads. It is hoped that Alberta from every section will join hands in making the appeal

Follow-up a general discussion the executive passed a resolution stating that in its opinion the eastern boundary of the province should be continued into Lake Athabasca, and all weather road that work should be commenced immediately so that the road would be gratified at least by the end of next year. It was also resolved to send a copy of the resolution to the Premier of Alberta, Minister of Public Works, the sitting member of the constituency and Edmonton members in the Y.M.A.

The executive will submit the resolution at a general meeting of the board to be held on Tuesday, June 28th for endorsation

The Mosquito Pest

The people of Canada are slowly awakening to the necessity of concerted, aggressive action to destroy the breeding places of mosquitoes. Like so many other things with which we stupidly put up, the mosquito pest can be practically eliminated if we go the right way about it, and become fully convinced that prevention is worthwhile. The mosquito is not only a source of irritation and pain, but it is an actual menace not only to human beings but to cattle and animals as well.

The United States appreciated in constructing the Panama Canal, where the French had failed largely because the American engineers tackled the problem of first destroying the mosquitoes. Like which made life unbearable in the Panama zone and were the prolific carriers of disease and fever among the workmen. Panama had first to be made a fit place in which to live and work before the canal could be built. The same policy which was successfully practiced there has been followed elsewhere in the tropics and southern states.

Apart altogether from the discomfort to humans, and the communication of disease for which the mosquito is responsible, it is fast to that the country sustains an economic loss as a result of the tortures endured by horses, cattle, and other animals in the open where mosquitoes thrive unmolested and these death creatures have an opportunity of protecting themselves. The question has well been asked, how can animals upon which farmers rely for work and production yield normal production under such conditions? Anything that will relieve animals from the torture and cattle pest is a boon. Irritation which they now must endure would be repaid many times over.

Mosquito elimination campaigns are now in progress in Banff, Calgary, Winnipeg, and in the Peace River Valley and we remember which suffers from this pest would be well advised to follow their example. Inasmuch as the scientific facts upon which mosquito control is based are of general public interest, we quote the following from Premier Patullo's speech on Night, which is urging Governments to take the lead in these campaigns.

The life history of the mosquito shows that most of the pests are laid the previous summer in the little pools of stagnant water, and in places that still become stagnant for a sufficient length of time in the spring. Barrels, old cans, broken bottles, or any water-containing vessels lying in the open are also favorite breeding places for mosquitoes. Ditches do not breed mosquitoes, but flood waters and snow pools may prove large sources of the pest. Lawns and golf courses, open areas and shrubberies do not breed mosquitoes. The eggs are laid in stagnant water, or where there will be stagnant water for a sufficient length of time.

Pools that dry up in two or three weeks are of no consequence. The eggs are not affected in the least degree by frost, but hatch out about April 15th, sometimes earlier, into wrigglers, or larvae, as scientists call them. These wrigglers swim and feed in the stagnant pools, rising every two or three minutes to the surface, tail first. On the tail is a fine air tube, which is thrust just above the surface to take in air—without which the wrigglers cannot live. After two or three weeks of this existence the wrigglers change into mosquitoes, and fly away to bite and torture human beings by the earlier, split and liberate the complete mosquito.

Then, in the life cycle of the mosquito it is most readily destroyed in the wriggler stage by placing on the surface of the pools a thin film of crude oil, a cheap commodity, which chokes or poisons the fine air-tube at the end of the wriggler's tail. This is applied either by sprinkler cans or by knapsack sprayers. Small areas may be successfully handled by individuals with coal oil or crank-case waste oil from automobiles. Rags soaked in the substance, may be weighted with stones and thrown into pools.

In the days of mankind's infancy, when he had human universal use of automobile, there are oil canned rags, sharp, dirty waste oil after cleaning out automobile crank cases and parts of tractors and other machinery, and if these waste substances, instead of being burned, were thrown into small areas and pools of water and other breeding places of the mosquito, the result would be beneficial. The general adoption by people of the policy of spraying oil into permanent pools in the vicinity of their homes would in a few years greatly reduce the mosquito pest in this country, adding to the pleasure of life in the summer months, assisting to check the spread of fevers, and lead to economic gain, as well as relief from the discomfort of the suffering they now undergo.

Activity of Cells Comes First Says German Professor

Professor Martin Mendelsohn, who has made a study of diseases of the heart in Berlin university since 1899, has put forward the extraordinary theory that the heart is not the prime motive power for life, but as an organ plays only a secondary part. He holds that the real motive power resides of the body, in absorbing and eliminating fluids, constitutes the activity of the cells, and the circulation of the blood through the system.

Opposes Granting Subsidy

Objection to Proposal That Federal Government Should Subsidize Seed Growers

At the twenty-sixth annual convention of the Canadian Seed Growers' Association, at Victoria, President Strange objected to proposals that the federal government should subsidize seed growers. He preferred, he said, some system whereby the product of the expert growers should be identified, and that such growers be benefited from public demand for output of quality.

"There is no questioning that the high place Canadian field crops hold abroad is due in no small degree to the fact that the people demand it for many years, need of superior pedigree. These have allowed the Canadian farmer to send seeds to world markets despite the higher Canadian scale of living and production costs," said Mr Strange, in paying a tribute to the splendid work of past presidents and officials of the association.

The financial report presented by Peter Stewart, Ottawa, secretary-treasurer, gave the following data as to receipts and expenditures during the year:

Fields inspected, 2,906; registration certificates issued, 1,595; wheat, 19; 511 acres yielding 473,580 bushels; oats, 1,009 seed inspected and sealed 45,791 bushels.

Oats, 5,076 acres, yielding 257,387 bushels; quantity seed inspected and sealed 2,767 bushels; barley, 2,211 acres yielding 91,375 bushels; quantity seed inspected and sealed, 13,253 bushels; peas, 1,000 acres yielding 18,000 bushels; quantity seed inspected and sealed 1,000 bushels; alfalfa, 2,500 acres yielding 250,000 bushels; quantity seed inspected and sealed 212,832 pounds, this being a record production.

The association has now a membership of 623 seed growers as follows: Prince Edward Island, 14; Nova Scotia, 9; New Brunswick, 12; Quebec, 21; Ontario, 107; Manitoba, 34; Saskatchewan, 173; Alberta, 229; British Columbia, 9.

The directors were proud of the showing of the seeds of the champion ships in wheat and oats as a result of the outstanding performance of a competitor in the latter, Herman Trelle, Wembly, Alta."

Airplanes Valuable in Exploiting Resources

Service More Important in Canada Than in Old Countries

The question of aerial transport of mail, freight and passengers is probably of more immediate practical interest in the future of Canada than in any other country, except Russia, writes Flying Officer Armstrong, of The Fairchild Aerial Survey, Limited, in The Financial Post. We have very large areas whose mining and perhaps other industries could be carried on, but which would not pay the heavy burden of railroads, and in any case their development cannot wait until a railroad could be built.

In the mountain districts of the west the economical cheap means of transportation, with rapidity far superior to that of railroads, is obvious. Moreover, that no established transport line has as yet made money; all the Dominion railroads have been government subsidies, and in the United States air mail contractors are being forced to carry a large part of the establishing and operating costs in the hope that freight and passenger services will develop. Air lines can be started unless there is some assurance that there will be enough travel to pay for operating expenses.

One of the commonest complaints against the Canadian forests is the ineffective application for them is Mother Grave' Worm Riverwinslow.

Reducing Canada's Debt

Forty-one Millions is Reduction in Last Fiscal Year

Canada's net debt was reduced by $12,000,000 during the fiscal year ending March 31st, 1927.

When he delivered his budget speech February 17 last, Hon. J. A. Robb, Minister of Finance, could only estimate what the decrease would be, since the Government's financial year had still another six weeks to go. Mr. Robb erred on the side of caution, and placed the figure at $21,000,000. That he was well within the mark is indicated by the information that he under estimated the amount by eleven million dollars.

It is figured that in the last four years the national debt has been reduced by $100,000,000.

In November of this year there are maturing loans of $27,000,000, the minister hopes to redeem one-third in cash and at least a portion of the other, while necessary refinancing will be accomplished at a reduced rate of interest.

The total area of fruit trees in bearing in 1921 was 43,500 acres, which is only one-sixth of the

TOWNS WILL IMPROVE ROADS

Have Accepted Fifty-Fifty Offer from Provincial Government

Responses to the government's offer to take up a fifty-fifty program for road improvement is coming through which the main highways pass, have been received from a number of towns, all of which are disposed to accept. The proposition made by the department of public works was that if the towns and villages would undertake to complete those gaps in the highway system, half the cost would be borne by the government which would also provide engineering supervision.

The following towns have been heard from to date as willing to proceed on these terms: Vegreville, Vermilion, Lacombe, Viking, Hardisty, Edenbury, Coleman, Cochrane, Cowley, Stavely, Cayley, Macleod, and Pincher Creek. The department is waiting further replies from towns and villages affected before the matter is finally before the cabinet for final action.

VERMILION TAKES LLOYDMINSTERITES; REID PITCHES WELL

Turning in his best performance of the year and backed up by the old time prowess of his team-mates with the exception of Ted Reid, Lloydminster's redoubtable ball tossers successfully at the Athletic Park Friday evening, defeated Vermilion in a well won a nine-inning contest 9 to 6. It was one of the most exciting exhibitions of baseball staged in this town for a long time.

Seldom before has Reid looked on the mound to be all against him as he was today. Five runs were scored in the fourth and one in the sixth innings.

The border town team are undoubtedly the best aggregation that the Vermilion clubbers have been up against so far this season, which is what a good deal of Dunham and Cheaiuk played snappy ball for the locals, while W. Brown and Hopper were the pick of the visitors' work. Keys of Vermilion was in charge of ball this ice.

The game was run by Hopper, and the sensational fielding of Eddie Cheaiuk for the locals in the right garden, drew loud cheers of approval. The batteries were: Lloydminster, Dellis and Limber; Vermilion, Reid and Duchesneau.

EMERGENCY ROAD SERVICE OF A. M. A. LAUDED BY MEMBERS

In addition to its operations in the more spectacular field of highway organization and legislation, the recently formed Alberta Motor Association has many functions of direct personal importance to members which are not widely appreciated but better known to motorists of the province.

Incorporation of a free emergency road service for members whose cars are disabled on highways already has been rendered by the Association this season. With the extension to the A. M. A membership this work alone will assume far-reaching proportions within the next couple of years Official mileage under contract will be established to emergency calls and it unable to start a car in half an hour, tow the car to the garage free of all charges.

Throughout Alberta and in Eastern British Columbia a large number of first class hotels, garages and service stations have signed up with the Alberta Motor Association to give members prompt, courteous and efficient service at reasonable rates. The list is rapidly growing and is proving a great boon to members motoring from point to point.

Vast Possibilities In Reindeer

Canadian Company With Headquarters in Vancouver; Going Into Business

Raising reindeer for commercial purposes in Canada will be an established fact this year. The Dominion Reindeer Company, with headquarters at Vancouver, has imported 5,000 head of reindeer from Alaska. This herd will be located on the vast grazing areas between the Athabasca and Great Slave Lakes, north of Edmonton, where the company has secured over three million acres.

The company plans to establish a packing plant at Fort McMurray and ship the reindeer meat and by-products to Edmonton for redistribution.

It is stated there are vast possibilities for this industry in Canada. At yet reindeer meat is practically unknown as an article of food in the Dominion, but it is stated to be fast gaining favor in the United States.

In the last few years over 2,000,000 pounds of reindeer meat were consumed in the United States. The meat is claimed to have a flavor between that of beef and mutton. The males, except those selected for breeding purposes, are fattened as steers and butchered when 18 years old. The carcass is then chilled and shipped to distributing points.

The cost of raising these animals is stated to be practically nil. A full grown reindeer will give 165 pounds of marketable meat. Besides, from three animals turned a large number of valuable by-products such as tongue, cheese, glue, leather, fur, bone, knife handles, hair for tie-pin covers and bone collars.

Reindeer herds decline every three years according to authorities. Exactly 1,200 reindeer were brought in to Alaska from Siberia by the United States Government in 1892. The largest single herd of their descendants now numbers 10,000 and the total number in Alaska is estimated at about 500,000.

The First Locomotive Whistle

Invention Came About Through Desire for Freedom of Engineer

The destruction of a load of coal on a country crossroad in 1833 was directly responsible for the introduction of the first locomotive whistle, according to E. W. Mercieron, mechanical engineer of the Lake Central Railroad, who said that this important piece of railroad history had been imposed on him by a present road railroad official.

When country roads were all crossed at grade and a train approached to sit on their doorstops and watch the ox carts while Mr. Mr. Engineer held impatiently, there were had no way of giving warning of their approach except by blasting a tin horn. Then one day an engineer's lung capacity determined the volume of sound in giving warning of approaching trains.

The story as told to Mr. Mercherran, was that on one spring day in 1833, a farmer, driving his ox team over a crossing in the country to market with a load of eggs and butter. Just as he came upon the track, a train approached. Unable to control the oxen, he left the road and the farmer was so deeply immersed in pounds and ounces, shillings and pence, that he did not hear it.

Result: Dozens of eggs and pounds of butter were transformed in a twinkling into an unsalable omelet, widely distributed over the right of way.

A claim agent checked up on the case involving the farmer the value of his butter, eggs, horse and wagon.

A director of the company, Asa Lead Hunter by name, went to Union Grange, where Stephenson lived, to see if he could not devise something that would provide a warning more likely to be heard. Stephenson went to work and the next day he had a rumbling affair, where he rached to the horse-drive boiler, and the steam turned on, gave out a shrill, elevated sound.

The railroad directors greatly delighted ordered similar contraptions attached to all the locomotives. This has developed into the locomotive whistle as we have it.

The British people ate on the per average 3 ounces of fruit in 1924. If they continue to increase their consumption of the fruit toward the proverbial apple a day, Canadian farmers will be gratified.

Some men waste a lot of time wishing it were tomorrow.

"Reggie isn't going to marry Daily after all."

"But I thought he fell in love at first sight?"

"Did he look a second look."

Adopting Britain's Attitude

Canada Stands With Mother Country on Soviet Question

Having taken her stand with Britain in the abrogation of relations with the Soviet, Canada will not retreat. The position of the Dominion Government is that the dramatic appearance in London of the Soviet agent at Montreal for reconsideration and an opportunity to prove that Moscow is innocent of double-dealing and violation of the terms of the Trade Agreement could not be entertained for one moment.

Canada will stand shoulder to shoulder with Britain and the Dominion Government's official position in the Soviet makes it quite clear, that when the Mackenland thrown down the gauge Canada will follow. The Soviet will learn what the Prussian War Lords learned in 1914; that the British Empire is not a unit. The decision of the Canadian Cabinet to sever relations with the Moscow Reds is final.

If the Soviet wishes to buy Canadian goods the Government does not object so long as the transactions are concluded privately. But until the Soviet learns to mind its own business while enjoying the hospitality of the British Empire, the Dominion of Canada will be content to see diplomatic relations severed.

The official note was likely in more diplomatic language, but that is what is meant in plain English.

Claim Growth Stunted By Heavy Portaging

Tribe of Indians Live on Shores of Island Lake in Manitoba

A tribe of very short, broad Indians who claim to have been stunted in growth because they have had to make long, heavy portages all their lives, dwells in isolation on the shores of Island Lake in Northern Central Manitoba.

A. P. Wright, of the geological survey, Ottawa, who has seen some of these Indians, says the tallest of them would not be over five feet six inches high, while they are all knee by built and stout.

Although they live in almost complete isolation at two separate villages on a strange lake dotted with about 2,000 islands, the former to investigate mining possibilities in the surrounding country and the latter to investigate the physical peculiarities of these almost unknown Indians, for the national museum.

Fokker Predicts Service Will Start Within Five Years

Anthony Fokker expresses the opinion that within five years trans-New York flying will be on a commercial basis.

Just as long flights, such as are being attempted now, will not be in order of the day then, he thought. These men are the trail blazers, and those who follow will tread an easier road.

"I think the great circle course will be followed by these commercial planes," he said. "And there will be stops at Newfoundland, or Ireland, and at London on the way. The whole trip should not take more than 36 hours, as by that time engines will have been improved and ordinary speed raised to "multi-s an hour."

In development of better instruments and safety devices in the immediate future, Fokker asserted would result in practically eliminating the difficulties which weather now places in the way of long distance flying

Alfalfa For Ranching Lands

Growing Forage to Supplement Native Vegetation

Already the stock raising industry in Saskatchewan and Alberta is suffering as a result of overgrazing due to the advent of the dry farmer and the consequent reduction of ranching areas. The remedy for this situation recommended by Dr. McKenzie, Dominion Agrostologist, is to be found in the correct use of alfalfa. In circular No. 53 prepared by Dr. McKenzie and R. E. Clark, his assistant, it is pointed out that the majority of ranchers over the area under consideration are faced with the alternative of either disposing of a portion of their livestock, or growing some forage crop to supplement the native vegetation. To assist them in following the latter plan this pamphlet has been prepared and points out that while the greater part of the ranch lands are too dry for the successful cultivation of many forage crops most ranches have at least a small area which is favorably located with regard to moisture to grow the hay requisite for the winter feeding. On such areas irrigation is sometimes practical, in a few localities the natural water-table is near enough to the surface for shallow rooted plants as alfalfa. Here the crop does well without the artificial tying on of water. The pamphlet, available at Publications Branch, Ottawa, gives many reasons why alfalfa should be grown and how to grow it, covering soil requirements, preparation of seed, seeding during the first season, harvesting and subsequent treatment.

Cannot See Their Clients

French Lawyers Are Bound by Ethics of Profession

French lawyers can now see everyone except their own clients, and not all of them like the situation.

Young Maurice Barroux, newly elected to the bar, has bewailed this state of affairs to light, by blowing the dust off tradition and demanding that lawyers once have the right to collect their fees, just as they collect debts due others

The Council of the Order, governing the Bar Association, however, still stands fast to the strides of the centuries. It has been in existence to allow the law profession to sink to the level of mere trade, in which tradesmen men when his cur tomers fail to pay.

Learned the Reason

Forbes Magazine tells of a colored agent who was summoned before the local exemption board to explain "how come" and the consolidation "that you can't sell life insurance without a State License."

"Boss," said the man, "one reason why I couldn't get a license was because I couldn't read or write."

Interesting Youthful Stock Breeders

Following the custom established by Provincial Cattle Association in interesting the youthful breeders of the province in the calf-raising contest, horse-breeders will have a like opportunity during the Provincial Fair to boys and girls who have not reached the age of twenty-one in the exhibition.

Although which will be a part of all city calls is the containment of metals. Public cost contractor's bread is due to the dividend on bonds. If you want to live in the country, you must be content to take life as it comes.

A broken promise may be mended, but it always shows the crack.

Population of World Increasing Rapidly

Has Doubled in Last Hundred and Twenty-five Years

According to statistics of the League of Nations the population of the world has doubled since the beginning of the nineteenth century. In 1800 it was less than 900,000,000. Today it is in the neighborhood of 1,800,000,000. The present increase is 20,000,000 in 1925 or 1.2 per cent per year. Therefore, on the basis of 1 per cent a year the earth's people will be 1,975,000,000 by 2,000,000,000; in the year 2020 it will be 4,382,000,000; a hundred years after that it will be no less than 17,457,000,000.

The epidemic and pestilence that used to help to keep down the population have now for many years been so abated as to have comparatively little effect upon the increase in the race.

Many U.S. Settlers Coming

The invasion of Canada by American settlers who appreciate the opportunities for farming in our western provinces to be considerable, is not for some time to come, is the opinion of Mr. Hanson, who has just returned from a visit to the United States. Mr. Hanson, who is well known in Canada, was for many years Canadian Immigration Agent at Minneapolis, and is able to speak with authority on the subject.

Prince Has Many Doubles

Doubles of the Prince of Wales are numerous and have turned up in all parts of the world. People can now be found in London who claim the distinction of being the Prince's double. Perhaps the most successful of these is a man who has been engaged in the life of the Prince of Wales for the past few years. He is a Canadian, and is employed by a firm of Canadian manufacturers. He has been used in connection with the Prince's visits to Canada, and has been employed in connection with the Prince's visits to Canada, and has been employed in connection with the Prince's visits to Canada, and has been employed

IS YOUR ADVERTISING A CIRCUS OR A SCHOOL?

When the circus comes to town, the school board declares a holiday. Children, parents and teachers go to the Big Show. Next day the circus is gone, but the school remains. The children are back at their studies.

Education is a slower process than sensational amusement. It takes long or to learn than to laugh.

The manufacturer or merchant who is educating a public to know and buy his goods will make a mistake if his patterns his advertising after circus methods or judges his progress by the results of some quick, brief, even sensational stunt. The mind travels best when it is led by the hand.

Advertisers have never been able to ask questions on school results as many, though, do seek advice about patterns, and when they consult good printers, they get not only good printing, but advice on how to use it.

Take your advertising seriously and your public will take it seriously. Continue your good printing and you time your good printing and you will get better. His business is a very old one. For many years a major institution of primitive and paper has been the market commercial development through direct advertising. Indeed, it is rather hard to find a line of industry that sells to the general public that does not use it, ranging in persistent and intelligent advertising.

PIG PASTURES

Grow a period of nine years various pastures for pigs have been tried out at the Dominion Experimental station at Scotsboro, both in company with one another and with no pasture. In dry years, such as 1924, there was an little growth that no effects could be seen from the use of pastures but in seasons where there is fair growth there are both greater gains and more economical gains when pigs are on pasture with meal than when on meal alone. Corn pasture is less valuable than oats or barley, and rape gives best results in amount of gains and economy of gains. Rape has another advantage, too in dry or or on grain pasture or corn pasture showed greater gains when fed a supplementary mineral mixture but there was little difference between those fed mineral and those without mineral on rape pasture.

BRITISH NAVAL FILM ATTRACTS PACKED HOUSE

Crowding the Empress theatre, in Edmonton to capacity and enjoying the acts and again as the thrilling scenes of the British navy at war, not at play were flashed upon the screen on the first presentation of The Fast Lieutenant." Britain's motion picture masterpiece, four years in its making, greeted the initial showing of the All British film on Monday, and the general opinion expressed by those fortunate enough to get into the theatre was that in British producers had secured the screen plum of the year in "The Fast Lieutenant."

EDITOR THE STANDARD

Dear Sir, I would like to draw attention to the darkness of the playground at the agricultural grounds as far as young children are concerned. There is no lighting over the top seat, and children seem to delight in standing on the seat and trying to see who can leap out the farthest without pitching on their heads to the ground below (on June 2nd I spoke to what I was in the stand injuring on to various legs, several legs being nursing to babies of two and three years ago.

A little more lighting would make this safe and I would say that the officers of the agricultural society, whose property and jurisdiction, I understand the grounds now are, won't see that this is done.

Thanking the promoters with kindness of all this term or sport before put an end to, but the rest of to be able to enjoy the sports on Fall Day in peace.

Dear Sir, Would you allow me space in your paper to urge all ratepayers of Division 4, Municipal District of Vermilion River, also all non-residents in the vicinity who are interested to attend the rural pound in Vermilion when it is to be held at Waldmere on Saturday.

The opportunity is now afforded to the ratepayers themselves and no one should absent themselves by remaining at home.

The statement contained in the council minutes of May 20th, I think, is a statement that the witnesses were not notified to attend as requested therein.

Young Arnold Smith Drowned in Vermilion River

Heroic Efforts by Companions Proved Unavailing - Victim was 11 Years Old

Between eleven and twelve o'clock Tuesday morning, the Vermilion river claimed the life of James Arnold Smith, eleven year old son of A. Smith, town. The sad fatality was caused by the capsizing of an old punt in which were the drowned boy and four other school companions.

Examinations being set in the different grades, pupils have been enabled to get out of school before the regular time and on this fateful morning several young boys had gone to the river shortly after 11 o'clock, after donning their bathing suits, five had packed out in a leaky boat which drifted into a very deep portion of the swimming hole and began to bail. All could swim with the exception of Smith and after jumping into the water he experienced difficulty. Two of his companions, Bedington and Gates, turned to assist him and the former had him on his back when they clasped him so tightly around the neck that he was forced to free himself, which he did only after a frantic struggle. Gates also had to desist, Smith immediately sank and the two boys gained the shore in an utterly exhausted condition, being unable to stand. The boys who swam further up the river, on noticing that the others were in trouble, turned their board from the bathing house and remaining hold of the end shoved it to the drowning boy. Before this the boys freed themselves, Smith sank at once, the body never rising to the surface.

On word of the disaster reaching town, members soon gathered at the river and the body eventually located by Mayor Fallow and Jas. McKone, by probing with a long pole in the spot where the lad was seen to sink. It was entangled in debris at the bottom of a hole some 12 feet deep. After repeated diving, Hubert Winters was successful in bringing it to the surface. Resuscitation efforts were conducted for some time by two doctors without avail.

The drowning has cast a gloom over the town, happening at a time when summer holidays were about to begin and children anticipating many happy gatherings at the water side. Deep sorrow is felt over little Arnold's untimely death and the sympathy of everyone goes out to the father and family in the sad tragedy which has befallen them.

The funeral is being held today at 2 o'clock with services in the United church to be conducted by Captain Reeves.

THIRD FORTNIGHTLY CROP REPORT

Issued by the Department of Agriculture, Government of Alberta.
Edmonton, June 18, 1927

Very satisfactory reports continue to come in to the Department of Agriculture as to the progress made by crops throughout the province during the past two weeks and as to conditions generally as indicated by their condition at the present time. While in many early-sown fields in from 6 to 10 inches high, covering the ground well and conserving to the best advantage the supply of moisture in the soil. Fall-sown oats and barley have been practically completed during the past week, with the exception of some late grain, and these grains as well as wheat are making vigorous growth.

Rain in some sections of the southern part of the province has recently interfered with the completion of late seeding and the soil in this area is in better condition as regards moisture than it has been at this season for a number of years. In the central part of the province winds have been more prevalent than usual, with the result that soil-drifting crops are not generally in need of moisture, occasional showers are proving very beneficial. Reports from all sections of the province indicate that the total acreage in all grains this year, far from showing the usual percentage increase noted during the late spring, will be practically on a par with that of 1926. Slight reductions are reported in a number of districts, but these are more than made up by the additional crops reported in land in other localities, while in still other areas where seeding was decidedly delayed a smaller acreage than was sown last year will be harvested. Generally speaking, however, the acreage under crop will show an increase in the course grains reported. The average of fall wheat in the south of the province is reported to be considerably greater than usual and this crop has survived the past winter better than in many years. Fall rye has made good growth and is headed out in a number of districts and has a splendid color condition for breeding; much new plowing is reported in the irrigation belt in the south, and indications are that the acreage of alfalfa will show a considerable augmentation throughout the province this season will be fully equal to that of 1926. Hay crops are in the main in fairly good condition, and pastures have made rapid growth and livestock is in splendid condition. Sheep damage to the extent of 1,000 head since its inception.

WHEAT POOL

The campaign for the signing of the Second Series of Wheat Pool contracts is under way and meeting with excellent success. Every district is being organized and it is planned to have every grain producer signed.

The Holland Canada Mortgage Co., with head office in Winnipeg, has signed a second Series Wheat Pool contract covering about 25,000 acres of Alberta farm land, one-third of which is in wheat. The management of this company expressed complete satisfaction with the operation of the Wheat Pool since its inception.

J. McKinnon, well known Southern Alberta old-timer, has signed a five year series Wheat Pool contract covering over 2500 acres of land on Lake wood. The L. K. ranch, of which Mr McKinnon is president, has placed over 5000 acres under a second Series contract. The L. K. has land at Redmond, Cranmer, Bassano and Queenstown.

The Bassano Board of Trade passed a resolution appealing for favorable opinion of the principles involved in the co-operative marketing of wheat and other grains and its willingness to assist in the drive for the signing of the Second Series of Wheat Pool Contracts.

The Saskatchewan Wheat Pool has already obtained a sign up on a five series million acres for the Second Series contracts. This is over 50 per cent of the sign up on the first series contracts.

Reports from all over Alberta regarding the progress of the Wheat Pool second Series membership drive are very encouraging.

Programme Of High Merit

Seldom has a local audience had the opportunity of enjoying a programme of such all-round excellence as that presented on Monday evening in the Columbia Theatre by Miss Magdalene Moore, pianiste, and Miss Grace Leeman, dramatic reader, assisted by the Vermilion Citizens' Band, under whose auspices these talented artists appeared.

Miss Moore was in splendid form at the piano, her numbers drawing unstinted applause from her highly appreciative listeners. Equipped with a flawless technique and an exception ally fine sense of interpretation, Miss Moore's performance on Monday evening stamped her as a pianiste of the first rank.

In the first part of the programme a well-balanced group of three pieces met with unmistakable approval, the outstanding number being Saint-Saens' "Danse Macabre," which was given a brilliant rendering. In a second group, Miss Moore played Paschen's transcription of the Ballet Music from Schubert's "Rosamunde," in which the fascinating rhythm of the composition was brought out with remarkable skill,—and Tausig's arrangement of "Militarisch, Op. 51, No. 1," by the same composer, which gave an opportunity to reveal her splendid control of the dynamics.

Miss Moore was also awarded to advantage as a soprano vocalist during the evening, singing with perfect intonation and a wealth of tone-color, her songs were given a most artistic rendering, and she was deservedly encored.

The dramatic part of the programme was admirably rendered by Miss Grace Leeman who fully justified her reputation as a reader and impressed one as possessing unlimited ability and the audience were not slow to show their appreciation of her efforts. Her first reading "Dan Mootie's Nature—rendered in Parisian French dialect, found immediate favor, though this was later eclipsed by a "bit of real Irish" related in Italian dialect, in which Miss Leeman gave a wonderful exhibition of her art.

The balance of the programme was ably handled by the popular Vermilion Citizens' Band under the baton of Bandmaster Elford. The playing on Monday evening was marked by a style regard for the nuances and an unmistakable precision—qualities also of the members of the Band are to be congratulated on their ensemble performance.

Ottawa Should Co-Operate

The Manitoba Court of Appeal has declared ultra vires the Manitoba Sale of Shares Act and the Municipal and Public Utilities Board, based on those enactments report in any way to control the sale of shares in that Province of a company incorporated under a Dominion charter. This decision follows on the Supreme Court of Canada which in effect, decided that while there is a condition of authority between Provincial and Dominion legislation, in its very essence.

In other words, it is necessary for these provincial authorities to decide to get around the boundaries set up by the Provinces to protect their people from being sold stock by unscrupulous promoters of companies which have little to recommend them to serious investigation, at times. Legislation of the kind contemplated has provided no proper check upon the stock selling operations of Dominion incorporated companies, it means that they may be pretty much as they please.

In view of the difficulties and delays which have been encountered in getting such legislation through the Provincial Legislatures, it would seem to take action as has been repeatedly urged by the Free Press. It is gratifying to note that Western Provincial Governments are again to meet, meeting that is to which subject is to receive consideration. It is to be hoped that the Federal Government will not be slow to co-operate with the several Provincial governments in bringing about the necessary amendments to the legislation of the Provinces, to enable them to regulate and control the sale of stocks and bonds within their boundaries.

The Ottawa authorities should be just as keen to protect all the people of Canada as the Governments of the Provinces are to protect their citizens, and if it be beyond the competence of the Provincial Legislatures to understand why the Dominion has been interested, referred to in the Throne Speech.

In this year of Canada-Dominion Jubilee the people of Canada are justified in urged to insist of action by the Federal Parliament to make the British North American Confederation so workable naturally as being up and satisfactory as the Dominion as a national unit. Any evasion of friction between the Federal Government and the Provinces is a menace to the national development, and the Federal Government should not hesitate to act in any way that will smooth out friction between the Provinces. Provinces feels that Ottawa is not fully assuming their full rights on behalf of their people its duty is to see to Confederation and that duty is not done by Canada which is not working smoothly.

In his luncheon, the message to the people of Canada His Excellency the Governor General said: When first I landed on these shores as His Majesty's representative I promised that I would visit every part of the Dominion, however, that I should take opportunities as my watchword during my life to this promise. That word is the message I speak to the people of Canada today. I have seen and studied the problems of Canada, and I have come to believe with a common understanding and purpose in all that pertains to the well being of all proud of and loyal to their citizenship of a great and growing nation.

Canada could hardly have a better national watchword, and in this matter of organization of the sale of shares and securities of Dominion companies it is high time the Dominion authorities exercised its authority. It will weaken the national, the Legitimate companies and promoters do not need to evade Provincial control in this way; it is the doubtful stock-selling propositions of the dishonest promoter who is better satisfied because of Ottawa's refusal to join hands with the Provinces in the protection of all the people.

It is to be hoped that the authorities at Ottawa will catch the true spirit of the Diamond Jubilee; put their house in order in this matter, and co-operate with the Provinces.

Artificial Cotton Possible

Another Useful Product Can be Made From Wood Pulp

Now that Canadians have become quite accustomed to their rayon with their hosiery and underwear it is time that some chemistry fiend had another startling example of the multiplicity of useful products which can be made from the wood pulp. This time it is to be or artificial cotton. If the predictions of Dr. Harold Hibbert, of McGill University, will come true big shaking at the Chemistry Convention recently in such a "one method by which we can extract the mucilagenous of our pulp to by vat stirring it in Canada for return to the States. To be bring strong and by such the chemists of the Dominion today and it is feasible. The necessary chemical principles of cotton would be found in Canada in many ways."

Will Discuss World Population

Experts Going into Subject at Geneva Conference This Summer

Has the world too many people, and, if so, what is to be done about it?

This question will be considered at a World Population Conference at Geneva from Aug. 31 to Sept. 3. It is the first conference of its kind ever to be held and will bring together biological, sociological and statistical authorities who have gone far into the study of the population problem, but who have never assembled as a common meeting table to exchange their views and co-ordinate their knowledge.

The official notice issued by the Advisory Council says:

"The question of population growth holds a prominent position in the literature of civilization, and yet the world population problem is one of the few great issues of today which have not been the subject of concerted international action."

Purchased Historic Vase

Toronto Man Acquires Huge Porcelain Once Broken by Napoleon

The last chapter of a long and romantic history concerning a vase, smashed by Napoleon in a fit of rage, has come with the purchase of the huge porcelain by Robert C. Roy, Toronto. The historic vase was purchased in New York, April 20, at an auction to satisfy a judgment of $2,500 alleged to be due to Miss Margaret Conway by Dr. Martin Hickey. The vase was a purse and used the doctor as the money.

Dr. Hickey valued the vase at $150,000, and had actually rejected an offer of $20,000 for it, she tried to forestall the sale of the vase, stating her proceedings relating to the vase was illegal, but was too late, and the Toronto man got it for a song. The large, graceful vase was made at the Royal Factory of Capo di Monte, near Naples, in 1804, and was perhaps made under the supervision of King Ferdinand IV. of Naples.

The vase became the property of the Russian Empress While terms of peace between France and Austria were being concluded with Napoleon, the famous French general, whose star was then in the ascendant, became angry, said Mr. Roy, and broke the $2,500 The French government and the famous United States collectors have been trying to get possessions with a view to securing the historic porcelain.

Expedition to Explore Central Australia for This Purpose

An expedition organized by the national research council of Australia and the University of Sydney and aided by the Rockefeller Foundation will shortly enter the little explored portion of central Australia in an effort to study its nomadic aborigines in habitats whose existence was first brought to the notice of European civilization. There will be the first of a series of explorations in the interior of Australia, which has also included a survey of the islands of Papua, how distinct and other associated territories of the commonwealth.

The party will attempt to determine the biological and cultural characteristics of these primitive people who live in small bans in communities of ten or less and who find the animals and herbs and roots alone at hand. When the supply is exhausted they abandon their settlements and move on to another place where the possibilities are better.

A snowmobile is part of the equipment which Donald B. MacMillan, Arctic explorer, took with him on his famous schooner Bowdoin when he sailed for a year of scientific study in Labrador. He told something of his plans when in Boston recently to supervise the outfitting of the fishing schooner Radio which he chartered from the Boston Maritime Company as a companion ship to the Bowdoin.

The Radio was loaded with wallboard and other building material which will be used to erect a permanent scientific station near Kowk to Northern Labrador. MacMillan's party numbers 28, of whom 12 will remain with the explorer for studies of the botany, geology and fisheries of the region.

The Dowdoin will carry the scientific equipment and supplies, as well as the snowmobile and dog sleds. The sleds will be driven by Eskimos for into the interior in search of polar bear and walrus.

Besides studying the salmon and trout of Labrador, MacMillan hopes to classify many new species of birds in large, graceful vase was made at the Royal Factory of Capo di Monte, near Naples, in 1804, and was perhaps made under the supervision of King Ferdinand IV. of Naples.

NO DISORDERS IN FREE STATE OVER ELECTIONS

Dublin.—Critical hours in the life of the Irish Free State were passed as the newly elected Dail Eireann convened under threats of possible trouble from Eamon de Valera and his Republican followers. But the peace of the capital remained unbroken and William T. Cosgrave, re-elected President of the executive council by a vote of 68 to 22, again is head of the Government.

Not since Sin Fein days has there been such political excitement in Dublin and much of it centered around de Valera as it did in those tragic times. Early in the morning he was in an automobile smash up but escaped injury and then led his 44 Fianna Fail deputies through the streets to Leinster House where they demanded their seats in the daily elected members if the Dail. But they refused to take the oath of allegiance to the State and they were barred from the chamber.

The formalities of opening the Dail and the election of the President Cosgrave were carried out while de Valera and his followers paced restlessly in the corridors outside the locked and guarded doors of the Dail chamber. At noon the de Valerites retired in the Fianna Fail headquarters, where they formally declared the demonstration at the Dail was only the first step in a campaign for the removal of all the oath of allegiance to the British Sovereign.

The Republicans, declared Mr. de Valera, would go back to the people and tell them what had happened and with the pressure of the people behind the de Valerites would accept the people's representatives would meet shortly without oath of allegiance and take their seats.

As soon as Mr Cosgrave's re election was moved in the Dail there be be announced the formation of responsibility of Government only upon his own terms. He made a six hours attack on the oath of allegiance and declared the Fianna Fail deputies had not been kept out of the Dail by reason of the oath, but by force, which they knew they could not withstand. He declared that the Republicans had not been kept out of the Dail by reason of the oath, but by force, which they knew they could not withstand. Claim Based On Equity Commission Is Investigating Return of Lands Claimed by S.C.

Wells, B.C.—That the claims of British Columbia for return of lands held by the Dominion at the time the far western province entered the Confederation are based "on the full grounds of equity and good conscience" was the contention of C. W. Craig, K.C., before the commission appointed to investigate the matter, which has held its first hearing here.

Mr. Craig explained that he did not mean to infer that the Dominion should be applied in the strict legal sense.

"Your Lordship is justified in looking at the matter from the standpoint of natural equity," he continued in addressing Mr. Justice Martin, chairman of the commission. "It is a problem of bridging the gap between the parties and the practical.

H. Shaw during the opening session of the 23rd annual convention of the Chief Constables' Association of Canada here yesterday.

In stressing the importance of co-operation of police officers with judges and magistrates, he declared it should be greatest with the latter, who deal with crime and not laws.

"There is no change in our provincial statutes so urgent as the adoption of a law that will remove police departments from political and municipal influences and interferences, and place them under the control of a responsible and independent police commission," he said.

MORE HARMONY IS IN EVIDENCE AT GENEVA MEET

Great Britain's decline to reopen affairs arranged at the Washington naval conference may be partially appeased by a proposal from the United States scheduled to adopt a resolution agreeing that any arrangement made at Geneva will not prejudice the agreed at the Washington conference to be held in 1931.

There emerged from a discussion between Hugh Gibson, head of the United States delegation, and Admiral saito of Japan, the possibility that the Japanese acquiescence on the point of inferiority in cruiser strength might be soothed by a provision to make the relative strengths of the United States and Japan 5 3-4 rather than 5-3.

Conclusions are that the Americans expect no long delay or difficulties in establishing the proposition

ALL CANADA CELEBRATES.

"Providence being their guide. They builded better than they knew."

"Our inheritance extending from ocean to ocean has come to us from the Canadians who were the makers of Canada. It is for us to develop the strong spirit of united Canadianism which alone can make Canada great."

Every city, town and hamlet throughout our broad and fair Dominion is sharing in celebrating the Diamond Jubilee of Confederation. Sixty years ago, the Dominion of Canada was peacefully formed comprising the four provinces of Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. Since then 1867 it has grown to nine provinces with the addition in turn of Manitoba, British Columbia, Prince Edward Island, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

It is with feelings of pride and patriotic fervour that Canadians are assembling to fittingly commemorate our Diamond Jubilee and to give thanks for the vast heritage which has been bequeathed to us, through the labors and sacrifices of our forefathers. The visions of the "Fathers of Confederation" for a united Canada, stretching from sea to sea, are now realized. We are celebrating in the Jubilee celebration the spirit of Canadian patriotism, love of our country, pride in its past and its present and marvelous development, and our loyalty to the British Flag. Hands and all the bounds of each and all should be the spirit contained in the following quotation from "O Canada— O Canada! Our home and Native Land!

True patriot-love in all thy sons command.

With glowing hearts we see thee rise

The True North, strong and free and stand on guard, O Canada.

We stand on guard for thee

Would Reduce Railway Crossing Fatalities

Danger Could Be Eliminated If Drivers Watched Signs Carefully

The papers are already filled with automobile accidents, many of which occurred at level crossings. As a rule drivers do not look ahead before they reach a crossing to see if a train is coming, or if they do, they think they can cross before the train. This thoughtlessness is responsible for most accidents at level crossings as newspaper reports show others result like the danger too late. They get confused and often stop their cars right on the track.

Cautious and experienced drivers can very easily avoid being run down by locomotives. They have only to remember that railway crossings are clearly notice I out on all highways. The Roads Department's says that level crossing signs are placed on both sides of the highway at the point where the crossing. Any driver carefully look at the signs always shows when they have reached a level crossing. It is also to far enough to give him ample time to ascertain whether the train is near, and if not to cross in safety.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

JULY 3

SAUL CHOSEN KING

Golden Text: "What doth Jehovah require of thee, but to do justly, and to love kindness, and to walk humbly with thy God?—Micah 6:8.

Lesson: I Samuel, Chapters 9-11.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 119:1-8.

Explanations and Comments

1. Samuel's Reminder of God's Goodness, 10:17-19. — The prophet Samuel called the people together at Mizpah and reminded them that God had delivered them as a people in former days from the oppression of the Egyptians and of other kingdoms, and now they were rejecting God in demanding a king.

"Forgot not all the sunshine of the way
By which the Lord hath led thee."
—F. H. Hayergal.

"Now therefore present yourselves before Jehovah by your tribes, and by your thousands." The appointed occasion of Samuel's speech. "A wise man has said that to make the right use of things in the right way is to let things serve the best of us. This is what Samuel did. He made the best of this crisis in national affairs in the right way by making it serve God. We cannot say that what must be, although he did not like it, and thereby he brought out the best that was in him namely, generosity, a sweet and kindly spirit that rises above all that is evil, base and revengeful and petty.

It is one thing to submit to the inevitable because we must, it is quite another thing to submit graciously and let the inevitable make the best of it.

II. The Selection of Saul, 10:20-24.—Samuel conducted the selection of a king by lot as if in the very presence of the Lord himself, matters were often decided by lot in civil affairs (Proverbs 16:33). Therefore we are told that

The lot is cast into the lap,
But the whole disposing thereof
Is of Jehovah

It is clearly that the "lap" here stands for the "basin" of an urn or vase. The weapon was chosen by the lot. By this method the tribes, several tribes in Canaan was settled by lot (Num. 26:55). The territory of Asher was discovered by lot (Josh. 19:24).

First, the tribe of Benjamin was "taken" (Heb. lit. drawn) by lot, from among all the tribes; then the family of the Matrites from among the families or clans (thousands); then the house of Kish, and at last Saul himself whom they had looked up to but had disappeared. The people then went to inquire of the Lord either through Samuel the prophet, or by Urim and Thummim on the breastplate of the high priest's ephod; see Exodus 28:30; Num. 27:21; 1 Sam. 28:6. The answer came: "Behold, he hath hid himself among the baggage." They found Saul and brought him forth, and when it was seen that he was a head taller than all the rest, they thought this fitting in one who was to be their king. So also whom Jehovah hath chosen, "there is none like him among all the people"" asked Samuel

Heroism Poorly Rewarded

Man Who Sacrificed Health in Interest of Science Receives Little

Inadequate reward is the rule, all too often, for those who make great discoveries resulting in the saving of life or humanity. Recent news dispatches illustrate the truth of the statement. According to the press, it has been necessary for the American Association for the Advancement of Science and the American Association for Medical Progress to "pass the hat" on behalf of Jean B. Kleiniger, formerly a private in the United States Army, subjected himself to infection by the yellow fever germ in 1900, and since that time he has been an invalid, in many years in a wheel-chair suffering from spinal trouble. His wife has been obliged to take in washing, to help her earn a living, and other mental tasks to avoid actual poverty.

Largely through Kleiniger's sacrifice, the terrible scourge of the tropics was overcome so that, during last year, only two cases of yellow fever were reported in all North and South America.

Kleiniger's voluntary act took place at the post hospital, Columbia barracks, Quemados, Cuba, in 1900. He had heard the officer in command of the hospital corps say that the expert inoculation could be made only on human beings, and that it was going to be difficult to find anyone willing to undergo the great risk. Kleiniger thought the matter over and offered himself.

In return for this, he was granted in 1911, a sanatory, but this is so meagre that it is utterly inadequate to provide for medical attention for himself. Nothing is left for support of his family.

What a difference there is between such a reward and that usually accorded the successful performer in the racing rink, on the baseball field, in football. Of course, many in the first mentioned vocation have been accorded "benefit performances," but only after they had squandered their easily won funds.

One cannot but wonder if news services have not fallen into a distorted sense of the value of sport heroics as compared with the unselfish variety

China's Population Decreasing

Due to Abnormally High Death Rate Says Statistician

China, with its swarming millions of people, its crowded streets and villages, has a very low rate of population increase in recent years, largely because of the great proportion of death. This fact is shown by a new study of Chinese censuses since 1741, made by a Chinese Government statistician named Chaochen Chen.

In 1741 the Chinese people numbered only about 25,000,000 more than the United States population of today, and in the fifty years following 1741 the popul...tion more than doubled, advancing at the rate of 15 to the 1,000 people every year. In the next half century the population increase slowed down to less than five additions a year to each 1,000 persons. From 1849 down to 1922 the rate of addition has come down to only .31 a thousand. This, Mr. Chen says, is lower than the rate of population advance in any other country except France.

"The rate of increase of nations of the white race since 1600 has been 11 a 1,000," he says. "This means that the rate of increase of the Chinese population in modern times has been not quite one-third as fast as that of other countries.

The Chinese population reached the 400,000,000 mark back in 1836, according to the census figures. Since that time it has advanced only to 52-3/10,000, and the statistician believes that this extremely slow rate of advance is due to high death rates rather than to low birth rates. China does not practice any increase or population at present, he adds, but high death rates are not healthy factors

Wanted Stained Glass Windows

Natives of India Raised Money to Beautify Church

In the center of a Christian settlement in the jungle at Mudak, Hyderabad, India, stands a Christian church that was completed in 1910. Although this is the central place of worship for the great community of Indian Christians, there are more than 40,000, who have gathered around the Rev. C. W. Posnett a Welsh missionary, as a result of his thirty years' work in this native state. The church was opened a year ago, but its windows and something terribly in the beautiful interior, despite the sunshine and many tinted rifts. There was no stained glass in the windows. The thousand Indian Christians, most of them former outcasts, having given the money to have such glorious gifts to Frank to Salisbury, a well known British artist. The subject is the Ascension, and the artist has chosen five windows. The desire of the donors was that their Church should be as beautiful as any Mohammedan mosque or Hindu temple, and I trust that my work will help them to realize their ideal of beauty as an aid to worship."

Canadians Coming Back

Trend of Travel to U.S. Has Been Reversed This Year

No less than 75 leaving vans conveying the household effects of returning Canadians have entered at the Port of Rock Island during the present season, according to a railway official who stated that there had been reversal of the trend of travel from that year in recent years, he said, the crazy summer months would see from 50 to 60 of such vans moving south, but this year the movement is normal. Inventories showed that many of the returning Canadians are going back to the farms which they left

How to Avoid Cancer

That celebrated British surgeon and cancer specialist, Sir Ernest Miles, M.D., F.R.P.S., Ac voluntarily sacrificed his highly lucrative surgical practice when, after long years of research, he felt that practical experience is only published the following statement of what happens to the cancer-stricken civilized world:

"Cancer is, indeed disease and it is breeding ground is [illegible] when Nothing is easy nor painless but ever cured so will ever prove of service to a cancer sufferer. From my knowledge of the disease I affirm that the knife has never cured cancer in a single instance; but, on the contrary, has only succeeded in aggravating the disease and adding to the sufferings of the poor patient."

Countless thankful patients living today mourn the passing in 1926 of the author of the above quoted words and if Dr Robert Bell's profoundly considered warning is how heeded, it is possible for the public to render the devastating Cancer Scourge a mere matter of history.

Civilization's diet is responsible for depriving the public of the abundantly provided granite salts essential to health preservation and cure which are found in foods when brutly deficient in "tasteless foods" which escape a appreciation or notice in the new practically universal complaint of constipation that is the inevitable accompaniment of Cancer and also of almost every variation of all civilization's physical maladies

The active irritants contained in pills, purgatives and laxatives, cure blood and their only partial relief caused Dr Robert Bell to roundly condemn their use as being injurious and dangerous. The method of curing constipation without drugs is dis closed in the best book presented to the writer by Dr. Bell, whose advice is quoted in the writer's copyright dictary which is mailed without charge to every Canadian and American possessor of the English home Cancer Treatment. Detailed information concerning this treatment is cheerfully mailed on application to Charles Walker at 51 Brunswick Avenue Toronto 4, Ontario, Canada

Recommend Liver Diet

Believed to Have Beneficial Effect in Cases of Anaemia

Liver diet as a treatment for anaemia was discussed by the Canadian and Ontario Medical Association in convention at Toronto

Dr F. J Campbell, of London Ontario, read a paper which contributed that the feeding of liver, whether from beef, calves, sheep, or pigs, has been proved very successful in combating pernicious anaemia. He pointed out that as the duration of the disease is from five to ten years, it was too early to say that liver feeding was a cure. Results, however after one years experiment, were very encouraging

A Londoner was showing an American cousin around, but without exciting much enthusiasm.

"What do you think of that?" asked the guide.

"Well," was the reply "it's not a bad sized building, but there's only one. I could show hundreds like that in New York."

"I won't argue on that point," said the Englishman. "That's a lemon anyhow."

Visitor (to attendant at British Museum): "I have been looking around for a shilling Oliver Cromwell. Have you no shilli of Cromwell here?"

"No, madam," the attendant answered

WHY TORTURE THE LITTLE ONES

Mothers do you think it fair to torture your little ones by forcing them to take castoring oils when they need but a simple laxative? Don't you know that the child's dread of these medicines is justified? Don't you also realize that baby's Own Tablets are the medicine your little ones need? These tablets do make that they are as easy to administer as candy. Concerning them they are the perfect remedy for all the minor troubles that may struggle against the transformation from infancy to childhood.

Baby's Own Tablets accomplish all that castor oil and other bad tasting laxatives do and they do it in their own quick manner so that the little one is the better for the medicine. They regulate the stomach and bowels, banish constipation, break up colds and simple fevers, relieve teething troubles and prevent indigestion. They are guaranteed to contain no opiate or harmful drug. Mothers who have used them say they are the best medicine they ever bought from a medicine dealer or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr Williams' Medicine Co. Brockville, Ont.

Anna dreamed pleasantly of the golden age of which the street car leaders told, when there would be leisure and luxuries for the workers and confusion for the capitalists; when railways and street cars and theatres and all the sources of pleasure would be free as air; and the sooner, disagreeable drudgery would be gone for ever.

Indeed, for Anna, the golden age was already when there was time to get her breakfast tomorrow morning; someone would help to make the little cakes for supper, if you call it a help. That was something, too instead of attacking the [illegible] with a dripping mop and washing dirty dishes, someone was going to do it for her.

So Anna sat on her narrow bed, a prisoner before the law, but a queen in dream or desolate. She, too, had her own little painted fire, and she had not yet found out that there was no heat in it.

Had the British tradition foreigners were dirty and ignorant, and certain ly "could tell her nothink."

Martha washed dishes by piling them into the sink without scraping them, turning on the hot water when she was ready, and subsequently rescuing the unhappy cups, saucers and plates from the seething and quivering foam. Food bake into a storm of Finnish rage when she saw it, and let the water run away prior to cleaning out the sink. Then she scrapped the dishes until even the closer lovers were in peril set them in neat piles on the table, scoured the sink, and proceeded to show the lady who had been born within the round of New Delhi how dishes should be washed Martha watched in cold and stiff-lipped silence. She hated dish washing anyway, and saw nothing in it but a means whereby she could earn money to buy herself some outfit clothes. Martha had a "sweep"—a plain washwoman at the Parliament Buildings and she believed he meant bad news. Martha's way of breaking the news of her approaching nuptials was. "I wouldn't be surprised if we saw the hatch of it, whole business this summer."

When the next meal was over the dishes arrived as usual on the kitchen table in their proper irregular, clay piles, slippery with gravy, pickles and meat. Martha proceeded to brush the scraps into a pail which Hetzel had polished into a state of whiteness it had not enjoyed for years) with the pressure of the dishes and their greased contents. Hetzel was nerving the desert for the evening meal and did not hear. Martha's voice was raised, and the sink dripping with dishes When she saw what had heaps and always a black rage [illegible] ing in her eyes With the empty tray in her hand she swallow the evening meal very grimly thinking how to the kitchen with another toppling load of dishes Hetzel walked until Martha had them on the table, and then brought her empty tray down on Martha's head with a metallic crash [illegible] goodbye, goodbye, dear and Maggie Kenny and Mrs. queerer name running in

Hetzel pointed to the Bible. I aim and tried to explain Martha rose [illegible] wrapped the Bible in her apron, and placed it upon person and called for justice. It was one of those easy cases where the evidence in all its points sticks

It was Mrs Gunther who made the abstract of the case.

Martha's wife—She is Finn, Maggie, clean and neat, but high tempered. Well, if she wasn't a little girl she would be a fine woman." Martha, shut up or I'll give you something to hurt for, you're not much better than an old man. Hetzel—Quietly. Martha, you must [illegible] with me. Martha, you can get off for the night. Hetzel—I'll do the dishes alone. And I've a sort of notion she doesn't mind that, a bit, on every one be satisfied. Martha may be [illegible] she now knows it's a dangerous thing to be too messy with dishes when Hetzel's around, anyway."

Hetzel lost no opportunity of bearing his English and reminded the lady that he had added a few words to her vocabulary. She used the wrap ping paper which came into kitchen on parcels for the purpose of keeping her hats, tearing it into squares and sewing them together with twine Martha, who after the unpleasant event just recorded became a better dish washer and a more agreeable companion, taught Hetzel to say the words, resulting in her acquiring a cockney accent which the boarders found very amusing.

Hetzel's love for the open took her out when her spare days came. The afternoon a week was here and every second Sunday. Martha would not come with her even if they had been able to get together for she often said she hated the country and liked to see a bit of life when she got out At home, she always went to see the Gaards change at the palace gates. "but why any one wants walk out in the country to watch cows eatin' grass" was more than Miss Draper could make out; "now," Miss Draper governess hastened to add, "it takes all kinds." Miss Draper, however, could see some sense in going to see the dresses in the shop windows and picture out which one you would get if you had a king's ransom

Hetzel had now been in the hotel four months She had acquired enough English to take orders in the dining room

"Will you have ham or bacon with your begs?"

"Peach ple, happle ple or table ear?"

She often wondered why she was asked to repeat her orders, and why the boarders laughed, but it was all in a happy field, or so it seemed

Hetzel's great delight was to get out of the city on her Sunday afternoons, when she would go ride-walks, or promenades, no street cars and few people

One day she determined to walk far enough to leave all the houses behind Maybe she would find green grass, or a real field, or some trees, or even a meadow, or meet a friendly cow who did not know she was a suffragette She had heard that cows were friendly creatures, and she longed to make their acquaintance. Hetzel knew that [illegible] was a sign of trouble [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] and

Last Sunday afternoon the choir of Vermilion United Church visited Lloydminster and gave a special musical programme to a congregation which crowded the beautiful and prominent church to the doors and overflowed out into the churchyard. Twelve cars conveyed the twenty four members of the choir from Vermilion and those with the score to cars already parked at the church made the scene one of greatest animation. Pointing outside the church the choir in cap and gown slowly filed in singing the beautiful processional hymn "We have no place to rest." The service of praise opened with a devotional tone the psalms sung to the tune of Dublin—an tune replete with historic and noble memories. Next followed Miles Lane with its triumphant note of hope and victory. The choir was rendered three superb anthems. Mr. Albert West being heard to great advantage as soloist. Despite the handicap of a small auditorium the whole service of praise by the choir was magnificent and one which will long be remembered by the many worshippers present. On behalf of the congregation, Mr. Bruce Miller, the student in charge thanked Mr. Kerr, Mr. Elford and the choir for the kindly thought which prompted the visit and hoped the trip it might be an annual event.

Miracles in Crime Detection

Seattle Criminologist Thrills Delegates to Convention of Chief Constables Association

Crime, its deep rooted causes in human nature and social conditions, the mechanism of its detection, its punishment and cure, the handling of the convicted criminal, the development, training and administration of the police officers who have these problems daily before them—all of those problems came within the scope of the deliberating of the fifth annual stable Association of Canada during their annual convention.

Lalo Lalli, Seattle criminologist, and president of the North West Association of Sheriffs and Police thrilled the delegates with stories of police departments from every province of the Dominion with his absorbing account of the miracles of the laboratory in crime detection from clues as a dropped match, a shred of lace caught on a window sill, the measurement of the skein on the blade of a knife, the identification of the murder's gun, a bullet, even a hair found on the inner workings of a pistol.

The development of scientific methods of crime detection and co-ordination of all law enforcement agencies through central state and provincial bureaus was his message."It was due to such co-operation as found in Canada," said Nelson, "the escaped stranger, had been apprehended."

"It was the sorriest day of his life that he chose to commit a crime in this Dominion," declared Mr. May.

SAMUEL'S FAREWELL

Golden Text: Thy loving kindness is before my eyes: And I have walked in Thy truth—Psalm 26.3.

Lesson: 1 Samuel 12.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 26.1-8.

Explanations and Comments

1. "I Have Fought a Good Fight," verses 1-6.—In a solemn address in which he reviewed his office as judge, though retaining that of prophet Samuel stood before his people and announced that he had done their bidding in giving them a king. "And now behold, the king walketh before you; and I am old and grayheaded; and, behold, my sons are with you." Various explanations may be given for this remark about his sons, by mentioning his age and his sons he referred to the reasons given by the people for demanding a king (1 Sam. 8.5); the fact that his sons were not a large factor that their father was of advanced age" he was about as able to fill the position as judge, and he bespoke their hearty cooperation in his new task and been his assistants. "And I have walked before you from my youth unto this day." (1 Sam. 2.11, when his service first began. Besides saying that his character was clear The king you will find out later, but no hint had been given up to present time

Then Samuel put himself on trial asked them to witness before Jehovah and Saul, his anointed, as to whom he had defrauded or oppressed, or of whom he had taken. "Whose ox have I taken? whose ass have I taken?" is his question. These were the most valued possessions of the people, his fellow countrymen and shepherds. "Of whose hand have I taken any ransom to blind mine eyes therewith?" The ransom was the money which was given to a judge before he acquit a murderer.

Is Still a Problem

Getting Prince of Wales Married Seems Hopeless Task

After one of the most active years in his life in which Edward, albert Christian George Andrew Patrick David Windsor, Prince of Wales and heir to the British throne, has been "engaged" or "married" more than any year since he was born, he still remains single.

Ever since 1911, when "the Prince was 17, trying to marry him off has been a favorite sport. It was at that time that his marriage to Princess Victoria Louise of Prussia was most on, the fact that the Kaiser and Kaiserin were then visiting Buckingham Palace probably gave rise to the report. Next, Grand Duchess Olga daughter of the Czar of Russia, became the candidate—probably based on the fact that the Prince and the Grand Duchess played together as children.

The prince saw often laughs at his forme "tea-cup betrothals" as much as he does at all of the latest ones that are heaped upon him.

The feeling is growing in England that the Prince will ultimately turn to the strong solid stock of his own country for a wife. This type of marriage by the Prince would be the most popular he could make, for the people of England look upon him as an excellent type of young Englishman and they would like the fairest queen to be just as typically English.

Canada's Future Assured

Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Canadian minister of agriculture, in a recent address stated that "Canada is now ready and able to be mindful of the inheritance to come her blessings instead of reviewing any disadvantages." From coast to coast, he declared, men are now looking for the optimistic viewpoint, finding it and forging ahead for the greater development of the country and the realization of its natural resources.

Robin Redbreast and Jack the C.P.R.

This bird evidently likes railways, for he has built his nest on the top of the C.P.R. Train Bulletin Board at Meadowdale station. A small village about twelve miles from Toronto. It is easily within reach of any passing traveller and not more than ten feet from passing trains, but Robin knows his home is not going to be molested and when his brood is reared there will be another family that will feel that Canadian Pacific is synonymous with safety and good treatment.

Settlers Brought Along Much Money

Three Reaching Winnipeg This Spring Had Million Dollars Says Bowman

"One of the striking features about settlement which has taken place in the Province during the past year or two has been the amount of capital held by newcomers," stated W. D. Bowman vice-president in charge of colonization of the Canadian National Railways, who, with Dr. W. J. Black, director of that branch, and Mr. Dempsey's affairs, arrived in Winnipeg from Montreal on June 23rd. "Two months ago," said Mr. Bowman, "I was estimated that more than a million dollars is ready cash had been in the hands of settlers reaching Winnipeg and that amount has necessarily been increased by those arriving since. These people will all be most valuable assets in the development of the country and in time will become useful and prosperous citizens."

Mr. Robb pointed out that the efforts of the organization had been directed upon family settlement and to a considerable degree and that this year it had been successful in securing both from the old land and the United States, some of the finest type of settlers ever brought in Canada. He stated that the Canadian National Railways had been able to bring in a greatly increased number of settlers during the past few months as well as from Britain and the States The number from Denmark alone had increased many times over that of last year, he said.

Attention was drawn by Mr. Robb to the new undertaking now under the Canadian National Railways are embarking this year, the development of natural resources along the route of the farm. To stimulate this and to interest the farmers directly in the affairs of agriculture, he stated the company is organizing marketing tours to Europe, the first to leave next September. These are being provided at a minimum cost and the farmers will be under the direction of an expert in the marketing guide.

The introduction of new capital to Canada is also receiving the attention of the organization. Mr. Robb declared, and a department of natural resources has been opened in London under the charge of a thoroughly competent Canadian.

Speaking of recent complaints that Canadian people are being brought into the country than can readily be absorbed in farm employment, Mr. Robb said:

"I can, of course, speak only for the Canadian National Railways, as far as our colonization department is concerned, the such situation exists. Not only have we been able to absorb all the settlers we have brought in, but we actually have on file in our Saskatoon office at the present moment applications for more help than we can get from farmer than we are in a position to fill. Our other agencies throughout the west are also capable of handling more people to the satisfaction of the settlers themselves

Plan Radio Station For Hudson Straits

Will Be Installed This Summer and Is Expected To Be Permanent

This summer will witness the installation of the first radio broadcasting station on the Hudson Straits. Commander Edwards, head of the radio branch of the marine department, announced a party of radio men would be added to the air force expedition which will sail north with supplies and to erect a long range station on the Straits, and this station, when erected, would establish daily connection with Ottawa on the south, Port Nelson and Norway House to the west, and Greenland and Iceland to the east The station it is expected, will be permanent

Coal Mining in British Columbia

During the first four months of the year the coal mines of British Columbia produced 854,298 long tons, an increase of 154,279 tons compared with the similar period of 1925.

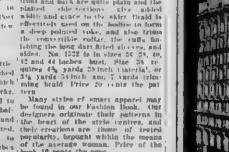
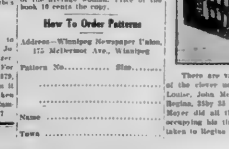
Remarkable Development Of Canada's Greatest Industry, The Growing Of Wheat

Canada's greatest individual industry, wheat growing, has developed almost entirely since Confederation. The present generation of Canadians are accustomed to speak of their country as the granary of the world, a phrase which would have been meaningless sixty years ago when Confederation was brought about.

Canadians must look with pride upon the achievement in wheat production of the last sixty years. What it means to the post-war business and to the transportation of the Dominion needs only be stated to be understood. Exports of wheat from Canada in the last two years, and these were only average crops, have brought in to this Dominion more than $417,000,000 annually. This money, coming into the possession of the farmers, has been spent on the hundred and one articles which they buy, thus stimulating the industrial creative forces from the grain fields and threshing, indirectly, to the ends of the Dominion

The bulk of Canada's wheat crop is grown in the prairie provinces. Each harvest time the enormous task of transferring this crop from the fields to the export markets is undertaken and accomplished. The farmer hauls his wheat to the country elevators, his railways transfer it to the ports. There are about 2,500 country elevators in the wheat producing areas, and the Canadian Pacific Railway has one and its subsidiary one and fat ranks, and to this end a central Canadian purchasing organization has been established. The new organization, which owns nineteen most traders' warehouses throughout South Wales and Monmouthshire and the capital is approximately $20,000,000.





Dutch Government May Aid Immigration

Country Is Fertile Field for Recruiting New Canadians

Conducting a party of 85 Dutch settlers, who reached Montreal on the White Star liner, Doric, in points in eastern Canada, Lovatts W. Sage, travelling inspector for steamship companies in Denmark, declared that Denmark was a fertile field for recruiting Canadian immigrants.

Considerable unemployment prevails there, he stated, although there is a larger intake is lack of money, in this connection, however, said Mr. Sage, the Danish government is considering ways and means of meeting this difficulty and is studying a plan practiced by the Norwegian government whereby prospective emigrants are furnished with sufficient funds and given favorable terms in the matter of repayment.

Canada Prefers British Settlers

But Only Limited Number of Right Class Are Available

"The importance of applying policies providing Canada with more power, without introducing unemployment, but rather increasing the demand for labor, must be emphasized, with the necessity of preventing the subsidies of undesirable emigrants," Hon. Robert Forke, Canadian Minister of Immigration, declared in London while discussing Canada's immigration problems with newspapermen. "Canada's immigration activities are therefore both positive and restrictive," he added.

Shortly after his arrival with W. J. Egan, Deputy Minister of Mr. Forke's department, the Minister received about 50 journalists at his hotel and, after reading a written statement he had prepared, answered their questions.

Canada has adopted the policy," he said, "of encouraging farm laborers and household workers. In recent years the leading British strain in the national fabric, especial emphasis is laid upon immigration from the British Isles. Numerous steps have been taken to relieve the British members of the hardships of high ocean rates, including a very substantial number from the class mentioned are available from the British Isles who have been domiciled in the field in include the United States and other foreign countries from which suitable settlers may be secured."

Canada Is Reaching Out With An Ambitious Program Concerning Aerial Navigation

Proves Water Has Skin

Easy Experiment Anyone Can Test for Themselves

There is a skin we touch every day of the year, a skin we see often or than we touch, a skin which few of us realize is in existence. If you break it or hurt it it heals itself without our help and possesses the power of self-renewal quite as much as anything in nature.

It is the skin of water.

But where is there any skin on water? Right on the outside—right where you would expect to find a skin on anything. Every surface of water behaves almost precisely as if it were an elastic membrane under tension. Drop a few drops of water from a spoon, bottle, or the end of your finger, and see them trickle down, first perpendicular and then rounded into little globes, before they exactly as if they were confined by rubber-tubing.

But why globes? Because a globe is just the shape an elastic skin must take if acted on by pressure within, or if trying to close up a fluid within it. From the sausage shaped bulbous of the street urchins trend to take the spherical shape when inflated. A sphere happens to be the one shape of all possible shapes which can contain the greatest amount of space within the least amount of surface.

And here's a particularly easy experiment which can be made right in the office, while you wait, to prove what this skin is like and how it behaves. All you will need is a bowl or bit of water sizing and a bowl or glass nearly filled with the water. Be sure that the bowl or glass is not greasy, for we don't want any grease just yet. Now sprinkle a portion sizing just across the surface of the water. The weight of the skin of water pulls the sizing both ways, so it does not move. It remains still.

Now, to sinew the pull, or as the physicists call it, the tension of this water's skin. Drop a few drops of oil on the water to one side of the sizing. Immediately the sizing will move away from the oil, being pulled by the elastic skin, for the oil immediately forms an oil skin on one side of the string and the oil skin has less tension than the water skin on the other side. Hence the sizing moves with the more elastic skin.

Reports from strawberry producing districts of Canada to the Department of Agriculture indicate that the commercial plantations in all the provinces have wintered well and promise a yield under conditions more favorable than the yield based on normal production should be slightly larger than last year. WOLF CUB NOTES.

THE investiture of the Tenderfoots took place on Wednesday, 29th. As the day was showery, our plans were changed, and instead of holding it on the Rev. Bell's lawn it took place in the Community Hall. Major Watson delighted the whole Pack by training them all to the movies first, and this event was certainly appreciated by all. The Cubs met at the theatre at 6 p.m., afterwards marching to the C. N. R. Hall at 8.30 where their parents and friends had already gathered.

After marching in, the Pack was inspected by Major Watson. The smartest Six was to be awarded the first ribbon for our new Totem Pole, but this honour was held by the Brown Wolf Cubs. The Greys were a close second, and the Blacks and Browns were fair behind, tied for third place. The Brown's colour is a green ribbon and is the first to be nailed to the Pole.

After the inspection, everyone joined in singing O Canada and then the Tenderfoots were called in them to repeat the Law of the Wolf Cubs and make the solemn Promise of the Pack. The Cub received his Tenderfoot Badge and Enrollment Card.

The 1st Star badges were then presented to Instructor Bruce, Bruna romsie Coughs Irrinsemobe and Jack Murdoch, who have worked hard to obtain their badges and are entitled to wear their Stars in their caps.

Major Watson then addressed the Pack with their some good sound advice, and after a few words to the parents the serious part of our programme ended. The rest of the evening was spent in entertaining the Jungle Imbres and Team Races.

These Races are a source of great enjoyment to the Cubs and the excitement is intense, each Six being fearfully keen to win. When we first played these there was not to be a great deal of grousing and wrangling from those who were beaten, but gradually the Cubs are learning the meaning of the first Cub Law and are starting to live up to it "the Wolf Cub's pleasure is in doing things as he is told is they best best best" if we are best, don't say much—grin like a Cheshire Cat and Wolf Cub Hopeful.

The races being over the Pack inspired the Parade Circle and gave two rousing Cheers for our Cubmaster Major Watson. After singing God save the King, everyone left for home individually to anticipate taking up a collection for our Camp expenses, but in the excitement of the races, the collection was forgotten for the occasion. If anyone who was there looks like giving us a donation, we should be very grateful for a little help towards expenses

Twelve names have been handed in for the Camp in July

The camp will open on Wednesday, 13th, weather permitting, and closing day will be August 1st.

There will be no regular Cub meet ings until September.

Hints to Exhibitors Of Garden Crops

(Experimental Farms Notes)

With the time of exhibitions and sales fast approaching a few hints to intending exhibitors of garden crops may not be amiss. In the first place subject should be one that does much be well grown from the time of seed tist or plant setting until the day of competition, for an end of marginals thin, faking, or pothable, will take form your specimens into good ones Essential to this end are in brief: good seed, suitable varieties, well prepared soil; intelligent manuring, tending, watering, pruning, and rigid culling, protecting from insects, disease, and unsuitable climatic conditions, proper harvesting, painstaking selection of the subjects to be shown and tasteful and effective staging.

The concern of most novices at exhibitions seems to be their crops at their best at the right time Experience alone can solve this problem but by careful study and observation varieties this obstacle will readily be overcome. Remember also that the season of maturity and blossoming of many of the readily grown and shown vegetables and flowers, respectively, may be hastened or retarded by making use of a suitable greenhouse. The dates of most fairs are usually announced sixty enough in advance to enable exhibitors to decide the growth of which crops should be hastened and which delayed.

Having grown a variety or crops there should be little difficulty in taking a few premiums at the local or provincial fairs. Failure to become thoroughly acquainted with the rules governing exhibitions has perhaps led to more disappointment in this field than any other cause. Judging for the most part is now being conducted in accordance with the Standard of Excellence on Horticultural Standards for Exhibitions, copies of which may be secured from The Canadian Horticultural Council, Ottawa, Canada, or through your local Horticultural Society.

Proposed exhibits should be carefully harvested and prepared for the show table. In many cases the less they are handled the better, and bruising of any kind should be avoided. Do not collect those that will rapidly send in advance of the show as freshness is one of the best attributes for an exhibit. Quality rather than size counts with most judges, particularly concerning many vegetables.

Where any great distance has to be travelled to the show, packing should be done carefully. Individual specimens of apples, tomatoes, potatoes, etc. should be wrapped in soft paper before packing, and for ex-tomato individual cardboard containers should be provided. The need of placing by grain, peas, etc. as a cushion, or in the bottom of the crate will be apparent

In collections of flowers fruits and vegetables be sure that the number specified in the prize list is shown. Make them as attractive as possible.

Some interesting figures were recently made public regarding the per capita savings and per capita wealth of this country The figures are worth quoting if only to disprove the pessimistic assertions heard that we are worse off during these times than in the good old days or a quarter of a century or more ago In 1900 the per capita savings deposited in Canada amounted to $23 and the per capita life insurance in force to $18, giving a total for both of $109 At the beginning of 1927, the per capita savings deposits amounted to $152 and the life insurance in force to $530, or a total of $782, or over seven times the total of 25 years ago. Figures of per capita national wealth, compiled by the League of Nations, are: United States $2,313; Great Britain, $1,710; Canada $2,006; France $1,370, Germany $1,090; and Japan $544

Vermilion, Alta., July 7, 1927.

While nothing to a number of local lay farmers of this district the other day we casually inquired about the prospects of a bumper crop this year and there wasn't one of them but felt perfectly certain that this year's crop would be no good if not better than any in the past. As a natural follow-up the conversation veered to summerfallowing and again the farmers were unanimous in stating positively that Edmonton Harvest and Seed Exhibition would be the premier annual event in Western Canada this year. They can't say for sure if enough participation at that when you consider even a few of the numerous and unusual attractions offering and announced efforts and vivid dramatization. The Pageant, tracing step by step, Canada's progress from the days of the early French settlements will be of great historical interest as well as a marvellous educational exemplification and lesson and beauty. This year's production will differ in every respect from the pageants of last year in that the plot has not yet received actual form at events of Edmonton and Alberta, the coming spectacle will feel to the main events of all Canadian history. It is an entirely new plot idea, new costumes and scenery and new music. One of the pleasures of the most costly attractions ever produced for an exhibition feature.

The Edmonton National Band, old Sig platoon acts and the Johnny J. Jones shows will be featured and with the six days racing and the nightly glittering fireworks displays besides the exhibits and stock show, there will be assembled a highly appropriate running miles to the Exhibition.

The Chrysanthemum show has been postponed until Wednesday next, July 13th, owing to unfavorable weather.

ISLAY ITEMS

The Islay school closed on Thursday last for the summer vacation. In the afternoon the children met together at the school house, accompanied by their parents to celebrate the Diamond Jubilee of Confederation. Mr. S. H. Goodge took the chair. After the singing of "O Canada" and "The Maple Leaf" Mr. Goodge in his address explained to the children the meaning of Confederation, followed by a recitation "The Union Jack." The pupils contributed to the programme by giving recitations on Canada. Each child was then presented with a Jubilee Medal. Lunch was served to the children, all of whom had brought their eatables with them. At the close ice-cream and chocolates were also handed around by the school trustee, Mr. W. G. Goodwin.

In recognition of the Confederation Jubilee a Limited Service of the Anglican and United Churches will be held on Sunday in the United Church. The Rev. S. H. Goodge, Anglican minister, conducted the service and gave a Confederation address, after which the large congregation present joined in singing "O Canada" and the National Anthem.

ANGLE LAKE NEWS.

The examinations are over and the children are commencing their well-earned rest. The results of the public schools in this district are having something special in celebration of Canada's sixtieth birthday and each school is being presented with a medal in honour of the jubilee celebrations.

Mr. and Mrs. Alast, Mrs. Borowski, and Miss Helen Anderson motored to Edmonton on Thursday to spend the week-end and attend the celebration there.

An accident took place two miles west of here, on Wednesday evening when a team were driving home from their hayey and their team, becoming frightened by some dogs, ran away, throwing the occupants to the ground side. Needless to say the guilty cur pet was shot at sunrise.

GIDEON LAKE NEWS

Gideon Lake school held a fine picnic on Saturday afternoon, July 2nd, which was well attended. A fine pot meal was put on by the children, assisting the ladies of Gideon district. The flag was saluted and all sang O Canada. Sports and races were held during the afternoon and supper served in the evening. During the evening, three genuine cheers were given for the teacher, Miss William, who is leaving this week. She has been very faithful in training the children and her work is appreciated by the community.

On Sunday a Jubilee Service was held and a fine crowd was present. The special message was given on the "Pioneer Spirit." We expect to have services now every second Sunday, throughout the summer and will also have Sunday School after church.

Vermilion Celebrates Diamond Jubilee Of Confederation

MRS. AGNES WALKER WHO SANG ON FIRST CONFEDERATION DAY PRESENT — GRAND PARADE AND PAGEANT — RINK DEDICATED—FIRE WORKS AT NIGHT—TOWN BRILLIANTLY DECORATED FOR OCCASION

VERMILION, July 2.—An outstanding feature of the program arranged here in connection with the celebration of Canada's Diamond Jubilee was the formal dedication of the $10,000 skating rink and gymnasium.

The ceremony came at the close of the morning's parade, in which numerous floats, the Citizens' Band, veterans of the war, Boy Scouts, Cubs and a long retinue of citizens in gaily decorated cars participated. The Union Jack was hoisted on the flag-pole by Mayor Fallow while the band played the national anthem. In the after noon, some 1,200 people gathered at the exhibition grounds, where the program as arranged by the central committee was carried out. Mayor Fallow being in charge. A pageant and flag drill by the school children created much applause.

Stirring addresses were made by Rev. M. S. Kerr, dealing with the history of Canada from the date of the treaty of Paris in 1867; Rev. Father Gillis, from 1867 to 1927; while Rev. Mr. Stephens spoke of the future.

A touching item in connection with this part of the program was the appearance of Mrs. Agnes Walker, who sang at the celebration of the inauguration of confederation at Erin in Wellington county, Ontario. Mrs. Walker was then 21 years of age.

Other speakers were P. G. Pilkie, who was connected with the militia at the first celebration of confederation at Barrie, and Rev. J. W. Bell, who was a member of the guard of honour which fired the salute at Belleville, Ontario, on July 1, 1867, in honour of confederation. Rev. Mr. Bell said that in those long years what impressed him now more than anything else was that Canada had at last found herself.

It is estimated that there were 3,000 people in town in the evening, to listen to the band concert and to see the display of fire-works. This part of the day's program was carried out in the public park. The business portion of the streets were beautifully illuminated and streamers of red, white and blue bunting and flags adorned the buildings and were draped across the thoroughfares. The scene was a brilliant one and hundreds of people stayed up to late hours to witness the display, admiring the "great white way" and its variegated colored lights.

The program broadcasted from Ottawa came through perfectly. It was amplified from one of the local stores and every radio in town was tuned in to catch these memorable numbers.

Vermilion did itself proud in the commemoration of Canada's Diamond Jubilee.

National Thanksgiving Service

On a day afterwards large numbers assemble to take part in the National Thanksgiving service. Owing to a Dominion wedding, His Worship Mayor Fallow presided, and seated on the platform were a number of the local clergy. The form of Thanksgiving followed was that sent out from 10 Downing, copies of which were printed for their distribution, and it was heartily joined in by all. The singing was led by the Vermilion Citizens' Band.

FOURTH FORTNIGHTLY CROP REPORT

Issued by Department of Agriculture, Government of Alberta, Edmonton, June 29th, 1927.

Crops throughout the province have made good progress during the past two weeks, and reports reaching the Department of Agriculture indicate that conditions generally are very satisfactory. Much early sown wheat is in the shot blade and heads are showing in many fields where seeding was completed at an early date. Oats and fall rye are fully headed out and oats and barley are making rapid growth.

Damage from pests is lighter this year than usual. Wire-worms appear under their appearance in the province but the unusual growth has not caused the crop much damage where it is as extensively injured. Hail has as distinct has done some damage, but this is purely local in character. In the southern part of the province local grasshopper is reported in districts where wheat is heading out, and has been dealt with the first coming of attacks on many farms. While cutworm generally has been quiet, in some districts they have done considerable damage. Poisoning has been carried out in the districts where they are most numerous, and in many cases the pests have been destroyed. Flea beetles are reported in some districts, but no serious damage has been done. Army worm has appeared in some districts, but no serious damage has been done. Army worm has appeared in some districts, but no serious damage has been done.

Reports from points in Eastern Alberta indicate that the crop is making satisfactory progress. Rains have been general throughout the district, and the crop is in good condition. Haying is in progress in the Vermilion district, and the crop is in good condition. Haying is in progress in the Vermilion district, and the crop is in good condition.

Outdoors

The editor of this column steps aside this week to give place to the following "Silver Minute Essay" by Dr. Frank Crane, and to commend it to all mankind—well worthy of study:

A good dose of fresh air would cure almost anything.

Quit worrying about your health. Live out in the fresh air and forget it.

Take off your clothes and get out in the sun. Exercise a little, and you will be the handsomer and have a appetite. It's out there somewhere.

Go Outdoors and get rid of Nerves. They live in the house.

Other pests and ailments that infest humans are Hypochondria, Constipation, Liver Complaint, Peptonemia and Insomnia.

Not only Healthy Ailments, but all other kinds of plagues and nuisances are house creatures.

Crawl about all meals in comfy rooms. Religion, faith, hope, love, and courage inhabit the woods and meadows, and the seas, and seek wind and sun.

Jesus taught Outdoors. Ecclesiastical Councils are held behind closed doors. The decalogue of religion is traceable from the Sermon on the Mount to the soapy-lathering Meeting House.

Education ought to be Outdoors. My favorite dream is the University of Outdoors, where people go between seed and harvest and learn under the stars.

The University would teach the child how to be as healthy as a panther. And healthy bodies would jobotize most to make their intellectual vagaries

Even hearing it be so would open doors of opportunity as much better for your general system than whooping on the parlor sofa. When you get a girl trail a mile to take her out real—what real hiking is.

Hiking is better outdoors. A horse is healthier than a man because a horse has to walk after every bite of grass he gets.

Outdoors is the solution of the Prison problem. From cell to sunshine museum from the destruction to the reconstruction of the human waste-heap.

Human pulmans who are violent when locked up become peaceable Outdoors.

Children thrive outdoors and pine in the house

Outdoors is cheap and plenty

Food made Outdoors is an exile Indoors

And God loves Outdoors—in fact made edibles Holy.

Prince Favors Playgrounds

Glad to Box Movement to Provide Plans for Poorer Children

The British National Playing Fields' Association, which has loomed as an important factor in the life of Britain, states that there are in England 600 boys and girls who are without adequate facilities and that these great cities have not a single football field or cricket pitch for the use of the poorer children. During his birthday played two of the Royal pastimes at Hampton Court, combining about six acres in the disposal of the Association. In the absence of the Duke of York, who is president, the Prince of Wales on his return from the derby visited a broadcasting station and gave a wireless talk in support of the movement.

As a lover of games himself, the Prince said that he was really glad to see so many of the most desirable proper playing fields for these 600 boys and girls and that he hoped that the Duke of York and one of them could say, "I have nowhere to play."

Manless Plow Is Simple

Automatic Machine Hailed as Revolution in Farming World

Apparently, the automatic plow, the tractor that works itself, is quite simple, much more so than preliminary notices said of it. A more detailed report says it is composed of three pairs of wood, or low bolts, a spring, a piece of aluminum shaped like a bone spoon. It was hailed at the Nebraska Agricultural College as a potential revolution in the farming world. It will enable the tiller of the soil to go to the cinema or drink cider or sleep while his fields are being plowed by a hill mule he got on the market at a cost of a few dollars. It is the invention of F. L. Zybach of Grand Island, Neb.

To use this device, a farmer must first attach a plow to his tractor and run a furrow around the outer edge of his field, making the corners rounded instead of square. Then he fastens Zybach's invention to the steering wheel of the tractor setting the spoon-end in the furrow. He starts the tractor. Within the range of wood, or guided along the furrow by Zybach's invention, continues to make shorter and shorter circles around the field, until it comes to a stop in the middle.

Tests of the device, it is declared, produced plowing 10 per cent better than Zybach was first experimenting with a crude model, his neighbors laughed at him, but the tractor became and de-stray ass of their prosper ity. Once he set the machine to plow at night. The tractor started out at midnight and finished him to stop at midnight.

The First Economy

A young man went to a store to a rod and was accepted. After their first week their employers sent over they fell to the floor.

"Now that we are engaged" said the girl, "we must begin to economize. The first thing I shall do is to stop doing anything you can't afford."

The young man looked grimly.

"I shall certainly start now," he said, "and to break off our engagement."

Mrs. Wallace Pepper, R.R. No. 6, Simcoe, Ont., writes: "Last summer I was very bad with dysentery. I had no appetite, and had such severe pains in my abdomen that made me very faint. Urge Vaccination to Prevent Tuberculosis

French Doctors Would Have New Vaccine Given to All Children

Vaccination, described by the use of the anti-tuberculosis vaccine developed by Dr. Albert Calmette of the Pasteur Institute has led to a movement among French medical authorities in favor of the universal vaccination of children.

Results just tabulated up to the present year show that from 27 600 cases of vaccination there were 24 fatal tuberculosis, while the tubercular mortality among unvaccinated children is shown by medical statistics to reach 26 per cent.

Professor Calmette explains that his vaccine does not immunize the patient with the disease, but "suggests" the disease and rouses antituberculosis bacilli to activity. This has been done through use of vaccine obtained through reducing the virulence of the tuberculosis bacilli by the inbreeding of weakened bacilli until an innocuous vaccine is evolved which is only strong enough to suggest tuberculosis in the system.

Early experiments were made with this vaccine on cows, which are immune to tuberculosis, over a period of thirteen years before the scientists of Pasteur Institute felt sure enough of the harmlessness of the vaccine to test the effect upon man. The vaccine has been administered, but may be administered in food.

Despite the apparent success of this vaccine, French medical men report a general hostility upon the part of the public to anti-tubercular vaccination, and many objections being advanced as these opposing vaccination for smallpox and typhoid, but an increasing number of the leading men of the coming interviewed and the use of the vaccine has already spread to all countries of Europe.

Greatest Menace to Motorists

The two greatest menaces to the safety of motorists are the speed mania and the level crossing. When it is properly appreciated that roads are made for speed and that level crossings are a species of death trap, the number of fatal accidents should be greatly reduced. Until then it is practically negligible, at any rate in comparison with what has been the case the last few years.

42 Young People at Short Course

Active Week at School of Agriculture

The annual Short Course is being held at the School of Agriculture during the current week. The boys and girls who are attending are the winners from the various school fairs held throughout the Vermilion and Edmonton districts. At each school fair the boy and girl securing the highest number of points are given a free week at the School of Agriculture by the Provincial Government. From this group, the boy and girl who have secured the largest amount of points out of the course are given a year's scholarship in Agriculture or Household Science. This scholarship includes all travelling expenses, books and board for the entire five months. Needless to say it is a prize that is exactly sought after by every boy and girl attending the school. Many of the students are below the age of the regular students but if age of the applicant is found with the ability it holds good until they reach the age of 16, when they may take advantage of it. There are 42 boys and girls taking the course and all express themselves as having a wonderful time during the Short Course week

The day is organized into study and recreational periods, the first of the morning until 9-15 at night. This includes classes, all kinds of games, picnic dinners and talks by members of the staff. One of the features that was especially enjoyed this week was the playing of the Vermilion Citizens' Band on Sunday afternoon. Many of these boys and girls come from districts where they are denied the privileges of this kind and the band program by the Band was very much enjoyed and will be remembered for a long time by the boys and girls.

The following is a list of the students, and the points from which they hail: Mildred Cunningham, Lea Park; Ruberta Bowser, Islay; Winnie Shaw, Rhoesty; Ida Waite, Lashburn; Hilda Latimer, Lashburn; Ethel Smith, Tofield; Eileen Murphy, Innisfree; Hazel Brimsdon, Naughton (Alex); Esther Rankin, Vermilion; Hilda Close, Montalville; Dorothy Hoskin, Brandreham; Helen Mew, Vegreville; Hilda Kuhn, Vegreville; Helen Place, Viking; Florence Roland, Millhaven; Kathleen Henry, Waskatenau; Hilda Hoey, Fort Saskatchewan; Ruth Chambers, Chipman; Mabel Brace, Round Hill; Nina Adams, Ashmont; Kenneth Mainwaring, Bon Accord.

ARGILE LAKE NEWS

A dance was held on Friday evening last by the young people of Argile Lake in the hall. A good crowd turned out and had an enjoyable time but were compelled to leave early (in the morning) because of the severe electrical storm that passed over this community at that time.

The Trail Rangers are all ready to ramp for a week commencing Monday, July 11th at the campers end of Lemire Lake on Mr. Cornell's place. They will be in the charge of the mentor, Mr. Armstrong and the Chief Ranger, Paul Anderson. The boys are all keen to go and expect to have a fine week's camping "if it doesn't rain."

Miss Helen Anderson returned from a short visit to Edmonton on Friday last.

A serious accident was averted this past week when a young man of this district was playing with the setting of a spade in his hands with the stick of dynamite about six inches away from him. Luckily it did not ignite the dynamite or Argile Lake would have had one chimes less.

On Saturday afternoon the citizens held a clean-up day at the local cemetery. A fair representation was present and much needed work was done by many willing hands.

Both Dr. Ross of Elk Point and Dr. Heald of Vermilion were called out during Friday night but as they were unable to visit a very sick patient Hopes are held out for the speedy recovery of the patient.

A call was sent in for Constable Lacey of Vermilion on Sunday evening. A certain visitor became visibly deranged mentally and threatened the occupants of a house with a knife. No peace was to be had until she was taken safely away by the constable. The community will feel safer when the patient is again with in the precincts of the "grey stone" walls, from which there should be no escape.

The hail storms to the south of us have been the cause of the tremendous increase in the insurance burdens these days. No wonder the agents are looking prosperous now.

"HOP HIKERS" NOT POPULAR WITH THE GUARDIANS OF LAW

Some days ago, at the convention of Northwest Sheriffs and Police, which includes ten north-western states and the four western provinces of Canada, it was unanimously agreed that motorists should be warned against the practice of giving "lifts" to pedestrians along highways, a practice which in many cases enables lawbreakers to more successfully evade capture, as was the case of the "Chaffin Man." Earle Nelson.

The question is one already seriously considered by officials of automobile clubs. The Alberta Motor Association draws attention to the fact that not only does the practice of "hop hiking" militate against the apprehension of crime, but that motorists who indulge in the habit of giving automobile lifts to boys and girls hiking the roads, are contributing in a very unpayable degree to the creation of a new national problem in the American Motorist, official publication of the American Automobile Association, has just completed a survey which shows that 70 per cent of the youthful down-and-outers who become a burden on the public charities in the large cities have arrived at destination via the "hop hiking" trail. "Gas Hikers are not confined to boys alone," the bulletin states. "Almost as many girls find their way to the large cities today than boys. Often these children of both sexes learn home at a much earlier age than they would have done but for the ease with which they can secure rides. This is easy road to panhandling, destitution and crime. The tide moving along this road is assuming alarming proportions and in the interest of the youth of the land, motorists should resume once and for all that the solution is squarely up to them"

HISTORICAL SCENES AT EXHIBITION PAGEANT

The Grand Historical Pageant to be staged at the Edmonton Exhibition July 18 to 23, will be a performance of unsurpassed excellence. Differing in every respect from the production of last year, the Pageant will portray the main features of Canadian history from the time of the earliest French settlements. These historical scenes will be interspersed with ballets of dainty dancing, smart drills and striking pantomimic effects by highly-trained local talent. The pageant, culminating in the Human Flag and Wheel of Life when everyone taking part, 1000 persons in all, will be seen on the stage at the same time, gives an opportunity that may never again be enjoyed and everyone should make a special effort to attend.

As a special treat for music lovers, the Exhibition are arranging a program extraordinary to be given in the Arena by the Australian National Band on the evening of Tuesday the 19th only. This concert by the band will be a special feature and will be an opportunity to hear this band at its best without the interference of other attractions or the various midway devices.

There are only two of the many wonderful attractions being featured at the Exhibition this year and all are worth coming miles to see.

Storms have wrought heavy damage to crops in many portions of the West during the past week and considerable destruction of property wrought by cyclonic winds. The loss of two lives and injuries to a number of others was the toll exacted by the unusual disturbances. A crop area, estimated at over 1,500,000 acres of grain in central Saskatchewan was swept by rain and hail with total loss in many cases to farms and from 25 per cent. upwards generally. Hail storms in parts of Alberta are also reported. The results of these sudden destructive storms has ebbite, sted in an hour or so the season's work and expected returns of hundreds of farmers. The circumstances, while most unfortunate, are hardly conducive and partial protection from the elements is possible only through crop insurance. The Vermilion district up to the present is in the enviable position of enjoying a one hundred per cent. perfect season which it is trusted will continue until the harvest is safely garnered.

Invents Sea Rocket

WITH Carry Passengers Across Atlantic at Terrific Speed Says Professor Goddard

Professor Robert H. Goddard, of Worcester, Mass., internationally famous physicist, experimenting in Miss Clark's university laboratory with the idea of a giant passenger-carrying rocket, having some features of the aeroplane, which will make man to thunder in the air across the Atlantic at a rate of speed so terrific that the 3,000 miles between Europe and America will seem slow in comparison.

This is no idle dream," he said, but a serious scientific possibility. The idea of combining rocket and aeroplane is an offshoot of the space rocket, on which I have been working for the past eleven years. My own experiments, confirmed by scientists in England and Germany, have been to prove that the same rocket, propelled by successive explosions, is capable of travelling indefinitely beyond the distance, far enough at least to pass beyond the sphere of gravitational influence of this planet."

was presented by A. W. Hide, K.C. while A. J. Morrison, chairman of the hospital district board responded on behalf of the applicants being also present. The decision in the case, in brief, is all in favor of the board of the Vermilion Hospital district. The decision is one of vital importance and the outcome of the appeal was awaited with more than ordinary interest. The point at issue was as to whether the hospital board could deviate from the exact terms of the scheme as passed upon by the ratepayers when the hospital district was organized in 1918. This scheme provided a levy at the rate of three mills on an assessment in the case of the Vermilion Valley district of about seven hundred and eighty-three thousand dollars; the levy amounted to about twenty-three hundred and fifty dollars. The act as then in force made no provision for a falling or increasing assessment, as a fact the whole assessment was regarded the following year and a new hospital act passed. Each year the different contributing areas made return to the board as to the amount of assessment (the largest to banks of the Canadian Pacific rail way being rendered liable to assessment the past two or three years on assessment of the Vermilion Valley district has greatly increased. Taking into consideration and its rights under important amendments to the hospital act the hospital board the year made a levy of about seven hundred and thirty dollars assessment Vermilion Valley district, making two and a half mills the basis for municipal district promptly refused to assess, contending the hospital board was exceeding its authority that to that it was levying an amount in excess of that provided in the original scheme. An appeal to be put by commissioners was finally formulated. The hearing took place a few weeks ago and the decision announced at a meeting of the hospital board held on Saturday. The commissioners in determining the basis stated that as the necessary rate to meet the proposed appropriations or assessments mills in each of the contributing areas and the total demand the same as set out in the original scheme as outlined by the ratepayers, the amount apportioned to the Vermilion Municipal district therefore met the requirements of the act and the contention of the appellants must of necessity fail. The entire assessment of the district was held up pending the decision of the commissioners on this appeal.

M.D. Vermilion Valley Loses Appeal Against Levy Of Hospital District Board

The Canadian People

In presiding over the celebration of the Diamond Jubilee of the Dominion, Parliament at its next session might well take one more step in further impressing a united Canadian sentiment and developing a stronger Canadian national spirit by making legislative provisions for the recognition of the Canadian people as the people of the Dominion. Up to the present time the Canadian people has not been designated in the various records of the Dominion as a distinct people.

In all of these long years of thousands of settlers from all parts of the world, Canada is doubtless the most cosmopolitan country in the world. Not a ceiling of inferiority not only in their own minds but before the world among those who have come to Canada from other countries, but the descendants of the past they have been forced to designate themselves as English, Irish, Scotch, French Canadians, American Canadians, or by other racial distinctions.

Many of the previous statistics of the Dominion advertise to the world that the country of Canada is inhabited by all manner of races and conditions of people, but not a single statistic which shows that Canada is a self-governing nation in the British Commonwealth of Nations, with a status equal to that of Great Britain itself, and a full-fledged member of the League of Nations, there is no such person as a Canadian.

If the farthest cause antiquated and obsolete system of census enumeration is called young Canada who have lived in England for centuries would be compelled to be designated as Britishers, and not as anything but English. His Majesty the King, the Prince of Wales and other members of the Royal Family would be recorded as Germans in the United States if our present census system were applied to every human being in the country. Americans. It is the un understandable ignorance of the foreign authorities in this matter which is one of the principal causes in other lands for failing to understand and appreciate the political and international position of Canada today.

Furthermore the existing plan of taking a count unfair to the people of Canada. There are thousands of Canadians, and their children and great-grandchildren, who were born in Canada, and who do not know, and much less care whether generations back their forebears originally hailed from the British Isles, the continent of Europe or the United States, or even from China. That is good enough for the Canadian government.

In some cases a man's great-grandfather may have been Scotch and his great-grandmother French Canadian, and his son may have married a German the female offspring of this latter union may have married a Ukrainian born in Canada but one of whose parents was a Hungarian who in turn had Russian blood. What is the official record of such a Canadian-born man? He himself does not know, and it is doubtful if the average census enumerator can figure it out. The only point on which the enumeration is correct is the fact that the man is born in Canada, and that is the only point on which the enumeration is incorrect, because in the main, he is not a Canadian regardless of the number of these generations of varying racial descent who were born in Canada.

"Canada our Country" must be the keynote of the Diamond Jubilee celebration. That "people Canadians" should be the record disclosed by the census returns, not a conglomerate mixture of peoples. Under the existing system of enumeration it is not at all surprising that so many false statements are being made to the effect that Canada is rapidly becoming a non-English country and that the foreign born population of Canada is increasing three and four per cent while the English born population is decreasing. Canadians must still be classified as Russian or German or Austrian anything and everything but Canadian. It is small wonder that people who do not understand the Canadian situation are misled by the very reverse of true conditions.

Canada's Diamond Jubilee year is a most appropriate time for Parliament to right this injustice to so many of its citizens and to the Dominion as a whole

Fined For Laughing

Display of Mirth Leads to Trouble in German Town

At Sottin, in Germany, laughter is liable to lead to trouble.

A German couple, Herr and Frau Stanner, stopped one of a shop while the latter told her husband a funny story. The husband burst into a hearty guffaw whereupon the policeman rushed to the scene, charged the husband with disturbing the peace, and fined him a dollar on the spot.

This affront so aroused Herr Stanner that he again burst out laughing before the final chuckle had ended he was being led away to the police court. A witness testified that he had not laughed but had "bleated like a sheep."

This remark so tickled the laugh ing husband that he could not keep solemn no longer and enjoyed another hearty laugh. He was fined about $2.50. Still with a smile on his face Stanner handed the clerk $16.00, telling the official to credit him with $5.00 on his next laughs. "Contempt of court," said the Bench, and fined him $12.50.

New Food Agency For South America

W. J. Jackman has been appointed resident representative in the Argentine for the selling agency of the three Western Canadian wheat pools. He will leave for his new field of activity on September 15, and will have his headquarters in Buenos Aires

The appointment is the outcome of a scouting trip that Mr. Jackman made to South America last year for the purpose of studying the grain growing conditions of the wheat trade in that country It has since been decided to the wheat pools to have an agency represented there and while the office will be of a somewhat experimental character for the present, it is expected of the agricultural industry in Canada.

The tour is essentially for the Canadian farmer. Any farmer anywhere in Canada, or anyone vitally interested in agriculture and marketing problems, will be welcome to the development of wider markets for Canadian products. may join the tour and it will make no difference to the leader, whether he returns to that port will be $500 or This rout includes all ocean fares and meals, railway and bus fares in the old land, accommodation at good medium class hotels, meals and ordinary drinks, and sightseeing motor trips while overseas

Farmers Market Tour

An Exceptional Opportunity for Farmers of Western Canada to Visit the Old Land

The British market must ever remain the most desirable outlet for Canadian farm products. As a result of keen competition from other countries, it is vital that the Canadian farmer should become familiar with what this market desires. As very few agriculturally trained observers from this country have had this privilege, many would welcome the opportunity of making an intimate study of marketing conditions at first hand. There has therefore been organized a "Farmers' Marketing Tour" by the Department of Agriculture of the Canadian National Railways. This tour, which will be open to any Canadian farmer, will be of some seven weeks duration, leaving Halifax January 5, next, and a full month spent in the old land, during which important marketing centres in England and Scotland, and some of the farms where famous breeds of livestock have been developed, will be visited, while a visit will be made to Ireland for a study of co-operative marketing in that land of its birth

The tour is organized by Dr. W. J Black, director of colonization, agriculture and natural resources, on the Canadian National Railways, and is being planned to provide the maximum of educational value, combined with all the pleasures of the comfortable ocean passage. The study of conditions abroad by a large group of observers from the farms in Canada should have the practical results in the successful application of the knowledge gained on such a tour is the responsibility of the agricultural industry in Canada.

The cost of the tour from the time it leaves Halifax, Dec. 5th, until the return to that port will be $500 or This rout includes all ocean fares and meals, railway and bus fares in the old land, accommodation at good medium class hotels, meals and ordinary drinks, and sightseeing motor trips while overseas

Gum-Dipping

A Firstone Contribution to Economical Travel

The present country to tire is to not the cheapest road to travel. The gradual increase in the harsh grind of rough country surfaces—but boat, which if roads of by internal friction. Most motorists realize this fact, but also admire the rubber and cause labourers wear tire failures.

Firestone chemists and engineers know that if they could find a way to eliminate this destructive heat and fric tion, the mileage giving qualities of tires would be greatly increased. Such a method was found and called "Gum-Dipping."

The Gum-Dipping process is one of Firestone's contributions to economical travel in modern motor transportation every fiber of every cord, both rubber, reducing friction and heat and the same time binding the cords together by a strong layer of rubber. Gum-dipping greater strength and flexibility to the tire.

Firestone dealers everywhere—familiar with Gum-Dipping and its advantages—will gladly explain how thousands of extra miles are built into Firestone tires by this exclusive method. Take advantage of Gum-Dipping process before the present low prices advance.

Settlers From Omaha Find Promised Land Here

Wonderful Headway Made in Three Months

Mark E. Gibson, who came here last spring with his wife from Omaha, Nebraska, left yesterday with Mrs. Gibson for a visit to his former home where they will tell their friends that they have found the promised land a Vermilion. At best the Standard takes it for granted, following a conversation with Mr. Gibson, that his old home folks are going to listen to a pretty good report of what has been accomplished in the brief period of little over three months by real industry out here.

Mr Gibson bought the West half of Sec. 27-50-16. With (320 acres) from the C. P. R., being raw prairie land, broke 140 acres last year and a little south of Vermilion. He arrived on the place (food Friday, March 25th and that very next day until July 1st in that time he has broken 154 acres of sod of which 35 acres are needed to carry the balance being plowed in preparation for wheat next year; built a house, dug a well, fenced and cross-fenced the entire half-section and planted 1 acre of potatoes; besides he has set out 150 strawberry plants without a loss to date and has a fine garden. Finally, Mrs. Gibson has been successful in raising 26 chicks from 4 hens. This is a splendid showing and indicates what can be accomplished in a very brief period by well directed efforts. The Standard has no doubt but that the Gibson's endeavors will meet with success.

At present two 3-horse outfits are still engaged in breaking on this farm and Mr. Gibson stated that the weather conditions prevailing here since his arrival have been ideal, and both he and his wife are more than delighted with farming prospects in the Vermilion district.

Voting in connection with the 12th Fabin Municipal Hospital District will take place on Saturday, August 20th from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. W. J. Wolfe of Hill Point is the returning officer. All the advertising required in connection with the formation of the hospital district and the taking of the vote is being done in the Standard newspaper and the necessary printing in the job department.

Boulder is Half Silver

MONTREAL, July 20. Kitchkenat exists in the neighborhood of Larder, Ontario, in the North Bay district, owing to the discovery there of a boulder weighing over 300 pounds, which is half native silver, according to John A. The boulder, which is egg-shaped, is about 20 inches by 28 and its value is placed by Mr. Dresser at between $1,000 and $1,500, conservatively $1,200.

The find was made by Modesty Beauparant on his farm.

The Carpet-Bagger
vs.
The Local Printer

Many business men, when considering the cost of any particular job of printing look only at the small sum they may be able to save at the time on any order. They fail to ask themselves what the carpet-bagger leaves with them throughout the year in the way of business as compared with the local publisher and members of his staff. He also seems to forget that if he and his fellow business men would get more of their printing requirements done in their home town the publisher might be able to employ additional help, which would still further swell the amount of money to be spent in the home town.

Always remember! A dollar spent with a firm in a distant town is gone forever so far as its service to the community is concerned. A dollar spent with other firms in the home town stays there and performs many good services in its own community. Get your printing requirements from

THE GOOD WILL HABIT

The habit of holding the good-will attitude of mind towards everybody has a powerful influence upon the character. It lifts the mind above petty jealousies and meanness; it enriches and enlarges the whole life. Wherever we meet people, no matter if they are strangers, we feel a certain kinship with and friendliness for them, if we have formed the good-will habit.

The good-will habit makes us feel more sympathy for everybody, and if we radiate this helpful feeling, others will reflect it back to us. On the other hand, if we go through life with a cold, selfish, means' attitude caring only for our own, always looking for the main chance, only thinking of what will further our own interests, our own comforts, totally indifferent to others, this attitude will after a while harden the feelings and the affections, and we shall become dry, unsympathetic, and uninteresting.

When the kind affections have chained to selfishness one life is no more happy.

When our good-will habit has chained to coldness, you have no more friends, the world is better but it has no room for you. It moves along while you stand still. You feel as a petrified object, hard—than steel and colder than ice; bad you remained in the good will habit you could have been happy with friends in abundance, the good-will of others, and life to you would be a pleasant dream.

FIFTH FORTNIGHTLY CROP REPORT

Issued by Department of Agriculture, Government of Alberta.

July 16, 1927

Crops throughout the province have continued to make rapid growth during the past two weeks and conditions generally are regarded as satisfactory according to reports covering the Department of Agriculture. Precipitation in most districts has been sufficient to put the soil in better condition on this regard than it has been at this season for a number of years, and only in very low lying fields has the abundance of moisture done any damage to the growing crop.

Early wheat is heading rapidly in many sections of the province It is estimated that fully twenty-five per cent of fallow is on hand and for all showing in many fields of oats and barley. Exceptionally heavy stands of all grains are reported throughout the province, crops having stooled well under ideal moisture conditions

Damage from hail has not been severe so far has not been heavy Local storms in a number of districts however, left their mark but have, from the other have not been of a widespread nature Insect damage appears to be very slight this season In some districts wireworms have injured the crop to a slight extent, but not sufficiently to reduce the average reduction in the yield over the entire province.

In the southern and south-eastern sections of the province the crop continues to give excellent promise. Intermittent showers are carrying forward crops and beets along well, and so far very little irrigation has been necessary A splendid crop of alfalfa is reported from the first cutting, thirty to forty per cent being already in the stack. A good yield of fall rye for feeding or cutting and all hay crops are reported to be heavier than usual.

Reports are very encouraging from the Grande Prairie and Peace River districts. Crops have made rapid growth, a good deal of early wheat is in head and harvest general, are very optimistic as to the outlook for the season In the northern and central sections of the province summer fallowing is practically completed and a great deal of new land is being cleared and broken in readiness for the 1928 crop

THE PRACTICAL IMPORTANCE OF PURITY OF VARIETY

(Experimental Farms Note)

The importance of using seed which is pure as to variety is recognized to a considerable extent by the purpose for which the resulting crop is intended. If the crop in question is to be used for feeding purposes especially on the home farm, a slight mixture or even a considerable mixture of other kinds or varieties may not be a serious matter So long as these varieties or kinds mature with the main crop and possess high feeding merits and quality. There are a number of varieties on the market which do not differ widely in regard to these matters and which will, therefore, not be particularly objectionable if mixed to some extent with the main crop. On the other hand it is a risky business to continue the use of seed which is not at least relatively pure In the first place most districts are partially adapted to certain varieties which varieties one year with another are likely to yield better returns than are others. To allow an admixture of varieties which are of a lower order is to run the risk of reducing the value of the crop.

Even ripening in a crop of grain is one thing which practical men recognize to be a matter of very considerable importance Where seed crops are concerned, any other variety which may ripen at the same time as the kind of seed desired is liable to be harvested with it, and as an unfortunate consequence of the fact that mixed crops have to be threshed such a condition can result in a reduction in the quality of the seed crop

Where impure varieties are used for any considerable length of time, an undesirable types included in the mixtures may increase in proportion to the better types for various reasons. They may, for instance, possess a little later than the normal, ripening and thus cause the harvesting operations to be delayed until they become sufficiently well matured. By that time the better type may be dead ripe and may shell out considerably in the handling.

In the case of wheat sown for milling purposes, purity of variety is particularly important as in this case unfavorable or ripening has a direct bearing upon the commercial grade. Thus where there is a difference of even a few days in the date at maturity of different types in the wheat field the later types may be sufficiently prominent in the sample to cause a reduction of at least one grade The practical importance of purity of variety is coming to be much more widely recognized than it once was, although there is still plenty of evidence that it does not receive the attention that it should, by a considerable percentage of grain growers. Absolute purity, of course, is difficult to maintain on an extensive scale, but if an honest effort be made to use seed which is known to be at least relatively pure, very considerable losses may be avoided

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

H R H the Prince of Wales will visit Vancouver and Victoria late, August 10

The population of Edmonton, as shown by the official city census figures made public today is 67,643 an increase of 1,920 over the Dominion Government totals of last year

An increase in wages and adjustment of working rules is sought by Canadian National telegraph employees, who started negotiations with the management through the International Order of Railway Telegraphers.

The New York Herald Tribune says that Count H. Rex Lewis, former Premier of the Lafayette Republic in the late World War and more recently a member of the peace delegation, will be "still active at the age of 70." Where and when he will attempt a flight the Tribune says it does not know, but it is understood he hopes to make it September 1.

Is it possible that Australia's 1921 rise of the golden crop will be followed by a like rise in the golden egg? There is a report from Australia that a hen has laid a huge egg in Mudgee, Australia, and according to the Mudgee Guardian the egg measures 8 inches in circumference and weighs 2 pounds 10 ounces. The hen is the property of Mrs. Matthews, who lives at Mudgee, and the egg is now on view at the office of the Guardian.

Weird Trip On Mountains

Records of Mountain Climbing in District Near Jasper

Three first ascents of peaks in the 11,000 foot class and the opening up of a new route to one of the 12,000 foot class peaks of the great Columbia range, all accomplished in 80 hours of arduous climbing, much of it done at night, under dangerous fog and snow conditions and bitter cold, using lantern and flashlight to guide them, is the record set up by Alfred J. Gerhardt, jr., and guide Palmer, members of the American scientific party which will explore the Columbia ice fields, head of the mountain, this summer.

Word of the success of the arduous exploits was sent to Jasper by runner, from the edge of the Columbia ice field, as the party neared base, planning a new route home for the return of this pair is unknown as yet.

Mr. Gerhardt and Mr. Palmer made the study of comets was rendered infinitely more simple than it had been previous to his time. There still remains the question as to how they came to travel within the limits of our solar system, remain certain length of time, and then pass on into space, never to return. This is a question that may be answered, but what this significance may be is a universe governed by immortals laws. Scientists have yet to obtain sufficient knowledge to fully govern the bodies, for they seem sometimes to flout those laws already known.

Wheat Pool Agency For South America

Western Canadian Wheat Pools Will Establish Selling Agency in The Argentine

W J Jackman has been appointed resident representative in the Argentine for the selling agency of the three Western Canadian wheat pools He will leave for his new field of activity early in September and has his headquarters in Buenos Aires

The appointment is the outcome of a scouting trip that Mr Jackman made to south America last year for the purpose of inquiring into the wheat and wool loss of the wheat trade in that country It has since been decided to open a pool office permanently represented there and while the office will be of a somewhat experimental character it is hoped to investigate it a thorough trial, in expectation of the two countries coming into fairly close relations as trade producers and exporters of wheat.

Canada Rich in Minerals

Canada now possesses some of the greatest mineral deposits in the world. These include the wonderful Creighton mine, the richest nickel deposit known, and the Frood, in Ontario the Flin Flon in Manitoba, with ore reserves approaching $700,000,000; the Sullivan, the greatest lead mine in the world yet uncovered; and the new galena discovery on the Ingenika River, Northeastern British Columbia, to say nothing of the Kerr Lake mine in Quebec, which carries copper values higher than any others so far found.

Canada's trade with the Orient is steadily increasing, nearly doubling in four years.

Explanations and Comments

I. The Philistine Peril and Goliath's Challenge, verses 1-11.—The armies of the Israelites and of the Philistines were encamped on opposite heights of the Valley of Elah. Every morning and evening for forty days a Philistine giant named Goliath had stood forth and challenged the Israelites to settle the matter by single combat, saying: "I defy the armies of Israel, give me a man that we may fight together. If he is able to fight with me, and kill me,—then will we be your servants; but if I prevail and kill him, then shall ye be our servants and serve us." The Israelites were utterly dismayed. When they saw Goliath approaching, they fled.

Goliath boasted of just the things in which men are prone to boast in day. He had physical strength. His height was six cubits and a span, the latter had done all they could for him, and he was a fine type of military perfection He had splendid military equipment; a coat of mail, a helmet of mail and a spear like a weaver's beam. Surely if that material equipment determines combat, the giant Israelites would be destroyed. Goliath stood at the head of Philistine hosts

First Regular Train On C.P.R. Line

Hailed By Villagers At All Points—Progressive Settlements Seen

CLANDONALD, Alta., July 16. — The first regular train over the Canadian Pacific Railway's new line, Lloydminster to Clandonald, arrived on time. The train was handled by engineer Wm. McIntee, fireman Fenwick, conductor Anderson, and brakemen Godfrey and Dallas.

Supt. J. M. McKay had on his guests acting mayor Wallis of Lloydminster; H. B. Hall, representing the Lloydminster board of trade, and J. Meadows, secretary of Wellington municipality. Col. J. G. Reid, engineer in charge of construction, and J. V. McNabb, division engineer, accompanied the train.

DOTTED WITH LAKES

On leaving Lloydminster the railway passes through a park-like country dotted with small lakes and bluffs. The country through which the railway passes is well settled, and has farm buildings, livestock, etc., indicative prosperity. The amount of new land being brought under cultivation is indicative of the country being rapidly settled and the desire of farmers settling to get all of their land under cultivation. Some of the very large fields were splendidly cultivated, and, considering the wet season, they are remarkably free from weeds.

The crops are well advanced and very little behind former years. Some fine herds of cattle were noticed en route. The first passenger to board the train was Mrs. Curtis, who got on at Lloydminster and left at Clandonald, which is the second town west of Lloydminster and already boasts quite a number of stores and buildings, lumber yard, and four elevators. The next stop was at a very thriving town called Marwayne, where the people turned out en masse to greet their first train. The large number of buildings indicates quite a well settled district. It has already three elevators, 2 lumber yards, hotel, and a good assortment of stores, etc.

ENGINE READY

After Marwayne the line passed through splendid scenery of the Vermilion Valley, and reached Vermilion at 4:30 p.m. Here the engine was taken off the train and proceeded through

The Magnitude and Variety Of Work Being Carried On To Assist Scientific Farming

The personnel of the Central Experimental Farms at Ottawa includes fourteen experts, and the list of their various fields of work includes Chemistry, Field Husbandry, Animal Husbandry, Horticulture, Cereals Botany, Agricultural Bacteriology, Apiaries, Agrostology, Poultry, Illustrations, Tobacco Growing, Economic Fibre Production, Illustration work and Dairy Division and Publicity. There are branch farms and stations in each province and also in Yukon Territory and in the North West Territories. Be it noted that, in Prince Edward Island, there is an Experimental Fox Ranch.

Some three or four years ago Dr J. H. Grisdale of the Department of Agriculture read a paper before the Conference on Scientific and Industrial Research which was a sort of summary of the activities of his department. Speaking of Field Husbandry, he pointed out that they are carrying on experiments in rotations for the purpose of discovering the most satisfactory sequence of crops on their districts—had been at work and stir y different crop rotations under experiment; on the same farms they were conducting cultural experiments with a view to determining the best methods of cultivating the soil combined with the most economical production. Merely as an example of what this means he quoted the fact that at one farm they had a short twenty acres laid off into plots of one-tortieth of an acre each

Fertility experiments are also carried on, the object being to learn on a field scale what applications of manure or fertilizers give the most profitable results. Then there are cottage experiments to find out what crops can be most successfully grown for exchange in various parts of Canada. The matter of drainage effects one of the most difficult problems connected with agriculture, and its investigations are being carried on from one end of the Dominion to the other. The irrigable areas are comparatively limited, but they are all of very great importance indeed, including, as they do, some of the most fertile districts of the country.

There are also land clearing experiments, especially desirable since the opening of the transcontinental line from Quebec to Winnipeg has added a vast area to our available agricultural land.

A few of the activities engaged in by the cereal division are as follows: Production of superior varieties of cereals, wheat, oats, barley, and also of all varieties of cereals; isolation of superior varieties by selection; milling and baking tests; crossing and hybridization of peas, beans, and cereals, studies in reaction and fermentation; investigating and adapting new machinery for any work connected with the division.

Under the heading of Health, the Health of Animals Branch and the Experimental Farms Branch are co-operating with a view to studying the best methods of eradicating tuberculosis and preventing or controlling contagious abortion, etc. Under Heading, a study is being made of matters affecting ventilation, removing of humidity, the general comfort of the animals and of the men looking after them. Under Botany is included forest pathology (eg investigating the history of white pine blister), investigations into rust of cereals and rust diseases of grain. But a mere glance at the labours of the Botany of the Department of Agriculture will give some idea of the magnitude and variety of work being carried on in connection with scientific farming

Winter Egg Production

865 Eggs Per Month From 12 White Leghorn Pullets

The contention that egg production is not possible during the winter months has been time and again disproven. The following achievement of a poultryman in Northern Alberta will further disprove the statement. During the winter season of 1925-26 a flock of 12 White Leghorn pullets were kept in a house 12 feet wide by 16 feet long. The pullets commenced laying on October 1, when they were five months old. In the five months from November to March inclusive they produced a total of 4,325 eggs or an average of 865 eggs per month. This makes an average production of 72 per cent. The following winter the same pullets were kept and with the same proper nutrition a flock of 12 White Leghorn pullets which were five months old on October 1st, for the months of November to March inclusive they produced a total of 3,720 eggs an average of 1,040 per month or a production of 86.5 per cent. The reason for the increased percentage production can directly be attributed to the pullets being hatched two weeks later than those in the first the previous year.

Instinctive Mind Affects Health

Scientists Believe Self-Suggestion Has Place In Medical Treatment

Though some connection between mind and body has for centuries been accepted, it is only of recent years that scientists have attempted to trace its workings. Roughly, the theory is that behind the activities of workaday thinking mind of man lies a hidden second "self" concerned only with impulses and instincts and that this instinctive mind exercises an enormous effect upon our bodies without our reason knowing it.

Consequently, if anyone meets you with a remark of "how ill you look," you are apt to feel worse almost immediately, without quite knowing why!

The self-suggestion is now beginning to find a place in medical treatment.

Solving Rust Problem

Important Discovery Has Been Made, It is Reported

A discovery "of great scientific importance" in connection with wheat rust has been made in the Dominion rust laboratory, according to an announcement made here by Dr. H. H. Tory, chairman of the National Research Council. No inclination is given as to the nature of the discovery, but "an early announcement may be expected," according to Dr. Tory.

The laboratories of the department of agriculture in Winnipeg and of the three prairie universities are co-operating closely with the laboratory. It is stated. This much information has been given out as a result of the meeting of the National Research Council.

The council's committee on grain research is to undertake a study of the effect of moisture and various methods of drying upon the value of wheat for milling purposes. All several places in the West fields are being prepared for this investigation and portions of wheat will be shipped to the fields for extended periods to determine the exact results of different weather conditions. An effort is to be made to solve this problem in the shortest possible time.

Secures Additional Moisture

Importance of Shelter Belts on Prairie Farms Needs to Be Understood

The planting of shelter-belts around farms on the Canadian prairies has given more than a little impetus to the agricultural standpoint. The water-conserving power of the soil has been increased, better crops have resulted, and the protection from extremes of temperature and wind movement has enabled the full production of the better fruits in many localities. Of the particular importance is the addition to moisture secured through the formation of snowdrifts which melt gradually in the spring, providing water after ploughing open areas have largely dried up.

Fish Canning Plant

Establishment of a fish canning plant on Lake Winnipeg this summer is assured, and final arrangements as to location alone remain to be settled before construction is begun, according to J. B. Hamilton, secretary of the Industrial Development Board. J. D. Fisher is the promoter of the scheme. He proposes building two plants, one near the Berens River for summer operation and packing, and the other south for the winter season. The company will can whitefish, pickerel, tullibee and trout.

She—Surely! That's mother.

Radio Plays Important Part In Maintaining Communication With Canada and Old Country

Will Work Together On Immigration

Hon. Robert Forke Predicts Closer Co-operation of Provinces

Development of Canada's immigration policy through closer co-operation with the governments of the various provinces was indicated by Hon. Robert Forke, Canadian Minister of Immigration and Colonization, who is in England in connection with immigration to the Dominion when the Canadian Press asked him what would be the probable result of his investigations here along migration lines.

"I have been very much impressed by what I have seen at some of the leading farms of the British Government where interesting sections relative to agricultural instruction in the practical work on a farm," Mr. Forke said. "These men are genuinely interested in learning about farm work and I would have no hesitation about employing them myself as a Canadian farmer."

Mr. Forke has left London on a tour of the various colonization agencies in Great Britain. He will also make a short tour on the continent and probably will visit the Scandinavian countries.

Canada's first use of radio was the establishment of radiotelegraph communication between stations at Belle Isle and Chatham Bay on the mainland on the north side of the Belle Isle Straits as a substitute for a submarine cable which was continually being interrupted by icebergs.

The stations were built by the Marconi Company. Power for the transmitter was obtained from dry batteries, and the receiving gear consists of the most primitive type, using Marconi's coherer of metal filings in a glass tube as the detector.

Since 1901, when 50 miles was a long range for a station, progress in radio has been steady. In 1902, Sir Wilfrid Laurier invited Mr. Marconi to Ottawa, and as a result a transcontinental wireless service between Canada and Great Britain was established. This service was inaugurated in 1907, and has been maintained ever since that date.

The appearance of the Glace Bay transmitting station was, of course, materially altered and improved from time to time, and last year this station was entirely rebuilt and service transferred to a Boom Station, the latest development in radio, located at Drummondville.

At the time of Confederation, a trip across the Atlantic was still an ordeal, lasting from 10 days to three weeks. Today the liners run with a regularity approaching that of a railroad train, and the passenger, six days before the ship is due to arrive at Montreal, by means of long distance radio, can be given a report with both fair a certain hour on a certain day, as a matter of routine. As the first transatlantic radio station of the Canadian coast, she comes within the range of the chain of "aid to navigation" stations which will be in a fog she verifies her position by means of the Direction Finders; if she has a sick passenger, the surgeon, she does so by means of the radio time signals. Every twelve hours the radio officer gets the weather report, the weather forecasts for the area in which the ship is steaming; and he is also able to receive a report of any ice which may be in his track.

The Great Lakes and East Coast ships have their radio telegram consists of an intercommunicating chain of 26 stations and 6 beacons, extending from Belle Isle through the Gulf of the Great Lakes to the Atlantic, and on the Pacific Coast a chain of 14 stations extending from Victoria to Alaska.

The Dominion, a country of vast distances, has found in radio a means to fulfill the fullest utilization of broadcasting, and there are today about 400,000 receiving sets in operation.

Canada has today some 31 broadcasting stations, practically all of which are operated by private or commercial interests for indirect advertising or publicity in one form or other

The Province of Manitoba has established a broadcasting station and it is understood that other provinces are considering the adoption of a similar policy. Radio is particularly suitable to fully appreciative of the utility of broadcasting to this Dominion and will use that to the fullest extent in the lines which will give the best possible result to our listening public

The Ungallant Conductor

One of these women who try to appear good at taking that they are ashamed of having their children get big and give them away got on the street car with little Billy and gave the conductor full fare for herself and half fare for the child

"Please, conductor," said the rob-ductor, "but your daughter seems to be more than twelve years old."

The woman put on a very severe look and exclaimed: Why, conductor, you would never take me to be the mother of a girl that age, would you?"

The conductor drew back and looked them both over carefully and then said: "Well, I don't tell me that you are her grandmother!"

"Why so depressed, Brown?"

"The horrible cost of living, old chap. Constant bills for materials, paint, clothing—"

"What, your house?"

"No, daughters."

Brown—"Yes, I'm saving up to buy a car."

Smith—"When are you going to get it?"

Brown—Get it? We've had it for eighteen months now."

Business Planist: Of course I take my own piano with me wherever I go.

Philistine: Ha! Makes you wish you'd learned to play the flute, what?

Anglers' Harvest Assured

A Promising Pool

The 1926 harvest for anglers in the Canadian Rockies is just hatching out at the Banff Hatchery. The busy observing public may see the young fish in their native waters when shipped by the Canadian Pacific Express from Wolverine last February.

The cars are shipped in addition to the "eye-stage" before being shipped, were packed in shallow chesterfish trays and kept moist. The railroad has a supply of ice to provide continued moisture. Several weeks after they had been received at the hatchery the young trout broke their shells and began another period of their growth, which lasted some weeks longer. During this time they obtained their supply of food from a sack attached to their undersides, and when this had been used up, the little fish were ready to be placed in the waters which they were to inhabit.

The streams in which these young trout will be placed have been planted with young trout previously, the first planting being done in 1924. The former planting were Loch Leven trout and the results were more than satisfactory. It is expected that the marvellous growth of the 1926 planting will be exceeded by the one now hatching, for the crossing of the two species has developed a trout larger than the Loch Leven.

Farmers May Surprise Professor

Take Advantage of Travelling Libraries to Gain Knowledge

An erudite professor from any one of the well known universities visiting the rural districts of the Canadian prairies would probably find in the most remote sections farmers from other residents who could discuss with him informatively any subject from the merits of the latest boat yet to the most recent issue on the Einstein theory. Such is the educational advantage provided by the travelling libraries maintained by each of the Provincial Governments in the Western provinces.

These libraries began to function about thirteen years ago. Gleven-teen years ago, Dr. Weaver, now provincial librarian, realized that life without books is a somewhat barren experience. Hon. Walter Scott, a farmer premier of Saskatchewan, who was Premier of Saskatchewan in 1914, was one of the pioneers of the venture. He induced the Provincial Legislature to vote a moderate amount of money to buy a few hundred books to start the travelling libraries. Several specially made boxes were made, each containing 50 selected books. These libraries were sent to remote settlements in charge of a voluntary librarian. The money must has grown to be immensely popular. Last year 1,201 travelling libraries containing 60,500 volumes were distributed throughout Saskatchewan and the distribution in the other Western provinces was proportionately as large.

For the benefit of the individual student who desires to make a special study of this travelling library service, biography ,philosophy, and so on there is what is known as the open shelf library. The books in the travelling libraries and in the open shelf library always contain a percentage of the best books on the ever-expanding magazines and newspapers

So well are the books cared for that the travelling library service and the Western Canada, which was made up of standard works, is still going the rounds

Some Never Learn

It is wonderful how people who have driven their cars 500 miles or over will not require an examination before they receive another driver's license. Yet some of those who are most reckless on the highways have driven less than that distance and have still a great deal to learn.

U.S. Settlers For Canada

Michigan Was Largest Contributor of Candidates Last Year

Canadian statistics have been figuring on the immigration into the Dominion from the United States, and have produced some interesting propositions. Michigan was the largest contributor of candidates for Canadian citizenship in 1926. This state sent 2,461 of its people across the line with intention to settle permanently. New York and Washington were tied for second place with 1,427 each Minnesota stood next, contributing 1,075 with Dakota next, 1,279, California 1,202 and Massachusetts, 963, in the order named

Canadian Grown Tobacco

Growers From Kentucky Are Moving to Ontario

"The American tobacco grower problem has been a very good thing where growing and marketing conditions are better," states Hebart J. Pierson, chief field man for the Imperial Tobacco Co., of St. Thomas. "They naturally look to Canada where the tobacco is in his infancy. Here the soil has not been depleted, and where the British preferential tariff makes growing profitable. The migration from Kentucky and the tobacco growing states has only begun."

Any neighbor would tell you that Dr. St. John had built this house when he got married, and if you had time to walk you might also learn that the doctor would not have an office in his house because his young wife was not strong and the carpet or anything else annoyed him. Any one of these reasons, or all of them, would be accepted as being quite sufficient, but the real reason was that Dr. St. John had no use for the "parlor" idea. He had seen too much of it in the days of his early practice, when he had driven many a time to wait, just such a little time, and had looked at the awful horsehair furniture, the gilt-framed photographs, the hideous wax flowers under glass shades, and the whatnot filled with shells and china ornaments, and had vowed that he would never have a room in his house that was not a comfortable living room, where visiting patients sat in whether theirs reading the selected magazines, and the wicker table while they waited

The doctor's wife had her own carpet in her room, and all the time the day or night lasted.

When Hetzel had been with Miss Abbie three months the doctor came to the conclusion that he was getting along fine. Hetzel was attentive, obliging, and he was always on hand when he was wanted. He was also quick to learn, and he had a way with him that made him popular with the patients. Miss Abbie had also known each other in Cannington, where they had lived on the same street, went to the same Epworth League, and were friends in the same sense as those are who have lived side by side for years.

The doctor sat in Miss Abbie's old dark rocker and stated his case.

"You have a young Finn girl with you, Abbie," he said

Miss Abbie nodded, there was no denying it. At that moment the girl was scrubbing the back verandah and singing at the top of her voice a song of her own country.

"She's a bright girl," continued the doctor, "and attractive." Miss Abbie smiled and nodded again. "She'll be more taking in England. You could her to sightseeing. My wife needs more interest in life; she gets low spirited and upset, though I cannot see the reason. If you would just ask her she might consider teaching your girl for an hour every second day or so. Of course, I'll pay for it—indeed, such a shock of her as the one she gave me—"

"She could do it," said Miss Abbie apologetically, "I cannot keep work ahead of her She wanted me to let her take in washing, at least enough to keep her busy, and mornings the house seem in such a little time, and she tells me she loves it. I suppose it is time to dig the garden but she coaxed me so that I gave in."

The doctor's face was wistful. "Abbie," he said, "if you would follow the indication of the gold band which pointed up Broadway he would be here for some time yet. I could, solidly brick, an abbreviated town and empty belfry, deep set windows, and a fine fanlight over the door. A network of wire that swayed in the winds and kept the vines in a state of unbalance of the uncertainty of life."

Over the side door one evening, though it was yet early in April there were signs of spring in the length of the daylight. At first it looked as if the season for it forgotten to put in an appearance, but after a few days of snow and rain, the sun came out in glowing power. A man sprang out lightly and opened the door for her.

"Why, Abbie—darling," she said, "you look as if you had been out all winter! Well, here's my girl, Hetzel, and I'll leave her in your care and go and get myself a breath of fresh air."

He threw open the door of the office, which had been Miss Abbie's parlor, and ushered her in. The room was as neat as wax, and the table was covered with books and magazines, and the whatnot had disappeared. Miss Abbie looked about her with a sense of pleasure. She had always been fond of reading, and had missed her books and papers.

"Why, you've made a study room of it!" she said. "I'm glad you have, for I'm sure you'll be more comfortable."

"I'm sure I shall," he said, "and I'm glad you like it. Now, I'll leave you to get acquainted with Hetzel, and I'll be back in an hour or so."

Across the street the perfect sun shone dazed in the bright sunshine. Its windows sparkled, its flowers bloomed in the front yard, and a network of wire that swayed in the winds and kept the vines in a state of unbalance of the uncertainty of life.

Hetzel was left alone with Miss Abbie, but her own work was waiting, and her hands were busy. She was a born housekeeper, and the order of all things was a delight to her eyes. Hetzel sat at the table, and looked at the books and papers. Some of them were medical, and he looked at them with interest. Miss Abbie was sewing, and she looked at him with interest. He was a handsome young fellow, with a fine head of hair, and a pair of dark eyes that were full of fire and intelligence. He was a good deal of a puzzle to Miss Abbie. He was a Finn, and yet he was not like any Finn she had ever known. He was quiet, and yet he was not shy. He was a servant, and yet he was not servile. He was a student, and yet he was not a prig. He was a mystery, and Miss Abbie was a woman.

"Do you like reading?" she asked.

"Yes," he answered, "I like it very much more than when I was quite young. I was not much interested in books then."

Miss Abbie's lack of matrimonial experience kept her dumb, but she knew her old friend was suffering and knew spoke her sympathy

"I've let the books and the world go by," she said, "and I've been too busy and too much interested in the affairs of my own little corner. I've been too busy and too much interested in the affairs of my own little corner. I've been too busy and too much interested in the affairs of my own little corner.

V.S.A. Re-union Great Success

By far the most successful re-union since the re-opening of the school was held on Tuesday, July 19th when some 75 ex-students and their friends gathered at the V. S. A. to renew acquaintances and enjoy a full afternoon and evening's program arranged by the Alumni Association.

Favored by fair weather, several parties motored some distance across country by car in order to be present. Neighboring towns were well represented. Many of the students who had never visited the school during the summer months expressed delight at the beauty of the grounds and some little time was spent viewing the flower beds, lawns and plots which were at their best.

A business meeting called at 2 p.m. was well attended. President B. J. Whitbread opened the meeting by giving a report of the work carried on by the association during the past year. He urged that a full measure of support be given the Experimental Union and the Library both of which looked to ex-students for encouragement. In closing he strongly recommended that the use of the association be raised to one dollar from the 1927 This would be pointed out, make possible the issuing of some seven or eight News Letters each year. Following the reading of the minutes of the last meeting by Secy-Treasurer B. Hawley Pethual Vermilion, and the chair for the reselection of officers. He expressed great pleasure at find that no change existed in personnel and went on to tell some of the things the School hoped to accomplish in the coming years. The following officers were elected for 1928

President — B. J. Whitbread
1st Vice-President — Miss E. Cameron
Executive — Miss Z. Wenzel, W. Mead, Al. VanderMolen

At 6 p.m. everyone gathered on the lawn where the ladies on the staff had prepared some much appreciated refreshments.

A big feature of the day was the ball game so called to want to a better name. The staff had challenged the "world" to a seven innings game of Soft Ball. How at last, though the "world" was an opportunity to show what they were made of. What the staff lacked in experience was made up in by their enthusiasm, but enthusiasm alone could not win the game and supply enough runs, and it was the latter items the others had. Later, however, the game was brought to a close by the arrival of the 8:30 train and which lasted until train time.

Among those present at the Reunion were: — Miss Ethel Cameron, Edmonton; Miss Lorraine Mitchell, Mrs. Vermilion; Miss A. Cameron, Vermilion; Misses Irene and M. Tabor, Vermilion; Mrs. H. Dillard, Mrs. H. F. Chapman, Amisk; Miss H. Wenzel, Lloydminster; W. Mead, Vermilion; Miss Rosalind Reed, Vermilion; H. Mathison, Riverton; B. Hawley Vermilion; W. Mathison, Riverton; Miss K. Burton, Islay; Miss M. Thomas, Lloydminster; Miss H. Holmson, Riverton; W. L. McCrae, J. S. McCrae, Vermilion; M. Russell, Edmonton; H. C. Ritter, Vermilion; G. Garland, Vermilion; D. Weaver, I. DEATH OF MRS. REED

Mrs. Reed, wife of Mr. Wm. Reed, second mistake in the Vermilion Hotel, passed away at her home on Tuesday night. She had been ailing for some time following an operation for appendicitis, and heart failure being the immediate cause of death. Mrs. Reed's many friends will be grieved to learn of her demise. Funeral services will be held on Sunday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, from the Anglican Church, Mr. J. Wardle having charge of the arrangements.

Goats Important In Canadian Dairying

Increase in Registration of Pure Bred Stock is Shown

Great raising is year by year becoming a more important branch of agriculture in Canada and though British Columbia still leads the Dominion in the breeding of milk goats in the past year records to credited on the records of the Canadian Goat Society with the greatest increase in registrations of pure bred stock. Goat's milk finds a ready sale at from 15 to 25 cents per quart in Vancouver and Victoria. According to the Natural Resources Intelligence Service of the Department of the Interior at Ottawa, the milk goat may be raised in any part of Canada and it produces a milk some milk for the household of moderate cost, while for revenue goats milk has been recognized as an ideal food for infants and invalids. Many hospitals and sanatoriums keep goats to supply milk for their sick. Goats are naturally attended by children they are an important factor in satisfying the dairy industries of the world. It is interesting to note that the total goat population of 2,000,000 Great Britain, 1,000,000 Mexico 1,000,000 each Germany 2,500,000, the United States and Spain 5,000,000 each and in Italy 6,000,000.

There are a variety of breeds of goats some of which like the lagoon are raised for their meat and also of little use for milk. The principal breeds of milk goats are the Swiss breeds Togg-enburg Saanen Alpine and the Nubian Nubian and the Mediterranean breeds a party which are more concentrated on in Canada are the Togg-enburg Saanen and Nubian. The first two breeds a party which are mostly concentrated on here and their numbers of those animals now at Ottawa a portion of which are to be sold by auction on date Lindsay Williamson of the Canadian Goat Society has recently stated the Canadian breeders may now supply all the high class stock required. The rest of these are both hardy and poor milk producing goats and the interesting purchaser of a milk goat must look for one of proved milking strain.

The animals are fed and managed and a young kid under six care and quiet like a variety of food and being a natural brows so does well in fresh and pasture. It follows generally all kinds of brush flower young trees and of hardwood grasses weeds and wild berries, etc. It may be fed on grain in summer but if liberally fed on this way the milk flavor is spoiled. Goats are hardy in the feeding and it is now necessary to give the milking does good food and properly balanced rations with the dairy cow. The ordinary ration is an average feed in feeding for milking is hay oats peas and turnips mangels parsnips table scraps are also good and grain may be supplied in the form of rolled crushed corn or cornmeal bran, gluten etc. It should be fed with an idea of producing the best results. An inexpensive grain mixture may be: Bran 25 lbs; crushed oats 25 lbs; cornmeal 25 lbs; oil meal 25 lbs. Feed 1 lb. of grain to every 3 lbs. of milk given. In addition to grain the milking doe should have all the hay she will eat and in addition to the above she should have a feed of roots or silage. Goats are healthy animals and if properly housed and fed will keep in good condition with little attention. Regular exercise is necessary for the health of the animal and this can be given by turning them out in the yard for a few hours each day. Goats are subject to few diseases and ailments and are practically free from parasites. Tuberculosis is the most serious disease to which they are subject and this is transmitted to man through the milk. Tuberculosis is not prevalent among goats in Canada and can be entirely eradicated by the use of the tuberculin test and the destruction of all animals which react to the test. Size of British Empire

Colonies Very and Exact Area Is Not Known

How large is the British Empire? Seemingly even experts cannot agree, for it is rarely that two colonies more books give the same area.

The problem does not seem difficult to solve official figures exist for each part of the Empire, arrived at presumably, by careful geographical surveys. To add up the total area of the Empire's boundaries remains no insurmountable mathematical task, even for the arithmetically distrait. Yet, the twenty-first power the same.

Take the area of the British Isles for instance (round), for example The Statesman's Year Book, which ought to know, gives it as 89,041 square miles, but Whitaker's Almanack, which may be splitting hairs, insists it is six miles larger, and 625 square miles of land is worth a lot of quarrel over. Then comes carbon sphere. However, in this case the World Almanac outbeam a de cuc-tahoma the British Almanack with 89,041.

The size of India is far more self-explanatory. Year Book puts the area of British India (by "area" it has 232 square miles and that of the States is backed by the would Almanac But Whitaker's Almanack with magnificent largeness of it, very rough guess declares the area at 1,800,000 square miles as it the odd 24,645 square miles were a mere drop in the bucket. Here is no more remarkable in that the difference is larger than the British Isles themselves, omitting Ireland and its apparent example of British look lordly.

The difficulties of estimates for the area of the whole British Empire is complete. Nobody knows how large it is. Whitaker's Almanack, for instance, by pretty meticulously discovers that its area is 13,720,000 square miles. The Statesman's Year Book puts it more moderately and with rounding accuracy at 13,545,676 square miles. Lands and Peoples, Hutchinson's Almanack makes the whopping assertion that it is 12,000,000 square miles. It points out that the Pope fixes in 1792.92 and Judge W. W. Hoyay of New Westminster in 1892.93 gave its discovery.

Judge Howay returned from Peace River, where he went as western representative of the colonial boundaries inquiry commission, and he thinks which can plainly be attributed to men who are "good" but unenlightened.

One of Hartford's leading bankers used to say to his family: 'Don't worry about the bad people. They aren't many of them, anyway, and the police will take care of them as a rule it is the stupid people who make most of the trouble."

Disapprove of Radio

Radio has peppermint the almost inaccessible region of the Antarctic, the south slopes of the Cangalaw Mountains, but it is not approved of by the Malikas, or Mohammedan priests. The Malikas are indulging in fiery diatribes against what they describe as a devilish invention, and recently a receiving outfit was publicly damned and thrown down a precipice.

Canada's bank deposits were only $5 per capita in 1914 and $156 in 1927.

Area Under Hay in Prairie Provinces Totals 1,188,000 Acres

There has been a very rapid increase in the quantities of hay produced in the Prairie Provinces in recent years. Ten years ago the area under hay in the three provinces was less than 500,000 acres. In 1926 it was nearly 2,000,000 acres. Although the close weather and dry atmosphere of the prairie during the haying season constitute ideal conditions several precautions must be taken to ensure a crop of fine quality.

The superintendent of the Indian Head Experimental Farm points out that four factors determine quality in hay colour, odor, presence of leaves and freedom from dust and mould, and it is with these considerations in mind that the farmer must cut and cure his crop. The first consideration is to cut at the proper time. Alfalfa should be cut in the early bloom stage when the new shoots are starting from the crown, and timothy in the early bud stage, leaving fire inch stubble, timothy in the second bloom stage, and not later than the late milk stage for rowen and in the dough stage for horses.

In curing hay it is most important to retain the leaves. In the case of alfalfa the leaves contain over 60 per cent of the food value. The best time to cut is when the morning dew is off but in the afternoon the hay should be raked into windrows or cocked. This permits a sweating process to go on which toughens the leaves so that they are retained.

Palatability in hay is a considerable of great importance. To obtain this quality from alfalfa it must be placed until the moisture content has been reduced sufficiently

Handicaps To Progress

Good Men, But Unenlightened, Can Do Considerable Harm

Some time ago Bertrand Russell wrote an entertaining essay on "The Harm That Good Men Do," in which he showed the handicaps to progress which can plainly be attributed to men who are "good" but unenlightened.

"How would you like," someone would ask quietly, "a nice big dirty juicy beefsteak?" Then a diet mignon surprised with its own gravy. Rice, with a lot of piping hot, crisp French fried potatoes.

Iced cheese for a minute while everybody swallowed hard.

"How would you like a big deep porridge plate," and the bowl just full of clear rich gravy brown soup, filled with crisp bread lozenges. Then after a few slices of firm, cold deep red roast beef, and fine French dressing scattered over all. Appetizing, wasn't it?

Paint grasses would rise.

Next men

"How'd you like a strawberry cheesecake fourteen inches across, made with biscuit dough the straw cut, mashed and thickly packed between the cake.

"Hey! Cut it out!"

"Then, potatoes all red and rich also at two bucks deep in top."

"Shut up! Hey!"

"Then pink cobbles of thick whipped cream dropped on the ..."

An anguished scream would cut off the Another brave Canadian had hit the dust.

Sale Of British Isles

Would Make Country Seven N'Rooms Did Not Carry It Back to Ocean

That the whole Island of Great Britain is being sprinkled with salt, as if from a gigantic salt shaker, is the conclusion recently announced to the Literary and Philosophical Society of the city of Manchester, England, by Wilfred Irwin.

The salt comes from the sea and most of it falls on the land surface, not on dry salt, but as salt dissolved in the British rain water.

Mr. Irwin has analyzed rain water collected at 12 different points in England and Wales, both at times of calm weather and during violent storms blowing from the sea. Averaging the data, with proper calculations of the amount of rainfall and so on, he finds that about 1,000,000 tons of salt fall each year on England and Wales alone.

This amount of salt soon would render the land a barren desert. Happily the land gets rid of the salt, very largely not for the fact, it is explained, that the salt is carried back to the sea again in the water of the brooks and rivers.

The amount of salt sprinkled on the land in each square mile was expected, during or just after violent storms from the sea than at times of calm.

The source of the salt is believed to be almost entirely sea spray blown up from the surface of the waves during storms and dried in the air in tiny particles of salt, dust These were blown inland and are dissolved and carried down by the rain.

Canada's Fruit Crop

Value Last Year Estimated At Over Forty Million Dollars

An attractive rural livelihood is being served in widely separated sections of Canada, by increasing thousands of people engaged in fruit raising. The people of the commercial fruit crop last year was estimated at $30,316,856 while probably an equal quantity was used for local requirements without passing through commercial channels.

Soil and climate of Canada are well adapted to fruit culture, the Annapolis Valley, the Niagara Peninsula and the Okanagan district of British Columbia having achieved world fame through their products.

While early settlers had founded the fruit industry more than a century before it was not until 1861 that the first experimental shipment of apples was made from the Annapolis Valley to Nova Scotia. By 1890 the average crop in Nova Scotia was about 100,000 barrels. Nineteen years later it had reached 1,000,000 barrels and in 1911 the record total of 1,900,000 barrels was reached. In 1918 the new mark of 2,000,000 barrels was set.

Commercial fruit growing in British Columbia is of recent origin but progress has been rapid. In 1910 there were only 6,000 acres under all kinds of fruit in the province. By 1921 this had increased to more than 240 acres, and while the figures have not been compiled since the census of that year, it is known that the acreage has been further increased until it now stands in the neighborhood of 30,000 acres.

Western Non-Metallic Minerals

Rich Deposits Are Found in Many Parts of Western Canada

The non-metallic minerals of Western Canada are coming more into prominence year by year, in analyzing these non-metallic minerals by provinces only, structural materials and clay products are included, coal, which is found in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia and produced in the latter three provinces, petroleum and natural gas sills, and sand and gravel, which are fairly well distributed throughout the West, and building stone.

The southern part of Saskatchewan is attracting a great deal of attention on account of the very excellent clays suitable for the manufacture of fire brick, white-ware, porcelain ware, pottery, brick and tile. There is quite a large production of clay in the province, but all of the foregoing products are being manufactured only from clays with the exception of white-ware and porcelain ware.

Sodium sulphate occurs in various parts of the province, and at Dunkirk the sodium sulphate is treated and made into salt cake and shipped to the papermills as far east as the Atlantic provinces and west to the Pacific. Other deposits in the province include one at Ingebright Lake, which is the largest and purest body of sodium sulphate in the world, but as yet no production has taken place from that body. It is known that the material, including bentonite and volcanic ash, suitable for clarifying materials, also for the manufacture of hard cleansers. The volcanic ash is produced at Waldeck is attracting quite a lot of attention on account of its possibilities as a clarifying material for lards and oils, as it acts similarly to the fuller's earth. There are also resources of non-metallic minerals in the northern part of Saskatchewan, but little is known of the mineral owing to inaccessibility to transportation. A stone of good appearance and suitable for building purposes is found in the valley of the Saskatchewan River near Saskatoon and has been used in the University buildings there

Probably the most interesting non-metallic mineral product which seems to rapidly creating a reputation amongst builders and architects is the stone which is being produced at Tyndall, Manitoba a point on the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway about 100 miles northeast of Winnipeg. This stone has been utilized for many years in the Western Provinces and also in Ontario and Quebec. Parliament Buildings in Winnipeg and Regina, the Law Courts and Bank of Hamilton building are very attractive two impressing to mention, and in latter years has been used as far west as Calgary and Edmonton, in Eastern Provinces, in Quebec, Montreal, Toronto and Ottawa. Very excellent at the Parliament Buildings in the latter city, and also in one of the large store buildings in Montreal and also in a very large building in Toronto. The Parliament Buildings. This stone is described as a mottled limestone.

It appears to being produced on a large scale in the northern part of the province and is used in the manufacture of sad lime and cement in the city of Winnipeg Regina Leader.

Juvenile Delinquency

Number of Convictions in Canada for 1926 is Shown

The total number of juvenile delinquents convicted in Canada during 1926 was 6,000, of which number 4,216 were boys and girls according to a report issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. The figures relate only with a total of 8,729 cases showing 2,513 of which 2,041 were boys and girls.

In the 19 cities for which figures were given the boys increased 17 per cent in 1925 and the girls decreased 17.37 per cent.

The bureau distribution shows that the boys between the ages of 16 and 18 years and their parents 4,225 of the 8,729 convicted of major offences in 1926 were born in Canada.

A Floating Garage

It has become increasingly popular during the past year or two for motorists who wish to tour Europe, Africa or Asia to take their cars and even their own chauffeurs with them in view of this and in order to simplify the matter, there is a garage capable of holding a dozen big automobiles, has been built on "K" deck of the liner Homeric.

DEAD HILL NEWS

A very sociable evening was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Morrison, Wednesday evening, July 20th, in honor of their eldest daughter Cecelia who is leaving for London, England to resume her educational studies. Quite a host of invited friends were present from far and near. The spacious dining room was very prettily decorated and during the supper interval Miss Hannah Morrison danced the sword dance being accompanied by her brother with the bag-pipes. Amongst those present were the Misses Josephine Zonn, Lila and Helen Cunningham, Clara and Melanie Langenhahn, Hazel Reid and Mary Coombes. Mr. and Mrs. Ted Reiling; Mr. and Mrs. Ben Iverson; H. Davis, Fred Langenhahn, Otto Gamble and Geo. Maxwell of Vermilion, also on behalf of the non-local guests, Mr. Maxwell wished Miss Morrison a safe journey and a speedy return to the district where she was held in such popularity; he also tendered thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Morrison for their untiring efforts in putting on such a glorious event which had been so heartily enjoyed by all The evening's music was provided by Miss Hazel Reid, piano, Bert Dennis, violin, and Ted Reiling, mandolin.

Mr. Fred Langenhahn and daughter Miliana returned from Edmonton on Thursday after taking in the exhibition, and report a good time.

Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Coombes and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bennett were Vermilion visitors, Thursday.

Major Watson and Fred Kinburn of the British Dominions Land Company were out in our district Saturday on a tour of inspection and are well satisfied with the progress their settlers are making.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Reiling, also Mr. and Mrs. H. Bird were out motoring north, Sunday.

Frank H. Coombs had the misfortune to lose a valuable horse this week from pneumonia. Skilled aid was had but it was of no avail. Mr. Coombes is suffering hard luck, having lost his barn and feed by his last spring.

We are sorry to report that Alex McClintock and father while out motoring in the Lloydminster district met with a bad accident. When going too close the main road the radius rod of the car broke rendering the steering gear useless with the result that they overturned. Mr. McClintock, Sr. was pinned beneath the car and Alex. had just got him free when the gas tank exploded. The car is a complete ruin but they were lucky to escape with a few minor injuries. Fortunately a car came along and took them back to Lloydminster where they got medical treatment and took the train home.

ANGLE LAKE NEWS

This community has experienced a real touch of warm weather, when on Saturday for the summer it climbed to 92 in the shade. Needless to say with the mosquitoes and the heat people are very uncomfortable these days. One is reminded of the French man's description of a mosquito as "Mai bonjo bee, you pay your ince there and he not there." The oldest settlers say this is the worst they have ever seen. The heiniac theory admits is very smoky time for smudge fires built to protect the stock.

A successful picnic was held on Sunday 19 on Saturday and many who turned out enjoyed themselves in spite of the hot weather. The boys spent most of the afternoon in the lake.

A very neat piece of work was done on Thursday night, when successfully ridgett cut Mr. Axel Merryman's fence in 54 places. The person or persons who are guilty of such an act should not only spend some time behind the bar but schould be given the bush as well. An example should be made of them so that such pranks as that will not be played in the future in connection with this case Constable Curry visited the community and the term of the law will be brought to bear on the fence-cutter

Mr Algot is having his house redecorated and painted and the work is being done by Mr. Nelson, who is making a nice job of it.

The tourists from Angle Lake who visited Cold Lake brought back with them the total of eleven fish which they bought at the fishery before leaving, as the fish were not biting as well as could be expected. They hope for better luck next year

A dance is going to be held in the Angle Lake hall on Friday evening, July 29th and the music will be furnished by the 72th Polish orchestra

The C. P. R. are pushing their work ahead very quickly on their new line and reports are current that the towns are now being named The nearest town to Angle Lake will be called North Bend, we are told, because of the bend in the railway line there

SUMMER PIG SHELTERS

(Experimental Farms Note)

In 1917 a field was set aside for pig pastures at the Experimental Station at Rosthern. Along the north side of the field were sown twelve rows of caragana seed four feet apart and this was fenced against stock In 1919 the trees had attained to one foot apart and the thinnings used for transplanting Cultivation could not be continued after 1920 and by 1921 the fence was taken down and the pigs allowed to run among the young trees and it has been used for this purpose every summer since The pigs do not damage the trees and they find protection there from both storm and sun. It is a complete summer shelter, is permanent and is quite inexpensive

Cattle, sheep and horses will damage caragana and if pasture is short young trees will damage it, but pigs do it no harm

Sixteen Years Ago Today

Interesting Items gleaned from the Files of The Vermilion Standard
JULY 28TH, 1911.

Some twenty-five attended the rate payers' meeting Tuesday night and a general discussion of the Electric Light By-law took place. The chief opposition raised was that Vermilion could not stand the expense of installing a municipal owned plant, the town being too small to handle it a paying proposition. The opinion was also expressed that there was no crying need at present for a lighting system. Mayor Dunsmore explained the attitude of the Council in the matter. It was felt a lighting plant was essential and the building of a single unit at a minimum outlay, would keep expenses at a low point; a 5-unit plant complete-ly equal to the most economical in the long run, but on account of the unfavorable attitude shown by numbers of ratepayers, the council was reverting itself to the smaller plant Another meeting is to be called before the vote is taken.

BRIGHTEN COUNTRY SCHOOLS WITH PAINT

Children are Canada's greatest asset

The celebration of the Diamond Jubilee of Confederation is an opportunity to do something to help the school children who will in a few years become an important cog in national affairs.

One of the best things possible to do would be to brighten up our school buildings. Many of them are in need of re-decorating and painting, and the summer months afford splendid opportunity during the holidays.

Recent investigational work has disclosed the fact that much of the eye trouble and ill health of school children comes from rooms painted an unsuitable color. The lighter, more cheerful colors actually aid the pupil in learning.

In order to interest school trustees in brightening up the school buildings under their charge, the decorating and color experts of Canadian Paint and Varnish Magazine have arranged to supply free advice to all school trustee boards who send a plan of their school during July and August. A copy of the June issue containing an article on "Color Selection for School Walls Important Aid to Pupils" will be sent if request is addressed to Editor, Canadian Paint and Varnish Magazine, 153 University Avenue, Toronto

Let's do something for our school children to commemorate the good times Diamond Jubilee or Confederation

Local Team Win From Manville

The Manville and Vermilion football teams clashed for the second time this season, on Saturday evening last at the east end grounds, when the local boys won out by a 5-3 score. Handicapped by mosquitoes in their millions, and the extreme heat, the footballers nevertheless put up a good game, and were on the go from whistle to whistle

Play was fairly even in the first half Manville was awarded a penalty kick after 15 minutes play, but failed to convert. Shortly after, the black and gold forwards took the ball up the field and Dave Whiteley, at inside right, slammed the leather into the Manville goal from well out The half ended 1-0 for Vermilion.

In the second spasm the local boys had the better of exchanges, and after several dange-rously close attacks, Whiteley again turned the trick for Vermilion, after a concerted rush by the forward line. Their third goal came right after, when Fred Clare, playing centre, got possession of the ball and made the kick-off and worked his way through the entire Manville defence to put a quarter past Hogarth. It was a splendid solo effort Manville worked hard to break into the scoring column following this, but Goalie Whiteley in the full-back line were almost impregnable, and Mearns in the local goal handled all that came his way. The final whistle ended the game with the score 7 to nil for the home-team.

The Vermilion lineup: are as follows: Mearns; Dallas and Whiteley, Thompson, Meanah and Birch, Cooper, Dave Whiteley, Chas. Meanah, Fred Clare, A. McLean.

WOLF CUB NOTES.

WELL, it's the only camp to have saved water since March 1st, you know. Well come again next year, won't we? The six days passed all too quickly for most of us, though it is kind of good to get back to our own beds and see all the folks again, didn't it?

On the whole we were fortunate as to weather, only three brief flurries and two of those during meals and the other at night so they did the interiors much with the Cubs pleasure.

There was rather a sad story to one of the helpers sitting sitting up all night in the Ford, because their tent leaked and the bed was soaking wet. The old Wolf was also about awakened and dry and have nothing of this till next day when it had rained.

The first morning we woke at 4 p.m. to the strains of the bugle.

Morning ablutions in the Lake soon broke of the rush and a mighty hustle and washing was in progress. Only those who have been in camp can realize all the washing that was done. After every one was in bed at 10 o'clock the strains of "Home, Sweet Home" could be heard in the distance. Each night the buglers sounded "Lights Out" and the camp was still.

I'll check time to Kate

"Watch me swim. I will then awaken all alone. This World is for the Eleven year olds"

"See Bill do the dead man float. I'd dived I dived watch me dive" etc.

Several Cubs sat in the boat while I was fastened to a post and rocked it on indefinite. But Bill Warnock fell of course was the only Cub dressed the rest between bathing suits and a bander into the lake. Fortunately we had put him dry and re-clothed and he took another swim to bathing suit I mean I never saw this time

One wonders how it happens that carpet tacks get strewn along the road from time to time, and one may wonder more how a first class auto will manage to find said tacks. But a certain motorist last Sunday discovered that they can be found, for one of his tires picked up a tack Fortunately he had a spare that he could put on, but after a short time another tire picked up another tack. This time, not having a spare he had to dismantle his wheel and do some patching which required two and a half hours of precious time Wonder if the individual who dropped the tacks is tickled with the success of his trick?

E. P. Ranch Improved

House Has Been Enlarged and Property Is Beginning To Yield Returns

Many improvements have been introduced on the Prince of Wales ranch since his last visit in 1924. The property is beginning to yield returns to its Royal owner for the sums he has put in stocking and developing it.

It has always been the Prince's ambition to make his ranch more than anything else, a model to the land and an example for other farmers in the Dominion. The E.P. Ranch extends more than 10 miles, is small as important ranches go, but it is high grade land, and is on one of the richest grain growing and stock raising sections to be found in Western America.

The ranch house has been enlarged and otherwise improved since his Royal Highness last saw it. A new lounge hall and extra bedrooms have been added. The whole dwelling is simply furnished. A few comfortable lounge chairs, a well filled book case or two, and one or two water-color pictures of neighborhood beauty spots are the only appearances of "luxury."

Its sporting equipment, however, is very complete, and the Prince is able to enjoy good sport. On his own property wild ducks abound on one or two small lakes and on a small creek of the High River that winds through the ranch and provides it with water. Moose are found in the mountains in the season, some of the remaining range sidedly close, while not far away sheep, deer, and partridge are known to be found in flocks at certain seasons of the year. When bigger game is sought, the Prince has only to travel further to ride before he comes across the trail of herds of wild deer, that range over the foothills of the Rockies.

Lac Labiche, after some seven years as a bird sanctuary, is likely to be discontinued as such. The Alberta game branch has decided that the lake game parks does not fit in with the idea of the establishment of the preservation of other lake in the vicinity is bad. The action is understood to be the outcome of an application by settlers around the lake who have asked to be a the restrictions lifted

A Difficult Salvaging Job

Raising Of German Battle Cruiser is Remarkable Feat

Draped in slime and seaweed, the keel of the battle cruiser Moltke has been lifted above the surface of the water in the old anchorage ground at Scapa Flow in the Orkneys, where the German fleet was interned after its surrender in the Firth of Forth on November 21, 1918, and where the vessel was scuttled by their crews on June 21, 1919

When the work is finally finished the Moltke will be broken up, one of the most difficult jobs in the history of salvage will have come to a successful conclusion. The 25-ton Hindenburg, another of the scuttled battle cruisers, was raised with less difficulty. She lay in an even keel, so her hitting her, while a number of sub was a straight to sub-sub position. The hitting of the Moltke, which turned turtle as she sank in the prevailed great difficulties in keeping the ship on an even keel. Much of the work is only to be known to R.N.E.S., a body, however, could be done in the open, and the Admiralty decided to undertake the work. When Admiral Sir Alexander Duff, who is in charge of the Scottish naval yards, and Engineer-Commander Cowan, R.N., went to Scapa Flow to make a survey of the wreck they found a number of the vessels had been broken up. Only the battle cruiser Hindenburg and now the Moltke.

In ordinary salvage work one adopts a method which is found to be good at Scapa Flow would be useless for the Moltke. Ordinarily, as the water rises in the vessel to be raised, the air in the compartments is compressed, and the greater the depth of water the greater the pressure of air required to force the water out. The Moltke lay in 75 feet of water, and the air within these compartments would be fully prepared when dispersed to the surface. The salvage engineers are therefore using a new method of raising the vessel. Instead of forcing the water out by compressed air, they are filling the compartments with cement. This will be done by means of a pipe line from the surface. The cement will be mixed with water and allowed to flow into the compartments. The cement will harden and thus give the vessel the necessary buoyancy to float.

Boats Were Held Up

Late Tide On Thames Caused Mild Sensation in London

The Thames as a rule is a most peaceful stream and the steady ebb and flow of its tide are generally so certain to follow the figures printed in the shipping journals that any deviation from the expected prudence is a small sensation on the river. On a recent day, however, when the London correspondent of the Manchester Guardian Melrose Moulton, the flow was due to start at 8.51 a.m., but failed to put in appearance until after 9. Many boats, including the 11 meager boats that are now taking thousands of visitors daily down the river to Margate were held up for an hour.

The Thames is really very powerful when it is in spate, and the superintendent of the Port of London Authority, "but once in a while it gets up, and like this is either much too late or too early

AUTO TAXES SHOULD BE USED ENTIRELY FOR ROAD PURPOSES

This year more than 75,000 motor cars will be licensed in Alberta with a resh return to the public treasury of $1,650,000 at least. On the first of July the number of plates sold reached 62,000, this representing a collection of more than $1,000,000 by the province. For the entire year of 1926 the provincial secretary's branch issued 64,150 motor licenses, a figure nearly 10,000 higher than the previous year or 1925.

No announcement has been made by the government as to the extent of the gasoline sales this season, up to which the treasury realizes a tax of 3 cents a gallon, but indications are that the estimated revenue of $750,000 will be reached for the year from this source. With a dry season the total would have been greater.

These taxations figures have resulted discussion among motorists as to the advisability of having all revenue from these channels devoted wholly to the building and upkeep of public highways. With few exceptions, American states and Canadian provinces now collect a tax on gasoline ranging generally from 2 to 5 cents a gallon, and organized motorists are strongly of the opinion that such funds should be earmarked for road development exclusively. The Alberta Motor Association in national convention at Philadelphia adopted this resolution:

Resolved that the American Automobile Association strenuously oppose any use of the funds from taxation upon gasoline for other than the maintenance and construction of public highways.

The funds previously the Alberta Motor Association endorsed a resolution along the following lines

All moneys obtained from the automobile and gasoline tax by statute in Alberta should be earmarked and used exclusively and only for the construction and maintenance of public roads in the province

It provides for three clauses of wills which will be considered as 'valid', namely, those signed and attested in the usual way, holograph wills wholly in the handwriting of the testator with or without witnesses, and wills of members of the naval, military, air or marine forces.

The Act includes a provision that every will shall be revoked by the marriage of the testator except where it is declared in the will that such marriage is contemplated or where the will is made in exercise of a power of appointment and the property thereby appointed would not in default of such appointment pass to the heir.

Think Horse Racing is Vermilion District Over

Racing of horses is causing provincial police in the Vermilion district some little concern, but after a patrol which carried him 146 miles, Constable Curry of the A. F. P., believes that in the arrest of William P. Boring, 19-year-old youth, one of the principal offenders has been apprehended. Horses which were found in Boring's possession were allegedly fraudulently obtained while racing in the Campbell Lake and Landonville district.

When brought to Vermilion, Boring made a statement to the officers in which he is alleged to have specified for his acts and requested a speedy trial which is now being arranged.—Edmonton Bulletin

SCOUTS IN CAMP

The Vermilion Boy Scouts have just realized one of their highest ambitions, namely the holding of a successful troop camp. This camp was held at Whitney lake about 5 miles north of the Heimburg ferry over the Saskatchewan and was under the leadership of Rev. F. J. Stevens and Capt. E. R. Gibson. It lasted 9 days, from 18th to 27th July. Twenty boys attended, belonging to the three patrols, the Coyotes, the Eagles and the Beavers.

The camp was run on real Scout lines, the boys being accommodated in tents and doing all their own cooking. In spite of the fact that most of the boys were "tenderfeet" as far as camping was concerned, they quickly found their camp legs and by the end of the time were seasoned campers. Needless to say they are all ecstatic to go to the next camp.

The camp site itself was a delightful one, secluded and well sheltered, right on the shores of the lake and lined by a good safe sandy beach, where excellent bathing was enjoyed by all. The Scouts erected a substantial diving tower about 25 yards from the shore which was much used. Good swimming facilities are a sine qua non in camp, and these we certainly had.

6:30 a.m.—Rouse the orderly patrol to prepare breakfast

7:30 a.m.—Reveille and remainder of camp. Short swim. Hoist and salute the flag. Morning prayers.

8 a.m.—Breakfast (Always very popular!)

9 a.m.—Tent inspection. This was run as a competition and marks were awarded daily to each patrol. The Eagle Patrol (Leader A Bottum) had the hallowed honor of heading the winners (Leader M Hunsenmiller 2 points.

10 a.m.—Scouting instruction in such subjects as semaphoring, tracking, bridge building, fire lighting, &c.

11:30 — Musing bathe at which bathers were given lessons and taught to dive, methods of life saving, etc.

12:30 p.m.—Dinner. Comment is superfluous, camp appetites being proverbial

1:30—Compulsory rest, leisure time for reading and dis-sing.

2:30—Scouting games and tests.

5:00—Short swim.

6:00—Roll call.

7:00— Supper.

8:30—Council fire and sing-song Yarns.

9:30—Turn in and "lights out."

In leisure moments the boys went out fishing and successfully stole a number of golden perch and jack fish, making a welcome addition to the breakfast menu. The fish actually landed, however, were small compared with the famed monsters which got away with hook, line and all after a desperate struggle but such stories, like fish in retrospect, are always inclined with a pinch of salt!

As far as possible all camp activities are made competitive and in the Sunday nature rumble the Captain (Leader Wm. Hall) made the best collection of berries and wild flowers.

A number of special events contributed to make the camp a memorable one. An all day hike to Lake Laurie, on saturday was undertaken and some real scouting had to be done to find a way through the muskegs and bush. On Monday night a very heavy electrical storm accompanied by a veritable tornado and deluge of rain threatened to blow the tents bodily into the lakes. However, by getting all hands to the pumps the good ship "Whitney Camp" weathered the storm. Heavy weight Scouts were much in demand for holding down the billowing canvas

A good feat of endurance was performed by F. L. Bottum in swimming across the lake in 45 mins., a distance of 1½ miles. The best accomplished him.

On the last two days some excellent swimming and diving competitions were held and it was possible to appreciate the rapid progress all the boys had made in the art of natation.

It is, however, around the camp fire at night, at the end of a perfect day, that camp casts its most magical spell over one. There is something tremendously inspiring in that circle of happy, healthy, boyish faces, all lit up by the ruddy glow from the fire, and it is then that the most lasting impressions are made and the boys are set insight into the deeper meanings and realities of life. To many the quiet yarns which followed the rollicking sing song will remain as an outstanding memory

In conclusion a hearty vote of thanks is due to our good friends and Scout supporters who kindly loaned trucks and cars, thereby reducing the costs of transportation to a minimum This generous help enabled us to keep the boys' camp fee at the reasonable figure of $5c per diem all in

ENROLL NOW FOR NEXT CAMP. THE BEST IS YET TO BE

"BEAU GESTE"

In French, "Beau Geste" means "the beautiful gesture." Applied to the peculiar ( ) return to Michael Geste's great sacrifice to save his name after he has sold the priceless Blue Water sapphire and feels that upon her husband's people he will render or later discover the fake which has replaced it

We have already the imitation and lights out for the Legion—and oblivion for his two younger brothers. Life in and John were willing to let "Beau have all the fun and pleasure of doing a little favor for their name but too, had thereby begun to age"

Canada's Next Stage Of Development

There are many countries with larger populations greater accumulation of wealth and much more highly developed manufacturing industries, but none that occupies the position of this great country among the nations of the world. Some have a much greater wealth per capita, but no one has so rapidly during the past few years, the basis of which is a constantly expanded—the percentage of growth far surpasses that of any other country.

It is a pertinent question to ask at this time, and certain for itself the proud position already attained and to be possible for this Dominion to move steadily forward from fifth place to fourth to third and ultimately to the very front rank?

Judged from the unparalleled prosperity now existing on the world's highways between Europe and the United States, the volume of passenger traffic and the variety of the nationalities represented, the answer must be given in the affirmative. In addition to the superior facilities now possessed, the answer can be given by an emphatic

Information was laid by the Vermilion agricultural Society Monday before Police Magistrate P. G. Pibbs against a young boy of the town for damaging property on the exhibition grounds. The case came up for hearing at 11 a.m. Tuesday. The Society explained that they were not pressing for a heavy fine but on account of numerous occasions in which damage had been done and nuisances created, they had to take action to put a stop to it. The P. M. pointed out that Section 1 of the Criminal Code dealt with the charge under the head of "Mischief" and provided a fine of $50 or two months in jail. Some stern but kindly advice was handed out by his worship to the boy and a fine of $2 and costs assessed or in all to $7. Informed the boy of his right to call as many witnesses as he desired, but he declined to do so. Any boys who have been in the habit of trespassing the grounds not to molest or damage the property and to keep out of the buildings and desist from using them for purposes for which they are not intended.

New Bill Contains Restrictions Which Will Benefit the Public

The Money-lenders Bill which has passed the British House of Commons and is now before the House of Lords is generally regarded as a step in the right direction. The Bill is designed to protect the borrower. Now every day borrowers are:

(1) Every moneylender must take out an annual license certificate in respect of each of his offices. (2) Moneylenders or lenders' agents must be registered. (3) Moneylenders may advertise only in a specified form. (4) Moneylenders may not employ canvassers, touts or agents.

(5) Moneylenders or contracts must be signed by borrowers and copies supplied to borrowers within seven days. (6) Contracts must state the date of the loan and the interest per cent per annum. (7) Compound interest, and arrears on the rate of interest for default are prohibited. (8) Moneylenders must supply the borrower's demand at any time a record of the state of any loan.

(9) Interest is limited to 48 per cent per annum, unless a court is satisfied that higher interest is reasonable and not excessive. The Preliminary charges are limited and there is a general limit of not more than the date of default in actions by moneylenders to enforce agreements. Certain moneylenders are exempt from certain provisions, namely, Scotland, but not Northern Ireland.

Value Of Character

Any man who knows character can appreciate the value of character in men and can also form a correct estimate of any kind when asked to appreciate the value of character in corporate industries and public affairs. Character is not a commodity to be bought or sold, nor is it to be left to children or wives, or heirs about, but the first help in getting along in life as easily and comfortably as is possible.

Evidence That Scotland Was Inhabited In Prehistoric Times

Evidence that Scotland was inhabited by cave men in the chilly days of the old stone age has been obtained as a result of excavation in caves in northern Scotland.

James E. Cree, who directed prehistoric in four caves under a grant from the Royal Society of London, has reported the discovery of two human skeletons in connection with flint implements and other animals of the old stone age.

"The reason why I am going to paint in the far north," Mr. Jackson says, "is because I think the ordinary pastoral painting, as practised now, is a dead letter. New art forms are necessary if the artist would develop. I think I will find new art values in the far north.

"Fresh inspiration and freedom from convention are necessary to develop individuality in Canadian art," he explained. "The work of those who follow in the old pastoral tradition must of necessity relate it to the art of European schools, and be imitative. Because it lacks originality."

Mr. Jackson's visit is begun to realize that here is interesting material for his work in this country and he left Toronto to go to Ennis any route. Let the artist get a ground, ing it his work here, then if he wishes to let him go abroad for the summer.

"I believe that the development of Canada's art depends largely upon some such painting. Many people believe that it is coming now.

"For a painter to go to the north is to wander in lonely and distant places. Life artists turn as a rule to the south for their inspiration and subject. I believe this is a mistake. Canada's great backgrounds for artists has been treated too often as a scene for a mere Punch and Judy show."

Editor, Vermilion Standard
Dear Sir

May we crave for a small space in your valuable paper to express (not only our own personal feelings but those of numerous other parents of large families) our admiration for the way those responsible kept the "cars off the main grounds of the Fair in former years it has been a source of constant terror to us, and many other parents, to see the way cars were allowed to rail all over the grounds This year, owing to the excellent arrangements of keeping cars off the main part of the grounds, our day was one of enjoyment instead of being one full of anxiety.

Yours truly,
Parent & Motor-families.

The farmers are hoping that the fine weather will continue for two or three weeks longer and then the crop will be mostly cut and if we do not have a severe frost this country is assured of a bumper yield this year The C.P.R. would do well to finish their line before fall and the elevator companies to build their elevators in order to handle the crop

FOOD FOR THOUGHT.

A News article published this week relative to examination results of the Smairyea rural school, affords food for thought along the line of the teaching of high school subjects. The country school teacher, with Grade I to VIII to teach, would appear to have a pretty fair demand on his or her available time apart from incurring any further responsibilities by teaching high school subjects if it was to be done with any reasonable hope of success. Advertisements for teachers for a rural school have appeared occasionally which included the stipulation that they must teach Grade IX work if required. And yet the limitation is for a teacher on the princely salary of $900 per annum or $1000 in new districts, a salary that stands out, however, that with the one high school grade, they have nine grades to handle everyday and for this reason Mr. Geuhr's success is more notable.

Compared with his country cousin, the lot of the town teacher is a bed of roses. The public school usually has a teacher in a grade or grades just as long to complete the work of a grade in a town school as it does in a country one, so promotions are no faster. The principal of a town school is paid from $1800 up and concentrates all his efforts on the teaching of High Vill, with generally good results, but it is when we reach the high school with the same quota of a teacher to a grade, that we meet to get the most unsatisfactory results. It is hardly logical to advance the argument of lack of groundwork on the part of the town pupil entering high school: if so, what about the country pupil and the country teacher with his multitudinous grades teaching high school work and doing it successfully? Many cases could be cited for substantial salaries, and it a teacher to a grade, with an opportunity to cover the work down to a reasonably percentage of clear passes, we shall soon have to hand the palm to the pupils high schools now rapidly increasing and growing in favor throughout the province. Teaching is the ability to impart knowledge in such a way or manner as to be readily assimilated by the recipient or that instructive. The big stick in education is a failure

COMPILING RECORD FOR CENTENNIAL

When the program for the commemoration of Canada's jubilee was being arranged, it was decided by the commission in charge that a complete record of the officers of the different societies, associations and organizations in the town should be made and this record together with other documents be placed in a casket which was to be sealed and not to be opened until the celebration of the 100th anniversary in 1967. J. W. G. Morrison was asked to prepare this record and the work is now being done The secretaries of all secret or benevolent societies, of all church organizations, church parishes or congregations are asked to send in a list of the officers as on July 1st, 1927. The record will include the girls and school officials, names of children attending school, business and professional men, etc., etc. The various items are asked to co-operate to make this record as complete as possible. It will be a most interesting document to read 40 years hence and compare it with the condition of things existing at that future date. It is asked that information be handed in before August 15th.

COMPILING RECORD FOR CENTENNIAL

When the program for the commemoration of Canada's jubilee was being arranged, it was decided by the commission in charge that a complete record of the officers of the different societies, associations and organizations in the town should be made and this record together with other documents be placed in a casket which was to be sealed and not to be opened until the celebration of the 100th anniversary in 1967. J. W. G. Morrison was asked to prepare this record and the work is now being done The secretaries of all secret or benevolent societies, of all church organizations, church parishes or congregations are asked to send in a list of the officers as on July 1st, 1927. The record will include the girls and school officials, names of children attending school, business and professional men, etc., etc. The various items are asked to co-operate to make this record as complete as possible. It will be a most interesting document to read 40 years hence and compare it with the condition of things existing at that future date. It is asked that information be handed in before August 15th.

Opening Up of Western Canada Has Been the Greatest Factor In Development of the Dominion

It is generally agreed throughout Canada that the opening up of Western Canada has been incomparably the greatest single factor since Confederation in the re-setting of the Dominion's industrial and commercial life on a major portion of the change in the conspicuous and status of Canadian trade abroad and to the strike field of domestic industry. Is traceable directly or indirectly to the agricultural expansion in Western Canada.

Agriculture is the basic industry of this Dominion. It has overtaxed the European industries upon both the degree and the direction of Canada's commercial power. The Dominion is now the world's largest exporter of wheat and oats in the production of other grains is fairly generous and in the other fields of farm and orchard, Canada holds an important place. Wheat, however, has been the most powerful factor in attracting people to this and rapidly to the Dominion in bringing foreign areas under cultivation and in opening the market for domestic manufacturing, mining and other industries and in building up a volume of export trade and eventual purchasing power necessary to finance the industrial expansion in a variety of commodities. Wheat has been proved a veritable economic fairy to the country as a whole.

At the time of Confederation, the total production of wheat was about 15,000,000 bushels. Last year the yield totalled 400,000,000 bushels in round figures. Most of the wheat crop is now marketed by the co-operative organization the largest of its kind in the world—evidence of the initiative and genius of the Canadian farmer. The growth of every branch of agriculture and industry in the Dominion since has been phenomenal. In 1867 the total value of agricultural products was in the neighborhood of one hundred million dollars. The value of the field crops alone in 1926 has been computed at $1,242,400,000. Canada's farms do not include hundreds of millions worth of dairy, and other agricultural and fruit products.

Good Seed

Now is the Time to Secure Good Seed For Next Year

Now is the time to take steps to secure a good seed for next year, states Mr. P. R. Cowan, cerealist at the Central Experimental Farm. The best part of a wheat, oats or barley field should be stacked off to be harvested separately. Any heads that are of type such or diseased heads, other cultivated plants and noxious weeds should be pulled going over the plot at least three times until it is clean. Before harvesting a strip should be cut around the plot to facilitate a separate harvesting. The binder must be thoroughly clean before the cut when grain is badly infested and in the other fields of farm and orchard, Canada holds an important place. Wheat, however, has been the most powerful factor in attracting people to this and rapidly to the Dominion in bringing foreign areas under cultivation and in opening the market for domestic manufacturing, mining and other industries and in building up a volume of export trade and eventual purchasing power necessary to finance the industrial expansion in a variety of commodities. Wheat has been proved a veritable economic fairy to the country as a whole.

Foot and Mouth Disease

Outbreak in England Will Prevent Importation of Stock

The department of agriculture, Ottawa, announces a new outbreak of foot and mouth disease in England at Whippingham, Yarmouth, Stafford. While many permits have been issued for the importation of pure bred cattle, sheep and swine from Great Britain this season up to date and this new outbreak will necessitate the handling of these importations from Quebec at least as times from England are removed until that part of Great Britain is now exempt from this disease.

In the case of importations coming from Scotland, it is not the intention of the department to stop imports into Canada on condition that affidavit can be made to the effect that the stock being shipped from Scottish ports has not been in England within 30 days of export or been in contact with cattle coming from England within that time. Vessels will be required that boats carrying such cattle from Scotland must not touch at English ports after loading.

Canada's Wealth

The people here of Canada to-day although unconfirmed reports still exist, are the richest population of the world. Each man, woman and child has a progressive individual income of $1,000 per year, or a total of $5,000,000,000 per year. The total wealth of the Dominion is $30,000,000,000. Which is $3,000 per capita. Statistics tend to show that in the United States the average wealth per capita is $2,000 per year. Canada's wealth is increasing at a rate unequalled by any other country. $5,000 per capita in 1905, $3,000 in 1925.

Latest Thrill in Mountain Motoring

One of the Most Spectacular Drives in the Canadian Rockies

The automobile has followed the locomotive through the most thrilling of the Canadian Rockies. Forty-two years ago the first locomotive slipped down the lower Kicking Horse Canyon from Field into Golden and the Columbia Valley. This year the automobile will follow. It is another substantial step towards the Great Canadian Highway.

Leaving Field the new road follows the railway down the wide valley of the Kicking Horse, bonded almost due south, leaving behind the glorious group of peaks that forms the Front door, always looking across at the snow capped Van Horne range, with the Beaverfoot peaks in the distance ahead.

Between Field and Lanchchell the valley of the Kicking Horse is fairly open, with a few short but moderate inclines. It has left a bit a mountain meadow and began to climb and it is here that the road encounters its first real mountain side. The railway line from 500 to 700 feet below, in a bluff, and the road has to be blasted out of the solid rock. Here the engineers had to contend with in setting it through besides the raging Kicking Horse.

The drive through the canyon is thrilling. The traveller seizes mighty heights and has open vistas of indescribable beauty. Nature has done some of her most gorgeous scenic painting here. The mountainside sides are variegated with splashes of poplar that relieve the sombre tone of the coniferous forests of the slopes and the brush over the many colored rocks and shales

The new masterpiece in the climax at the finish. When the canyon reaches of Re effloat stage when highway and railway seem to be almost grappled out, suddenly one is looking out over the wide valley of the Columbia. The great river flows south and on the floor of the valley, slowly making its way north along its sandbar channels. Just the mighty sweep around the Big Head

Those who make the trip from Field to Golden will agree that the 17 mile stretch between Lanarchell and Golden will not take second place to any other part of the Alpine trans-Canada highway for spectacular thrills and scenic grandeur

German Police Are Strict

Even dead men have to obey police regulations under the still developed bureaucratic system of the German Government.

The widow of Erich Waldow, a Charlottenburg merchant, who died recently, has just received the following notice from police headquarters:

"It has come to our notice that your deceased husband gave up his business in Wiedenbrückstrasse. Chr. Hotenberg without reporting this fact. Kindly explain the neglect."

Many Difficulties

Faced By Surveyors

People, Seldom Seeing Conditions Which Exist, Fail to Understand

The difficulties which have to be overcome by Government surveyors in the performance of their duties are seldom realized by the layman. During the recent running of the Interprovincial Boundary line between Alberta and British Columbia the work in the Mistie Pass was greatly delayed by bad weather and untoward conditions.

It snowed for eight days in succession, and the work had to be carried on with 21 inches of wet heavy snow on the floor of the valley and from 2 to 4 feet on the hillsides, where timber line. Snow lingers long and to be shovelled out to the higher mountain sites and here men at the front line transportation was being freezing, concrete had to be made with hot water so as to overcome the frozen condition of the gravel; and hot rocks had to be laid round the concrete to anger to permit it to set. At times it was found impossible to use horses and the men had to pack the equipment and materials. Notwithstanding all this the actual road at the most exposed stations above timber line closed with perfectly normal limits.

Record in Gold Product

Canada's Output For Last Year Worth Over Thirty-Six Millions

Canada's gold production in 1926 again established a new high record, with a total of 1,154,728 fine ounces, which was worth $36,863,110 as against the 1925 production of 1,736,736 fine ounces, worth $36,849,316 according to a report of the Mining, Metallurgical and Chemical Branch of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. Quartz contributed most of the output, or 1,197,216 fine ounces, an increase of 26,176 ounces over the 1925 total, setting a new high production mark for the province.

Theft of School Children

Canadian boys and girls now at school have $997,923 on deposit in the Penny Bank. One year ago, they had only $795,151 in one year, they have thus increased their savings by $112,795. The figures are significant in that they have increased appreciation of the value of thrift by young people. The habit of saving is indicated early in life is one of the most potent factors making for happiness in old age.

Woodstock Greets Woodstock

Beauty of a message from the Royal and Ancient Borough of Woodstock, England, to the Mayor and Council of Woodstock, Ontario. His Worship Joshua Meade, Mayor of the Canada town arrived in Canada on the Canadian Pacific Steamship Montreal. Mayor Meade, who was accompanied by his daughter Miss Betty Meade, Mayoress of Woodstock was a distinguished guest of the Canada town during the Diamond Jubilee celebrations and also the 62nd Royal Regiment functions in that city.

Mayor Meade has the honor to represent one of the three Royal Boroughs in England, older was founded in 970 and had its thousandth birthday about five years ago. In the twelfth century the great forests that surrounded it brought wide renown by Henry I. It possesses the oldest park in England's history and with that history bound up the existence of the borough. It was the scene of battles and sieges in the Cromwellian wars and later the educating rights were given to the great Duke of Marlboro for his victories in the War of the Spanish Succession, while Blenheim House near Woodstock still commemorates one of his most famous battles. No less famous is Stonefurs, Woodstock is made immortal by Sir Walter Scott's novel of the same name and by James' story of Mervyn the Realtor.

The Right Time to Harvest With a Combine

Grain Must Be Dry and Hard Before Cutting

The only safe rule to follow in combine harvesting is to wait until the majority of the grains in the field are dry and hard. This rule was made plain in a series of investigations conducted at the Dominion Experimental Station, Swift Current, Sask., the results of which are detailed in a Dominion Department of Agriculture pamphlet entitled "The Combined Reaper-Thresher in Western Canada."

In harvesting with the combine the grain is threshed at the same time as it is cut. It is therefore necessary, when the combine is used, to let the crop stand from 10 to 15 days after the binder might have been used, in order that the grain may reach sufficient maturity to keep without loss from heating, bin-burning, or from being crushed or dang or tough in the weather to dry and warm this period might be shortened to 5 days, but if it is damp and cool and a week or even this the period may have to be lengthened to as much as 20 days.

An attempt was made in the experiments at the Swift Current Station, to shorten the waiting period and thus eliminate some of the risks from delay. Part of the crop was cut after waiting for only a few days from the time the binder might have been used and some of the grain was placed in heaps on the ground, some in ventilated bins, and the remainder passed through a dehydrator. None of these methods was satisfactory, and the conclusion was reached that it is important to wait for the full time after the date when the binder might have been used. Cutting with a combine a day or even a half day too soon may mean the difference between straight and tough grades

A Joke That Paid

Action of Halifax Laborer of Lasting Benefit to Science

When an Italian laborer flipped a piece of cheese at a fellow worker, he little knew that his action was to be of lasting benefit to his employers and to science.

The phonograph makers for whom he worked noticed a marked increase in the hardness of the copper discs from which phonograph records are stamped. When they sampled a batch of the plating bath to be analyzed, the presence of an organic matter was revealed. On enquiry it was found that the cheese had missed its mark and fallen into the tank in which the metallic discs containing phonograph records were being plated. The hardening effect was due to the rennin in the cheese.

They now add this material to their solutions, and the increased hardness of the copper adds a considerable saving because more records can be stamped in molten wax from the harder discs.

Russia Purchases Horses For Cavalry

Western Mustangs Said to be Particularly Suited For This Purpose

Canadian horses numbering 1,000 are being shipped to Russia. Ten purchasing agents from Russia have been in British Columbia and Alberta, selecting these horses. From information received these horses are for the Russian cavalry.

The Canadian horses, and particularly the mustangs that run wild on the prairies are particularly suited for cavalry uses owing to their ability to stand mile after mile of fast travelling, the Soviet Government is going to considerable expense in buying and transporting these animals from Canada.

Wolves Menace Russia

Wolves last year killed 20,000 head of cattle and more than 30,000 sheep goats and other small domestic and cattle in Russia, the Commissariat of Agriculture has announced. The situation is made worse by the official Russian ban in spite of repeated wolf hunts and payment of large bounties for dead wolves, the dreaded animals have increased their number by more than 10 000 in that period.

"All but the hot water, ma'am. It's all ready"

"What's the matter with the hot water?"

"It's cold, ma'am"

Canada's wealth is increasing at a rate unequalled by any other country. $5,000 per capita in 1905, $3,000 in 1925.

Wheat Yield

Winter Rye

Winter rye is a crop that is growing in favor in Saskatchewan. Canada as a whole last year produced 9,286,000 bushels on 561,569 acres of land, an average yield of 16.5 bushels per acre. Of this amount Saskatchewan produced 2,754,000 bushels on 166,000 acres, the average yield being 16.5 bushels less years ago the total acreage of winter rye in Saskatchewan amounted to only 70,000 acres. This year a total of 216,000 acres are sown to this cereal

Airplanes for Sight Seeing

It is cheaper to engage an airplane for a sight-seeing flight over New York City than it is to hire a taxicab. The rate around the city in a taxicab on the route to be followed by the big planes is $6.10, as compared with $5 by the air route

"You look dejected"

"Yes, I married His gets on my nerves."

"Been married long"

"No. The wedding takes place tomorrow"

"What! You've cut off your most beautiful attribute your long hair!"

"Well, I can tell you now it wasn't mine."

It is easier to acquire a good reputation than it is to keep the freshness of it later.

THE VERMILION STANDARD

(From St. Paul Journal)

"In my return Prof. a business trip to Saskatoon I made it a point to call upon Mr. W. H. Cooper editor and proprietor of the Vermilion Standard. I was acquainted with him when I was a youth in Ontario and have watched his career with great interest and admiration as a writer and as an editor but never have seen him. Yes if one can call the accomplishment of an enterprise and an unusual personal one, if one can call that growth—machinery put in motion to serve the home and home paper appreciated." Yes, it is. His ward of the Harvard Lumber Co. and if you get to know better

Mr Cooper has grown grey there by years at Vermilion in the news paper profession a profession I certainly is and a skilled profession, for conducting a newspaper requires as much skill and ingenuity as the most skilled mechanical engineer in performance of operation or the most astute political lawyer defending a guilty criminal. Mr Cooper speaks to three or four thousand people per week A newspaper is here the bar of public opinion all the time The other professions are not shall I get gray serving the people

At its meeting Monday evening, the board of trade passed a resolution asking that the town council endorse the local improvement district regarding security guarantees and asked for construction of a road into the town from the east, across the river on section 22. The Board will also endeavour to have the Premier in regard to the south road and also in reference to an all night telephone service.

Conveyed in the most modern means of locomotion, via two automobiles the baseball boys went There the last to attack the scalps of the Innisfree bunch. Even the boys laid aside their duty and the hopes of the locals were blasted. A short special request the score is not printed

Mr. Pratt is south the St Paul Journal I hope to Shall I succeed as well as the Vermilion Standard" I am sure, although we only two years publishing our paper Have we succeeded in St. Paul? Yes and we are sound to observe that St Paul is on the brink of a new dawn, a new day St Paul will be what the people of St Paul make it. Whether it is to up to all the small towns who are lucky enough to have a paper to support it loyally.

But as I am writing this little letter it is not on a letterhead made by the Vermilion Standard I pick up a prize list of the Vermilion Agricultural Society and it is not made by the Vermilion Standard but by a job printer who can never advertise Vermilion. Mr Cooper has, I believe, put investment in the local real property of $15,000 or $20,000

It would be a calamity for Vermilion to lose its paper It is not my wont to publish a paper as a few business and professional men in town have done or announce my intentions where a few business and professional men succeeded remark well in publishing a newspaper I firmly believe a newspaper should not be a one man affair

"Nothing Can Stop Us."

Canada has been honored, in this year of its Diamond Jubilee, by another visit from our Prince of Wales; on this occasion, however, he is accompanied by his brother, Prince George, and by the Right Honorable Stanley Baldwin, Prime Minister of Great Britain.

The significance of this visit will be lost upon few people of Canada, no matter what their origin may be. Canada is a young country, and a young people; but it is a country that has exhibited remarkable vitality and stamina, resulting in a rapid development of its resources, and in the building up of a virile nation. Its people are of a hardy stock, and have proved themselves worthy of the best traditions of the British Empire. Many are the instances in which Canadians have come to the assistance of the Motherland in the hour of need, and the part played by Canada in the Great War is a matter of history. Canada's future possibilities are great, and there is no doubt that the Dominion will in the near future become a strategic position in the British Empire, and a most important factor in the defence of the Empire. Canada's geographical position, her vast resources, and her stable form of government, all combine to make her a most desirable location in the British Empire, and it is to be hoped that the visit of the Prince of Wales will result in a large increase in the number of British people who will settle in Canada, and help to develop the natural resources of this great country. Canada's future prosperity and greatness is assured, and the world has left the latter open to people from the British Isles.

Mr. Baldwin's presence in the Dominion at this time is also a matter for congratulation, as he is one of the most prominent statesmen in the world at the present time, and will undoubtedly be welcomed by all Canadians.

It is hoped that the visit of the Prince of Wales will be productive of much good to the Empire, and that it will result in a closer union between the various parts of the Empire. Canada is proud to welcome the Prince of Wales, and hopes that his visit will be a most pleasant one. We feel sure that the Canadian people will do their best to make it so, and that the Prince will carry away with him many pleasant memories of his visit to the Dominion.

Canada is only in the infancy of its development, and the next few years will undoubtedly see a rapid growth in population and wealth. Canada is only starting to realize the possibilities that lie within her borders, and the next few years will see a great change in the Canadian conditions. Canada has been handicapped in the past by the lack of transportation facilities, but this is being overcome by the building of new railways, and by the extension of existing railways. On Wednesday afternoon, the third inst., Mr. J. W. and Mrs. Reid celebrated their fortieth wedding anniversary. It was a happy and auspicious day that the first forty years are the hardest. Grade VIII Candidates Make High Pass List

Students of Miss Lillie Reid Have Splendid Showing

Pupils of Vermilion public school writing on the Grade VIII departmental examinations, have made a splendid showing—in fact only upon one occasion to our knowledge has a better result been obtained. Of the fourteen candidates who wrote, thirteen have been successful in passing the other candidate failing in one subject. Miss Reid, former public school principal, is to be congratulated on the valuable work done during the year in charge of the school and the encouraging results obtained. The success is more tremendous when it is noted that no students were promoted by recommendation on the term standing as has been done heretofore. There was a reason for this—arrangements had been advanced against the system and it was thought to be detrimental to the progress of such students in their high school work. The pass list shows the students are fully qualified for the high school course in so far as the written tests are concerned and if there is anything in the arguments of competitive results to write their examinations, the class should make rapid progress in their new studies.

Those passing were:

Bowman, Roy Archibald
Cameron, Ida Ellen
Deschenaux, Charles Thomas
Miller, Lillian
McCrae, Edith Sophia
McNamara, Nellie

School Fair

Will Be Held on September 14th

The School Fair to be held on the 14th of next month promises to be the largest ever held in the district. The Canadian Bank of Commerce cup, awarded the school winning the largest number of points in the live stock section, has several schools up on their toes; calves and colts are being taught to lead, pigs and chickens are getting the extra feed etc. in the hope of being able to take the cup from King Edward school who were the winners last year; the cup has to be won three years in succession before becoming the property of the school. Chairmen won the first cup put up by the Bank, but fell badly behind last year which was the first year for the second cup.

The very favorable year for garden produce should mark a wonderful exhibit of vegetables. Remember, all the work must be done by the children and parents are advised to see that such is the case. Encourage the child to eat the garden and to train their own animals and then make it possible for them to come to the fair. It is hoped that the trustees of all schools, whether entered for the fair or not, will declare a holiday on the 14th of September, on that all pupils may attend the fair and make it a real children's day

A meeting of the committee, trustees, teachers and pupils is being called for September 3rd at 2 p.m. in the secretary's office to complete final arrangements and a full attendance is requested

Ontario Grain Pool

Membership Is Growing Rapidly and Organization Is On Sound Basis

J. O Lisle, grain accountant of the Manitoba Co-operative. What Producers Ltd., has returned from Toronto, where he assisted in the organization of the Ontario grain pool. Mr. Lisley's work was the formation of a grain accounting system for the new body.

During his stay in Toronto the membership in the newly formed pool jumped from 7,500 to approximately 8,000, with new contracts coming in every day. The farmers of Ontario expressed enthusiasm with the formation of their pool and there is every indication that the organization would have a sound and steady growth, Mr Lisley said.

Only certain sections of the province had been organized as yet by the pool, but there was a considerable demand from outside areas for pool representation also.

"Everything points to a bumper pool year in the eastern provinces," Mr. Lisley declared. "The pool is organized on a five year contract basis for the handling of wheat, barley and oats."

GOD'S PROMISE TO DAVID

Golden Text:—"Thy throne, O God, is for ever and ever; and the sceptre of righteous is the sceptre of Thy kingdom."—Hebrews 1:8.

Lesson: 1 Chronicles 17.

Devotional Reading: Hebrews 1. 5-12.

Explanations and Comments

1. David Plans To Build a Temple. verses 1, 2.—When David was at peace with his enemies, he began to consider what next he could do for his kingdom. To Nathan, the prophet, he told the plan which he had probably long cherished. He himself was dwelling in a house of cedar, he said to Nathan, but the ark of God was housed under curtains, in a tent made from goat's hair. Compare Haggai's argument for rebuilding the temple, in Haggai 1:4. "David was an old man when he spoke these words, but old age had not chilled his ar it so often does. It had not made him cynical nor selfish. As if there were nothing worth caring for but his own comfort. There is the ring of enthusiasm about his words, the note of resolve that nothing would be too splendid to be lavished on the house of the Lord. Compare 1 Kings 8:27.

David's plan seemed to Nathan good, and he told the king to do all that he desired to do for God was with him.

"The Lord demands my best. I will not help the house of cedar and offer to him the leavings of my life, like the cedar. I will offer him my best; he shall have the best of my time, the often I give him the fag-end of the day, after the business of the world is done, the remnant of the hour when I am quite tired out. I give the best for business. Henceforth I would give him the first part of the day, a quiet sacrifice the springs of the day to his glory. He shall have the best of my powers. I do so often put my whole self into my pleasures, and my whole into my business. My sacrifice is not a whole burnt offering." Lord Ian Maclaren's "Life of David."

3. God's Answer to David. verses 3-15.—Nathan was pleased with the plan of David, and he told the king to do all that he desired to do for God was with him.

But that night God spoke to Nathan, and he told the king to do all that he desired to do for God was with him.

"The Lord demands my best. I will not help the house of cedar and offer to him the leavings of my life, like the cedar. I will offer him my best; he shall have the best of my time, the often I give him the fag-end of the day, after the business of the world is done, the remnant of the hour when I am quite tired out. I give the best for business. Henceforth I would give him the first part of the day, a quiet sacrifice the springs of the day to his glory. He shall have the best of my powers. I do so often put my whole self into my pleasures, and my whole into my business. My sacrifice is not a whole burnt offering." Lord Ian Maclaren's "Life of David."

Germans Return To Military Splendor

Army Again Wearing Bright Buttons and Gold Lace

The German Reichswehr will soon blossom out in gay colors, bright buttons and gold lace, according to reports received in London from Berlin. According to a decree issued by the Defense Minister ordering changes in the uniform. The military spirit of the Imperial days will not be restored by this act, but it is a big step toward transforming the Greek field-gray soldiery to something like his former glory in dress.

With other nations returning to the spectacular in army attire, the Fatherland felt its also suffered by contrast. Officers attending court functions were outclassed by the uniformed diplomatic corps wearing braids and with chest covered with decorations.

However, the high staff coat collar will not be allowed, the Minister announces requests from the higher officers that Germany follow the British example in this fad, the ruling have held that they are "unmilitary."

Surplus War Stock Sold

British Supplies On Sale Since Armistice Finally Disposed Of

British war supplies, valued at nearly $3,500,000,000, which have been on sale ever since the Armistice, are now been finally cleared up, Charles E. Lyon, Assistant Commercial Attache at London, has informed the Department of Commerce at Washington. Everything was put up for sale, from packings of pins to a $25,000,000 marine engine. Many warplanes went most slowly of all. Poison gas cartridges and other forms of ammunition were not sold but others out to sea and dumped overboard. $25,000,000 worth being disposed of in this way. Among the articles disposed of were thousands of miles of railway lines in Belgium, Germany and Palestine. The British Government sold its stock of pickled herrings, which were moved to the Continent as the "goldfish" was in American troops. The War Liquidation Board sold 500,000 barrels of them at something over $5 a barrel

"Have we? Where do you live?"

"Oshkosh," was the prompt reply, and she's still wondering why every one within hearing laughed.

Decrease In Butter Exports

Record Shows Alarming Drop In Last Twelve Months

Butter exports from Canada dropped alarmingly in the twelve months ended in June, 1927, as compared with the corresponding period a year ago. According to a bulletin prepared by the Department of Trade and Commerce, shipments of this commodity during the year just ended amounted to 97,732 cwt., as compared with 251,964 cwt. in the preceding year, a decrease of 127,172 cwt. Moreover, there was a similar decrease in the value of exports, which fell from $4,218,423 a year ago, as compared with $3,321,466 in the twelve months ended June last. Although a small quantity of butter was imported from Canada, Mr. Firestone announced the establishment of a branch factory at Hamilton.

South African Flag Question

Political Controversy Over the Design Of the Proposed New Flag

The debate and controversy over the design of the proposed new South African flag continues unabated. Gen. Hertzog has issued a further offer to the opposition to co-operate the stalled on the proposed flag if that would meet the views of the opposition. This has been declined by General J. C. Smuts, leader of the South African Party, who has declared that he will not agree to the retention of the union flag which has figured in the history of South Africa.

The United Party has put forward Sir Thomas Smartt as that if they had known as a flag would be made to pull down the Union Jack they would never have entered union. Of course they would not That is why I say no flag.

The opposition leader counselled the people to vote against the government in the referendum on the proposed flag design and keep the question open with a view to having a really national flag by consent of all.

Cures Bovine Tuberculosis

Portland, Oregon, Veterinarian Demonstrates Efficiency Of His Methods

Five months are ten cows which had shown every sign of advanced tuberculosis and which had been condemned by United States herd inspectors were selected for a test of the supposed tuberculosis cure applied by Dr George Kirkpatrick, Portland veterinarian.

Recently three of the ten cows were slaughtered and subjected to a searching examination for traces of tuberculosis. At the request of the examination the carcasses of all three were passed on by Dr. A. J. Buss, United States inspector in charge of the tuberculosis and fit for human consumption

This was the outstanding development of the scientific rifle held at Portland as a climax to the official test sponsored by the Portland bureau and other research agencies.

PAINS ALL OVER BODY

Two More Cases of Feminine Illness Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Barrington, R. I.—"I had terrible feelings, backaches, back and side pains and pains all over my body. I would have to go to bed every month and nothing relieved me. My husband and my father did by work for me so I thought I would try it. I have quite a big place. I read in the paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and then got a little book about it through the mail, and my husband sent to Lynn's and got me a bottle, and then he got more from the store. I am feeling fine now and do my work and am able to put in several more. I tell my friends in Rhode Island what a reliable Compound that makes me feel so well."—Mrs. Ben Richardson, Barrington, Nova Scotia.

Dull Pains in Back

St. Thomas, Ont. "I took four bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and found great relief from dull pains in back, headache, nervousness, and the weakness from which I suffered for five years after my boy was born. After taking the Vegetable Compound and using Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash I am feeling better than I have for the past seven years, and advise my friends to take it."—Mrs. F. PAINTED FIRES

"You'll come over early, get dressed, and I'll make you up a little; just a little rouge on your cheeks, and your eyes darkened a bit. Then I'll go out in the car with my driver, and at the proper time he will bring you in, and I will introduce you as my friend's daughter. Then we'll have a little supper, and you'll be home by ten or three and then come to me and tell me you are tired." Then she went on to say that she knew you, but you will insist on going. Thomas will drive away with you and then help you back to the door. Dear Nanda will be in the secret, of course and she will see that the doors are shut when you are ready and you'll go to her room slip off the clothes, put on your own, wash off the rouge and powder, and come down and help to serve. Won't it be fun?"

Hulnd's days following this were passed in a delirium of expectation. The whole air around her, the chaste unimpeachable air of Miss Abbie's dining-room, was filled with visions. Her little world began suddenly enlarged by the touch of ringlets and the sound of a lover's voice. Her heart sang with happiness. She was seeing on. Canada was very good to her. She was hearing, too, the rustle of new spash over the telephone, buy things at the grocery, and one hought-ful day her several Miss Abbie had observed with her and would pay her said wages next month and all the next week with a happy face. Next morning she had confessed to Dimnah one of her secrets.

Hulnd, as she had come to call herself, by Jove would not be put through with her story in one sitting. Between bursts of confidence she would have to stop to wipe her eyes, or blow her nose, or to wipe the tears from Dimnah's face. Her confidences were interspersed with questions and comments on the character of Mr. Jones, and the progress of his courtship, leading to it being agreed that Dimnah should be taken into the confidence of Miss Abbie and Nanda, and that Mr. Jones should be invited to supper on the following Sunday evening.

"Then I'll make a cake," said Dimnah, "and I'll get some fresh eggs and some cream, and I'll make some of them little cookies that you like, and some of them little tarts with jelly on top."

"Oh, Dimnah, you are a dear!" cried Hulnd, and she threw her arms around the old woman's neck and kissed her.

"Dear, dear, you can, tie down some of the address, and for Mary Ann's sake, I'll do it. Dear, dear, that's why we haven't left, Mr. John would be angry, because of Mary Ann, and Miss Abbie will miss you a little bit, but me just as well, but you don't say no more about it, honey, you'll have a home with me as long as I live, and I'll be good to you, and you'll be good to me, and you'll be a good girl, and you'll be a good girl, and you'll be a good girl

BEING FULFILLED

In response to the editorial appearing in the last issue of the Standard for, how the ideas therein outlined are being fulfilled today, readers of this paper can determine for themselves.

The steady, consistent, increasing number of local members, is worthy of note, with tangible results to obtain and to assure the real value of the purchase of the farm in the markets of the world. When this end is attained as it undoubtedly will be when COMPLETE UNION exists among the producers in the province, dollars which, at the present time go into the pockets of the middlemen will come direct to the farmer in the increased price received on his grain and other produce. Every intelligent farmer can see to what extent the markets are manipulated to his disadvantage and to the making of millionaires. Regarding what there is NO REASON FOR THE MULTIPLES FLUCTUATIONS in wheat prices and the only way to GRAIN GROWERS OF THE WEST to obtain the full price is BY BANDING THEMSELVES TOGETHER INTO ONE VAST INDESTRUCTABLE ASSOCIATION TO SELL THEIR GRAIN DIRECT TO THE CONSUMER."

The Low-Swung Body

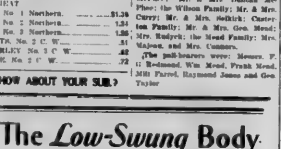
with no loss of headroom or road clearance



THE dream of every automobile manufacturer—to build a body low swung for beauty and for roadability, without loss of head-room or road-clearance—has become reality in McLaughlin-Buick for 1928.

McLaughlin-Buick engineers achieved this lower effect, not by the makeshift of smaller wheels with their increased tire wear, but by a complete re-designing of bodies, and by an entirely new and exclusive principle, the double-drop frame. The tallest McLaughlin-Buick now stands but 70 inches high, yet McLaughlin bodies are roomier than ever before.

See the low-swung body on McLaughlin-Buick builds it, and you will see at once why McLaughlin-Buick is the industry's accepted leader in beauty, luxury, performance — and especially in value.

ANGLE LAKE NEWS

A dance was held at Elk Point on Friday evening and was attended by Miss Kelly Borowsky Miss Milen Aldrid and Harry Borowsky of Angle Lake.

A report reached us this week that over a million bills of crop had been hailed out 100 pc. at Elk Point, but the truth is that it was 50 pc. over half mile square. We are sorry to say there was no insurance on the crop.

The trust of a week ago only did a slight damage to the gardens in this district and no serious crop loss is reported.

Mr. Kehoe, one of the three commissioners on the Alberta Liquor Board, visited this community this week.

Mr. Metley from Edmonton was at Angle Lake on Friday attending a meeting of the Credit Society held at the home of Mr. C. V. Larsen.

Much land is being broken up in this district and one can hear the hum of the tractor day and night on Mr. Larsen's place where he is having considerable land broken up this summer.

Needless to say, a large amount of binder twine will be used this year because of the heavy crop. Mr. Aldrid is busy hauling it out from town. On Friday he had only three bags of twine left on reaching home, having sold it nearly all on the road. The grain is ripening fast and will be ready to cut this week on some farms.

Angle Lake school had a fine record in the passing of the two pupils who were in Grade VIII, Clarence Aldrid and Matthew Charrens. Much credit is due to the teacher, Miss Helen Anderson, for the fine showing of the school.

Miss Johnson of Wetaskiwin has arrived and is holding the vacation school in the hall here every evening during the week until Aug. 31th. On Sunday special services will be held in the evening; the young people will take charge of the service.

On Sunday evening, "Mother's Day" was observed here and flowers were worn in memory of "mother." A fine impromptu concert was held. Miss Johnson assisted greatly in the service and will be present again next Sunday. She would like to see all the children present at the morning school as well as the Sunday service

BIRD HILL BROADCAST

A slight frost visited some spots of the district on Sunday night of last week, touching garden truck but not severe enough to do any real harm.

Miss Mary Coombes visited friends in Mannville on Tuesday last week.

Messrs. Gordon, Bill Davis, Thos. Bowcott and the McKintosh boys are helping J. G. Seymour put up hay and are also making good progress while the road weather is on.

Mr. & Mrs. H. Tempest and family motored up from Wilkeson, Alberta, to spend a few days visiting their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Coombes, returning home Thursday.

Any of the newspapers who can spare the time and are willing to do battle in the best interest for the school may do so at any time, as only about one-third has been hauled. The gravel pit to be code S.E. of Section 27.

Dan Hunt, the local vet., reports cleaning up a spud which measured in his hand at this borough, weighing 2½ lbs. and 6 others in proportion of the same vine. Looks like a record spud crop.

To be continued next week

Double Arrest Here May End Number Of Forgeries

Vermilion Merchant Doubts Authenticity of Cheque; Arrest Follows

VERMILION, Aug. 15—The arrest here of two young men who gave their names as Bill Millar and Bill Sacerbuk is believed to have ended the chase that has been going on for the past two months for the apprehension of the parties who stole blank grain cheques from one of the elevators at Smoky Lake and who since have successfully passed several of these out at Edmonton and in some of the smaller towns east of that city, including Vermilion.

Elevator Broken Into

One of the grain elevator companies here was broken into on Thursday night and several blank grain cheques stolen.

Late Friday afternoon two young men entered the store of M. Weber & Sons and made a purchase of some articles of clothing for which they proffered a grain check made out by the Smoky Lake elevator covering the sale of 4,000 bushels of wheat. The check was referred to the manager, Sam Weber, who immediately got in touch with Smoky Lake to inquire as to the genuineness and was told that the check was no good

Weber then called Chief of Police Oakley, and they notified the merchant to hold the boy car in which they had been driving when town at day. The battery was fagrantly disconnected so that when they tried to operate the car the engine refused to reply. Chief Oakley in the meantime had lost no time in rounding up the pair.

Passed Another Check

Early in the afternoon they succeeded in passing one of the checks at a local store for the purchase of a suit of clothes and shoes, and upon the balance of the purchase price in cash. As if they might be any doubt they exhibited a second cheque apparently duly signed and [illegible] Constable Oakley picked up the check and communicated with Smoky Lake. He was advised that the check was among those that had been stolen from the elevator there. Further inquiry and when the officer was satisfied that they were connected with the theft of the cheques, promptly arrested and locked up in the police barracks. The provincial police detachment was notified and on Saturday Corp. Leslie arrived in town to escort both the prisoners to Edmonton for identification that utterances

Will Be Held

They had about $100 in cash on their persons and about half a dozen still cheques filled with checks and seals, passed in general all of which have taken to Edmonton. The car is still held here. Sacerbuk is said to be the nephew of Smoky Lake and the time that they were rounded up the checks were destroy of. They escaped from the Mother Lode a month ago and it is said that all told have put nominal face value of Smoky Lake forms in circulation.

Behind When Dick rounded the corner the car could not be started and before much time had elapsed was taken in charge by Provincial Police Investigating Record

Believed to be the murderer by Inspector J. S. Price commanding a division A.P.P. regarding the two alleged swindlers and there is also at present indeed in the local guardroom of the provincial police Edmonton following their arrest at Vermilion on Friday by the constable here.

They are charged with breaking and entering the Alberta Pacific Elevator at Smoky Lake on August 1, and it is said that other charges may later be preferred.

Colonel W. C. Bryan commissioner of the force said that the arrested pair had in their possession a car of which he could not be secured as having been sold in Canada officially the car has been entered the country he said. LOCAL FOOTBALLERS LOSE FIRST GAME THIS SEASON

The Lloydminster Cubbs, by virtue of better marksmanship passed out the Vermilion footballers in an exhibition match here by 2 goals to 1 on Wednesday evening at the Athletic grounds. The slippery pitch made kicking uncertain, but nevertheless the game was the best here this season and we closely contested all the way. The locals were two goals down until a few minutes before time, when Johnson at centre took McLean's cross and slammed it past the Lloydminster goalie to make the score 2 to 1. Both Referees handled the game splendidly

I was very weak and nervous. I had always worked hard, with no thought of my health, until suddenly my strength left me. I began to feel tired and depressed. I had no appetite, and at night feeling just as tired as the morning. My head used to ache and I didn't seem to feel interested in anything. I was very thin, and it was necessary for me to do. I saw some advertisements of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and decided to try them. I had not taken more than a box when I noticed an improvement in my health, which was a source of pride and delight to our neighbors to visitors from afar.

Flowers Made Of Rubber

Reproductions Are Very Realistic and Will Not Crush

Realistic reproductions of certain varieties of flowers are now being made from rubber, a process of recent discovery. They are covered in the soft coating of rubber and by the time they are finished look like the real thing. Even the leaves are modeled to heighten the effect. Besides these blossoms, and artificial ones have been in use for years, there is also being produced a rubber flower that will not crush. Rubber flowers can be crushed or bent out of the shape in which they were originally modeled, but they will spring back into shape and retain their original beauty. They may be opened or closed to present fully blown blossoms or buds.

Speed Hard To Imagine

Expert English Racing Plane Will Travel 305 Miles An Hour

Some words ago an English army officer, in a speed test on a Florida beach, drove his car at a speed of 207 miles an hour. This is the greatest rate of travel ever made in any sort of machine driven on land or sea. But it is reported that an airplane has been made in England for a forthcoming race which can develop a speed of 300 miles an hour.

It is not easy to realize what it would mean to travel at such a rate of speed. The fastest express trains rarely go faster than sixty or seventy miles an hour. Three hundred miles an hour is a speed that is almost beyond our powers to imagine. The pilot of such a machine would have to be a superman. The machine's passengers would be helpless. Many accidents would be inevitable.

This is most encouraging to the most disturbed parts of Europe. The Bolsheviks are disbanding three infantry regiments, three light artillery and two cavalry regiments.

Massive Portages Of Fort Lennox On the Richelieu River

Among the historic memorials of Canada that have been from time to time placed under the care of the Canadian National Parks Branch of the Department of the Interior there is none richer in historic interest or more charmingly situated than the massive old fortress, Fort Lennox, that stands in quiet dignity on the southern end of its sod Nuit in the Richelieu river, in the province of Quebec. This fortress was erected by the British military authorities in the early part of the last century, and since its abandonment as a military post in 1869 has been visited by increasing numbers of tourists each year.

Agricultural Statistics

Number Of Occupied Farms In West Is Less Than In 1921

Ottawa.—The Dominion Bureau of Statistics has issued a preliminary report on the agricultural statistics of the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, as shown by the quinquennial census taken in June, 1926.

The report showed a decrease in the number of occupied farms in all three provinces over the year 1921, when the last census was taken. The 1926 returns showed 52,251 occupied farms in Manitoba as compared with 52,252 in 1921; 117,787 occupied farms in Saskatchewan as compared with 119,153, and 77,130 in Alberta as compared with 82,851.

Saskatchewan, 43,944,965 (44,922,967).

Improved farm land was shown as Manitoba, 8,246,622 (8,657,233).

Crop Report Encouraging

Under Favorable Conditions Yield May Exceed First Estimates

Ottawa.—The crop report of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, based on condition of all field crops throughout Canada is encouraging. The condition of spring wheat is numerically expressed as 102 per cent of the 10 year average, representing an anticipated yield of 16.6 bushels per acre and a total forecast for all wheat of 467,000 bushels, from 22,235,727 acres.

Last year, at the corresponding date, the condition of spring wheat was reported at 92 per cent, representing an average yield per acre of 13.6 bushels and the total forecast for all wheat was then 316,360,000 bushels. The final estimate of yield per acre turned out to be 468,317,000 bushels.

Assuming that conditions this year remain favorable until the end of harvesting, there appears to be grounds for expectation that the wheat crop may turn out to be more than 468,000,000 bushels, and the total crop of all grains may be correspondingly large. Of course, the usual hazards of frost, rust, hail, etc., are to be reckoned with, but the crop is generally considered unusually well advanced for the season of the year, and the latest reports received by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics from correspondents are to the effect that conditions have been favorable for the ripening of the grain. Prince Minister Mackenzie King, in the course of his recent speech in the House of Commons, referred to the splendid appearance of the crops, particularly on the prairies, and the parliament of Commerce, subject to the approval of the Board of Trade chapter of the National Service Association.

The committee announced its decision after a meeting which lasted well into the early hours of the morning. The committee's report is expected to be submitted to the Board of Trade chapter of the National Service Association.

National Sporting League May Have Candidate To Oppose Premier

London.—Winston Churchill, chancellor of the exchequer probably will be opposed by an Independent Conservative candidate in the Epping division of Essex in the next general election, it was learned today.

Major Archibald Church, who is the selected candidate of the Epping Conservatives, is a member of the National Sporting League and has declared himself opposed to the betting tax. This announcement was made by Prince Wards & William Reilly Inc. The policy of forced payment of bets has aroused the indignation of the sporting public which has determined to oppose the betting tax at the next election.

POLITICAL UPSET NOW PREDICTED IN FREE STATE

Dublin.—The recent assassination of Kevin O'Higgins, vice-president of the Free State Council, and the murderous attack President Cosgrave's Government adopted in the face of that murder, have had surprising and unforeseen consequences which observers say threaten to upset the Cosgrave Government and completely revolutionize the political situation in the Irish Free State.

Among the Government's measures was one to compel all candidates at elections to take the oath of allegiance to the British Crown before registering to the polls. This measure was expected to split the Fianna Fail, the Republican party headed by Eamon de Valera, whose members had stood loyally refused to take any such oath. Instead, the Government has now decided Fianna Fail into a determination to subscribe to the oath.

This decision revealed in 45 Republican deputies, including de Valera himself, taking the oath and assuming their seats in the Dail for the first time. The Republicans previously had let it be known that the taking of such an oath would be formality, so far as they were concerned, as they made it with the mental reservation that they subscribed allegiance only to the Irish nation.

The advent of the Republican deputies into the Dail gives the opposition parties just enough votes to upset the Government, and it is said that the three opposition parties—the Republicans, headed by de Valera, the National Labor group, whose chief is Captain William Redmond, and the Laborites, who are led by Tom Johnson—have decided to act together and that a future policy is being arranged between them. It was said, however, that it was not expected any Republican party would take office if a new Government was formed.

TWO RADICALS AGAIN GRANTED BRIEF REPRIEVE

Since Prison, Charleston, Mass.—Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti again have been given a new lease on life.

The radicals, condemned to expiate with their lives the crime committed seven years ago, in the shrewsbury shoe factory robbery and murder, have been granted a respite of 30 days pending further hearings.

This announcement was made by Prison Warden William Reilly Inc. The policy of forced payment of bets has aroused the indignation of the sporting public which has determined to oppose the betting tax at the next election.

Many times before these two and their firm, whose specialty is international interest as one of the most remarkable handle cases in the history of the world, they have been called upon to solve problems of the most baffling character, but never before within a few hours of the death of the night would one of them be called upon to identify the body of the kidnapper, largely responsible for the crime which was costing the life.

Premiers Meet

TRADE OUTLOOK IN CANADA IS VERY FAVORABLE

Calgary.—That the general industrial transportation and agricultural outlook from reports resulting data from all parts of Canada was on the whole excellent and would further improve as the market for Canadian products was widened, was the statement made here by C. W. Beatty, K.C., chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

"An important factor in the better condition will be a steadily increasing population" he said. The transportation companies of course, only reflect the general conditions of the country and compared with last year, its gross earnings are higher but its operating costs have increased and later resulted in lower net earnings. The financing transportation companies, however, has not yet been paid out, but the indications point to the improved position of the railways in the near future. It will be depended on the crops and it is early during the next two weeks if the conditions are favorable, another substantial crop will be in for country's progress all the way.

What are your impressions of the possibilities Canada will derive from its recent visit to the Hon. Ramsay MacDonald and Prime Minister Baldwin?" Mr. Beatty was asked.

"The visits which Canada will derive cannot help but be very great and far reaching," he said. "Canada made a very favorable impression on the representatives of the public and the press. The people of Canada can rest assured that the hospitality of our people will be continued if it has not been particularly commented on the occasion of the visit of the Prime Minister and his colleagues at Great Britain and the Prime Ministers' conference. The impression of the public leaders of the Empire was favorable to the country's progress all the way."

Eighty acres of land have been broken and crops put in. Mr. Duncan says that the crops are in splendid condition and that the yield promises to be very satisfactory. Other settlers in the district have also made good progress.

Welcome Settlers To District

Movies of Reception

Frank J. Alp, his wife and their seven children, new settlers, were accorded a hearty reception at the Canadian National depot Tuesday afternoon upon their arrival here from England. It was a real welcome to the district in which they have come to make a new home and must have made the family feel that although they were severed from old associations by many thousands of miles, they were finding here a very warm friendship extended to them. Mr. Alp who is a cousin of Charlie Alp, north west of town came out from Pontefract, Yorkshire under the auspices of the C. P. R. through the British Immigration Scheme and was met at Vermilion by W. T. Whitelaw of the Colonization department. Travelling on the same boat with them was Mr. Roy Tash, cine-camera-reporter of the Associated Screen News, London destined for Vermilion to take a number of pictures in the Clan Ian Mhor settlement. Mr. Tash took motion pictures of the family as they left the train and the scenes of the greetings and presentation of a beautiful bouquet to Mrs. Alp by Vera, the young daughter of Mayor Fallen.

This was the first occasion on which the citizens have seen the cinematograph in action in Vermilion, and some 500 feet of film recorded the new settlers arrival. Several hundred feet more were made on arrival at the farm and these films will be shown all over the old country.

Mr. Tash finished up his work in the Hebridean colony today and is accompanied by Mr. Whitelaw left in the afternoon for Edmonton.

Weather for the past week has been unsettled with local rain falls and an overcast sky. Today is bright and warm. Harvest will not start until the end of next week.

Sept. 8th has been officially set for the Lamont-ville and District School fair which will, we understand be held in people's hall. There is no entrance fee in connection with this fair and parents are urged to attend and bring their children whether their school belongs to the association or not. Come and encourage the teachers and pupils. Come and see the pupils in action. You will not be disappointed.

The home of Mrs. J. Warine was the scene of a happy gathering on Friday evening when Miss Blanche Cooper, a bride to be, was given a surprise shower by a number of her friends. During the forenoon of the wedding march played by Mr. Warine, little Joy Watson and Ian Dunn as the bride and groom, entered the reception room bearing a heavily laden basket of miscellaneous gifts which was presented to Miss Cooper, who made a suitable acknowledgement. A dainty luncheon was then served and a very merry time enjoyed.

VESSEL SALVAGED AFTER 113 YEARS

H. M. S. Nancy, Sunk During War of 1812, Is Raised

WAWASA BEACH, Ont., Aug. 19.—The progress is being made in the salvaging of H. M. S. "Nancy" and today the cluster of seabeans responsible through the hull of the historic boat after a silence of 113 years, when practically all of the ship's starboard planking was stripped of the old which had accumulated upon them, and the oaken planks again exposed to the sun and air on the bank of the Nottawasaga river.

The schooner "Nancy" was used by the British government as a transport boat during the war of 1812, on the lakes. She was chased into the Nottawasaga river by the American fleet and was sunk by her own crew. There she has remained ever since, and is now being raised as a relic.

CHANGE OF GRADES FOR WEST END SCHOOL

The School Board has decided to place Grades IV, V and VI in the West end school this year, these being about the smallest classes. Grades V and VI will be a combined section. Further alterations of the building are being made by contractor Burns including two additional windows. Grades I and II will be transferred to the Alexandra building. Miss Stone will probably have charge of Grade VII, Miss Newton of V and VI, Miss Bailey of IV, Miss Gubley of II, Miss Irvine of II and Miss Peters of I. Mr. Bailey will have charge of the South Side school. The arrangement to however subject to change as Principal Stewart says nothing definite.

The secretary has received acceptances from students for the high school. The re-instatement of Grade XII is meeting with much favor.

VERMILION FOOTBALLERS LOSE AT LLOYDMINSTER

LLOYDMINSTER Sask. Aug. 20 — Playing against a team that was built from the ground up, Vermilion Football team of the Lloydminster Association lost here last night. Vermilion boys made up a well balanced team and showed that they had plenty better class of football than was displayed here last night. It is to be hoped that they will be given a chance to play here in the near future, as the locals are a good team and would make a good match for the visitors.

Canada To The Fore

Canada is certainly being kept well before the people of the British Isles this year and to a greater or less extent is calling for the attention of the people of the United States. The publicity the Dominion is receiving is of the best and most effective type and can hardly fail to be productive of results highly beneficial to the country.

The elaborate and extensive but successful celebrations in connection with the Diamond Jubilee of Confederation focussed the attention of the Empire, and large sections of the United States, upon the Dominion and led to a study of one of the most interesting and fruitful periods in the history and the rapidly marvellous development of the country during the past sixty years. Canada today is better known and appreciated not only by the people of Canada, but by the world. The story of her development has been told far and wide and in such a way as to command the earnest attention and consideration of people of power and influence.

Following the Jubilee celebrations the visit of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, Prince George, and Premier Baldwin has again kept Canada prominently before the people of Great Britain for some of three months. Everywhere he has been he has been followed with the interest of the British press and it is well within the bounds of probability that a very great deal of business will come to Canada.

Canada will also be given to British fore-reading to Canada.

McLaughlin-Buick took vibration out of the engine—Now it has taken it out of the road

WHEN McLaughlin-Buick made its famous six-cylinder, Valve-in-Head engine vibrationless beyond belief, the world over, hailed this startling advance in motor car performance as an engineering triumph.

Now McLaughlin-Buick for 1928 has followed with another great contribution to motoring comfort. McLaughlin-Buick has taken vibration out of the road by equipping every model with Hydraulic Shock Absorbers, front and rear—an added luxury that the savings of McLaughlin-Buick volume have been able to supply.

McLaughlin-Buick Hydraulic Shock Absorbers—made an integral part of the car by re-designing springs and chassis — provide far greater smoothness than Shock Absorbers which are added as "extra equipment". 9-1928

Too Many M.P.'s Says Resolution

Conservatives of East Sussex Favor a Smaller Parliament

WINDSOR, Ont., Aug. 24—A resolution was unanimously endorsed last night by Conservatives of East Kimes, meeting at Riverside to instruct delegates to the National Convention at Winnipeg. The resolution will be made an issue at the convention by the Conservatives of Essex county, according to E. J. Bellgrovette, president of the East Essex Conservative association who sponsored it.

The meeting also accepted a resolution offered by Hon. H. D. Morrand former member for East Essex. Dr. Morrand asks that privilege accorded to immigrants from Europe be extended to former Canadians, now residents in the United States in case they desire to return to their native land, and also to city dwellers in the dominion who wish to take advantage of the government's plan to use unused 40-d lands.

BEHIND THE
WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 14TH, 1927

Every effort is being made this year to make the School Fair the largest and best ever, of course this cannot be done without the co-operation of all the pupils and their parents from the various districts entering. Parents should encourage the children to compete—give them a coat, cap, or hair bow or feed and attend; set aside a garden patch and let the child do the work. Instructions and advice may be given, but should end there all work must be done by the child To do the work for them is only an example of dishonesty, and the whole object of School Fairs fails to the ground. School Fairs encourage good citizenship, morality, and train the child to win and to lose Part of "The Good Indian's Prayer" reads

"Help me to win if I win I may
But—and this O Powers especially,
If I may not win, make me a good loser."

A full programme of sports for the children is being arranged, and the committee are quite an attraction in an exhibition of Folk Dancing. All these dances will be in costume and should prove quite an attraction.

The meeting for final arrangements is to be held in the Secretary's office on Saturday, September 3rd at 2 p.m.

The Standard has been asked to urge the attention of the School Board to the unsightly and neglected condition of the grounds surrounding the west side school building with its dense crop of four foot pig weeds, and with the hope that an effort will be put forth to make the surroundings a little more cheerful as well as healthier, by cutting and burning the weeds and thoroughly cleaning up the grounds in preparation for the re-opening of school September 1st.

THE PROPOSED HIGH SCHOOL

The proposal of the Vermilion school board to submit the matter of providing a four-roomed building for high school purposes will at once meet with approval from quite a number of the ratepayers, and there will be those who will protest. The chief objection will be that it may mean, as it is almost sure to do, an increase in our school taxes. There there will be those who will say that we do not need a high school, as a fact, that we should get our education altogether. There will be objection to the raising of money brought down upon the various grounds raised, and the whole object of School Fairs fails to the ground. School Fairs encourage good citizenship, morality, and train the child to win and to lose Part of "The Good Indian's Prayer" reads

"Help me to win if I win I may

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

London now has a telephone connection with Stockholm, Sweden.

Hugh Watson, head of the great packing industry bearing his name, died in London following a six weeks' illness with typhoid fever. He was 57 years old.

Great Lakes and Inter-Lakes have sold to the Interlake Steamship Company, Cleveland, Ohio, for $127,500 each. Each vessel will be put in service immediately.

His Highness Jagindra Singh, Maharajah of Idar, is dead. He was a member of the Indian Round Table Conference. Mr. Baldwin in the following year bestowed the honorary freedom of the City of London upon the Maharajah and the profits on the dinner given to him were devoted to charities.

Only about one per cent. of the patent medicines sold in Canada are manufactured in Canada, according to Mr. Woodsworth, M.P., who is making an effort to have the government prohibit the sale of patent medicines containing habit-forming drugs. Mr. Woodsworth says that the manufacturers of patent medicines are not willing to disclose the formulae of their products, and that the public is entitled to know what it is buying.

Dr. Hardy, Minister of Agriculture for Ontario, has announced the appointment of the Canadian Seaforth Highlanders for the year 1928 at the Canadian National Exhibition. The appointment was made at the eighth annual meeting of the Association held in Toronto recently. Lieut.-Col. Wm. Wingfield, commanding officer of the regiment, succeeds Lieut.-Col. W. J. Fothergill, deceased.

Seeing that the cities in Canada are largely responsible for the war expenditure, it is only right that they should have some considerable share in the revenue from customs and excise duties, and Mr. Bennett will be heartily supported in the House in any attempt to secure a change in the present system.

Surveys of a road route between Prince George and the boundaries of Alberta, have been ordered by the British Columbia government. It will be the first of the trans-Canada highways to be surveyed. The road into the North Peace River district will be extended as soon as possible.

Mr. Bennett has announced that the Canadian Seaforth Highlanders of Canada will visit Scotland in 1928. The proposal was made at Ottawa by Lieut.-Col. Wingfield, commanding officer of the regiment, who was accompanied by Lieut.-Col. W. J. Fothergill, honorary colonel.

Reports from Alberta this week indicate that the wheat crop will be considerably above the average. Some districts will have a bumper crop. Harvesting will start in the Medicine Hat district about August 15th.

Tribute To Mr. Baldwin

In a Patriot in the Best Sense Of the Word

A very prominent man out of Mr. Baldwin's public life remarked to me a year that the Prime Minister of Great Britain never stood out so well as when he is the choice days when of the General Strike, and the magnificence of character notably revealed in it by his personal influence appeal with the right way. He words revealing the working men of his country in his powerful address to the Trades Union Congress Club again disclosed the big-hearted, sane, and patriotic Englishman, perfectly in harmony with the hard-earned world.

Viewed as a mere statistical proposition, the loans better than Mr. Baldwin the following have been floated in the United States by his Government and the profits on the dividend to the charities.

Enforce Food and Drug Act

Canadian Health Officers Keep Strict Check On Quality Of Supplies

All matters pertaining to Canada's food supply are of such vital importance that Parliament has enacted legislation to prevent misrepresentation of foods as well as fraudulent or dangerous adulteration. The legislation is received in the Food and Drug Act which is administered by the Department of Health as one of its many functions in the public service, writes H. M. Lancaster, chief Dominion analyst, in an article prepared under the direction of R. J. A. Wilson, deputy minister of federal health department.

"A review of some years activities gives a glimpse of what is being done to prevent undesirable complications and to maintain quality and honesty in the sale of foods and drugs. Apart from agricultural inspection at production centres. Twenty-six inspectors of foods and drugs are on duty throughout Canada and laboratories were opened at Ottawa, Halifax, Montreal, Winnipeg and Vancouver. In all over 10,000 samples of foods and drugs were examined. Many of these were purchased in retail stores, and still more taken direct from factories.

"A wide range of foods is covered by these investigations, and a close study of the results of analyses under standard special attention was paid to the problem of the preservation of milk and cream by boric acid, which until most recently became a dumping ground for the residue of other food preservatives which were prohibited. Other problems related conditions to the national life included skimmed milk powder, condensed milk, evaporated milk, and especially on bread, the bloody issue of oleomargarine versus butter.

How Icebergs Are Destroyed

Melted Or Using Thermite Is Found Highly Successful

An iceberg is almost indestructible by any known means. Many have been towed into warm waters, having sides so precipitous that no foothold could be found upon which to land explosives, and so deep, was encountered by a recent bombing demolishing party.

Armed with ropes, ice picks, auger drills, and canisters containing thermite the men were laying a highly explosive charge of incendiary material that would ensure the total destruction of the huge mass of ice.

Thermite is the name given to a powder which, when ignited, develops a heat of 5,000 degrees Fahrenheit. In a few hours the large iceberg crumbled and disappeared.

Storms Make Atlantic Passage Formidable

Competent Ocean Weather Bureau and Suitable Planes Will Overcome Trouble

It is not distance but storms that make the Atlantic formidable. Given reliable weather information and suitable machines, the ocean can be reduced to mere ferry-boat dimensions. Such, in brief, is the opinion of Sir Alan Cobham, the famous British aviator, who has been engaged for the past year in making a complete survey of the North Atlantic route by air.

Old Age Pension Scheme

An old age pension scheme will shortly be put into effect in British Columbia and the Yukon, the necessary enabling legislation having been passed, it is stated by Hon. Peter Heenan, minister of labor.

The Line To Fort Churchill

Engineering Difficulties Will Be Encountered In Laying Out New Road Bed

It is expected that the railway to Fort Churchill will be completed to within the close up 1929, said C. Gordon, chief engineer of the new transcontinental line of the Canadian National Railways, who has been elected by the Dominion Government to aid in rehabilitation and further extension of the Hudson Bay railway.

Mr. Gordon said that although there will be no difficulty in establishing railhead terminals for any rail line, capable expertly-engineered at a reasonable cost, the land being got really did for a considerable width, giving a wide choice of location. The road and railhead construction to be put into the line is generally very similar to the present H. B. railway. Something more than the number depth and conditions of frost are the only matters to be seriously apprehended in the construction of the line. The season of 1929 will be entirely clearing and grading the route ready to track laying, bridging and building in 1929. As labor, of course, requires will be encountered. The possibility to various streams and the [illegible] passage at the mouth of the Nelson was also touched.

A Lucky Fisherman

A string of ambergris worth $12,000 has been found in the belly of a sperm whale by a fisherman of Gloucester, Mass., who was attracted to the spot by observing a flock of seagulls hovering over it. The ambergris, a substance of the consistency of wax, is sometimes found floating in the ocean. It solidifies and as a morbid secretion in the body of the sperm whale it is highly valued in perfumery.

Red Tape

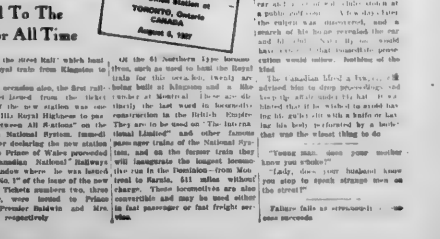
First Ticket Out Is Issued To The Prince of Wales. Good For All Time

Largest Locomotive In The Empire Hauls Royal Train Into New Station

The first locomotive to haul a train into the new Union Station at Toronto, on the occasion of the opening of the station by H.R.H. the Prince of Wales on August 4th, 1927, will be one of the 61st Northern Type locomotives recently placed in service by the Canadian National Railways for handling their fast passenger and mainline trains. These locomotives, which are the largest in the British Empire, and of which 60 have been ordered for use on Canadian lines, are distinctively a product of Canada. With tender, their over-all weight is 326 tons; length 94 feet and they are capable of developing more than 3200 horse power. It was this "Train of the Steel Rail" which hauled the royal train from Kingston to Toronto.

On the occasion also, the first railway ticket issued from the new booths of the new station was one reading H.R.H. Edward Prince of Wales" on the Canadian National System, immediately after declaring the new station open, the Prince of Wales proceeded to the "Canadian National" Railways ticket window where he was handed the "Ticket No. 1" of the issue of the new station. Tickets numbers two, three and four, were issued to Prince George, Prince Rainier and Mrs. Baldwin, respectively.



Of the 61 Northern type locomotives, such as the one forming the first train for this occasion, twenty are being built at Kingston and a like number at Montreal. They are distinctively the last word in locomotive construction in the British Empire. They are to be used on The International Limited" and other famous passenger trains of the National System, and on the former train they will inaugurate the longest locomotive run in the Dominion—from Montreal to Sarnia, 511 miles without change. These locomotives are also convertible and may be used either in fast passenger or fast freight service.

NATHAN LEADS DAVID TO RE-PENTANCE

Golden Text: "Create in me a clean heart, O God; Then I will not sin against thee."—Psalm 51:17.

Lesson: 2 Samuel 11:1 to 12:25. Devotional Reading: Psalm 102. 8-14

Explanations and Comments

1. Nathan's Parable, verses 1-4.—Several months have passed since David ordered the murder of Uriah and took to himself the latter's wife. Now the prophet Nathan has come, and in a crudely way, by means of a parable, he brings home to David the enormity of his sin.

There were two men in one city; one of them was rich, having exceedingly many flocks and herds; the other had nothing save one little ewe lamb. Nathan adds one detail after another to show that both are to us to arouse the listener's sympathy for the poor man and intolerance of the rich man's deed. He has a heart and sensibility; it grew up together with him and with his children; it did eat of his own morsel, and drank of his own cup, and lay in his bosom, and was quite him as a daughter. There came a traveler unto the rich man. "The traveller was, as Bishop Patrick explains from the Jewish writings, the evil inclination, distinction, or desire." Who is the rich David's heart?" For this wayfaring guest's food the rich man took the poor man's lamb, sparing his own flock and herd." Rather than take one

FLOWER SERVICE UNITED CHURCH

Last Sunday morning the annual Flower Service was held in the United Church. The church was filled with happy worshipping children and their parents. Beautiful flowers of every description from the gorgeous dahlia and gladiolus to the humble wild aster decorated the pulpit and choir platform while banked high as a background was a great sheaf of native foliage. Lovely baskets of flowers sent in memory of loved ones occupied places of honor. The most beautiful part of the service, however, was the presentation in baptism of six lovely babies. It was a service long to be remembered. The teachers and officers wish to thank heartily all who contributed to its success

Entries At The Horticultural Show Totalled 318

Profusion of Beautiful Flowers-Large Array Vegetables-Several Special Exhibits

The third annual show of the Vermilion Horticultural Society held thursday was the most outstanding in the short annals of this body. The season has been an ideal one for the promotion and development of plants, flowers and garden vegetables, and this was reflected in the outstanding array of exhibits, numbering 318, seen in the magnificent display shown in the gymnasium of the new municipal skating rink. The entire space in these roomy quarters was required to accommodate the entries and the arranging and classification was so ably carried out by the committee in charge that everything was in full view, which added tremendously not only to the much-to-be beautiful effect, but to the enjoyment as well of those attending.

Sweet peas in their many and varied colorings were very numerous; the Zinnia showing was large with blooms of wonderful development and Dahlias also made up a beautiful display with their fine colors. In fact, all sections in cut flowers were well filled up. Asters also had their full quota and made an attractive array. Vegetables unquestionably were the best ever put on exhibit here, with many entries in each class; they could not have been more uniform and quality stood high. The entries filled a long trestle table the entire length of the gymnasium. Plants and flowers occupied two other trestle tables. Besides the competitive entries there were several displays on exhibition purposes only. The Vermilion School of Agriculture exhibit which was in this class, occupied a prominent position across the end of the show room the elaborateness and completeness as well as beauty of the showing was much commented upon and attracted well merited attention. Another special was the pretty display of flowers by Mrs J. Wilbertz showing natural growth in Alberta, besides these were plant by A. J. Kaiser and sweet peas by C. L. Robinson of Northern Valley.

A few items this year was lacking the show open until 10 o'clock p.m. which enabled more people to attend. G. H. Bramwell of Lloydminster judged the flower display while C. R. Robinson of Northern Valley handled the vegetables. The garden judges were J. D. Stephens, J. P. Anderson and C. R. Johnston.

The officers of the society and the committee who were responsible for the great success attending the show are to be congratulated and it is to be ... that they may meet with even larger measure of success next ...

EIGHTH FORTNIGHTLY CROP REPORT

Issued by Department of Agriculture, Information Service, Edmonton, August 27th, 1927

The whole province gives promise of an excellent crop with both straw and yields not any times or grain. Late seeding, with abnormal shortage in the early part of the season, is responsible for the somewhat late ripening of the general crop. The same unhealthy we have had this last week in ripening the crops with great rapidity. The earlier varieties of wheat, particularly that sown on lighter land, are now mature and a considerable amount of cutting of this grain has already been done. Cutting will now be general, however, until the first week of September.

A careful check-up of the local situation shows that there has been no frost damage except in the extreme north-eastern section of the province. In some isolated districts in this area frost struck rather heavily. Except in the above area, the province is entirely free from frost damage. Hail damage has been more prevalent than usual, with the result that damage from this source will be slightly greater than average. Rust has made an appearance in a few sections. The damage from this source, however, is negligible.

Notwithstanding the losses caused by the above mentioned agencies it is further serious losses occur, we have mentioned that the province will have the largest total yield on record in its history. A particularly signifi cant feature this year is to be found in the fact that there is a uniformly good crop in every section of the province.

Large numbers of harvesters are now arriving, and it is not anticipated that any shortage of help will occur.

"THIS week-end at the Columbia CLARA BOW in "RIGHT HOUSE BOOTH". From the Saturday Evening Post story A picture with a punch

WEED GROWTH THIS SEASON SERIOUS MENACE

Every neglected corner of land — and unfortunately also many farms which are under cultivation — will this year send flying with the breezes thirty quarts of weed seeds.

It is one of the greatest evils of a season of rank growth. There will be a heavy rush of work in a very short time and the weeds may be left to do their worst.

It is pleasing to know that in some districts special steps are being taken and the Lethbridge Herald commends the prompt action of the weed inspectors in the Macleod district in seeking to control the new thistle menace across the Old Man river before the spread of this most noxious weed in to the whole of the Lethbridge-Northern irrigation district.

Commenting, the Herald says, "In their efforts they should have the full support of every government, municipal district and every farmer in the community. For thistle is one of the worst weeds. If our farmers could get a true picture of the destruction wrought by it in the Red River valley in Manitoba and North Dakota, there would be no need to urge them to fight it. It is almost impossible to eradicate, when it takes possession of a farm it takes complete possession. It is therefore proper that super-human efforts should be made to wipe out the small patches which would be the source of wide invasion if allowed to seed themselves for a few years.

"In the whole question of weeds, the Herald believes that much more can be done in this connection we would like to call attention to the state of the roadsides throughout the whole south. It is true that a great many municipalities have cut down the roadside ditches in the manner, but as the history of Jamestown Al the beer-bellied command the Ditches and the weed supervisors invisible. But we still have everything else and weeds are rampant on roadsides, especially where they have been and cutting until we take other methods than merely cutting. We have learned recently that in one irrigation project in Northern Montana, farmers are cultivating their roadsides and sowing them to alfalfa and sweet clover. We can see no reason why, especially in the irrigation districts of Southern Alberta, this example could not be followed. Imagine the improvement it would be created by driving along thirty or forty miles on each side by clover or brome grass in some other crop instead of the annual crop of weeds. Not only would adjoining farms be freed of a great deal of trouble from outside infesta tion, but there would be a world of feed raised in the wetter years. It would take a little more time to cut the ditches and weeds, but more than is now spent in cutting the weeds early crop, the gain both from the stand point of feed and control would be fully supplied would make it well worth while, and the appearance of a country would be greatly improved. Let us have more of it."

ANGLE LAKE NEWS

We are sorry to report that Mrs. Geo. Fuszard has left us. We left out the names of two young people who attended the 27th Point Party, namely Miss Ellen Aune and Max Dorawsky.

A very fine young people's service was held on Sunday last in the hall and was conducted by the young people, with Paul Anderson as chairman, and both Miss Johnson and Mr. Anderson addressed the meeting, giving us the message.

The new town is now progressing quite fast now. The C. P. R. have now accepted the name of North Bend or Muskman but have wanted to have a name. It will be called DERWENT, a short snappy name with no local significance. So the new town of Derwent should be a prosperous one. We hear that the steel is being laid so fast as the grade is finished and that the C. P. R. intend to haul out 1,000,000 bushels of wheat over this new line.

Mr Dery has finished sawing this week and it is estimated that he has sawed about 250,000 feet this spring.

Mr Vernon Kershaw, teacher of the Rock school, is enjoying a week's holidays at his home in Vermilion. No doubt he will come back to his task again refreshed and re-instructed to become his arduous and various duties in connection with his vocation and the harvesting of his crop on his experimental farm beside the school.

I just looking out the window one day this week the writer saw an unusual sight. Someone was trucking something with a four-horse team on a large lumber wagon drawing a Ford runabout, followed by a lone saddle horse. Squaty ample service must be tired of trying to earn his living by the sweat of his brow in a town that always been front and last as progressive, where one is not sure of his crop until it is in the granary

FACE TRIAL OF HOG CHARGES

Believed to have been responsible for several thefts throughout the province of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, Bill Miller and his partner, Bill Sawatzki, were Monday afternoon committed for trial by Magistrate G. B. McLeod, of Edmonton, on two charges of breaking into elevators at Vermilion and Smoky Lake and on nine counts of larceny.

The two men are accused of having severed several local merchants through the looting of grain tickets previously stolen from the elevators mentioned. When arrested both men were in possession of several hundred bags and grips containing much valuable loot, which the police allege is stolen property.

During a search of the men's effects, the police discovered nine separate series of automobile license plates, which, it is alleged, were used in the thieving campaign in which the two were engaged in when apprehended.

FRY — McCLAIN

A very pretty wedding was solemnized in First United Church on Thursday afternoon, August 25th, 1927 when Miss Ida Marie McClain became the bride of Mr. Everett A. Fry, son of Mr and Mrs. Amos A. Fry of Hardcastle, Alberta. A large company of friends assembled in the church to witness the interesting ceremony. The edifice was tastefully decorated with asters, golden rod and purple asters. Rev. M. S. Kerr officiated. The bride looked radiant in a wedding gown of white satin trimmed with white silk ribbon. She was attended by her sister, Miss Ruby McClain as bride-maid in a gown of purple crepe de chine. Mr. Albert Miller supported the groom.

The happy young couple were the recipients of many congratulations in the evening a reception was held at the home of Mr and Mrs FeFord attended by a large company of friends

An Enjoyable Picnic

A merry and happy time was enjoyed at the annual picnic of St. Saviour's S. S. held at the same camp grounds yesterday afternoon. Some one hundred attended, over sixty of whom were children. Indoor baseball for the boys with games for the girls, followed by a long list of races made the time pass all too quickly. It was a hungry bunch that did justice to the bounteous supper, but few larder met all demands. Auto conveyed the children to the picture show where they were the guests of Mr. Pitts for the evening

CULTIVATING ROOT AND SILAGE CROPS

(Experimental Farms Note.)

Root and silage crops have been grown at the Experimental Station at Rosthern, Sask. for seventeen years and careful records kept of the cost and it has been found that the largest item of expense in the cultivation and that the most serious largely with the amount of hand labor used. Anything, therefore, that can reduce the hand labor reduces the cost. Where land has been cultivated in the fall and harrowed in the spring very early nearly all weed seeds for a depth of three inches germinate. If this is plowed shallow after the weed seed has all above ground, usually from the 15th to the 20th of May, all weed seeds within germinable distance of the top are killed and the weed problem is almost altogether solved for the balance of the season and very little cultivation is necessary. Harvester, all root, corn and sun flower crops can be sown, and usually all the work necessary is thinning with a hoe and the occasional use of a one-horse scuffler or two-horse, two-row cultivator during the remainder of the season. However, the 20th of May is rather late for sowing sunflower and root crops for highest yields, in which case it will be necessary to sow early and do considerable more cultivation during the season

THE TYPOGRAPHICAL ERROR

Next time you look at a printer's error about a mistake in the paper, or in some paper, or in any other paper, just hand him these figures to stop his laughing:

In an ordinary column there are 10,000 pieces of type; there are seven possible wrong positions for each letter; there are 70,000 chances to make an error, and millions of possible transpositions. In this one sentence, "To be or not to be" by transpositions alone it has been figured out 2,359,987 errors can be made.

Newspaper people print the "devil" up to the hour and other high officials are merely human and liable to err. They do not intend to make errors, but read on the instantaneous, as can get and the proof goes skyrocketing. You'll find errors enough in your daily life without having an hour in them in a newspaper. Blue Island

SCHOOL OF AGRICULTURE NOTES

The School of Agriculture re-opens for the winter term on Wednesday, October 26th. Already over twenty-five first year students have already sent in their applications and a large number of enquiries are being received from day to day. In view of the excellent crop conditions that prevail an unusually large attendance is anticipated, and it is expected that both buildings and staff will be taxed to capacity.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Elliott and family returned on Saturday last from their holidays at Sylvan Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Heckbert and Mr. W. Malaher were guests at the summer cottage at Mr and Mrs Elliott for a few days last week.

Miss M. J. Alexander will be returning to the school in October to resume her duties as stenographer in addition to the 1927-28 term. Prior to October, Miss Alexander will judge the sewing work on the Vermilion Red Cross Fair circuit.

Dean Howes of the University of Alberta paid a short visit to the School on his way through Vermilion on Monday last.

Miss Verne Edwards, who has been holidaying at the Lake Coast, will be returning shortly to judge the cooking work on the Vermilion circuit.

Word has been received that Hon. George Hendley, Minister of Agriculture, will be present at the Vermilion School Fair on Wednesday, Sept. 14.

The 1927-28 Calendar has just come to hand. This booklet, which describes in detail the work conducted at the School of Agriculture, may be had upon application by all those interested in the course.

Mr J. F. Andrew spent two days of last week in the St. Paul des Metis district and judged the Brownie at the Agricultural Fair at that point on August 24th.

Mr C. H. Reed, Superintendent of the Dominion Experimental Farm, Lacombe was a visitor at the School on Tuesday last. Mr Reed was very much taken with the layout of the school grounds, and was especially struck in his praise of the lawns and flowers.

September is School Fair Month. This year the staff at the Vermilion School has had the supervision of the school fairs in the Edmonton, Vermilion and Peace River districts. Several new associations have been formed and there is every promise of soundly-based fairs both from the point of view of attendance and quality of exhibits. This will commence next week when three teams will take the field for the month of September.

Dates of School Fairs to be held in the Vermilion district are as follows:—September 6th—Lindbergh School. Sept. 7th Ratcliffe. Sept. 8th Landsville. Sept 9th Belmont. Sept 12th Mission. Sept 13th Vermilion. Sept 14th, Lea Park. Sept 16th, Rhondda. Sept 19th, Mannville. Sept 20th, Minburn. Sept 21st, Vim Hill.

These fairs are to be held and conducted in the manner similar to that followed in the Vermilion district. Each will be under the auspices of a local association and will be made a real fall exhibition. No admission fee to the grounds will be made for any school child whose pupil

MINISTER EXPECTED TO ATTEND SCHOOL FAIR

Things are gradually taking shape which should make the School Fair to be held here on September 13th, an outstanding event in the year. The Hon. George Hendley, Minister of Agriculture and acting Premier, has signified his intention to be present and will open the Fair, unless the pressure of governmental duties, at present unforseen, make it absolutely impossible for him to come.

The Vermilion Citizens' Band have kindly consented to render a few selections during the afternoon and visitors will have the pleasure of hearing this highly trained musical organization.

Another interesting event will be the presentation of a gold medal, awarded by Mr. J. W. G. Morrison, to the pupil from the Vermilion school standing highest in the Grade VIII or Intermediate examination. It is expected that Master Fallow will make the presentation. Silver cups donated by The Canadian Bank of Commerce and Messrs. Bell & Watterson, for school winning highest points in Dramatic and for Athletic Sports, Agricultural competitions will also be presented the winners.

As a pleasing attraction, Miss of Dury's pupils will be present and will give an exhibition of dancing, in costume. This should prove a drawing card to lovers of Terpsichorean art. A full programme of sports for pupils of schools receiving the Fair will also be held. Illustrations of tools are being held at the different schools entering, so only one representative from each school will take part in each event.

Mayor Fallow is to-day sending out bulletins to those on the afternoon of the 14th, so as to enable the town people to take in the Fair. We would again suggest that all schools in the district whether entered for the Fair

Annual Invasion Of the West

The annual invasion of Western Canada has now practically run its course for the season, and the vast majority of the newcomers have by this time settled down to a routine of work and are beginning to realize that they have come to a country where life is worth living, and where, if they are willing to work, they will prosper. Of course, there are always those who have come with the idea that the West is a place where money grows on trees, and that all they have to do is to pick it off. These people are usually disappointed, and many of them return to the East, where they are content to remain in the future. But the majority of the newcomers are of a different type altogether. They have come to the West because they realize that here is a country where there is room for them to grow up with the country, and where they can look forward to a future for themselves and their children. Many of them have had experience of farming in the old country, and have come to the West with the intention of taking up land and making their homes here. Others have had experience of farming in the United States, and have come to Canada because they like the country and the people, and because they believe that they will have better opportunities for themselves and their families here than they have had in the past. Many of them have had a little capital, and have come to the West with the intention of buying land and farming on a small scale, while others have come with the intention of working for wages for a year or two, and then buying land when they have saved enough money to do so. Many of these will be able to buy land in the districts which are now being opened up for settlement, and will be able to get a start on the land without having to go through the hardships which the pioneers had to endure. Others will have to work for wages for a longer time before they can buy land, but they will be able to do so in a few years, and will then be in a position to make a start on the land with a certain amount of capital behind them, which will enable them to get on much more quickly than if they had arrived in the country penniless. Many of the newcomers will, of course, have to start as laborers on the farms of their neighbors, but they will be able to do so with the knowledge that they will soon be in a position to start for themselves, and that they will be able to look forward to a future for themselves and their children. Many of the newcomers will, of course, have to start as laborers on the farms of their neighbors, but they will be able to do so with the knowledge that they will soon be in a position to start for themselves, and that they will be able to look forward to a future for themselves and their children.

The annual invasion of the West is now practically over, and the newcomers have settled down to their work in the country. The prospects for the future are very bright, and there is every reason to believe that the next few years will see a very large increase in the population of the West. The newcomers are a very valuable addition to the population of the country, and they will help to make it a great country. They are bringing with them the capital and the energy which are necessary for the development of the country, and they will help to make it a great country. LIFE WAS A BURDEN

Restored To Health Through the Use Of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

"It is a pleasure," says Mrs. Rose Judge, of Victoria, B.C., "to tell you of the new health and strength I have gained by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Before taking the pills life was a burden to me. I was so badly run down that I did not know what to do. My blood seemed to have turned to water. I had no appetite, nearly tired, and was losing flesh. It was a trial for me to attend to my work, and to rest I had a bad cough and my husband and friends feared I was going into consumption. The doctor I consulted did me no good. He did not appear to do me any good, and I finally decided to try the pills, which a friend urged me to try. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a wonderful medicine, as I can testify from the fact that I got such benefit from them that I got a second box before these were all taken. I was a stranger to good health, I gained in flesh, my appetite was all right, my cough disappeared and I once more had a good, strong, healthy feeling. I am glad to do me to whom it may concern, without failure." You can get these pills from any druggist or direct by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Prairie Provinces Facing Rat Menace

Rats Are Spreading Westward and Should Be Exterminated

Rhodes reports that a number of rats had been killed by farmers in Saskatchewan sharply drawn attention to the very interesting fact from an agricultural point of view, namely, that the Canadian West is one of the few agricultural areas of the world that is not overrun by these pests, and, secondly, that no effort should be lost for every farmer in the Prairie Provinces to take up the challenge by immediate and no uncertain extermination action. The truth may as well be faced, says the Natural Resources Intelligence Service of the Department of the Interior, that the brown rat, native of China, and scourge of all Europe, is now living to add one more Province to Canada to its habitat. Ever and anon he continues his westward march, and it will require the most united and intelligent warfare to stem his migration.

Men are bad enough, but the brown rat is infinitely worse, and one can conjecture the toll he will take if he becomes firmly established in the greatest granary of the British Empire. A few years ago it was said that the long, fine, dry winters of Western Canada would prove a deterrent to colonization of that country by rats, but they have since migrated from the East and spread over Southern Manitoba. Now they have reached the Province of Saskatchewan, and they are known to have borrowed under a straw stack and found sufficient shelter for the winter.

The brown rat is omnivorous in its habits and eats anything either vegetable or animal, even leather fabric. It attacks poultry, destroys eggs and chicken, fish and fruit, and are equally acceptable with all kinds of meat, groceries and vegetables; it will live all the winter inside the silver. If pressed for food, and has not infrequently attacked helpless children in bed. It kills, eats and other filthy places, carrying and spreading the germs of disease.

Rats are bad enough in the West without this latest intruder which in its carnivorous habits and disease-carrying propensities is even as far more dangerous. The whole of Canada should rise up and wipe out this pest before it is too late, and the fact that the war is on in earnest in some municipalities, where bonuses are paid for rats' tails, and even individuals should not wait for a bounty, however, but should declare war on the brown rat in their locality, and with wide-spread recognition of the danger, and concerted action, it ought to be possible to keep Canada a prosperous country, in which settlement is not too dense, to win its way to a high state of prosperity, quite unknown in England and Germany. The executive offices, now located at 1130 Broadway, Gary, and the various factories, one in New York and one in Brooklyn, will be combined in the new and enlarged plant at Harrison. Building operations will commence immediately and the new factory will be in full operation by Sept. 1, 1926.

Stamp Out Leprosy

More To Assist China in Eradicating Terrible Disease

Foreigners have joined with the Chinese in one of China's new slogans, "Stamp out leprosy in China."

It has been estimated that China has over one third of the world's 2,500,000 lepers, and the Chinese Government is to open a campaign for the establishment of leper colonies in each province. Funds will be raised by public subscription, and the Government has promised to match every dollar subscribed.

Dodge Extreme Heat and Adds Day Experts At Copenhagen

An experiment of unusually successful experiment made with a new steel that, it is asserted, will withstand extreme heat and the ravages of rubber and cause injuries to the metal, is made by a Copenhagen newspaper. The new product, it is stated, is made from ten tons of it have been produced at the Vande Works for comprehensive further purposes.

The metal has been exposed to high temperatures in Copenhagen and Sahara, while heat to a temperature of 250 degrees, in which the metal has been allowed to remain for five or six periods of ten hours each, without showing any injurious effects. It is said that a piece of the metal was recently exposed and was completely destroyed in the first heating, at a temperature that had no effect on the new metal.

In the tests at the Vande the work pieces of ordinary steel and of the new alloy were side by side, left in a "recuperator" for six weeks at a temperature of from 1,000 to 1,200 degrees. At the end of that period the ordinary steel had practically disappeared, while the new alloy had suffered only a slight loss, and was affected by the heat. Considerable interest has been aroused by the results obtained.

LIFE WAS A BURDEN

"It is a pleasure," says Mrs. Rose Judge, of Victoria, B.C., "to tell you of the new health and strength I have gained by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Before taking the pills life was a burden to me. I was so badly run down that I did not know what to do. My blood seemed to have turned to water. I had no appetite, nearly tired, and was losing flesh. It was a trial for me to attend to my work, and to rest I had a bad cough and my husband and friends feared I was going into consumption. The doctor I consulted did me no good. He did not appear to do me any good, and I finally decided to try the pills, which a friend urged me to try. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a wonderful medicine, as I can testify from the fact that I got such benefit from them that I got a second box before these were all taken. I was a stranger to good health, I gained in flesh, my appetite was all right, my cough disappeared and I once more had a good, strong, healthy feeling. I am glad to do me to whom it may concern, without failure." You can get these pills from any druggist or direct by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

75,000,000 Bushels for Vancouver?

VANCOUVER, Sept. 7. The secretary of the dominion railway board returning to 30 cents the rate on export grain from Edmonton and Calgary to the Pacific coast, means that the movement of grain through Vancouver this year will jump to 75,000,000 bushels, G. G. McIntyre declared last night, addressing the Vancouver South Federal Liberal Executive.

"The order is a guarantee of that, if it is carried out," said the freight rates expert of the provincial government. "And that means Vancouver will become one of the greatest grain ports in the world, third or fourth."

British Columbia still had a complaint, however, he asserted, pointing out that the rate on the 906-mile to Quebec City had been placed at 31 cents, while that for the 845-mile haul to Vancouver was 30 cents.

"We don't care what the rate to Quebec is," Mr McIntyre explained. "We don't care how low it has to be to help Quebec to get the business away from New York. But Vancouver wants the same treatment. Vancouver is just as much in competition with New York as is Quebec.

Opportunities For Britain In Canada

Great Britain has a problem and Canada has a problem, one being the exact opposite of the other. In the British Isles there is a surplus population for which employment cannot be found. In Canada there are enormous resources, and vast areas of fertile lands which call for labor and population in order that development may take place. The old Land has been overpeopled. The New Land has too few.

Looking at the facts as simply as would seem to be a comparatively simple matter for the British and Canadian Governments to evolve policies which, by co-operation and mutual understanding, could be transferred to the new conditions of the Dominion the surplus population of the old country. But it is not so easy as all that. It is a most complex and difficult problem.

The chief difficulty to be overcome is the natural disinclination of men and women who still go on "the land" to leave it. They may not have had actual farming experiences but in watching and assisting at the many successful efforts that others have made they must be of the class which is likely to make good on the land.

Great Britain, however, has no lack or surplus of that type. If, indeed, any surplus at all. The British surplus population is found among the working-class artisans and labor classes and also among those who have called themselves professional men. Neither of these classes is suitable for Canada. Welcome as these efforts would be to relieve the British and Canadian problems of surplus and insufficient population is almost impossible.

There would seem to be a greater possibility along the cooperative lines of the movement which has resulted in the adoption of the Ruhr which has been urged of late. Should that the great agricultural industry establish branch plants in Canada in order to enable them to use Canadian raw materials in Canada where they are made, would go a long way to relieve unemployment in the British Isles. Such an industry would not only make employment for Canadian workmen and labor and lead to the creation of a Canadian situation not alike the present one in Great Britain.

The Provincial and Federal governments are, therefore, urged to encourage and to the training of a limited number of immigrants for agricultural pursuits and the proper placing of the men on farms in Canada. Welcome as these efforts would be, they would not, although in a measure relieve the problem

FROM COAST TO COAST

The characteristics of the celebration, held on July 1-3 to mark the Diamond Jubilee of Confederation in 1867, of British North American colonies into the Dominion of Canada, were its spontaneity, its universality, and its note of thankfulness for the progress made in sixty years along all lines of national endeavour. Though the time limit between the passing of the Jubilee Resolution in Parliament and Dominion Day was comparatively short the enthusiasm with which citizens in every part of Canada entered into the preparations for the event resulted in the holding of worthy celebrations not only in the federal and provincial capitals but also in the cities, towns, villages and rural communities from Atlantic to Pacific. Of course was the broadcasting of the the Ottawa celebration the unique official addresses, the national anthem and patriotic songs and the music of the carillon, just installed in the Peace Tower of the Parliament Buildings. This sending forth of the living message from the capital to the remotest bounds of the nation and beyond, symbolizes both the advance of set once and the increase in solidarity of the Dominion in the sixty years since confederation

Urges Campaign For Immigration

Alberta Loses Families Owing to Inadequate Preparations

Mr and Mrs R K Peck and daughter recently returned to Edmonton this week after spending nine months in England. Mr Peck has been work ing in connection with the C N R. Colonization department in London, and returned many of the families to Canada that came to Alberta this year. He is enthusiastic over the prospects of securing a large immigration from the British Isles but says that many splendid families had to be refused this year owing to inadequate preparations being made to receive them at this end. He speaks very highly of Hon Charles Stewart and the work that he is doing for the province and expressed the opinion that the province would be well advised to carry on an active campaign in the interests of immigration to Alberta and particularly to make preparations for the settlement of families when they arrive.

The C. N. R. he says, has a splendid colonization staff and will be a factor in settling the vast prairie lands of western Canada

"Hungarians" Extending Range

Saskatchewan Provides Same Open Season for "Immigrant Birds" as for Native Prairie Chicken

WINNIPEG, Sept. 5.—The "combine" between the imported Hungarian Partridge and the native Prairie Chicken in Saskatchewan is being closely watched by provincial government authorities and there is much diversity of opinion as to whether the newcomer is likely to dispossess the native of its nesting places, according to a report from the Game Commissioner of that province, received by E. G. Poole, Fish and Game representative of the Canadian National Railways at Montreal. At the same time, it will be of interest to sportsmen everywhere to learn that an open season on these birds has been declared, corresponding with that for prairie chicken. This allows shooting during the entire month of October, this year with a bag limit of 10 birds per day, per in the season.

The report states that there is undoubted evidence of continued increase in the number of Hungarians and also of their extended area of occupation. Public opinion regarding the desirability of the Hungarian is still divided. Many people believe they are guilty of repeated violence toward the native bird, particularly during the nesting season. Cases are reported of actual attacks on the nests and young of Prairie Chicken, though other observers report the two finances of birds feeding together in peace

"Summing up all the evidence," the Game Commissioner states, "one is led to the conclusion that for the greater part of the year there is little or no conflict between the two varieties, or any undue aggressiveness on the part of the Hungarian. It does appear, however, that when the nesting season, which is, of course, the crucial period, the nest of the Hungarian in the defence of his home amounts to intolerance and that no other bird may with impunity nest in close proximity. It will be cause for regret if it is proven as time goes on that the advent of the Hungarian is resulting in the disappearance of our own native grouse."

BY-LAW No. 6

LABOR BODY OF CANADA HOLDS ITS HEAD HIGH

Hon. Peter Heenan, Speaks of Loyalty of Canadian Workers

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 6.—Organized labor in Canada can hold its head high, Hon. Peter Heenan, federal minister of labor, said yesterday in addressing a directors' meeting of the Canadian National Exhibition. He said the loyalty of labor in peace and war was indisputable. As evidence that labor was always reasonable and willing to co-operate, he pointed out that in seventeen disputes this year, all of them at one time seemingly, of a major character, there was not a single strike. In a plea for co-operation between all factors in Canada's national life, the speaker maintained that the recent reduction of freight rates would not have been possible without the efficient and loyal co-operation of labor. It would be well for others to remember, especially the farmers, that there was an investment of more than $100,000,000 in rolling stock that could be turned to wind except to bring out the harvest

As minister of labor in the federal government, Mr. Heenan thanked labor for their fine response to what he termed "any little effort I have made for an appeal to reason."

Feeding Dairy Cows

(From The Cowbell)

A dairy cow is a machine, and she is supposed to be considered as such when it comes to feeding. A machine running idle requires a certain amount of power to keep it in motion, and it takes a certain amount of feed to maintain a cow, even when she is dry.

A cow in milk must have more feed than when she is dry, otherwise she cannot produce milk for any length of time. It is therefore very evident that a dairy cow must be fed in proportion to the amount of milk she is capable of producing

If a cow is not fed a concentrates mixture that makes a well balanced ration, her owner should not expect a profit

Roughage

The right kind of good roughage plays a most important part in the ration of a dairy cow. It also determines to a great extent the cost of the ration, and consequently plays a part in fixing the net profit from the dairy herd. Well cured clover or alfalfa, green feed, hay and good silage is generally considered the most desirable roughage for dairy cows. The dairyman who can feed good roughage can save money when it comes to purchasing the concentrates.

If a cow is fed a liberal amount of the right kind of roughage it is not necessary to buy expensive feeds in order to balance her ration. If poor roughage is fed, the cost of feed is increased

Points to Consider

Consider the market price for the various feeds

It is usually cheaper to raise your own feeds than it is to buy them

Feed as many pounds of grain daily as the cow produces pounds of butter fat in a week

A common rule at feeding grain mixtures is to feed one pound of grain for every three to four pounds of milk

Milk contains 87 per cent of water hence a dairy cow must be provided with plenty of pure fresh water

Rules for Cream Producers

Treat cows gently and keep them comfortable. They will pay you in with more milk Cows should be at all times have free access to salt

Discard a cow that fails to pay a profit, after she has had a fair chance.

Find out what your cows are doing by using the scale and the Babcock Test. A cow testing association will help locate the boarders in the herd

Feed and milk at regular hours

Write to the University of Alberta for information on balanced rations for dairy cows and bulletins on feeding experiments

A few pictures, an improved pit and other improvements to the pool theatre are going on so that the big rush is to benefit in it as it is not ready to receive grain as yet.

Four school districts opened last several schools east of here are idle on account of their teachers not having arrived. Kilkenny and Marwayne both of which places had a case of infantile paralysis.

The high school scholars from Vermilion are all home for the week.

Miss Dorothy Simone and Miss Muriel Stone teachers, are home from their schools

Landonville School Fair

Best Held To Date

The Landonville School Fair was held at Semple's Hall on Sept. 8th and proved to be the best so far held. The schools participating were Van Ise, Angle Lake, Whitworth, Green lawn, Telegraph and Spe and the exhibits in all classes were up to the usual standard. Unlike last year's day, the weather was ideal and several hundred people turned out to make the fair a success.

The livestock classes proved interesting and instructive, Mr. J. P. Andrew as judge taking points to explain the reasons for the various awards. Miss Edwards, who judged the cooking, and Miss Alexander who placed the awards in the sewing classes, spoke in a large and interested audience of points of interest that will no doubt be corrected next year. Mr. J. Lee drew the attention of the people to the proper methods of showing vegetables and flowers.

Mr. Herkbert, who has charge of school gates in the Vermilion Edmonton and Peace River districts spoke at length on general conduct of the school fair, and pointed out the necessity of having every available school in the district taken part in the fair. TIMELY ACTION.

The imposition of the ban as a precautionary measure against an outbreak of infantile paralysis, by the board of health was both timely and wise. While the epidemic has been mainly confined to Edmonton, cases of the dread disease have been reported from a number of scattered outside points, and there no doubt to become more numerous as there seems to be no known effective treatment for infantile paralysis and as death or physical defect invariably follows, any successive measures as long the lines of warding off an outbreak should be strictly followed out.

WEATHER BREAKS AGAIN.

Tuesdays and Wednesdays are proving Jonahs this summer. Last week on both these days heavy rains fell though the weather was warm and thigh quickly dried out. This week we have a repetition only in a more severe and strenuous form for there was no let up all Tuesday and a tremendous quantity of moisture fell all day and through the night with the air turning quite cool; Wednesday dawned cold and raw with feeble attempts at breaking. Similar conditions a year ago culminated in a heavy snowfall, but it is hoped history will not repeat itself, and a period of fine weather will set in.

Enduring Quality
LOWER PRICES
Makes Pontiac Six the Best Investment Value
MEN who look upon an automobile from the standpoint of a hard, dollar-and-cents standpoint are just as emphatic in their praise of Pontiac Six as those who seek primarily the luxury, smoothness and comfort which Pontiac provides.
The enduring quality of Pontiac Six—its ruggedness and power—gives it the lowest depreciation and the highest resale value of any six-cylinder car in its price class.
From a business standpoint, the New and Improved Pontiac Six represents a sound investment in reliable, comfortable, economical automobile transportation—protected by the lasting quality of the car and the staunch integrity of its makers.
And the New, Low Prices make Pontiac Six a more attractive investment than ever.

School Fair Declared Off

Owing to the action taken yesterday by the board of health in closing the town schools for an indefinite period and imposing other restrictions upon the younger people an penalties preventive measures towards wrecking off an epidemic of infantile paralysis in Vermilion, the officials of the Vermilion School Fair cancelled the event for this year. It was to have been held yesterday.

The attitude taken by the management in arriving at this decision was that participation in the fair by a late date would result in class entering required arrangements and will, undoubtedly, be placed as to what date could again be set it would be extremely difficult to make the fair a success. The circumstances which regrettable called for preventive action and although disappointment is entered among the children of the district schools over the cancelling of the fair it the community should escape an epidemic of infantile paralysis with its invariably fatal results we shall have something to be very thankful for.

Some idea of the magnitude of the school fair for 1927, it is had been possible to hold it, can be deduced from the fact that no less than 5 dozen entries had been turned up to Saturday last and returns were to come in from three schools namely Chatsworth and two town schools which would increase the number to well toward the six thousand mark. The 25 schools participating this year were Chatsworth, Bowell, Carlson, Chiasmore, Fidelity, Island Hill, Kitsam, Rosyth, Thorncliffe, Turkey Hill, King Edward, Campbell Lake, Indian Lake, Optimist, Ottawa, Poplar Heights, Quesale Creek, Talen, Windermere, Pelican Lake and the Vermilion schools.

Wild Life Of Western Canada

Now is the time for the question that Western Canada has for many people whether permanent residents, tourist or sportsman, to the abundance and variety of its wild life, and to see that the hunting season is at hand for a vacation or that a passing reference to "Game" is made in the columns of the daily press.

Added fuel to this ever-smouldering fire was kindled not quite a year ago by the organization of the Alberta Game Association, a provincial body with branches in every district, and other provinces are following suit. The Association has for its object the preservation of game in the province, and to this end has been active in the matter of game legislation, and in the enforcement of the game laws. Its membership is composed largely of those who are interested in the sport of shooting, and who realize that unless the supply of game is maintained, the sport will soon be a thing of the past.

Another organization which has been active in the matter of game protection is the Alberta Game Protective Association, which has its headquarters in Edmonton. This association has been in existence for a number of years, and has been instrumental in bringing about many changes in the game laws of the province, and in the enforcement of the same. Its membership is composed largely of those who are interested in the preservation of game

Fight the Fire Fiend

The week commencing October 9 has, by proclamation published in the Canada Gazette, been designated Fire Prevention Week throughout Canada, the object of course being to call public attention upon the enormous loss of life and property resulting from fire with a view to the adoption of more effective safeguards against fire and to educate all people, and especially children, against habits of carelessness in the handling of matches and other combustibles and in the disposing of combustible refuse. In the case of Canada, with its vast forest area, and quite frequent drought periods, it still behoves us to be ever and vigilant.

At the same time it would seem to be quite unnecessary for the national government to officially set aside one week, and of every day from the avowed purpose of awakening a presumably intelligent, cultured and business-like people to safeguard their own lives, homes and property from destruction by fire. Alternately, Canada is the greatest proponent existing that it is only too necessary to keep up a persistent campaign to awaken the people from their careless and indifference in this very vital matter.

Canada, while it is progressive in many ways, and has taken the leadership in numerous worthwhile movements, and can claim the honor of achievements, occupies a low place among the nations of the world when statistics of fire losses and conflagrations are considered. If, indeed, any one, annually revived the appalling fire losses which take place in Canada. This Dominion's fire loss per head of population is about the highest in the world, and this per capita loss is one that should, and must, be greatly improved upon.

Canada has already sustained the loss not merely of millions, but actually billions of dollars worth of forest wealth, some of which is gone forever, and some for many periods, of time will be required to make good the loss in other districts. Heritage fires are one of Canada's greatest menaces. Some of the present forest today, and for the future, in taking up the Dominion's vast territory are responsible and travelling a very large percentage of the Dominion's export trade.

The fire fiend takes a yearly, monthly, almost daily toll of human life as well as heavily bonded in a result of lifelong self-care and we appeal to be a bold deed and expert criminal.

Because of the high rates of fire losses, the people of Canada have to pay abnormally high fire insurance premiums. The insurance companies are not to blame for demanding high premiums. They must protect themselves and their policy holders, and just as long as fires in Canada persist in numerous and costly as long will the cost of insurance against fire remain a heavy drain upon the business of the Dominion.

Then too, there is the further heavy burden imposed up all urban communities in the maintenance of fire brigades and expensive fire fighting apparatus, and in expenditures to augment water supplies for fire fighting purposes mainly in excess of the daily domestic requirements of private and business.

All these facts, and attention are more easy and natural be paid to in some fire drills. But because of the frequency of fires largely due to old or flammable buildings, and to careless conditions on the part of many people the annual fire loss is to be maintained on a much more serious and appalling scale than would otherwise be necessary.

The Fire Underwriters' Association has observed all over the country unusual attention be paid to the subject in all suitable times and places. Individual interest should receive a little time as a matter of individual and civic duty, and should make a definite start to eliminate the fire menace in and around all buildings. Rubbish should be removed, inflammable conditions corrected, the wires, gas and electric appliances attended to by an expert, and in general, everything possible to the minimizing of the fire risk. Let us all be more careful in the future, and thus help to make this Dominion a safer land for all its inhabitants, and for those who may come after us. Let us build better, more substantial and more fireproof buildings, and in the rebuilding and rebuilding of old fires. Finally, all property should be adequately insured notwithstanding the high premiums that have to be taken.

Attention to these important matters may save much loss and suffering in the future.

Giant Dirigible Damaged

Expansion Of Gas Through Weather Condition Causes Passing Accident

A special dispatch to the giant Graf Zeppelin, moored while the huge airship is moored at her hangar at Friedrichshafen, Germany, today, reports that a violent storm struck the airship's moorings, causing the ship to break away from the mooring mast. The gas expanded through the valves and the ship rose to a height of 1,000 feet. The pilot succeeded in bringing the ship down to a safe landing, however, before any damage was done.

Reconstructing Palace Being Restored in Holy Land

There is no country where the restoration is so busy as in Palestine. Everywhere in the Holy Land will in the near future be able to go to the site of ancient Capernaum on the northern shore of the Sea of Galilee and there stand within the very walls of the synagogue in which Christ preached to the people nearly two thousand years ago. At the present time archaeologists and others are busily engaged in reconstructing from the ruins the place of worship which the centurion of the Gospel built for the Jews, the very one in which our Saviour taught.

Coal Not Merely a Fuel

German Scientists Discover Many Valuable By-Products

European scientists appreciate that "coal is not merely a fuel but contains raw products to make things out of," declared Dr. Thomas S. Baker, president of Carnegie Institute of Technology, upon his return from 3 city schools.

Coal's potentialities are particularly appreciated in Germany, according to Dr. Baker, where there has been a most striking development in synthetic fertilizers in connection with coal the outgrowth of the final nitrogen process developed during the war. It is a matter of very great economic force to the country and farm productivity has been materially increased.

"A great deal of the enormous success that the German Chemical Trust has had is attributable to the chemistry of coal," Dr. Baker said.

"While Germany has lost its monopoly of dyes, it is developing synthetic processes that are of great import due to modern industry. This trust is second only to Standard Oil in the United States as a commercial basis."

Canada Favored For League Seat

London Paper Says Dominion Well Qualified For Seat On Council

London, Oct. 7.—The Daily Telegraph, in discussing Canada's candidacy for a seat on the League Council, says it would be hard to find another candidate more generally qualified for the privilege. To great war was warrant enough for Canada's capacity for international service and she has played other parts since then.

In politics and industry she has to offer, continues the observer, Canada ranks high in the list of world states, and above all, she would be invaluable for the lesson to have for the first time a dual representative from North America upon the council.

Antiseptic Perfumes

Perfume and Toilet Preparations Have Distinct Antiseptic Value

More important than the agreeable sensation carried by the delicate ingredients in the brain and their effect on the nervous system is the antiseptic value of a perfume and a toilet preparation, states "Will merslee in a bulletin recently published. Nearly all perfumes and toilet waters are aromatic enhancers, and as such are germicidal. The use of perfumes during the war was not confined to those in crushed colored paper and it freely enhanced by chemicals as a carbolic acid, formaldehyde or chloride of lime. Alcohol is known to be a poor antiseptic in a strong solution for real germicidal action of essential oils. However, unlike in its contents of many preparations, which are used as a sleeping potion for children and by a headache and beauty alcohol, only a few articles have pain allaying properties, phenol is taken without its nauseous and unpleasant taste for preservative.

Dulles Alpine Climbers

Mount Robson is Still Victor Over Mountaineers

Mount Robson, giant peak of the Canadian Rockies, this year has turned back every party of Alpinists who have attempted to scale it. Two recent attempts were made by members of the Seattle Mountaineers' Club, but they too met with failure.

A driving rain and low-lying clouds were encountered by the climbers on their dangerous ascent from the valley floor. At high altitude they ran into sleet and then, when the weather cleared, they waded waist-deep through snow. Finally, when storms second almost certain, they brought up camp and began feeling blocking the only possible approach to the summit.

The cliff is 100 feet high and almost perpendicular. The climbers said they would try again next year.

Boss Distributed Church Service

Half Million Swarmed Under Roof In English Town

Boss have been known to swarm in many other places, but one of the strangest cases was that of a swarm about half a million strong that settled beneath the roof of Ramsbottom Church, near Lancaster, England.

So great was the noise of their humming that it could be heard above the sound of the organ and the voices of the choir and congregation.

The swarm then left, an expert had to cut away a part of the roof. He discovered a solid mass of bees six feet by four feet. Smoke had to be used to overcome the swarm, and only a mask and gauntlets protected the man from the infuriated insects.

DOMINION NOW HAS A SEAT ON LEAGUE COUNCIL

Geneva.—Canada and Cuba were elected to the League of Nations' Council Friday, votes were to be filled, and Finland got the third.

Canada, Cuba and Finland will sit for three years on the council, which now is composed of 14 members. The other members are Great Britain, France, Italy, Japan and Germany, which hold permanent seat in perpetuity, and China, Colombia Chile, Brazil, Poland and Holland, who are non permanent members.

The new line-up means that the council includes four countries representing the American continent and has created special interest among many delegates because of the particularly friendly relations existing between Canada, Cuba and the United States. From another standpoint the election caused interest of an equally Canada is a member of the British Empire. Hence, in the view of numerous delegates, the importance of the British Empire on the council is increased, although the general impression exists that Canada will not automatically back every British proposal but will be a spirit of helpfulness. In so doing we shall become the happiest illustration of how the League of Nations has in stores for the entire world. For between out two countries there is no place for distrust or misgivings.

No Alberta Coal For Ontario

Finding Of Rail Commissioner Will Make Fuel Dearer In Province

Calgary "The finding of the commission at once kills all hope of securing coal to the Province of Ontario," said Jesse George, Drumheller, coal operator.

Mr. Gaetz said that to the $12.20 per ton mentioned as the inclusive cost plus the element of profit," would have to be added the present cost of coal which at $2.75 per ton would bring the figure up to $15.35. Yet that amount would not include the profit of the retailer in Ontario which would run from $2.50 to $3 per ton. That would bring the cost that Alberta coal would cost the Ontario consumer $18.65 to $18.85 per ton, at which figure it could be delivered largely on account of cost, as American anthracite coal was being sold from $15 to $16 a ton.

"There is now no hope of capturing the Ontario market for Alberta coal," said Mr. George, "and I might not be done unless there was a flat rate of $7 a ton established."

RESIGNATION OF MR. WELSH

The announcement is that Mr. Jack Welsh had resigned his position as superintendent of the electric light and power plant comes as a distinct surprise to the people of the town. He has held that position since 1913 and as far as we know there has never been any complaint against his work. On the contrary it was felt that in him the town had a most capable and efficient official. Mr. Welsh is retiring to enter into partnership with the Vermilion Electric Shop. It is possible that the shop will undertake small jobs of wiring, but that is not the present intention. We need, however, that the town is not left worse than to try and retain a man in town, even if it meant an increase in salary. A few years ago during the economic crisis when there was a cut made in his salary. We could never make the justice of it and it is hoped that when the economic skies over the town as it is way and restored to original salary—and indeed provided for an increase. Under his guidance the plant has made remarkable progress. He has been a most active and energetic superintendent, and the many expenditures only when directly or indirectly justified and when he knew the money was available. Vermilion will be the poorer when these men, a personal life to the plant. Vermilion in this way owes a great deal to Mr Welsh. It might have been that anyone else would not be quite so cautious and perhaps instead of a paying proposition we might have the contrary. Be that as it may, the Standard feels that it is voicing the sentiments of the people as a whole when it expresses its gratification at the splendid services rendered by Mr Welsh in the faithful and conscientious discharge of his duties during this long term of years as superintendent of our electric light and power system. The best wishes of everyone will follow him in his future undertakings.

Give $15 Daily For Binder Help

Farmers Work on Sunday to Get Their Crops Harvested

Fifteen dollars per day for a man with grain binder and team is being paid by farmers in some parts of central Alberta where crops are still unharvested. Harvest help is still hard to get and much grain is being allowed to lie on the stubble, just as it is thrown out by the binder, until all standing grain has been cut.

This year's heavy crop has played such havoc with all binders that Farmers will gladly give almost anything to get extra machines in their fields. Neighbors are helping each other and on Saturday, a few miles south of Wetaskiwin, four machines were at work in one ordinary sized grain field. In this area, also, the $15 offer for binder help has been made.

While wheat is generally harvested there are still many odd patches to cut south of Wetaskiwin and farmers are now in such hurry to finish that many were working on Sunday. Between Edmonton and Wetaskiwin the harvest is over, except for occasional fields of green feed and feed oats.

Preparations for the handling of the enormous grain crop are apparent everywhere. At Leduc where there is a large number of elevators already two more are being erected and will be completed in time to share in this year's business. Many empty grain cars are also waiting at different points along the railways. Farmers, too, are constructing many new granaries and strengthening old ones to guard against bursting

FLOWERS
(Contributed)
The most vivid pleasures of life come through contrast, and of all things own, I believe flowers, perpetually contrasting with the real creation, give greatest and most lasting pleasure. Individually they are lovely, massed they are magnificent and the gazing eye receives a boon which glorifies the remembering heart and enriches the thoughtful mind
The appeal of flowers is universal, old and young, cultured and simple, all can share and revel in the joy they give. Think of the multitude of slight, short lived songs whose theme is flowers and gardens. Their popularity, though brief, is widespread, and when they die their places are filled at once by others hardly distinguishable. For those whose life is much in books, the "look at the world with their mind full of other men's phrases," our great and varied literature grows with thoughts and images suggested by flowers.
It is not only the poet however who sees his mistress
"Like a red, red rose That's newly sprung in June"
"A violet by a mossy stone
Half hidden from the eye."
We all expect girls to make us think of flowers, though we can only say blandly "fresh as a daisy," "sweet as a pink," or, at best, quote the words of others. At any rate we share the admiration for such small graceful beauty, and making flowers makes the obvious comparison therewith Beauty youth, love, are flowers but fading soon" -but it is not only the fair years or exquisite blossoming that conjure up the thought. We have the troubled knight whose
"...sweet heart being greater than his pride
Kept all the summer of his strength in heat,
In all the rose of his sweet spirit in flower"
The loving heart and quick spirit always finds flowers alongside the pathway of life — some humble, some splendid, sometimes few and scattered, again in overgrown profusion. The most precious are found unsought-for, in barren places. Even the sorrow or bereavement has its bitterness, for truly
"The artists of the dust
Would sower and blossom in the dust."
The recent exhibition of the Vermilion Horticultural Society (junior) puts title too a stern or beauty's sum- compel us to consider the lilies who toil not
In the lily more beautiful in its perfect than in its bud? Above we have it gives thanks that in whatever gift or worthless the day's work may bring, while it brought and more could not become a bench, there is made the remuneration or beauty of form and colour and the quiet rapture of fragrant odours, a present delight and with memories. A familiar poet tells us that "Every cottage garden of these people the humble flowers a going inhabitants of England" ought little or careless blossoms only they had wild nature's beauty

This has been a wonderful season of luxuriant growth. The broad fields rich with ripened grain, spread out before our eyes, vast and evergreen. But I look always at the little copses, dark amid the harvest gold, for they are like the picture in a boys' report card, school reader which illustrated the virtue beginning.

"Used aright have made the earth bring forth
Enough for great and small,
The oakless and the cedar tree
Without a flower at all."

Would I could remember the rest

How Hospitals Care For Patients

Eight thousand hospitals in the United States and Canada take care of 12 million patients a year or about $25,000 a day. It is estimated five billion dollars are invested in the hospital property and in the opinion of Dr. R. H. Gibbon, head of the American Hospital Association, it now is disgraceful or criminal to die under 75 years of age. Unfortunately many persons seem more or less reluctantly obliged to in spite of what hospitals can do for them.

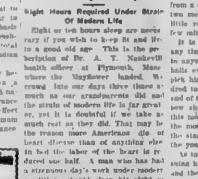
France Raises Tariff On Canadian Wheat

Notice Of Increase Has Been Received At Ottawa

France has increased the tariff on Canadian wheat from 20 francs to 27 francs, approximately, per bushel, according to official advices received from the Canadian Trade Commissioner in Paris. The higher rate comes into effect immediately.

While Canada enjoyed that of wheat to France has fluctuated from year to year, the present change on the basis of last year's export of 15,347,847 bushels, will mean an increase [illegible] French duty collected on Canadian wheat of nearly $1,000,000.

Canada, under the 1922 treaty between the two countries, enjoys a minimum tariff and most favored nation treatment on exports to France and the increase now put into force is due to the raising of the minimum tariff rate to all countries by France.

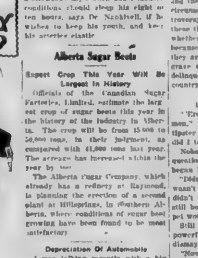


Alberta Sugar Beets

Export Crop This Year Will Be Largest In History

Officials of the Canadian Sugar Factories, Limited, estimate the large est crop of sugar beets this year in the history of the industry in Alberta. The crop will be from 15,000 to 50,000 tons, in their judgment, as compared with 11,000 last year. The acreage has increased within the year by two

The Alberta Sugar Company, which already has a refinery at Raymond, is planning the erection of a second plant at Hillsgreen, near Taber, Alberta, where conditions of near beet growing have been found to be most satisfactory.



Depreciation Of Automobile

I was talking recently with a big automobile man in a Gull town. We walked up a long street, and he made an estimate of the many automobiles parked along the way. I have forgotten the figures, but they were surprising. I remember, however, that he said the depreciation on the automobiles we saw during the walk amounted to ten thousand dollars a day. There are millions of automobiles in the United States. What is the depreciation of the ones sold every day, and of those previously sold? E. W. Howe's Monthly.

Claims Darwin Was Right

Man Descended From Ape-Like Being Says Distinguished Scientist

Darwin was right, declared Sir Arthur Keith, the distinguished scientist in addressing the British Association for the Advancement of Science at Leeds, England. Sir Arthur not only agreed that man had descended from an ape-like being, but he gave mankind an antiquity of 1,000,000 years.

"As we go backward in time," said Sir Arthur, "we discover that man slowly becomes broken up, not into separate races as in the world of today but into numerous and separate species. When we go into a still more remote past they could not be like that we have to regard them not as belonging to separate species but different phases of a common type. A writer of either fourth forma while strew the ancient world that we have to trace the strong line of man's descent."

A Warning To Motorists

Province Of Giving Lifts To Strangers Is Dangerous

The American Automobile Association has sent out a nation-wide warning to motorists to abandon the prevalent practice of giving lifts to strangers along the road. Pointing out that a serious national problem is being created by the kindly driver who picks up the practical roadside traveller because more than seventy per cent. of those "down and others" later must be cared for in some charitable institution, the association also cautions the motorist on the score of his responsibility should an accident occur, inasmuch as there have been many cases in which the free-riding passenger collected heavy damages from his host.

No better advice could be given the motorist than that of Solomon in the days of "giving lifts" are not mentioned in the A.A.A. bulletin, however. Three is the "odd up" man who, with a liver on his face, holds up his finger to beam "a ride. If the motorist is kind he stops and asks a theory "Is he safe?" The bandit accepts with alacrity, and, hiding his time on the knee some small conditions are possible. The bandit driver and his companion dumps the ladies alongside of the road, and speeds away. In this connection it is only necessary to recall the horrible murder some years ago in New Jersey when a young couple returning from a dance graciously gave a lift to two men waiting on a street corner, little realizing that they had but a few minutes to live.

It is not safe or wise to stop at any time or any place to give a lift to anyone. If it is a young boy who hails every car until he finds one to take him up, the chances are a thousand to one that the motorist at the end of the ride, no matter how long or how short, will get no thanks from this modern type of beggar, and that the motorist by his act is helping to fill a standing army of lazy charterer that the youth might possess.

As to the question of the passenger taking his fare if there is an accident, and the case of hold-ups under such circumstances, there can be no such recovery. Motorists should confine these things and stop for no one, whether in the city or in the country, because under the present conditions they are either putting themselves in grave danger or contributing to the delinquency of future citizens of this country

Looked Like a Certainty

"Ere you are, ladies and gentlemen," shouted the raucous-voiced barker at the race-meeting. "What did I tell you yesterday?"

Nobody made an answer to this question, and the barker soon began his shouting.

"Didn't I say that Broad Bean wasn't a starter?" he went on. "Didn't I say that Water Tap would still be running, and that Dusty Carpet would take a lot of beating?"

Still there was no answer. But the powerful-voiced man was not a bit dismayed.

"Now," he cried, "I've a certainty for you today in the next race, like Loose Button, it's sure to come off!"

THE EARLY KINGS OF ISRAEL

Golden Text: "Jehovah hath established his throne in the heavens; and His kingdom ruleth over all." Psalm 103:19.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 103:1-8.

A Review By Means Of Allusions

In the fullness of spirit Nathan spoke to David, and so in a hundred voices God through that moody monarch's soul sounded still speaks to us, and convinces us of our sin and of His pardoning love.—Dean Stanley.

I dare not hope with David's hope it claims the evil spirits from the troubled heart.—Coleridge.

We think of prayer the others as a privilege, but he regarded it as a duty; not to pray for his people was to sin a sin.

"Latest born of Jesse's race,
Wonder births thy hateful face,
While the prophet's filled oil
Seals thee for a path of toil."

"Because you cannot gain
A wonder-working Warrior,
In His great battle, why remain
Unarmed with Him to view?"

Do not afraid. She David, take your sling.

And do some humble part in conquering.—John H. Mahy.

Then the reigning of a man capable of nobility of character and of great services, and yet prone to sin in his evil temper till his only ambition may be tame and kill "a partridge in the mountain."

It seems an almost impossible state of self-deception that could so disfigure our in indignant virtue against the sin of another. Nathan's great dream that the case could apply to himself.—Hugh Black.

In the Way Of Trade

Matter Of Ninety-Five Dollars Meant Nothing To Texan

In the old trading way of trade, which has, in this country, at least, happily gone out for the most part, and been replaced by the more business-like system, in which the dealer puts a fair profit upon his goods and sticks to that, it was customary to demand a price much more than the asker hoped to get.

One time a Yankee from Vermont ran across into a camp riding an odd mule.

"How much for the mule?" asked a bystander

"Just a hundred dollars," answered the rider

"I'll give you five dollars," said the other

The rider stopped short, as if in amazement, and then slowly dismounted.

"Stranger," said he, "I ain't spoilin' for a fight, but it's a matter of ninety-five dollars stand between me and a multitude The mule's yours

Meaning Of London

Many Theories Have Been Advanced As To Its Derivation

The name London is the subject of much discussion among antiquists in Great Britain.

One theory is that it means "the fort by the lake," from the Welsh "llyn," lake and "din" a fortified place Another is that it is derived from the Celtic word "lond" (doubtful) "Linden") a sacred grove.

There is a town in Yorkshire called "Lond and Lond is Scandinavian, at one time one of the chief commercial cities in Sweden. Its merchants traded with Britain in Roman times. It is thought that Lond in Yorkshire, Lund in Sweden and Lundeg, or London being probably the site of sacred groves, where the priests of the Druse Age called human sacrifices to the Sun God

Bears Make Friends With Miners

A strong friendship has sprung up between wild bears and the miners employed at the Bardeen ramp, 114', 1,000 feet above sea level, where copper deposits of the Britannia Mines are being worked. The bear were driven from their usual haunts by unusually early snow storms. When they appeared in camp they were startled and secretly devoured the food offered by the miners. The bears quickly gained confidence and now take scraps from the miners' hands without sign of fear or ridiculousness.

The happiness of married life depends upon the power of making small sacrifices with readiness and cheerfulness. One doesn't have to be married to know that either

Naming Mountain Peaks

Mount Stanley Baldwin is Named After British Premier

Right Hon. Stanley Baldwin's name is to be perpetuated in Canada by a mountain peak called after him.

The geography board has acted on a suggestion of the British Columbia Government and a peak in the Rockies in that province with an altitude of 10,500 feet is to be called Mount Stanley Baldwin. It is visible from the railway through the Yellow Head Pass.

Other peaks in the same Cariboo range are to be named the Premier Group after Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Sir John Thompson, Sir John Abbott and Rt. Hon. Mackenzie Bowell. The Laurier Peak, 11,750 feet is the highest in the group, mountains were named after Sir John A. Macdonald, Alexander MacKenzie, Sir Charles Tupper and Sir Robert Borden

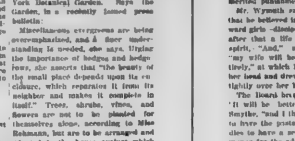
The Planting Of Trees

Arrangement Should Be Studied To Obtain Pleasing Results

Indiscriminate planting of trees and shrubs without regard to their subsequent development is a fault often committed," declares Miss Ella Hanman of the lecture staff of the New York Botanical Garden. Says the Garden, in a recently issued press bulletin:

"Nevertheless, evergreens are being overemphasized, and a finer understanding is needed, she says. Upright or cone-shaped evergreens, she says, she asserts that "the beauty of the small place depends upon its enclosure. Whether it frame its neighbor and make it complete in itself." Trees, shrubs, vines, and flowers are used as a background for themselves alone, according to Miss Hanman, but are to be arranged and adapted to the house against which they are used.

Minard's Liniment Should Be Used



When The Babies Are Cutting Teeth

During the baby's teething time, in the hot months, the bowels often become loose and diarrhea, dysentery, colic, cramps and other bowel complaints manifest themselves; the gums become sore, sudden fevers in the mouth, and in many cases the child wastes to a shadow, and very often the fontanelles is fatal.

This is the time when the mother should use "Dr. Fowler's," and, perhaps, save the baby's life.

It has been the market for the past 60 years; put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Just What He Wanted

A story is related of an old peasant farmer, who, on paying his rent, told his landlord that he wanted some tea and asked if he could get it. He was much obliged if he would give him permission to cut down what would grow for that purpose.

"No!" said the landlord, sharply

"Well, then, sir," the farmer went on, "that you give me enough to boil a kettle?"

"No."

"Or to take a pot, then?"

"Yes."

"That's all I wanted," said the farmer, "and more than I expected."

After all we don't look much long hours. They're the repetitions of mistakes.

"I've been with a typewriter company for years," said the salesman, "and I still can't get used to the way some girls talk to their employers. Why, I've seen girls who would not dare to speak to their mothers that way, actually call their employers by their first names, and even go so far as to tell them what they should do and what they shouldn't do.

Big Returns Off Breaking

Averages of 52 and 50 Bushels Per Acre Obtained by Two Local Farmers

W. G. Peerbay, who farms a half section five miles west of town, got a return of 1114 bushels of wheat off 22 acres of breaking, which establishes a record for this district to date, being an average of 52 bushels per acre. Another good return was that obtained by H. T. White, Wh. 21-51-5 who threshed 25 acres of May queen wheat on breaking last Friday which gave him a return of 50 bushels to the acre and is grading No. 2 Northern at the Brooks elevator, Brooks. Mr. White's breaking has been only last year, coming from Bitzer, Saskatchewan and is naturally elated over the splendid yield obtained which he says is the biggest he has seen in an experience of fifteen years.

SEPTEMBER 27TH, 1911

An actual start has finally been made in the work of installing the municipal electric light plant for the town and everything bids fair that fluffin will be on ere the short days of winter are here.

The C N R are using a span 1000 feet long from the main line at a point 1½ miles west of town, to the brick kilns.

As he was driving across the Mc Phee trail from Pelican Lake to the Campbell Lake road on Sunday, F H Miller of Stephens Brothers met with an unfortunate accident which resulted in the killing of one of the valuable drivers owned by the Hayward Livery. Just before reaching the main road, Mr Miller noticed the team with the whip when about to lower a steep into the horses collapsed, leaving the double trees and pulling the driver over the dashboard to the ground. Fine dashed straight down into a barb wire fence on W Beaupre's where she became was thrown breaking its neck.

PREVENTION OF PRAIRIE FIRES.

Owing to the luxuriant growth of vegetation during the past season, which will eventually become inflammable, all should take heed of the great danger to farm property from fire which entails that extra caution be observed in its prevention.

Before kindling any fires on their property settlers should make themselves acquainted with the provisions of "The Prairie Fires Act" so that they may provide the proper fire-guards enabling them to control the same, sufficient and concise instructions towards this end and governing all fires at the time of the passing of the measure by Benj Lawton, Chief Fire Inspector, and being posted complete in every Municipal District in Alberta and Boards of the province of Alberta.

Note particularly that it is unlawful to kindle a fire and let it run at large.

To kindle, or be a party to kindling, a fire for ranging or branding purposes and leave it unextinguished.

To kindle a fire for the purpose of clearing land, burning stubble or for any purpose, and leave it so that the fire is started is properly fire-guarded and watched during the whole period of its continuance from the first day of May a fire-guard must not be less than ten feet in width, after that date and less than twenty feet in width.

To neglect or refuse without lawful excuse to proceed to a fire when ordered so to do by a fire guardian.

ALBERTA EXHIBITS APPEAL TO AMERICAN FARMERS

Keen interest in Alberta on the part of farmers in the mid-western states and prospects for quite an influx of very desirable settlers from that territory are reported by Publicity Commissioner D. A. McCamus who has returned from a trip through Iowa, Missouri, Illinois, Wisconsin and Minnesota. The exhibit of Alberta agricultural products which was shown at a number of fairs throughout this region made a strong appeal to farmers.

ISLAY ITEMS

The fine weather this week has put the harvesting into full swing; almost 11 threshers are busy in this vicinity. The grade is not affected as much as it was thought by the frost in the latter part of July

The induction of Rev. T. A. Bowen as minister of Knox United Church took place on Wednesday evening. Rev. M. S. Kerr, Interim Moderator, presided. Rev. Thos. Hart of Mannville, gave the charge to the minister in a very able address, emphasizing two things the consecration required of a minister, (1) to inspire a consciousness of God in the people, and (2) to call forth intense activity in fulfil the purpose of God in Christian work. Rev. Geo A. Steele of Killarney gave the charge to the congregation, speaking of some of the discouraging features of the Christian Church and of the encouraging things that justified the Church's existence today. Rev. Mr. Gaudge, the Anglican minister, brought greetings from that church and spoke of unity throughout the whole church. Mr. Kerr then made a very optimistic vision of the church today. There was the church doing people's work and Sunday School work take so large a part in the programme of the church. After the service the ladies served a lunch to the members and guests of the congregation. The United Church is awake to the obligation that is here, and is catching a vision of greater usefulness in this town.

Rev. A. A. Lytle, traveling secretary of the Bible Society, was in this vicinity last week, visiting Dewberry, Wellsdale, Marwayne and spent Sunday in the field speaking at Kelling worth, Union and Islay. He gave a very interesting account of the work of the Bible Society in China, Africa and the Near East. Splendid collections were taken and generous response was given at all three places.

Islay district school scholars are anxious to get to work and are hoping Vermilion will be able to lift the quarantine next week.

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

Peter Verigin, the youngest, has arrived from Russia to assume leadership of the Doukhobors in Canada.

The Canadian Government has proposed to Poland conclusion of a treaty of commerce and it is understood that negotiations will begin shortly.

Admiral Baron Sadakichi Kato, who commanded the Japanese fleet during the siege of Port Arthur in the Russo-Japanese War, is dead. He was a former chief of the Japanese naval board of education.

Dr. Edward S. Jordan, his assistant, pologist, has been appointed to a full professorship at the University of Chicago, where he is in charge of the department of anatomy and embryology.

The new consul-general for Canada here has been appointed by Canadian Government. He is Percy Wyndham Wells. He succeeds Hon. Hugh John F. Macdonald, Dr. Wells is a Toronto and Winnipeg lawyer. He is forty-one years old.

The consul-general for Japan, Richard Douglas Gaskell, who is also British consul-general, is dead, with a record of long service. He took the job work of the late Sir Nicholas Hannen, who became British ambassador to Belgium, and held it for twelve years.

Commander R. Bartlett Byrd, said, that he plans to beat Roald Amundsen's Arctic record to the North Pole, and that Floyd Bennett, who accompanied him on his flight to the South Pole, would be selected to accompany the party.

More than 12,000 persons took advantage of a trip of Canadian Pacific and steamers on 167 sailing vessels to the 100 acres of ocean ships in Sydney harbor, to celebrate the opening of the world in 1926 according to the annual week statistic report of Lloyd's Register of Shipping.

Dennis Anderson, 27, was murdered at Calgary, Alta., that the Royal Canadian Mounted Police are making arrangements for purchasing two horses in Western Canada. Incoming British Government has announced will be of higher standard than those shipped last year, and higher in price.

Home-steed entries for the first five months of the present year in the four western provinces total 7,261, as against 2,281 for the corresponding five months of last year Saskatchewan heads the list with 1,624 entries, followed by Alberta with 1,581, Manitoba with 772, and British Columbia with 27.

Partly Filled Silo Is Dangerous Place

Material When Settling Overnight Gives Off Deadly Gas

The partly filled silo becomes a sort of a death trap taking its toll of three every year, Silage in the ripening stages of fermentation, A. E. Perkins, dairy chemist at the Ohio Experiment Station explained, gives off large quantities of carbon dioxide, which, if breathed instead of air, causes death.

This gas is heavier than air, and displaces air in the silo if not allowed to escape at an opening near the surface of the silage.

There is no danger when filling is in actual progress, but there is danger, Mr. Perkins declared, when the filling is interrupted overnight or longer. Even when the doors are put in no faster than the silo is being filled, the silage may settle enough during the night to form an air-tight pit higher than a man's head. The silo may thus become a death trap by filling with carbon dioxide in the morning opening.

This gas does not transform air in order or appearance, and the victim who enters the silo may be overcome by the gas without being aware of the danger. Carbon dioxide is not a poison, but kills merely by excluding air from the lungs.

Removing the doors down to the level of the silage before entering after the filling has been interrupted will let the carbon dioxide flow away and be replaced by air. Burning the entire mid-day for a short time the silo or examining will indicate the gas and mix it with the air in order that it harmless.

After fermentation is complete and the silo has been opened there is no further danger. Ordinarily no danger exists in prompt removal of the portion to fresh air and artificial respiration as in drowning.

If the average man was as good as he thinks other men ought to be it wouldn't be long until his vanity made him ingloney.

Beauties Of Natural World

People Who See Them More Than Fortunate Says Viscount Grey

"Of all the joys of life which may fairly come under the head of recreation there is nothing more great, more refreshing, more beneficial in the widest sense of the word than real love of the beauty of the world," writes Viscount Grey in "Fallodon Papers."

"Some people cannot feel it to such people I can only say, as Turner once said to a lady who complained that she could not see sunsets as he painted them, 'Don't you wish you could, madam?' But to those who have some feeling that the natural world has beauty in it I would say, cultivate the feeling, let it encourage in every way you can. Consider the saving, the joy of life, the standard of life, the health, the real pleasure of the amateur in delicate and practical science and in bird lore, the beauty of form, the beauty of light and open water, what the old greek called the melting of the eye.

"When we are bored, when we are out of sorts, when we have little worries, it is time for reflection, and thank God instead if we can feel in touch with the beauty of the natural world."

Old Popular Pastime May Be Revived

Throwing Horseshoes Not Expensive and Tests One's Skill

The good old game of throwing the horseshoe is being revived and bids fair to become one of the most popular pastimes of the day.

Secretary of the Navy will be interested to learn that the world's record for women was broken at Bloomington, Illinois, when Mrs Lee Bass, former world's champion, picked up six consecutive double ringers, beating the former record of five and making an average of 3.75 points in one game.

The game of horseshoes is neither strenuous nor expensive, yet furnishes plenty of opportunity for testing one's skill and judgment alone in one's own pellar lines. So, if you are not in the golf class, try horseshoes.

Reaper-Thresher Machines

Reaper-thresher machines are being introduced throughout the Canadian district, one company carried over 54 machines from last year and by the 25th additional this year, nearly all of which have been shipped out to farmers. The majority are going to Saskatchewan with a number to Alberta.

Shows How Restoration Transmits Pictures

Scottish Inventor Gives Demonstration For Benefit Of Scientists

Many members of the British Association for the Advancement of Science seized the opportunity of witnessing demonstrations of motorvision, a modification made by John L. Baird, the Scottish inventor, of his television system.

When the motorvision apparatus is used the subject whose image is to be transmitted sits in total darkness in reality he is bathed in invisible infra-red rays. His image appears on the screen at the receiving end in a flickering, fuzzy form, strongly reminiscent of the first moving pictures. The features are recognizable, but the infra-red ray produces a certain amount of distortion in color values.

As in television, in which the person at the transmitting end sits in the glare of an ordinary artificial light, the subject, Mr. Baird explained, be called a shining and clopping tin which optically reduces the reflection of the light to ten thousandths of fragments. Each fragment is converted into the electric impulse. At the receiving end the impulses are reconverted into light fragments, each of which is placed in its correct position on the screen. This process occurs with almost instantaneous rapidity, so that the eye does not realize that it is looking at an optical mosaic and accepting it as a whole.

There is room for only total darkness and silence in the transmitting room when the infra-red rays are used for motorvision Mr. Baird said. Even when a dress suit is worn, care to dress loses the point that their eccentric peregrinations are being watched by infra rays.

Americans Buy Bank Stocks

No Significance Is Attached To Report That Control Is Sought

American capital in New Brunswick formation of the two Canadian Bank investment trusts is not, apparently, creating much concern in official circles at Ottawa. Future developments will be followed closely, but the feeling is that there is nothing behind the trusts is merely the bona fide one of investment. American financial men, it is understood, are leading money and means to Canada as a field for investment, and, even at present prices, Canadian bank shares offer a better return than American

The Bank Act now provides that a majority of the directors of a Canadian bank must be British subjects, resident in Canada. This provision, it is thought, would be sufficient to check any attempt to secure foreign control of Canadian banks. But should such an attempt be made, although in official circles it is not thought likely and the provision in the Bank Act does not prove adequate, Parliament could step in with an amendment to the act which would impose still more rigid restrictions on the directorates.

Hobby Of Life Term Convict

A life term convict in San Quentin Prison, California, has asked for a library for his cell, according to the Scientific condition of his petty hobby. Seven years ago he entered the prison and was ordered to stop his hobby would be necessary to break the monotony of prison life. So he set about to collect the best works of modern authors. Today his library is filling up his cell so he scarcely can move about. But the warden says he has no larger cells, even for liberals.

First Cunard Steamship

This is an altogether feat of the first Cunard steamship, the Britannia, which in 1840 made its maiden voyage from Liverpool to Halifax, and inaugurated the first steamship service across the Atlantic. This feat represented the Cunard line in the recent pageant given before the princes, Premier and Mrs. Baldwin, at Ottawa, at the conclusion of the World's Poultry Congress. The pageant was held in honor of the delegates to the Congress, who came from all parts of the world.

Vastness Is An Asset

Canada Has Bridged Gaps That Were Obstacles To Nation-Building

In days some by, Canada's vastness was a drawback and a handicap. At one time it seemed almost impossible that a country of such wide spread territory could be made into a strong national lines. The terrific gaps between regions of population, the wilderness of the north country, the forbidding mountains of the far West, all loomed as obstacles to national unity.

But the gaps were bridged, the wilderness pierced and the mountains overcome, and instead of being vastness is now an asset. In this great country almost every natural resource may be found. And there is room for all our people and many millions more.

Some day, many wise thinkers believe, Canada will be the centre, the chief nation, of the British Commonwealth of Nations. Many stranger things have come to pass

Dorabjee Flying Ambulance

A flying ambulance for the isolated inhabitants of Lapland, in Northern Sweden, has been donated by a Swedish railroad builder, on the occasion of his birthday. One aerial ambulance already has been maintained in Lapland for the last three years. From the frozen wastes, it has made many dangerous flights to patients in the military hospital at Boden, Sweden's chief stronghold on the edge of the Arctic zone.

Princess Enjoyed Joke

Princess Mary was among those who appreciated the joke when the band at a Manchester ceremony she was attending struck up the refrain "Let's all go to Mary's house." The Princess had just laid a foundation stone at Sutcliffe Infirmary, and as she stepped down from the platform the song was played. At once some of the schoolboys took up the refrain and sang lustily the words, "And let's have a real good time."

Mrs. Jones—"You have a new maid. Evidently you realize a new broom sweeps clean."

Mrs. Smith—"Yes, that's true. Our new maid disappeared with the silverware."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

OCTOBER 3

ELIJAH ON MOUNT CARMEL

Golden Text: "Choose you this day whom ye will serve."—Joshua 24.15.
Lesson: I Kings 18.
Devotional Reading: Psalm 115.1-3, 9-13.

Explanations and Comments

I. Elijah's Meeting With Ahab (verses 1-20)—After three years of severe famine in the Kingdom because of the drought, Ahab called Obadiah, his superintendent, and told him to go in search of water for their perishing horses and mules. He was met by Elijah, who ordered him to inform Ahab that rain was coming. Ahab came to meet Elijah. "Thou troubler of Israel!" were the King's angry words of greeting. Boldly Elijah retorted that the king was the real troubler of the nation, for he had forsaken the commandments of the Lord and had followed the gods of Baal. Then even in ancient days the agelong dispute continued among contending factions assigning to one another the responsibility for the sins among God's people. In Christ's day it is the clergy, the Pharisees who are the troubled Israel with teachings that are the inventions of the traditions of the elders. With passing generations and changing times the same charges of the spirit of anti-Christian intolerance and bigotry, however, is constantly directed with equal severity against prove the statement of truth. When loyalty to truth finds expression in malicious attacks upon those holding different views, the subject is transferred."—Record of Christian Work.

Then Elijah ordered the king to assemble all Israel and all the prophets of Baal and of the Asherah. The king did the prophet's bidding

May Add Airplanes To Present Service

Matter Said To Be Under Consideration By C. P. R. Officials

It is understood that to adopt the airplane as a supplement to the trans continental flyer, on a commercial scale, is the day of rapid cross country trips to be cut in half or third, as at present over a considerable part of the route, is the object of air-mail for the Dominion an early development?

Immediate steps in these directions seems to be indicated by the movement being made to urge the Canadian Pacific Railway to add air line branch to its present service which, it is said, is being pushed by Lt.-Col. W. R. Mac Laren, former chief of staff, General Macbrien is at present provincial chairman of the Canadian Legion.

It is expected that MacBrien will be placed in charge of the railway's aerial department, it is understood. He is himself a licensed air-pilot having taken the course at Camp Borden a year or so ago. In addition, has made an intensive study of aeronautics.

MacBrien's plans, it is said, have been studied and endorsed by C.P.R. officials. The railway is sounding out the federal government to see if it is prepared to assist in the early heavy expenditures by means of subsidies

The announcement is to be followed with the keenest interest, and there is much speculation as to whether the railway that has been a pioneer in transcontinental development will also be a pioneer in this spectacular advance step for future transportation.

Device For Typing Music

New Machine Would Greatly Facilitate Work Of Composers

A machine by which composers will be able to type down their musical ideas in one or several copies, as easily as a letter is written by type writer, has just been perfected by Lajos Viragh, a retired postal director. The model of the machine which Mr Viragh has been at work for three years, is constructed of wood and rubber, and should the manufactured machines prove as satisfactory as the model, the work of composers and those who record manuscript music will be enormously facilitated.

National Dairy Council

The annual convention of the National Dairy Council of Canada will be held on November 21st and 22nd at the King Edward Hotel at Toronto and it is expected that a number of considerable interest to the dairy industry of Canada will come up for discussion

Big Land Deal

Negotiations for the sale of 4,000 acres of land in the Madison district of Saskatchewan, 160 miles southwest of Saskatoon, were opened recently by the Canada Colonization Association, the purchasers being twenty Mennonite families, all in the Dundurn ten but living in scattered districts.

The highest railroad in the world is the Central Railway of Peru, which reaches an altitude of 15,645 feet and maintains a station of 15,805 feet.

Designs Gigantic Air Liner

German Engineer Working On Plans For Super-Craft

Plans have been made by Dr. Eduard Kummler, the German aeronautical engineer who designed the Dumier Twins, or Dorn, monoplane for the German army, for a giant air liner with wings so expansive and thick that they will provide space for cabins with bathrooms, dining rooms, lounges and promenades—accommodations for 125 passengers. It is expected that this Titan of the air will be able to cross the Atlantic in 30 hours.

Actually, plans for this type of airplane were drawn several years ago in general outline they are as good as they ever were, for aerodynamic principles have not changed. Dr. Kumpler, with the Otto blown off his bio-prints, is talking more confidently than ever of the day when air voyages more safe even than the commonplace an steamship travel is now. He is too cautious to plunge body into the construction of a ship without careful preparation. He will reach his ideal trans-Atlantic airplane by many stages. First, he will probably build a forty or fifty passenger plane, and finally his largest ship

Although a plane of such fantastic size has been built, the main project must not be classed as impractical. Scientific and engineering research has never yet failed to improve means of aircraft. The same laws of applied physics that enabled Bellmen to design the colossus and to predict from the plans how fast it would go, how much it would lift, at what speed it would climb, will enable future designers to calculate the wing spread, motor power and tensile strength of the material essential necessary for planes of far greater dimensions. Aeronautical engineers are as exact science, and experience since the Wright brothers' first flight at Kitty Hawk shows that no perplexes are possible

Scheme To Mobolize Doctors With Airplanes

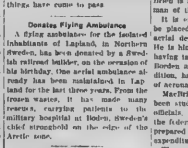
New South Wales Would Ensure Medical Aid For Sparsely Settled Areas

Shortly to be put into operation in this country is what its sponsors claim to be the most advanced and most romantic system of giving medical aid in the world. Briefly, the scheme is to mobilize six doctors, each with an aeroplane waiting for a call by telegraph or radio, to speed off on urgent calls from any point in the sparsely-settled interior and northern areas of this continent. In a few months, it is declared, lonely shepherds in out-back areas need have little fear of not receiving medical attention, should they fall sick or be injured hundreds of miles from an established medicine. Under the shadow of the terror of heroic, pioneering women, who have gone forth to make a garden of the wilderness there is no fear of bearing children removed from human aid will be gone

The Australian branch of the British Medical Association, an organization known as the Australian Island Medical Association, and the Federal and State Governments will co-operate in the scheme

Looks Like Extermination

The 4,000 sportsmen who made returns to Saskatchewan game-keepers department last year secured a total bag of 100,000 duck, 24,000 prairie chicken, 6,000 ruffed grouse, and 3,200 sharp-tailed grouse. Under such bleak of the approximate bag of all hunters it is to be assumed that 12,000 would not make returns covered the same average bags



"When you found you hadn't your fare, did the conductor make you get off and walk?" asked the timid Irishman.

"Only get off" Was the sad reply "He didn't seem to care whether I walked or not down."

"I do pray," said Helmi, in her own defence "but not loud, lest one should hear—I don't like big row—neither does my God."

After that the matron tried giving Helmi more than her share of work, but that plan was soon abandoned. Work seemed before Helmi's clever hands. Then some instinct told the girl's heart was so hard she could not have her meals with the other girls. Helmi knew life exceptionally. Anything better than home? This promised starting at her

Helmi had four happy hours each day, for home, that stripped by her other shining hours, when the dinner-room table was cleared and lessons were given by Miss de Forest. Always Miss de Forest smiled when she looked at Helmi, and called her "dear" She praised her neat writing, and began to bring her a beautiful shiny-backed note-book with cream lines in it for her own. Into this Helmi copied what she had learned. Helmi did her best to please Miss de Forest, and was rewarded by her own intonine Her voice whispered and wailed and roared like a regular singer.

Settlement Plans Outlined By Mark E. Gibson At Board Of Trade Meeting

The general meeting of the board of trade advertised for Friday night last drew a good attendance to hear Mark E. Gibson, Vermilion farmer and land agent for the C. P. R. who had expressed a desire to address a meeting of the business men of the town on the prospects of settling the block of land lying immediately south and east of town, before he left for Omaha, Nebraska to carry on a publicity campaign in which he hopes to be successful in inducing a large number of farmers to purchase farms at desirable points in Alberta.

Regular business was held over and Mr. Gibson was briefly introduced by President Johnston, who occupied the chair. The speaker briefly reviewed the circumstances which induced him to purchase and improve land here last spring, having got into touch with A. E. Pitch, dominion publicity agent at Omaha. He had since become impressed with the great possibilities this country possessed, to carry on successful farming operations as compared with conditions south of the line on high-priced lands with no local outlet for the ever-increasing production. While they were making a living there, slight prospects of making money, farm land realized at eight dollars per acre. There were a better type of farmers, possessing full equipment to settle on land and develop it and each would bring the full quota allowed of 16 dairy cows, many having two and three times this number. During his recent visit back to Omaha, he had disposed of five half-sections of land in Vermilion territory. The half-section he considered the unit and he advocated mixed farming. The work had been confined to the neighborhood of his old home-where his mother still lived on the old home farm. With the aid of literature he had printed and mailed out, as well as by meetings, keen interest had been aroused and prospects appeared very opportune for inducing a considerable number of settlers to come into the country next spring if the publicity campaign was followed up. Mr. Gibson stated that the C. P. R. had consented to calling the settlement here the "Gibson Colony," and this being his home, it was the intention in so far as possible, to concentrate his efforts in colonizing the lands at Vermilion

In regards to publicity the C. P. R. had furnished him with sets of snapshots, which he planned to show at two different moving picture theatres, one reel at night for six nights at each of the two places. This would cost him fifteen dollars per night and he contemplated having some remarkable publicity matter as well. It was in this connection that he asked for more dairy herding from the board as the might see fit. The amount to be left in their hands.

President Johnston followed with a few remarks words on the value of milking cows as a sure and certain revenue source for the entire twelve months of the year on the farm. C. P. Burns had put out 187 cows in and there in this district last season and he considered that rapid strides could be thereby better than in this way. All efforts to bring into our district individuals of experienced agricultural experience, should receive the consideration and assistance of the board for it was recognized that the time was here when we must make a supreme effort towards settling every available piece of land adjacent to Vermilion. He declared it meeting open on all sides to discuss the matter and the address of Mr. Gibson and his plans in connection therewith.

Mrs. several persons took part in the discussion which followed, all of which were of a highly interesting character, and which, if carried out, would be productive of much good to the district. Mr. Gibson was thanked for his address and his plans for the handling of the matter, also passing a vote of confidence in him to the effect that he be allowed to carry on the work as outlined.

Airmen Were Warned 66 Years Ago To Be Wary Of Ocean Flight

The difficulties, in the path of a westward flight from Europe to the United States were emphasized 66 years ago by Professor Joseph Henry, famous physicist and first secretary of the Smithsonian Institute, in a letter to Baldwin M. Lowe, inventor and aeronautical engineer.

A copy of that letter has been unearthed in the archives of the Smithsonian Institute. What Professor Henry said in it is similar to many recent warnings to aviators regarded by transcontinental and transoceanic flights. Professor Henry's letter, which had never been published, was made by Premier J. G. Gardiner.

Claims Human Brain Emits Radio Waves

Italian Professor Says He Has Secured Photographic Records

Professor Ferdinando Tzannaul, of the University of Milan, who two years made the startling assertion that the human brain emits radio waves, now claims to have photographic records of these emanations.

A paper describing his experiments was read in Paris before the International Congress for Psychic Research which opened here recently

Prof. Tzanaul wrote that in order to make his studies more complete in regard to the psychoneurial phenomena of the brain he had constructed a box containing sensitized plate, subjects in a state of hypnosis were placed one after the other in a room with this apparatus and later it was found that the sensitized plates were marked with lines and dashes. These markings, the professor contends, corresponds to the thoughts of the subjects, being more or less straight or the subject was more or less of nervous temperament.

The phenomenon, he added, were not found in persons of unsound mind.

Names Reflect Vast Racial Invasion Of New York City

Another evidence that this is no longer an Anglo-Saxon country is found in the names of the candidates for the football team of the College of the City of New York, now in camp at Lakeville. Here is the list complete: Holzer, Hauser, Dyrnan, Clark, Ehrlich, Pavlo, Schleisier, Halpern, Dreskin, Rothert, Vance, Gannon, Spindel and Goldhammer. Those names are a reflection of the vast racial invasion of New York city from the east and south of Europe. Alberta Tar Sand Has Been Proved Excellent For Surfacing Roadways

Away back in 1913, S. C. Ells, Edmonton engineer for the Dominion Department of Mines, floating into Athabasca Landing on a canoe loaded with bituminous sands, began to experiment with them and more and more convinced himself that the roadway had withstood perfectly all tests of weather and all traffic could impose.

To prove the road significance, Mr. Ells shipped in carloads of the sands for an amount far greater than the total shipped in all preceding years from his mine in a new type of heating and mixing plant, at a cost of $2,000, with a daily production of 250 square yards of two-inch compacted surface. The final test of the paving at Jasper was that a square yard, which pavement from imported asphalt and crushed rock, cost $1.25 at Edmonton. It is estimated that when economies are made in the use of the sands the new road will cost about 75c a square yard on the pavement.

Mr. Ells long has held the opinion that the tar sands would be a valuable asset of our greatest natural resources, and events at last seem in a fair way to prove him right

Temperature At Equator Of Mars Over Sixty Degrees

Not many years ago it was thought that the planet Mars was too cold and too low to support life. But by an ingenious device for measuring the temperature of the planet, it has been found that even in the Polar regions the temperature rises to well over freezing point. The temperature at the equator of Mars is almost that of a close sunny spring day on earth in the latitude of Paris, or between 60 and 70 degrees Fahrenheit.

Photographs taken in infra-red, particular ultra-violet light seem to show that the planet has an atmosphere of a considerable density. How much rarer than that of the earth this atmosphere is, is not known, but clouds are frequently seen floating above the surface of Mars cannot be greater than it is eleven miles above the surface of our own planet

While Mars can be observed to advantage by the telescope only in alternate years, and then for only a few months at a time, Jupiter can be observed all the year round, although it is presenting a changing aspect of study, except for a few weeks when it is too near the sun to be seen to advantage.

Jupiter has many curious light and dark bands that lie parallel to its equator and seem to be formed of clouds or vapours than their surroundings The planet is spinning round on its axis once every 9 hours 50 minutes at its equator and every 9 hours 55 minutes in its higher latitudes. Objects at the equator of Jupiter are moving at the rate of 30,000 miles an hour, or eight miles a second compared with 1,000 miles an hour at the earth's equator

Another evidence that this is no longer an Anglo-Saxon country is found in the names of the candidates for the football team of the College of the City of New York, now in camp at Lakeville. ELIJAH MEARS GOD'S VOICE

Golden Text: "Wait for Jehovah; be strong and let thy heart take courage."—Psalm 27:14.

Lesson: 1 Kings 19.

Explanations and Comments

I. The Despondent Prophet, verses 9, 10.—Elijah's reaction after the great exaltation was most natural, as every one must realize from his own experience. The ebb follows the high tide; depression, sad, exhaustion, the fire died down within Elijah's soul, the situation in Israel seemed hopeless. He sought a cave on Mount Horeb, and there was made aware of God's "listening ear and sympathizing heart." There is nothing unreal in Elijah's interview with God, for "the prophet's own soul, inspired by the God within him, clothed it in his imagination." While meditating there he was brought to face the question of his own motives in withdrawing to the wilderness: "What doest thou here, Elijah?" Should he answer that he had run away from Jezebel? That he was utterly discouraged, and had perhaps purposed giving up his work for the future? That he thought of it especially "the moment of God."

II. The Revelation, verses 11-13. Elijah's self-examination, the uncovering of our inmost hearts, the taking account of stock, is very valuable, but it is only during the process of self-examination that we are prepared to receive the revelation of God. Elijah's experience was before God's great revelation of himself to Moses, when he was commanded to stand upon the mount before the Lord. Moses was told that he could not see God's face and live, but he was permitted to see God's back as he passed by. Elijah was told that he should see God, but he was told to go forth and stand upon the mount before the Lord. Then God passed by, and Elijah was prepared to receive the revelation. The wind rent the mountains and brake in pieces the rocks before the Lord; but the Lord was not in the wind. After the wind there was an earthquake, but the Lord was not in the earthquake. After the earthquake there was a fire, but the Lord was not in the fire. After the fire there was a still, small voice, and in that Elijah knew that God was present. He covered his face with his mantle, and went forth to meet God.

III. The Prophet's Commission, verses 14-18.—Elijah's self-pity and discouragement were not removed by the revelation of God. He still felt that he was the only one who could bring about a change for the better. And so he said, "I, even I, only, am left," he wailed; "among the faithless, of the prophets of the Lord," he added. Moreover, his life, the life of the only living prophet, was in danger.

Ex-Kaiser Predicts More Terrible War

Still Asserts He Could Show World Secret Papers

The Way To Peace

Former Kaiser Wilhelm foresees another war in 1927, he told a correspondent of the Copenhagen Berlingske Nyheder" in an interview in which he asserted he could show the world the way to peace.

Wilhelm evidently has slight regard for the League of Nations, which he says is either blind or blindfolded. The League delegates, he compares with children riding wild horses — they might be thrown off the next moment.

"I am even certain that many of those powers taking active disarmament do so in order to inspire greater confidence, thus disguising their purposes," said the former Kaiser person "According to my opinion, we shall go through another and more terrible war at the latest in 1927, a war which will last only a few days and possibly only a few hours.

"In the same moment that war is proclaimed giant fleets of airplanes, airships and U boats will be informed by wireless. Megahamites will be destroyed immediately and a nation unprepared for it will be exterminated within forty-eight hours. On land and sea new and pernicious gas and explosives unknown in Germany will be employed and annihilate the weak er nations within a moment."

The former Kaiser radiations that he is surrounded by spies with orders to prevent him from "endangering the world," and regrets being up to be relegated as a sovereign to the world how permanent peace might be secured.

"But all things now are there will always be wars," Wilhelm replied "I could show the road to peace, but the world prefers preparing for war as a scapegoat to consulting me as an adviser."

Duty Of Motor Drivers

Whole Thought Should Be Safety For Themselves and Others

The main principle which should be insistently hammered into the heads of all drivers of motor vehicles is that, besides obedience to the golden rule of "safety first," the obligation which they must fulfil is constant thought for others. It is their duty to the community to drive always in such a way as to avoid by approaching others and in overtaking other vehicles safety for themselves and other users of the road. Drivers who are armed with the least possible use both of the horn and the brake, in other words, out of gear with "driving by God's"

No child could honestly answer that he had been very jealous for Jehovah, the God of hosts. The world's jealousy for God was of a false, selfish kind and may be traced back to the Greek word for "zeal," which is derived from a word for "to be burning with zeal for that which is right." Only the while He was marked by his zeal for God. The zeal that is for zeal for all the fact which is not related, that the children of Israel had forsaken God's covenant, had thrown down his altars and slain His people with the sword. He thought that all hope of reformation of the people was lost, for the prophets were the only ones who could bring about a change for the better. "And I, even I, only, am left," he wailed; "among the faithless, of the prophets of the Lord," he added. Moreover, his life, the life of the only living prophet, was in danger.

English Dock Laborer Eats Twenty Dinners in Four Hours

It, evidently, takes a lot of beers in four hours, Benjy Fullden, a dock laborer of Surrey, 30 stand, recently established a record for gastronomy that probably no other Englishman will attempt to equal or surpass. Indeed as an amateur gastronomic event to be in a class by himself. He disposed of the 20 dinners to win a wager.

It all arose over the statement of a patron of the dockland hostelry, that Fullden, a strong man, had been a man who could eat 20 of his dinners as substantial as they are admitted to be. An landlord accepted the bet, only to lose it. When Making Repairs

If called upon to change a tire or make a minor car repair while on the road, the motorist should remember to pull entirely off the road. If this is not possible at the place where the drift only occurs, it is the part of wisdom to drive on for a short distance to find a better spot. Working on the left side of the road is a risk that a traveled highway is exceptionally dangerous even in the daytime. At night it may amount to foolhardiness.

Making the Canadian Dollar Go Farther than Ever Before

IN the purchase of the common commodities of life, the Canadian dollar has decreased in value during the past decade.

But, in the purchase of an automobile, the dollar is now worth one hundred to two hundred per cent more than it was seven to ten years ago—is worth more, in fact, than ever before in history.

While constantly raising the quality standard of its products, General Motors of Canada has increased the purchasing power of the Canadian car-buyer's dollar. . . .

. . . by the economies of volume purchasing and production.

. . . by the co-ordination of resources and facilities.

. . . by improved labor- and time-saving methods of manufacture.

. . . by sharing with Canada the savings effected by increased production.

In quality and in value, the Canadian dollar now goes further than ever before in the purchase of a General Motors car.

HELEN NORTON WINS THE MORRISON GOLD MEDAL

Made Highest Aggregate in Grade VIII Departmental Examinations

A pleasing event took place at the high school on Wednesday afternoon when J. W. G. Morrison, chairman of the Vermilion school board, presented Miss Helen Norton, the twelve year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Norton, with the Gold Medal donated by him to the student making the highest aggregate in the Grade VIII departmental examinations at Vermilion. Mr. Morrison in addressing the students stressed the fact that the board had provided them with a first-class staff of teachers who, he felt, would do their best and that it was up to the students to discharge their obligations. He warned the students against being drawn into social or other activities which would tend to divert attention from their studies. "There will be no help from the town with their entertainments and social will not write your examinations next June for you," he said. He also said the Board was proposing the erection of an high school building, as he felt better work would be done by the students if they were removed from the public school atmosphere, which would not be the case so long as they were housed in the same building.

The chairman warmly congratulated the winner of the medal on her success. Her achievement is a credit to herself, to the school and the town. Mr. Morrison's remarks were heartily received by the student body which had assembled for the occasion in the vice-principal's room.

The largest crop of sugar beets in the history of the industry in Alberta is estimated this season from the southern part of the province where harvesting is now under way. On account of the plentiful supply of railroad cars during the coming season the crop has grown substantially still very little irrigation. URGE FIRE PROTECTION BY THRESHERMEN

Attention of farmers and threshermen, especially those operating steam engines, is now being called to the provisions of the Prairie Fires Act which affect them, by Dept. Lawton, Chief Fire Inspector for the Province of Alberta. Mr. Lawton points out that in order to prevent the risk of serious conflagrations no engine shall be placed within thirty feet of any building or stack and that a spark arrester or adequate size fitted with water shall be placed under the engine as a receptacle for cinders and ashes

All cinders and ashes shall be thoroughly extinguished before the engine is removed from any place where it has been in operation and a barrel of water and two buckets shall be placed conveniently to any stack of combustible material near the engine. A spark arrester in good repair shall be used and shall not be opened while the engine is in operation.

It is hoped that closer observance of these regulations will reduce the fire loss which occurs annually from this source.

Sudden Death of Mrs. Warner

A very sad and sudden death took place at the farm of Mr John Warner about five miles north-east of town, early Friday morning, Sept. 30th, Mr. Arthur Brown, who is a relative of Mrs Warner, and the hired help were going about the chores and when they came in for breakfast Mrs. Warner had not been up, and complained to Mr. Brown of feeling weak. He immediately summoned Dr. Knapp and also her husband, but before they could get there Mrs Warner had died of heart-failure. It is peculiarly sad because it is near the anniversary of the death of their only child, a boy of sixteen years who died the same way two years ago. Mr. Warner has the sympathy of the whole community. They were among the first settlers here, coming in about twenty years ago. Mr. Warner owns a home in the town and he works on the C. N. R. Mrs. Warner generally spent her summers directing the work of the farm, assisted by Mr. Brown and they spent the winter in the town. Many fatal accidents have occurred on the railroad. The funeral ceremonies were conducted by Rev. Mr. Goodge, rector of the Church of England, and funeral cars were conducted by Mr Wartag of Vermilion.

Jas Durrah shipped two carloads of very fine work horses from Islay to New Brunswick. The horses were taken care of on the trip by Mr. Meerveau of Montreal who has been visiting his sisters, Mrs. Durrah and Mrs. Ernest Moore. He booked one carload to Montreal and another to go on to St. John city.

Mr. A. Beecroft must feel happy that he finished his threshing last Wednesday before the rain. His neighbor, Mr. Jas. Carey, had about 50 acres to finish Thursday night. The four days' rain will stop any threshing until next week.

A trial held in Moore's Hall attracted a large audience on Wednesday evening of last week. A man named Cooper, from Minnie Lake, is held that a ball of binder twine would not support its own weight for five minutes. He was given 15 cents to two local boys who in order to get even with him, had his double-trees and feather tick. He had complained to constable Farthing of Lloydminster and the boys were brought up before Police Magistrate Bartholet at Lloydminster who fined the young fellows $5 and costs. Another case of a young man who pleaded guilty of being drunk in a public place was given the minimum fine of $20 and costs. A W. Ebbett, K.C. of Vermilion appeared on behalf of the young men in both cases.

Mr Walsh lost on the northwest 1/4 of Sec. 4 to his much sought-for wife by the result of the ballot. He got all threshed before the rain and the two settlers decided Not to Northern Mrs. Walsh was received into the local municipal hospital last week suffering from the situation.

The Conference Of Premiers

At the conclusion of the Dominion-Provincial Conference there will assemble at Ottawa each year a conference of representatives of the Federal Government and of all the Provincial Governments at which considerations will be given to the many questions affecting the interests and rights of the Dominion and Provinces and jurisdictional difficulties that may arise between them. Prime Minister and some of his colleagues and by all nine Provincial Premiers who in most cases will be accompanied by cabinet colleagues.

The object of this annual table conference is, of course, to discuss problems which will and endeavor to find satisfactory solutions to subjects of difficulty which may arise between the Dominion and the Provinces, in addition to matters of common interest and, in general, to study the financial requirements of the several governmental units. It is worth, it is expected, the time and expense involved, as it may help to avoid friction and to pave the way for any special campaign.

This conference of Canadian Premiers is destined to accomplish for Canada something similar to what the Imperial Conference at London accomplished for the Empire as a whole. For example the Chief Justice of the Dominion presides over all conferences in regard to certain subjects requiring to be clarified. There is now existing uncertainty in matters of Company law, incorporation and regulation, including licensing of companies in Canada making it difficult to know where confusion exists now, and where special supervision and control over the operations and head offices of companies and several trial legislatures are necessary, also what laws to the Provinces, and what to the Federal Parliament. Legislation could be accomplished for the Empire as a whole. For example the Chief Justice of the Dominion presides over all conferences in regard to certain subjects requiring to be clarified. There is now existing uncertainty in matters of Company law, incorporation and regulation, including licensing of companies in Canada making difficulties where confusion

Higher Education In Canada

During the month of October two notable celebrations have occurred in Canada, the centenary of the University of Toronto, the original charter of which was granted by King George IV in 1827, and the golden jubilee of the University of Manitoba. Needless to say both anniversaries were marked by impressive ceremonies and attended by many distinguished men and women. Well deserved tributes to the part played by these institutions of higher learning in the religious, political, scientific and economic life of Canada were uttered indeed by the rulers of these two great institutions. Has been felt throughout the United States as well as Canada.

Considering the population of Canada, and the number, size, and financial strength of Canadian universities, it is not only surprising but a distinct tribute to these bodies that they occupy such a relatively high place among the universities of the world. All of Canada's universities are still young in years, but their standards are high and their scholastic achievements noteworthy. Their graduates are to be found all over the globe doing some of the best of the world's work.

For example, it is revealed by a recent survey of medical colleges in North America made by Bachelder Potndait at that the Medical College of the University of Toronto ranks first, with Harvard University second, John Hopkins University, Baltimore, third, and McGill, Montreal, fourth, a truly remarkable showing for Canada. Instead of Canadians having to go abroad in order to obtain the best in University training, the reverse is true, and hundreds of United States students are annually enrolled in Canadian institutions. Even from the British Isles come students to take the engineering courses at McGill, and to pursue their medical studies in London.

It was from the medical college of Toronto University that Dr F G Banting gave his wonderful discovery of insulin to the world, while many of the great engineering feats in Canada during the last fifty years, and in other parts of the world as well, due to the genius of Canadian University trained engineers.

From the earliest days education has been the chief foreman in every Canadian government. It has been the keystone in the arch of the policies of the Canadian people. The result is seen in the character of the people, in the strength of our public institutions, and in the growing importance of Canada in world affairs.

The younger universities of the West, Prairie ... are worthily upholding the tradition and standards of the older institutions and will play an equally important part in the future development of Canada, and in the contributions they will make to it. Dominion Particularly in their research, survey and extension departments is each of the most vital interest to the country being performed. The strides being made in the development of agriculture along scientific lines, and in overcoming plant pests, such as rust, will not only mean untold millions to the farmers of the West, but will result in a general raising of the standard of living, of cultural equipment, and of the level of prosperity throughout Canada.

In one of the three prairie provinces at the present time one in every four of the population is attending school in a small Western city of approximately 10 000 population there is at present enrollment in public and separate schools, high schools, colleges, and other institutions of learning no less than 10 000 students. These are not the data but the figures of actual enrollment can be made of other Provinces and cities in the West. The lesson is taken here of taxation borne by the people is for education, but it is before gladly and without complaining. In fact, it is a matter of pride and the boast of the West.

No other subject, no other department of the Government, is marked more closely than education. It is the one which touches most closely the intelligence the training, the character of the younger generation On the hope the future of this great country. There is to be found the basic foundation of all that is fine and worthwhile in life, and upon such foundations rests the strength and greatness of any people or nation

A Welland Lady Tells Of the Value Of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills In Her Home

"I have had occasion before praising Dr. Williams' Pink Pills," says Mrs George L. Swire, R.R. No. 2, Welland, Ont., "and my experience with this medicine was in my girlhood, when I suffered from attacks of nerve fever. I was left in a badly run down condition and the pills restored me to good health. Later in my married life I had a recurrence of this ailment. The pain in my right arm and shoulder was so bad that I could not sleep at night without help. Again I resorted to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and in a few weeks they proved a blessing to me, for I was completely relieved and still more disappeared and there has been no return of the trouble. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been a great benefit to my children then of the family and I would like to say a few words in this connection."

Largely Responsible For Crime Waves Says Russian Professor

The day is not far off, in the opinion of Prof. Alexander Tchijevsky, of Moscow University, when it will be possible, in estimating the degree of guilt of a person convicted of crime, will be found to have the meteorological and astronomical conditions obtaining at the time the offence was committed.

Tchijevsky claims to have discovered a decided relation between sunspot activity and human frailty. In a report prepared for the Moscow Psychological Laboratory he writes:

"The nearer a crime is to the time when sun-spot activity reaches its maximum, the less is the responsibility of the guilty person for the crime committed. Judges in pronouncing sentences should bear in mind and act accordingly."

Sun spots, he says, "produce an enormous amount of electricity, which in turn combines with the earth's magnetism heroelle, magnetic storms and other phenomena of nature. They also upset or on the nervous system of man and bring about marked changes in his emotions and impulses."

Tablet is Unveiled At Montreal By Women's Press Club

Tribute to the memory of Colonel George Ham, who in his day was one of the most widely-known and popular citizens of Canada, was paid recently at Montreal by the Canadian Women's Press Club, when Miss May S. Clendennan, president of that organization, unveiled a tablet to Colonel Ham in the Windsor street station of the Canadian Pacific Railway. The tablet reads:

Sodium Sulphate Plant

Now Plant In Saskatchewan Will Have a Capacity Of Nearly 70,000 Tons Yearly

In a report to Commissioner T. M. Molloy, of the Bureau of Labor and Industries, W. H. Mastings, the bureau's engineer, states that the new sodium sulphate plant north of the town of Funiller, which is west of Kerrobert, will have a capacity of nearly 70,000 tons yearly. The power plant is finished and in operation, the refining plant is nearly completed in the dryer and other buildings.

A new method of making crystal salt from the lake has been worked out by C. Heathcote, the designer and manager. When formed the crystal will be pressed into salt pills built on the lake itself. The crystal will be trucked to the plant at Funiller as required.

Two separate products or grades of material will be made, the coarse product for the paper industry and a finer, purer product for use in the glass and dye industries, especially in the latter.

There are two other sodium sulphate plants in the province, these being at Chaplark and Harlowe — Regina Leader

MEXICO STILL IN THROES OF SERIOUS REVOLT

Mexico City.—The stalemate roll of the firing squad continues to echo through Mexico, but despite gloomy rumination existed by Government reports from many points indicated a continuance of revolutionary movements.

General Alfredo Quijano, commander of cavalry in the Mexico City garrison, is taken virtually from the court martial chamber in which he was convicted to face a firing squad.

General Alfredo Rueda Quijano was also executed. The general, who was convicted of leading his troops in rebellion against the Government, after an eight hour trial, was shot by a firing squad in the courtyard of the San Lazaro military barracks.

In Morelos, 13 members of the State Legislature were shot as sympathizers of the Gomez-Serrano revolt.

Despatches to the American border announced that the Mexican treasury had called upon the Government, after the Republic to transfer available funds to the capital to meet the increased expenses of military operations.

Mexican naval vessels at Vera Cruz prepared to depart on an unannounced mission.

Railroad rolling stock has been concentrated around Vera Cruz, for the use of the federal military in operations towards Orizaba, indicating a new front will be established, and disruption of traffic on the Mexican railway has been heightened by the incursion of a rebel group at Paso Nacho.

Plan Might Be Feasible

Idea Suggested By U.S. Professor To Aid Farmers

Urbana, Ills.—Two means of giving the farmer a fairer break in competition with the world prices of farm products have been outlined by Professor C. L. Stewart, chief of agricultural economics at the University of Illinois.

Prof. Stewart has suggested a $300,000,000 bounty to be paid the export producers of agricultural products from present tariff income. He would place the wheat crop of the United States under the control of a board, which would export one fifth of the crop and tax the remainder of the rate of 10 cents a bushel to meet the deficiency in the price received for the exported wheat.

In the first place, he said, the tariff rate was now so high that import of foreign goods has been greatly reduced. If the rate were cut the increased importation would so increase tariff revenue that the bounty would be paid without loss of governmental funds.

BIG CANADIAN RUSH TO SO. CALIFORNIA

More "Cold Belt" Tourists Are Coming to Los Angeles Than Ever Before

Los Angeles Examiner.

"Cold belt" tourists from Canada will commence their annual trek to California in October and according to John Hooper, president of the Canadian Tourists' Society, the greatest number of Canadians that ever visited Southern California will be here this winter.

"A number of noted officials, big statesmen and wealthy retired people have expressed a desire to come to Southern California," said Mr Hooper, "and the Canadian Tourists' society is preparing a copy of this list for the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce and the All Year Club as soon as they get back to Canada."

While the Immigration laws will not debar Canadian tourists or those coming from Great Britain on visas or passports, the Canadian Tourist society has made it known that people of little or no means, or those with no way back, looking for easy work at high wages had better stay away, Mr Hooper states.

Headquarters of the Canadian Tourist society will be established at once in the War Veterans' Hall, 216 South Hill street next to the Los Angeles Express office. Mr Hooper will shortly speak before the Pegasus Rod Wheels Club and Pan Pacific Association on Canada's wheat pool.

STORAGE OF ROOTS AND VEGETABLES

(Experimental Farms Note)

Owing to the comparatively low storage period in the prairie provinces particular care to the right choice must be exercised. A fairly constant temperature and humidity are essential for all roots and vegetables, although for storage should not be too cold, down to zero, small variations in degree, some diward and injured individuals do not store for any reputation that have been exposed to frost; every trusts will also injure the keeping qualities of such hardy vegetables as beet, carrot, cabbage or turnip. These are some of the conditions that require consideration before and during the selection of roots and vegetables for storage.

While the humidity of roots may be successfully stored in bins in a cool (fairly moist, cold cellar), a much small quantities the method of burying in sand is recommended. In both of this practice considered at the Dominion Experimental Farm, Indian Head, Saskatchewan, during the winter 1926-27 best results followed the use of dry sand as compared with the use of moistened sand. The same method of storage is recommended for winter radishes, turnips, rutabagas and celery.

The air temperature of the cellar during October 15, 1926 to March 7, 1927 averaged 29.61 degrees Fahrenheit ranging from 32 to 26 degrees Fahrenheit. The moisture and from 31 to 26 degrees Fahr in the cellars, in the same root cellar potatoes were stored in bins as large as 3.5 by 3.5 by 4.5 feet deep on October 5, 1926. No specimen large enough to require removal were produced on these small after May 24, 1927 indicating dormancy so long as the temperature remained relatively constant. Another observation made during the storage period was that the least amount of sprouting took place on potatoes sized in bin sacks.

Under similar temperature results long enough may be stored home up by the roots to the ceiling or be bunched in slatted bins or on shelves. Firm, undipped heads only should be stored. In the same cellar celery lifted from the garden before severe frosts with all roots attached and replanted in moist sand kept fresh and crisp until after Christmas.

A small coal burning heater which was attended to morning and evening was good in the cellar. In shelving bins beet and hard onions, squash, citron and pumpkins were stored. The onions were in excellent condition in spring when a number of the mature bulbs were set out for the production of seed, and many were grown plants for the production of the bulb—squash, citron and pumpkin, however did not keep well. Drier and warmer storage conditions are required for these vegetables and the close "fruit" the better will they keep in storage.

GOOD RETURNS FOR 1926 SUGAR BEET CROP

Some twenty thousand dollars has been paid to sugar beet growers in southern Alberta during the past week representing a final bonus of 47 cents a ton on their 1926 crop delivered to the Canadian Sugar Factories Ltd. a Montreal concern. This brings the returns to growers up to 7.97 per ton for the 1926 crop. This is an increase of $1.82 per ton over the final price paid for the 1925 crop, and the statement is made in a letter issued to growers by the sugar company that "sugar prices are stable and prices for 1927 and 1928 beets are likely to remain high and attractive to the farmer."

WHEAT POOL NEWS NOTES

Quite a number of United States citizens, who own land in Alberta, are joining the Wheat Pool just recently, Senator J. W. Reid, of Idaho, signed a contract covering two and a half sections of land in the Makepeace district.

Writing in the Farm & Ranch Review, C. W. Peterson says: "It seems obvious to me that the organization which controls the wheat production of 125,000 farmers, fifty per cent of all Canada's wheat and ninety-five per cent of the world's exportable surplus, and which is organized to act under service to its members as a unit must, can effect such economies in handling, and has such tremendous power that to place it side by side with the comparatively puny efforts of even the greatest of private grain handling concerns is fantastic in the extreme."

The total handlings of the Alberta Pool elevators from the 1926 crop were 5,376,754 bushels for the pool terminal houses, or an average of about 12½ cent bushels per elevator. The first nine elevators were: Strome, 275,674 bus.; Pesaska, 223,830 bus; Coaldale, 222,272 bus; Milton, 220,242 bus; Hussar, 214,913 bus; Dayland, 178,169 bus; Woodhouse, 176,516 bus; Dalemead, 168,173 bus; Ensign, 166,470 bus.

All business houses need more or less printed matter all of which is within the possibility of the local printer.

Advertising Canada in the United States

Some idea of the activities of both the dominion and provincial governments in the way of advertising Canada in the United States and the elaborateness of the means employed to attract attention to this country can be formed from a perusal of the following clipping taken from the Waterloo Courier published in Iowa:

Canada Exhibit Striking

Four immense revolving wheels, each 11 feet in diameter and weighing 1,500 lbs. made up of grains, are kept in motion by electric motors.

This exhibit, which is the same in size and variety as that made by the dominion at world's fairs, is a remarkable creation of the exhibit at the Iowa and Nebraska State fair. Here they are covered into one and require the north end of exhibition Hall No. 2 for display. In it are three tons of grain and many tons samples of the products of field and vegetables. The samples of corn are quite green. Mammoth squashes, pumpkins, potatoes and fruits form the display.

Plan to Shown

For those who have never seen Eastern it is a fine chance to complete it. There are four kinds of wheat, two of oats and many samples of breakfast food products manufactured in Alberta in the grain belts of the dominion.

There are tempting display of honey, syrups, jellies and preserves made from the Canadian wild fruits. There are peaches, apples, plums, pears and cherries from British Columbia, as well as western grains and of western dairies cheese. The credit of this imposing exhibit, which is illustrative by 250 electric lights, is due to A. E. Philip, Omaha, Canadian government agent, and to Joseph Wilkinson, Canadian agent, and R. M. Finch, Des Moines.

Philip has had charge of the Canadian exhibits here for the past eight years.

Alberta Represented

An exhibit by the province of Alberta in charge of A. W. Fahey and L. H. Newville, is near the south entrance to the building in No. 1. It displays grains, grasses, seeds, vegetables and other products. The exhibit's art has preserved a purple hue, which was common in Iowa in and 'ty years ago; a Hungarian pheasant and a mountain sheep, which are among the exhibits

Alberta raised because acre of corn last year, Fahey says. Large king of crops is meeting because of the rain of 15 miles a year." Fahey displayed some cattle in connection with the exhibit. They were a shorthorn steer, first prize as a yearling in Iowa in junior days. The acclimatization we are developing better varieties of grain by exposing

Can The Good People Of Vermilion Meet The Situation?

Up to October 17th, there are 160 students registered for the School of Agriculture. These are made up as follows: Canadian boys 82, British boys 17, girls 51; total 160.

We have secured enough room to provide for the girls but this leaves us a total of 109 boys to find accommodation for. Two staff members made a careful canvass of every home in Vermilion and at the very utmost could find room for only 75 boys. This leaves 34 boys who simply cannot come because there does not seem to be rooming or boarding accommodation. As conditions look today, the staff feel that they can easily induce another 20 to 30 boys to come to the school but what is the use if we cannot accommodate those already registered? We would like to register another 20 to 30 students, giving us a total of 180 to 190, but it would be unfortunate if we had to send 50 to 60 students home again for lack of room.

Now, we believe there is more accommodation in the town of Vermilion if the people care to offer same, and we hope the people will help us meet the situation, as it is apparently very serious.

Looking at the matter from the standpoint of dollars and cents. Let students will leave in town approximately $22,000.00, while the students will leave $30,000.00

The matter has been laid before the Vermilion Board of Trade and it is hoped that the good people of Vermilion will come forward with all available accommodation that may be for rooming or for board, or for both. We must know of this extra accommodation by Monday, October 24th.

Wheat Pool Makes $19,000,000 Final Payment On '26 Crop

VERMILION, Oct 19.—A final payment of over nineteen million dollars on the 1926 crop of the Pool, was announced this morning by A. J. McPhail, President of the Canadian Wheat Pool.

Of the total amount the Saskatchewan Pool receives $12,823,207, the Alberta Pool $4,191,847, and the Manitoba Pool $2,985,515" stated Mr McPhail

The total payment made by the Central Selling Agency to the three provincial pools represents the net balance after deducting all marketing costs incurred by the Central Selling Agency such as storage, interest charges and administrative expenses from the proceeds of the 1926 crop.

As in previous years the spreads between grades have been adjusted, in the final payment which reflect the actual price secured for the various grades.

The final payments make the total price on the principal grades as follows. No. 1, $1.42; No. 1 Durum $1.35; No. 2, $1.38, No. 3, $1.31 Nos. 4, $1.24½, No. 5 $1.09, No 6 92c

Mr McPhail stated that the entire charges and operating expenses of the provincial pools are deducted from the final payment in addition the provincial pools made deductions for the commercial elevator receipts which are credited to the individual members. Members receive interest on the money lent by them to their Pool as an elevator reserve, which is used to provide elevator facilities.

The administrative expenses of the Central Selling Agency for the crop year of 1926-27, according to Mr. McPhail were covered by a deduction of less than a fifth of a cent per bushel. The distribution of over nineteen million dollars brings the grand total paid by the Pools since the Alberta Pool was started in 1923 to over six hundred and seventy-four million dollars

BAD THRESHING ACCIDENT

Irvin Hunking Loses Arm in Separator

Irvin Hunking, age 22 years was working on the threshing outfit of the Norman Brothers, south of Andrew, when he had his left arm below the elbow terribly mangled shortly before noon Tuesday. The unfortunate young man was rushed in a car by Pat Nosko to the Vermilion hospital where amputation below the elbow was made.

Hunking was drilling a stook for and putting the bundles on the feeder shaft had slipped in and over it to adjust it. He also was on the machine was started and Hunking was caught in the shaft, with the result mentioned above.

FUNERAL OF MRS JAS SHRIGLEY

The funeral on the late Mrs. Shrigley who passed away at her residence on Friday last at the Vermilion Hospital after a lingering illness, took place from Grace United Church on Sunday afternoon and was largely attended by friends and acquaintances of the deceased lady and the family. The service was conducted by Rev. Dr. Chisholm assisted by Mrs. Phillips. The pall bearers were Messrs. Hall, Bell, Hall, Hall, Hall and Hall. The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful and showed the esteem in which the deceased lady was held by many friends. Interment was made in the Vermilion cemetery.

Besides the sorrowing husband the deceased leaves to mourn her loss, two daughters Mrs. C. E. Henry, Vermilion and two sons Lee of Vermilion and Allan of Northern Saskatchewan, also a sister and brother in England.

The late Mrs. Shrigley, who moved to Vermilion from Brampton, Ontario was born at Brampton Mont Bellow, England in 1852 and at the time of her death was 75 years and five months of age. She was married to Mr. Shrigley in 1880 and three years later they came to America settling in Pennsylvania where they lived for twenty-four years coming to Vermilion in 1907 where they have since continuously resided on their farm south of town. Though possessing a rather enfeebled disposition her gentle nature won for her many friends in this community in bearing her unfortunate affliction with a will and cheerfulness indomitable and was a devoted wife and loving mother of our own Mrs. A. Christian all through life. Also mainly but in the Christ faith, a Christ Jesus and His ability to save, and all through her physical suffering there was never the question as to why it was.

The sympathy of the entire community goes out to the family in their sad bereavement.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. Shrigley and Family wish to convey their heartfelt thanks to all friends for the kindly help and sympathy extended to them in their recent sorrow for the beautiful floral offerings and to those who provided cars.

Empire Christmas Pudding
Empire Marketing Board Sends Out a Recipe By the King's Chef
The King's Chef, M. Cedard, with Table Mrs. Beeton's cookery book supplied to the Empire Marketing Board a recipe for an Empire Christmas Pudding. The following are the ingredients, together with the portion of the Empire from which they are obtained:

An Honest Event
Here is a story a Hiawatha, Kansas, young lady told on herself. It is the truth. She is still wearing a smile that won't wear off. The material is so good that she has no way to throw the dress away has no younger sister to give it to. Each year she says, in order to keep pace with the march of fashion, she lengthens or trims the hem. So it constantly gets shorter.

Remains Of Ancient Villages
Kitchens Of Prehistoric Villagers Unearthed In Vicinity Of Prince Rupert, B.C.
The Dominion Archaeologist of the National Museum, Ottawa, has just completed the examination of an ancient village site at Esmerson Point, Digby Island, about three miles from Prince Rupert, which was reported to him by Mr. R. W. Pillsbury, of the Prince Rupert Fisheries Station of the Canadian Biological Board. The site is about one mile from the Canadian National Railway across the harbor. It covers the entire point fronting on both beaches and is about 215 feet long by 155 feet wide. It consists of a deep deposit of the shells of edible shellfish and refuse from the kitchens of the prehistoric villagers who lived there. In two terraces and seems to indicate that there were two distinct periods during the north beach, at which time the village was built. Here have been seen to have lived the east beach—two being on one terrace and one on a lower level. Around the village site on both the west and south. They evidently fortified their village on the land side by a fence of shells. There appears to be the remains of a fort well protected by the village on the point of approach by land. Several specimens of ancient handiwork were collected from the site of the village, and from the latter have been sent to the National Museum, is of particular interest. It is a fragment—the only piece of pottery found in the entire collection—of a type of which so much has been used for hollowing out canoes from the large cedar logs, and for carrying fresh water for building houses and for similar purposes. It has been found on Ontario Indian reserves by expert ethnologists as it may be, to certainly is of a beautiful design and workmanship. Another piece it cannot be described with a knife. No such stone is known in the vicinity. Another interesting and interesting ancient places within five miles of Prince Rupert according to the Dominion Archaeologist. The reason who says they may all be reached by motor boat from the wharf. There are deep beaches and deep marking ancient and prehistoric villages. One at Casey Point, opposite Esmerson Point, is cut by the C.N.R., a second also cut by the railway in on Fairview Observation Spot. A third, smaller one, on Kaien Island, is on the north side of the mouth of Hays Creek near the city dock in Prince Rupert; still another was discovered by the C.N.R., but much larger and more than five feet deep, is near the road average plan on Hecate Bay within the city limits of Prince Rupert. There are several other such sites in the same region, and the Geological Survey, under the direction of Mr. Keiser, have already submitted to Dr. Beggs the analysis of several specimens of charcoal, etc., supplied by the Provincial Government, and have asked him to give an opinion of the value so far as figured will be considered."

Providing the grass be grazed a reasonable time, the land should be kept every reason to believe it would, the problem of the transportation of Alberta coal to the markets would be solved as one ratioed of the all-coal shipments last 500 tons of the coal. Automatic furnaces would be used in residences and plants.

"When we consider that as a people Canada imports five million gallons of crude oil and only produces one per cent. of our needs, and when we realize that we are the British Empire consumes 11,000,000 tons of oil annually and only produces 2,000,000 tons, we can realize that Alberta is the greatest need of Canada and of the Empire is that of crude oil," said Dr. Keiser.

Dr. Keiser said he was convinced that the great lignite coal fields of Alberta would solve the problem and personally would like to see the Government vending a commission of chemists and engineers to Alberta to study the problem of production. He said he also believed that the Government should nationalize the process if found satisfactory.

Strange to say, the surging man is the one who has circled.

Explanations and Comments

I. The Call Of the Prophet Elisha, I Kings 19:19.—Elisha was plowing with twelve pair of oxen before him, and he was driving the last. Elijah came unto him and cast upon Elisha his mantle, which was the characteristic garb of the prophets, Zech. 13:4; this was Elisha's call to the prophet's office. It is an interesting fact, by the way, that the insignia which the graduates of certain schools in England wear in their private occasions—the lambskin hood or stole—can be traced back to Elijah's mantle, which was the skin of some animal dressed with the hair left on. "I wish that his mantle might fall upon me," is an expression not infrequently heard from one who covets another's gifts or graces.

Elisha ran after Elijah and promised to follow him after he had said farewell to his father and mother. And Elijah said to him, "Go back again, for what have I done to thee?" "Whatever sacrifice was involved in the separation he will make it gladly and grudgingly. Elijah, like our Lord, would have no halfhearted followers," Compare Luke 9:59-62."

II. The Call of the Prophet Amos, Amos 7:14, 15. "Then answered Amos."—His consciousness of his divine commission upheld him in the face of the threats and opposition of the high priest Amaziah; see verses 10-13.

"I was a herdsman and a dresser of sycamore trees." Sycamore trees yield a fruit which could only be used after being punctured and to do this well. The humble and rustic calling of rearing task of Amos. He was not a member, of a prophetic guild, he was an "inspired farmer" chosen by God to be His messenger to Israel.

The faithful performance of the commonplace duties of daily life is the best preparation for any great demand that may suddenly break in upon our lives."—F. B. Meyer.

Important Cog In Machinery Of League
Canada Is Going To Play Leading Role Says Rupert Delegate Enthusiastic

"The Dominion of Canada is going to play an important part in the affairs of Nations of the League of Nations," Senator Raoul Dandurand, who has been representing Canada at the League of Nations at Geneva, stated on disembarking at Quebec from the Empress of France.

Canada, he believed, would gain immense benefits from membership in that she could feel on a par with the other big nations. "We have." Moreover she has got to be the spokesman for the North American continent." The League, he said, is a great Power, is still outside the League and her neighbor on the continent is a member.

"I do not mean that Canada's delegates to the League will act for the U.S. What I mean is that she will have a very large role in the settlement of international questions such as the Upper Silesia question. Canada is the only British Empire nation which is neutral as between the United States and Great Britain. She is a buffer state. The Dominion Archaeologist recently found the huge deposit of an ancient village out by the pale on the western end of Loey Island, August 14, 1927. There are numerous other remains in the Prince Rupert district of great interest to some tourists and a few local people. No real exploration or even close examination of any of the ancient remains in the Tsimshian linguistic area has ever been attempted. Here is the key to many of the problems of the anthropology of Western Canada and in fact of North America.

When an impassioned orator held out his hand and shouted, pointedly, "Have any of you ever known benefit?" a girl in one of the front seats quietly spoke up: "I've been married."

"Where are the 36 Kroner I lent you? You said you would only have them for a short time."

11 OUT OF 83
Cases ended in death! So a recent Canadian investigation showed. Those were not cases of infectious sickness — of consumption — of typhoid! They were cases where a sore throat had contained some slight injury—a cut, a bite, a wisp-prick —and where the wound, being thought not serious enough for care nal treatment, had been neglected. Blood-poisoning and death resulted.

When you or your children sustain any injury, ensure against infection by applying Zam-Buk. This balm soothes the pain, stops bleeding, and by destroying all germs prevents blood-poisoning, etc. Hence no time need be lost from work or pleasure by those who use Zam-Buk. All dealers. 50c. box.

May Turn Alberta Coal Into Liquid
Plan Feasible Under Recent Discovery Made By German Doctor

With the Ontario coal problem be solved by shipping the Canadian product in liquid form? This matter has of late been engaging the attention of several persons, and Mr. T. K. Jones, M.P., of Ottawa, was in Calgary recently in connection with this matter. He has handed over details to Reg Steele and will make exhaustive inquiries into the coal deposits in Alberta.

Dr. Kaiser, in the course of an interview, explained that he was putting the matter up to the Federal authority made by Dr. Frederic Bergius, of Germany, by which lignite coal could be liquefied and converted into fuel oil, and oil economically and entirely.

Dr. Kaiser stated that the kind of coal used was lignite, similar to Alberta coal. Anthracite, or high class coal was not suitable for the process at all.

"From the analysis of coal submitted by Dr. Bergius it would be suitable for his purpose, I find that Alberta coal would come in the class that would give the best results," said Dr. Kaiser. "I have already submitted to Dr. Bergius the analysis of several specimens of Alberta coal, as supplied by the Provincial Government, and have asked him to give an opinion of it. So far no figures of it have been received."

Dr. Kaiser said he was pleased at the reception he had received in Alberta.

Calibrated Eighth Birthday
British civil aviation having recently celebrated its eighth birthday, I took the trouble to look up a few facts concerning the career of the lusty youngster. I won't bore you with too many figures, but it should be placed on record that during the past eight years British Air Services have been operationally six million miles and have carried 90,000 passengers on regular services, while since April 1, 1924, over 50,000 passengers have crossed the Channel alone.—London Bystander

A room that changes color, from pale yellow to yellow deeply splashed with red, according to whether it is cold or warm when the bell opens, was exhibited at a recent English flower show.

PAINTED FIRES

The door of the common room opened quietly. The light was switched on, and Mrs. Wynuth in dishevelled night clothes stood blinking like an owl at the light. Helmi stood at the window facing her, unafraid and calm.

Mrs. Wynuth had a sudden plan. Helmi had come back to be near—she was frightened—now was the time.

"I came the times to pick up," said Helmi, in a whisper. "I hope he is not hurt bad."

"He is dead," said Mrs. Wynuth, in a voice as hollow as an empty church. "Oh, Helmi, you have killed him—killed him by your blow. He is lying now cold in death."

Dead! The room swam past Helmi, table chairs—down. Dead! The word beat like a drum with every throb of her heart. Dead! Dead! Dead! Murder! Murder!

The red word danced before her eyes.

"Helmi, the police will come for you. I will have to send for them—I will have to tell them what you have done. Listen, Helmi, tell me now who was it sent you for the dope? I'll not tell—I'll not tell—but if you'll my the name."

Terror had frozen Helmi's blood. She knew that she must make it was to kill people who had injured her. She looked and noticed her hands.

"Just say the name, Helmi, and I'll save you—just the name."

For the moment Helmi could not remove her tongue from the terrible present. Then she remembered. She began to speak mechanically.

"It was," she said, and stopped abruptly. Her oath—she had sworn!

A deadlier almighty outside drowned her voice. Harvest engines, steam of a locomotive, were heard by rushing from side to side.

"She—she—" Mrs. Wynuth spoke the name. I will not say. Mrs. Wynuth raised her head. What a noise! "Helmi I will tell them you did not mean it. Say it! Say it! Quick! They will hang you, Helmi, and you are so young. Tell me, Helmi dear, and I will keep you—protect you! Tell Helmi."

Helmi drew back, irresolute. There was a step in the hall, quick, impatient, then a rush.

"Oh, the devil are you doing in there at this time of night?"

Mr. Wynuth came into the room. With a small piece of court plaster on his cheek, the only sign of the accident of the night before, and in a faded brown dressing-gown, his big and deeply interested in her own mental experiences, began to feel that the episode of Helmi was a providential thing, inasmuch as it was bringing her and her husband closer together, and under the stimulus of this belief the redoubt of Mrs. Wynuth to please him she went to church with him, she joined some of the women's societies. She was also unmindful of the benefit she would receive socially from these affiliations with her employer, but to find what a life of pleasure her room made in the societies. Any way, it was good policy to make her social position as secure as possible, and if Helmi did accuse her it would be easier. Through all of this Friendly Power she would show to the world that although the young Finnish girl had been discharged she was no open enemy. In her noble heart for resentment. She glowed with the thought. Having her hand on the plow she would not turn back.

Miss Abbie was delighted when she heard that Miss Estate agents who are not fine for the owner, said:

"It's spent a fortnight making a decision. I'm glad it's settled at last. I've taken a place. Each oak beam was numbered so it can be restored."

Souvenirs Of Canada
Golfside Roses Presented To Prince Of Wales, Prince George and Premier Hepburn

Among the souvenirs of the motoring tours of Canada carried back to England by the Prince of Wales, Prince George and Premier Hepburn were three magnificent bullrush rugs from the National Exhibition Park at Bath Street, Alberta.

The rushes, which were mounted as floor rugs, were each superb specimens of their kind and were presented by Mrs. Gladys Odell, a lady, during her visit to the city to the Prince of Wales. Mr. Odell, who is also world, "Tour man," she said slowly, "is he dead already yet?"

All Canada Agrees "It's Better because it's Canadian"

"IT'S Better because It's Canadian" . . . a year ago General Motors of Canada gave first utterance to this phrase.

"It's Better because It's Canadian" . . . newspapers and magazines all over Canada took up the theme, impressing on Canadian citizens the pride they should justly feel in the products of their country.

"It's Better because It's Canadian" . . . the phrase has struck home, has become a challenge to the Canadian manufacturer and to the Canadian buyer.

"It's Better because It's Canadian" . . . it is a fact. And because it is a fact . . . because General Motors was inspired to put it into words . . . because Canadian editors added to its impetus . . . because Canadians accepted it . . . and because the standard of Canadian quality proved it true. . . .

. . . all Canada has enjoyed a greater measure of prosperity; and General Motors of Canada, with many other Canadian manufacturing organizations, has just completed the most successful year in its history.

ANALYSIS OF POOL PAYMENTS.

Final payment cheques to all Alberta Wheat Pool members who delivered wheat to the 1926 Pool are now in the mails, and the fourth year's operations of this organization have been concluded.

The Central Selling Agency has turned back to each of the Provincial Pools a final payment of 12 cents per bushel on One Northern, which with the initial payment of $1.00 made at a time of delivery, together with first and second interim payments of 13 cents each, makes a total of $1.12 on One Northern basis Vancouver, paid to the Alberta Pool on 1926 deliveries. From this 12 cents final payment, 2½ cents per bushel is being deducted on all grades by the Alberta Pool, consisting of 2 cents for elevator reserve and 1½ cents to cover commercial reserve and operation and administration expenses, leaving a net final price realized by Alberta Pool members of $1.38½ on One Northern, basis Vancouver.

The net operation and administration expenses for the year just closed amounted to approximately 4 cents per bushel, or a little less than one-half cent per bushel.

THE VISION THAT INSPIRES THE COMMUNITY.

(Family Herald and Weekly Star, Montreal).

Though farming has become more of a commercial enterprise than it was fifty years ago there is still something about the old farm home which cannot be expressed in dollars and cents. The Rural New Yorker states that the real glory of old time farming lay in the "vision" which filled every farm home and community. Farmers were not bound to the land, but they were not just holding on in the hope that real estate values would rise and thus put them on "Easy Street." They did not want to live on Easy Street if that life had been void of work and constant effort. They knew that joy of living depended on a modest competence, an independent spirit, ability to think clearly, and a real purpose to be found in any other occupation. The modest victory was due to the "vision" which led them on, and while that vision endured the community or state was strong. There are many sections where farms are abandoned, houses stand idle, or filled with discouraged complaining people. Farms, once prosperous, have given up to be used and weeds, complaint is bitter, the young people have been lured away on the restless life of the city. It may well be that in some of these cases economic laws have worked ruin to farmers. Thus economic change may be responsible for some of these things, as they are with the death of some farming communities, but even with that it will be hard to find a ruined agricultural community where the old vision has been kept alive.

Another Martyr Of Science

British Pathologist Had Just Concluded Seconds Series Of Research On Yellow Fever

In the lengthening roll of heroes and martyrs who daily risk their lives for the benefit of their fellows, none hold a higher or more exalted place than the scientific investigators, who devote themselves to tracing the origins of disease and devising remedies therefore. Word came only the other day reporting the death at Lagos, West Africa, of Professor Adrian Stokes, famous British pathologist, who had just concluded a second series of researches as a member of the Rockefeller Commission on Yellow Fever. Thus another of the brilliant rising figures in the field of tropical disease research has disappeared from mortal ken, succumbing, after a brief illness, to an attack of the same plague he was doing his best to exterminate.

Dr. Stokes made a distinguished record in the war, and later became assistant professor of pathology, bacteriology and preventive medicine at McGill University. He held this post till 1922, then becoming professor of pathology at the University of London, and a member of the staff of Guy's Hospital. Seven years ago he paid his first visit to Lagos, returning there to complete his work on Yellow Fever. In his case heredity had its part, for various other members of the Irish family to which he belonged had made their mark in medical science. Dr. Stokes, himself a physical giant, and unusually athletic in his younger days, had crowded strik ing accomplishments into his brief professional career and devoted all his best willingly to the work of like sacrificing from the menace that had cut so many African pioneers untimely, was one of the first graduates from Saskatchewan in ceramics, having graduated there 1921. He has been employed with the Dominion Fire Brick Company

New Idea Of North Carolina Man May Eliminate Hazard

Perfecting the development of a monoplane with wings and fuselage carrying sufficient buoyancy to make the craft lighter than air, Edward Simmington, a cigar maker, believes he may make flying a safer proposition by eliminating nose dives, tail spins and other aviation hazards.

Simmington has completed a model of an all-metal plane with a wing spread of 30 feet and a length of 26 feet. The wings are rounded and 15 feet in width.

Motors and passenger cabin are right below the fuselage. A feature which the in enter believes will give the craft an equilibrium by which it will right itself when swayed from its balance.

As a precautionary measure he proposes to install a Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator and Regulator in the engine compartment that will relieve the occupants of any fear of engine failure.

GIRL AVIATOR IS RESCUED BY A PASSING VESSEL

Paris.—Ruth Elder failed by a scant 800 miles of accomplishing the feat of being the first woman to cross the Atlantic by aeroplane.

She and her co-pilot, Capt. [illegible] George Haldeman, were forced down on the waters of the Atlantic by a broken oil pipe and were taken aboard the Dutch tanker Lars relevant, which rescued them. Their plane, "The American Girl," was commanded to have travelled 2,000 miles about the 2,700 mile mark.

The plane was destroyed by fire as the ship was attempting to salvage it, the ship reported. Miss Elder and Haldeman were en route to the Azores.

The first news of the landing and rescue arrive here in a radio message Miss Elder sent to the Paris office of the Associated Press.

Ashton, Ala. "We safe and all no one any worse off," Ruth Elder radioed her mother, Mrs. J. O. Elder.

The message, sent from the Dutch freighter, which picked up Miss Elder and her co-pilot, George Haldeman, and relayed by the steamer Lapaix, reads:

"We are safe and no one any worse off. Landed by s.s. Dutch ship. Will you please later Love Ruth"

Employees Can Buy Shares

Sir Alfred Mond To Try Out Co-Operation Plan

London.—Co-operation between employers and employees which is now a new theory in the United Kingdom is about to be tried out here by Sir Alfred Mond with fresh employees to his big Power Alkali Company. Sir Alfred's idea is to make a capital. Lot of every one of his factory hands.

Through the Power Alkali Company Sir Alfred Mond will purchase shares, quoted at 5s shillings, for 27 s. shillings each. The only condition is that they do not speculate. He will award free shares to workers on the basis of a man's wages and whether or less getting a free share for every four pounds. The workers can vote on their shares.

"That will create a direct bond between the company officials and workers," Sir Alfred said. "Industrial peace will not be gained by pleasant talk and no dinner parties, but by actual contact between the men and employers working out practical schemes."

Irish Free State

President Cosgrave Makes Few Changes In His Cabinet

Dublin.—Mr. Cosgrave, re-elected as chief executive of the Irish Free State, is still in the full favor of his people. He has made few changes in his ministry.

The changes that have been announced from Dublin are the transfer of Mr. Blythe from the portfolio of finance minister. Hon. Patrick McGilligan took over the financial portfolio. In addition to his Ministry of Commerce, while Hon. Desmond Fitzgerald retains his ministry of External Affairs.

Mr. Blythe, who brought in the American Equitable Loan during his term of office, and gave the Irish people the first budget after the civil war, will deliver an address at the opening of the Dail on November 27. The budget will be brought down on December 5. The policy outlined will be the same as that followed during the past year.

The Teachers' Convention in the Vermilion inspectorate is being held in Vermilion on the 3rd and 4th of November. An interesting program is being prepared and includes an address by Mr Elliott, principal of the Vermilion School of Agriculture; Mr. Hilton, Technical School, Edmonton. Mr Parker, B.A., inspector of schools; Mr. Gorman, Chief Inspector of Schools for Alberta, and others. The fall conventions in the various inspectorates allow closer contact among members of the profession and greater freedom in the discussion of educational matters, than the provincial conventions, and are undoubtedly of great value to the teacher. With the added incentive that the convention is being held on a week-end prior to Thanksgiving, a large number of teachers will be in attendance in Vermilion on the above dates.

RALLY DAY AT THE UNITED CHURCH SUNDAY SCHOOL

The special Rally Day service held last Sunday at the United Church Sunday School was a notable event in the history of the church. There are now 16 classes in the Sunday School, necessitating a small army of teachers and officers and the problem of accommodation is an ever pressing one. The promotion service these items presented a problem, but under the capable management of Mr. Shields and Mr. Law these were carried through without a hitch. It was an inspiring scene that took place when scores of little feet and small pupils passed through the gates to higher grades. Another happy moment occurred when Mr. Hiatt, the superintendent, turned the hands of the memory work clock to the figure seven, indicating that up to date for this year 700 verses had been recited by the pupils. As the hands of the clock reached this figure the bell in the tower tolled out and many children are still wondering how Big Ben knew of their special achievement. The special speaker of the day, Mrs. L. McElroy expressed her pleasure in visiting a Sunday School of which she had heard much from outside sources.

Rev. Woodard, evangelist for the West, will preach in the Baptist Church, Vermilion, Sunday, October 23, at 7.30. Everybody welcome.

Modernism Vs Fundamentalism

Powerful Discourse in Presbyterian Church

In the course of his sermon in the Presbyterian church (Brimacombe hall) Sunday evening, Mr. C. Oscroft dealt very forcibly with the question of modernism versus fundamentalism. Modernism was an new thing; it was considerably over 100 years since we had the first attack upon the authenticity of some parts of the Bible. The manner which beset the church today was not so much from without as from within. It was being attacked by different 'isms' all trying to undermine man's belief in God. Modernism had been creeping into the old Presbyterian church; it had professors and ministers who taught and preached almost anything and everything excepting the word of God as revealed through Christ. The attacks are subtle. You are told it is not necessary to believe this or that; you are told that to be saved does not require acceptance of the Bible or its teachings in their entirety; you are told that this part and that part had no right to be in the Bible and you are given interpretations that upon examination are not founded upon the word as written and spoken in the Bible. No man, he said, went wrong by following the teachings of the Bible; no soul had ever been lost by accepting its truths and principles; it was also all very simple; do you believe in the Bible or do you not? do you believe in Christ or do you not? Tell those modernists that you are a sinner and wish to be saved, and ask that they guide you to a life eternal and you will find that they have no comfort for you, no chart by which to lead you and nothing to hope for in a life hereafter. He urged the people to stand fast by the faith as revealed in God's most holy will and word. Denomination may be rent in twain but that need not disturb the man who believes in what the Bible says and tells him to do.

Action By Mayor Saves Auto Camp

Mayor Fallow has received official word from the department of the interior, Ottawa, that the 10 acres of land reclaimed in the auto camp and held under lease, will be withdrawn from the sale of the school section lands to be held here on November 10th. A contemplated change in the Act which is expected to pass the house of commons next session will give the power for the department to dispose of any school lands for public purposes. When the sale of school lands was first announced it looked as if the auto camp, located on section 29, was to be lost to the town and it was only through the prompt efforts of Mayor Fallow in immediately entering into correspondence with Ottawa that this pretty and popular tourist rendezvous has been saved.

THE ORIGIN OF THE HALLOWE'EN NIGHT

Has Been Preserved Down Through the Centuries

Hallowe'en is essentially a Celtic festival and to the living people of Scotland and Wales it largely owes its preservation. Many other festivals which in past and more heavily times were thought vastly important have gone unnoticed. Not so Hallowe'en. Even though hardcore no longer kindled on Cauldron mountains and goblins encouraged to walk by Scottish ghost, still Yuletide and Hallowe'en parties will be the chief feature of social life in many Canadian homes and nurses this year no in the past. There will be apple bobbing and burning of nuts and many other divertisms that have stood wholesome amusement for very many centuries. Among these could be mentioned the reading of the romantic maiden whose mind was anxiously agitated over her matrimonial prospects. Hallowe'en was to her the auspicious season for discovering the outcome of what the future held in store for her. Many mediums were consulted in order to conjure up a vision of a possible husband. Hallowe'en and the supernatural were at ranks

And shook the Carrick spear
Some merry friendly country folk
Together did convene
To burn their nits and pou their stocks
And haud their Hallowe'en.

The expression "and pou their stocks" refers to another practice which in Scotland was considered the first ceremony or important. The stocks were plants of kale or cabbage leaved rather and the intending romancer had to make out hand in hand and blindfolded to pull the first one could find in the garden and according to the appearance of the plant they secured would be the appearance of the future husband or wife. It was considered a most fortunate omen for the earth to climb in the root. The heart of the plant was also examined and its condition was said to suggest the character of the person to be acquired today. The Vermilion report was then read by Mrs. R. Gladwell, the secretary, and was followed by reports from Minburn and Kitscoty, read respectively by Mrs. Hicks and Mrs. Hilts. Owing to threshing operations the Marwayne members were unable to send a delegate present their report. Kindly members made it possible for several of the other delegates to be supplied by collecting them at their threshing duties for the day.

The standing committees delivered their reports as follows: Agriculture by Mrs McClellan; Child Welfare, Mrs Roderick; Canadianization Mrs. Hilts; Temperance and Moral Welfare, Mrs McClellan; Child Welfare, Mrs Roderick; Canadianization Mrs. Hilts; Temperance and Moral Welfare, and Legislation, by Mrs Hislop.

The Women's Institute Girls' Club of Kitscoty then reported on their work in an address given by Miss Gray. Kitscoty has also organized a Women's Institute W. I. Boys' Club between which and the girls' club a wholesome rivalry exists. This branch of the work has raised almost a hundred dollars which was used in beautifying their town and providing Christmas hampers and good cheer to needy families, as well as enabling them to enjoy themselves days in summer camp at Cold Lake. The boys have taken up instruction in physical training, agriculture, good citizenship, and sports including the race and use of a gun. Both these clubs are under capable leadership to which a great deal of credit is due. Enthusiastic interest in the progress of these institutes of their reports

Election of officers for 1927-28 followed, those elected being, Constitutional Convenor, Mrs. Brown; Child Welfare and Public Health, Mrs Roderick; Education and Better Schools, left open to Marwayne; Legislation Mrs Hislop, Minburn; Immigration Mrs. Davies, Islay. Honorable Convenors, Mrs. W. A. Johnstone, Agriculture, Mrs McClellan; Canadianization and National Events Marwayne Mrs. Hicks extended an invitation on behalf of the Minburn members to hold the next conference there. This was accepted with much pleasure by all present. It was decided to hold the next conference early in August if satisfactory arrangements for the same can be made with the Department of Agriculture

Miss MacMillan gave a short address on the inter-relation of the Department of Agriculture and Women's Institutes. A few minutes were then given up to open discussion of institute problems. Mrs. Cameron extended an invitation to all the delegates to partake of the supper prepared by the Vermilion members. The meeting then adjourned until afternoon.

Fifty-six members and delegates sat down to supper which was daintily served in the church dining room. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered the Vermilion members by the visiting ladies.

The evening meeting opened by all singing "Annie Laurie". Miss MacMillan gave a very instructive address on short course demonstrations which was followed by an open discussion leading to the selection of a course for the coming year

Mrs Brown addressed the meeting on "Duties of Members and Standing Committees."

The evening session was brightened by solos from Mrs Pattyblank, Rev. Mr Stevens, and Mr. T. Watts, all being heartily encored and thoroughly enjoyed by everyone.

Miss MacMillan spoke on "Some Thoughts on Leadership," and gave a very interesting account of the ancestry of Stanley Baldwin, pointing out its psychological influence on his career and that of his family.

Mrs. Rogers gave a delightful account of the Resolutions conference at which she was a delegate, and a stirring, fair humorous description—as she called it "greenly rambles"—of journeys and incidents visited in the Maryland province held her audience enthralled and made the evening seem all too short.

The meeting came with the singing of "God Save the King."

Remember the auction sale at C.P. Henry's auction rooms this Saturday, commencing at 1:30 p.m. The entire household effects of Mr Archie Bell will be sold without reserve. Don't miss this opportunity to procure some high class furniture.

Following the evening service in St. Barbara's church on Friday, also a farewell reception was held in the parish hall by the congregation, when Mr. Stevens, who has been in charge of the Anglican field here for the past sixteen months, was presented with a purse with the best of wishes for the success of his work in his new field of labor at Humboldt, Sask. Mr. and Mrs. Stevens and baby left by car on Monday.

The Canadian Legion Whist Drive started on Wednesday night, October 19th. Owing to shortage of notice, only a small crowd, sufficient for five tables, was present, but those who were there enjoyed themselves. The special prize provided were much appreciated and it is the intention of the committee to continue to have prizes of some high quality and tasty selection. The next whist drive and dance will be held on Nov 9th when it is hoped a capacity crowd will be present.

Alexandra and Vermilion Constituency Women's Institute Meeeting Report

The Women's Institute of the Vermilion and Alexandra constituencies met in conference at Vermilion in the United Church on October 18th, with a record attendance. Mrs. W. A. Brown, constituency convener, presided over the meeting. Mrs. Rennes, district convener, and Miss Jessie Mc. Millan, director of Alberta Women's Institutes, were present and gave interesting addresses at both afternoon and evening sessions

The afternoon program opened with the singing of "O Canada" which was followed by the reading of the creed. The address of welcome was given by Mrs. Cameron, president of the Vermilion institute, and in a few well chosen words Mrs. Crawford responded, thanking the Vermilion members for their hospitality and good fellowship.

Mrs Hilts read the report of the 1926 conference which was held at

Ghosts of the Past

The good old days of steering "rollers", oil lamps and engines under the sent were brought back again in the other day when Toronto held its old car parade. Thousands of amused spectators turned out to see the veterans rattle past at a shaky four miles an hour, and some narrowly escaped injury when one of the oldtimers got out of control and crashed into a corner. The 1902 Oldsmobile shown in the picture led the parade, driven by its owner, Otto Collins of Port Dover, Ont. Behind the Olds, which chugged away almost a feller, is visible one of the first McLaughlins made in Oshawa, a luxury finder 1907 model.

There are no secrets in milling. The best flour is the result of intelligent selection of the very best wheat, a good mill, skillful milling and constant and never ceasing watchfulness. That combination insures good flour. Nothing else does.

PREDICTS A GREAT WORLD WAR IN 1928

Will Start May 28 Next and Will Continue Until 1936 Is Prophecy

LONDON, Oct. 16.—Prediction of a great war was made last night by Daniel Stewart, one of the speakers at the meeting of the three year old society known as the "British Israel Row" held at Londonderry House by invitation of the Marquis of London derry.

Mr Stewart made the solemn prediction that the next "world war" will start on May 28, 1928, and will continue until September 18, 1936. He based his predictions on the symbolism of the Great Pyramid, combined with what he termed prophetic fragments of the Bible, and he asserted that the war would be accompanied by unprecedented convulsions of nature, floods, and earthquakes.

England, he said, and other countries which are the "port of Israel," will emerge victorious, he, Russia, asserted the pro-Bolshevists, will be wiped out entirely.

Lord Desborough presided, in the absence of the Dowager Countess of Radnor, who is president of the society

Once Famous Liner Is Being Wrecked

Empress Of Japan Boasting Fine Equipment Than Many Modern Ships

The homeward and bound a' a wreckers are making fast work of all that remains of the fine steamship Empress of Japan, once queen of the Canadian Pacific fleet. The vessel is now high and dry on the beach at Inverkeithing in Burrard Inlet. Her once fine lines are fast disappearing under the torches of the wreckers.

The Empress of Japan was one of the first ships to be built for the Pacific service. She was launched in 1891 and was soon put on the transcontinental run. Many famous people crossed the Pacific on her decks and for many years she was the favorite ship of the Empresses of Japan and China.

The Empress of China was lost in the Japanese coast some fifteen years ago.

Radio In Demand For All Purposes

Requests Received By Chicago Station Are Many and Varied

People with responses to make, who used to call the newspapers and the police division, have now turned to the radio.

The plea for the rendition of the wedding march, or a message, was received by Station WHT of Chicago, and answered to the dot.

Requests for prompt police or information come in the late small, but the telephone is used too.

A Chicago station received a long distance call from St. Louis. A fan wanted to know when Chicago would next be entertained there.

An anxious mother in town asked station WMAQ, Chicago, to have Johnnie come home for the graduation exercises, when she arrived in Chicago and to see that she got on the right train for Detroit, where she was going for a vacation.

The morning mail of another Chicago station contained a long letter from a woman in Nebraska, asking if the station would kindly undertake to market her produce every day, saving her a recipe for a good canned food value.

Safe Enough For Gold

Record Shipment Shows Air Transportation Considered Fairly Reliable

Many persons who are doubtful that the safety of travel by the use of airplanes may be reassured by the fact that with which all transportation is subject, of for shipping gold. One recent consignment of $5,000,000 in that metal was taken from London to Paris by airplane. There was a part of the regular business of an air express line, of course, the cold was insured, but the fact that the rate of insurance charged was moderate enough to make the use of the air route profitable is taken to indicate satisfactory confidence in those who are watching the progress of human flight. In one month's time, it is said, not a bullion, by transportation by which are not reasonably safe.

Takes Photos In Fog

Inventor Of Television Gets Every Detail With Complete Clearness

Photographs of the ground, every detail of the landscape with complete clearness have been taken in an opaque fog, according to J. 1931-0 the inventor and a camera, equipped of his television ray. The special photographic plates are sensitized to the invisible spectrum rays which are held like to its human eye, and by this means the camera can "see" through the thickest cloud. Baird predicts that photography and clearly from the air, and that it can be carried out by an aeroplane far above the clouds and hidden from the view or hearing of the earth below.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

AMOS DENOUNCES SIN

Golden Text: "Seek good, and not evil, that ye may live; and so Jehovah, the God of hosts, shall be with you, as ye say."—Amos 5:14

Lesson: Amos 2:4 to 3:15.

Explanations and Comments

I. Judah's Sins and Threatened Punishment, verses 2-5. "Thus saith Jehovah," were the words with which Amos prefaced his denunciation of sin, for he rightly believed that he was the mouthpiece of a frightened God. "For three transgressions of Judah, yea, for four (the Hebrew way of saying, of accumulated transgressions), I will not turn away the punishment due to Judah, the southern kingdom, had aimed over and over again. It was not any one evil act, but persistent, repeated evil practices that had called forth judgment. Because they have rejected the law of Jehovah (the teaching of the prophets and priests), and have not kept his statutes (the definite, penal requirements), and their lies have caused them to err, after which their fathers did walk." By lies are meant the outward, imaginary deities, the Baalim and Ashtaroth, who have been substituted in the minds of the worshipper, and therefore are false gods. "Jehovah is hope."—Dummelow.

Verse 5. I will send a fire upon Judah, and it shall devour the palaces of Jerusalem." Judah would share the doom of the unbelieving nations upon which Jehovah had sent punishment. God's judgment in the earlier part of his address.

Start On Long Hike

Twin Brothers Walking From London, England, to Karachi, India

A 4,000-mile tramp with empty pockets in search of the romance of travel is the program of two young Englishmen who started to walk from London to Karachi, in India.

They are twin brothers, Donald and Douglas Barnes, and their route will take them through France, Italy, Greece, Dalmatia, Turkey, Arabia and Persia.

It is to be a real "roughing it" tramp," they said before starting, "because we are not going to take any money with us. We shall work and earn our way, though for the last few years we have lived in Canada."

The twins will not be completely broke until they get to France, for they have given their watch to a friend to serve the Channel

Says Greenland Once Tropical

Danish Explorer Has Evidence To Prove His Claim

Lauge Koch, Danish explorer, has returned to Copenhagen from an exploration of Greenland with evidence that Greenland was once a tropical country. Koch and two assistants explored the mainland of North Greenland, from Danmarkshavn, Green land. The expedition is recorded as important because Koch found fossils which now confirm to North Greenland.

Koch brought back the largest collection of specimens ever taken from Greenland, eight tons of fossil plants, and animals showing three geological periods. Some specimens indicated that at one time there was a tropical life on Greenland, such plants as palms growing in shoreless trees and enormous fern springs and rich animal life were found.

Bidding For Ocean Traffic

The Germans are making a bid for the Trans-Atlantic traffic in 1933 they will have two ships ready of 49,000 tons each.

They will be coal burners.

This is good news for the English whose wealth and prosperity have been founded on our coal deposits. England is running short of coal in her own in the bunkers of steamships.

Many Former Aristocrats Plan To Settle In Canadian West

A party of landed German aristocrats have been looking around for land in the St Walburg district, Saskatchewan.

The names of a few of the Germans are familiar as being prominent in the German war news, and if their decision is favorable concerning the land in the district, a German settlement will spring up, somewhat some of Germany's former nobility.

Dr. Rudolf von Seeberg, of Berlin, who organized the party, has himself taken up a homestead in the St. Walburg district.

Count von Ivus Hagen, from Dresden, and Herr Carl Schultz, graduate of the University of Greifswald, are the other settlers who have been leaving for Germany, where they will make a report on the land conditions found. It is their intention to return in the spring, bringing with them their families and a large party of relatives.

Count von Ivus Hagen was formerly an official governor of German East Africa before the outbreak of the war. He is a first cousin to Count von Bulow, nephew of Prince von Bulow, who was German ambassador to Rome before the war, and Admiral, son of General von Arnim, and others of the blue blood of Germany

World's Record Wheat Yield

74,000 Bushels From 1,300 Acres in Saskatchewan

C. H. Noble of Neidorf, Alberta, a former American, has this year from his own words, proved its wheat growing ability in fact. In the year he grew 11,35s bushels of wheat on 1,300 acres, an average of 8.7 bushels per acre this year a 1,300 acre field has yielded 74,000 bushels, an average of 57 bushels per acre. Mr. Noble's yield per acre from such an extensive area, the highest ever yield in 1915 was Marquis, the famous red rusting wheat, originated in Ottawa, Canada, in 1904, from a cross between Hard Red Calcutta and Red Fife.

"And now, girls, for a lovely surprise! There is a beautiful lady in the city who is going to have a tea in her own home for us. She thinks we are living away up here on the hill, and wants to make us happy so next Tuesday afternoon she is going to have a lovely home, and kind ladies will come and bring gifts and money, all for us. Wouldn't we be very happy over it, and very grateful?"

"Good gals! We'll go," it was Rose Lamb who spoke for the company gathering up the feeling of the meeting in this one crisp exclamation.

"Oh, dear!" Mrs. Wynnish's mouth was almost trembled.—"Rose, how could we be lucky all of us. I mean, you should not speak so."

"Ain't she got roses?" Rose persisted; "there's only twenty nine of us."

"She wrote of some lies," Mrs. Wynnish commanded.

Rose started forward, she had not stopped all the time in the same position. "It's a swell way to hold a tea for us and not ask us!"

Miss Lamb's indignation, in to the world of action made her a sort of special directory for the girls. At once every girl felt she had been slighted.

"Hmm! At once!"

Rose hammered solemnly up the stairs. Relieved of her disconcertin

WOMAN COULD HARDLY WALK
Mrs. Horn Tells how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Health
Hamilton, Ont.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I would not be without it. Now, I am a female trouble so badly I could hardly walk and I was all run-down and could hardly get around to do my household work. I would be laid by for one days at a time. I was told by a friend to try your Vegetable Compound, did, and by the time I had taken I was beginning to feel around again. I took his medicine in all, and now I am all right again and doing my own work. I have a good appetite for, my color is fine. I also used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash, and I think it is good. But I owe my health to the Vegetable Compound, and I think if more of it was used women would be better off. I would not be without it if it cost much more."—Mrs. Nellie Farmer, 103 East Cannon Street, Hamilton, Ontario.
Do you feel broken down, nervous and weak sometimes? Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is recommended to take at such a time. It always helps, and if taken regularly and persistently, will relieve this condition.

presence, Mrs. Wynnish swooned. "And, as it stood in the room where tea are held in aid of a Home, there is no doubt the better result to the next day and the needle will valuable will be given to the girls who have the most honour marks."

The tea was held. The morning paper featured it. "Wednesday claimed Mrs. St. John for one of its most charming businesses at a delightfully appointed tea in aid of the Girls' Friendly Home." The paper was quite correct—it was a charming business, and the appointments were perfect. The colors done had a card of the middle white and "Forget-me-not" in a mahogany table to pass a white grace bracket ring with ribbon ribbon, to receive the dainty items. The ladies came in gaily colored dressings, skirt-heeled, with floral perfumes. Mrs. St. John, who stood inside the drawing room receiving guests, in an American Beauty red velvet dress. The roses and violets in a bowl sitting on a mirror and on Sunshine their number, were at the table. The table was daintily red with smilax and "the color scheme was carried out throughout."

Ladies came in swarms from the city and from the suburbs, and the drawing room and exclaimed prettily over the table. Very shiny young ladies presently did duty at the tea table, and indignantly in which Miss Rose Lamb was one, were allowed to pour tea for themselves. Mrs. St. John, who was dressed in the latest of the style, in that cause that we have known a good hour, bleached almonds, lace and wishes, pretense blind, in harmony with the color scheme.

The tea—because of the best—

The day not need to be out, they were numbers. Pink rosily, they stood in the picture of green leave. The guests were raisiens. Angel cake, fancy fairy fishings, and cream cakes, flavored with peppermint, rose drops, flavored with bitter-sweet, and some almonds, nuts—Really, I shouldn't—I am dieting but then are so delicious! I don't believe it makes one bit of difference."

Then goodbyes to the chaperon hostess, who was still at the entrance to the drawing room, and away.

Now see, the paper was right it was "a perfectly appointed tea." There would not have been one jarring note in its perfect harmony if Miss de Forest had not come. She had read of it in the paper and decided to go. And it so happened that the cake at tea which, when the rooms were round of, Miss de Forest was a large woman, deep chested, deep voiced, dominant. When she spoke her voice boomed

"I am so glad you are interested in the Home," he said to her because "it is high time someone became interested. I think it is a wicked place

innocent girls and gaily ones

She de Forest's exclamation, the raising and falling chapter both long it, it is to say, were conscious that someone was speaking.

"Now, take the case of that young Finnish girl, Helen—Some of you know her. She is an honest girl, clever girl, truthful, lovely. Do you know there are Miss is hiding someone and will not tell who it is? Her name is Bernia. Lauzer a make this into, in this dull, selfish age. She's abandoned to death by the man to make her tell. It's just a question of how long she can hold out. Now, think, of that lovely girl shaping for the same room and using at the same table with some of the most girls in town. And when she gets out it will always follow her that she had been in the Girls' Friendly. I want to thank you all for coming and for your generosity and to tell you that the Home is going to be a real success. Mrs. Wynnish will be glad to hear that the Home is going to be a real success. Mrs. Wynnish will be glad to hear that the Home is going to be a real success. Mrs. Wynnish will be glad to hear

HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING

Splendid Work Done for Town By This Organization

A. E. Kaiser will guide the destinies of the Vermilion Horticultural society for the year 1927. Mr. Kaiser was chosen president at the annual meeting held Monday evening of last week in the town hall at which quite a number of members were present. The financial statement presented by the secretary-treasurer, W. E. Sutton, showed that for the 1927 fair receipts totalled $1264.61; there was paid out in prizes the sum of $176.50 and the year ends with a balance in the treasury of over $400.00. The number of exhibits entered at the fair was 293, the largest in the history of the society. Mr. A. Y. Law, first vice-president, presided and in his opening remarks commented upon the splendid work the society had done in the three years of its existence and the fine influence it had in stimulating the residents of the town in improving their premises generally. The number of flower gardens alone was a distinct credit, he said, to the town of Vermilion and he hoped for a still greater interest along this line the coming year. Mr Law also referred to the wonderful display of flowers and vegetables at the show last year. Three years ago no one would even think that it would be possible in that line to have such a splendid floral exhibition.

The other officers elected were as follows: Hon. President, Mayor W. A. Fallow; 1st Vice-President, S. C Hewhurst, 2nd Vice-President, Mrs. A Y. Law, Secretary-treasurer, W.E. Sutton, Directors: A. Y. Law, chairman; Mrs. H. J. Payne, Mrs. J. W. G. Morrison, Mrs. Mabel Robinson, Messrs. A. Porter, C. B. Johnston and John Brimacombe, and F. C. Lang.

At a subsequent meeting of the directors, W. E. Sutton was named as president and H. P. Lone, secretary.

PARTS OF OLD CURLING RINK TO BE DISMANTLED

Directors Decide on Needed Improvements—To Be Used Wholly for Curling

The annual meeting of the Vermilion Curling and Skating Rink Company, Limited was held in the town hall on Thursday evening of last week and was attended by a fairly good representation of shareholders. At this meeting other matters it was decided to dismantle the old dressing rooms and ground entrance on the south end of the building, remove the lockers and floor inside the main building so that spectators will be in a position to see the games from a shorter distance instead of standing on ice as at present. This will not necessitate any change in the "upper chamber." The north end of the building will be jacked up and material had from the dismantled south end used in repairs. The heater will be removed inside the build for Attachments to have the additional two sheets of ice made the manner will be carried out so that there will be no waste of water at either end of the rink. The contemplated improvements will make it smaller but it will be more compact and better adapted for curling purposes. The south end part has not been used to some years. In view of the new rink there will, of course, be no more skating in the old and will therefore be exclusively used for curling. Mr. Thompson who had the care of it last year will very likely be in charge again this year and make his own terms with the curling club. Any material or supplies on hand and not required will be sold.

The following directors were elected For three years, J. W. G. Morrison and H. E. Long, for two years, H. A. Brimacombe and F. C. Lang. At a subsequent meeting of the directors, W. E. Sutton was named as president and H. P. Lone, secretary.

The Misuse Of Gasoline

The number of tragedies reported in Western newspapers this fall as resulting from the careless use of gasoline and coal oil is simply appalling. Loss of life, terrible injuries to others, and destruction of valuable property is the toll, which has been taken, and hardly a week passes that the total does not mount still higher.

The Fire Commissioner for Saskatchewan in a recent radio address stated that, on the average, twenty-five lives are lost annually from this cause alone. It is probable that the loss is just as great in the other provinces.

In one small district in Saskatchewan three such disasters occurred within a few days of each other resulting in four persons receiving severe burns, the sacrifice by destruction of one home, the death of another district two boys were burned and in a third district a young lad was so severely burned that he died. All these accidents occurred at practically the same time.

Although gasoline may be sold in red tins or containers plainly marked as to their contents, the fact is that the gasoline is all too frequently emptied into other receptacles which are not marked, nor properly sealed. It is frequently mistaken for coal oil, and even for water

Furthermore, many people forget, and an even larger number of children do not know, that the greatest danger from these fluids arises from their vapors. It is the vapor from gasoline mixing with the air which becomes highly explosive article, and the lighting of a match, or an electric spark, means a fearful explosion. Even a can which has contained gasoline, but is empties, may still retain a quantity of this vapor, and bringing such a vessel near a lighted lamp a stove or a lighted match may mean an explosion.

Gasoline and coal oil should not be used to fight fire. To use for it is to invite disaster Gasoline is now largely used in cleaning clothes, but every body so using it should know the greatest care that there is no flame or fire of any kind near at hand. In fact the cleaning should be done where only he used outdoors and away from all fire. If the weather is such that outdoors work is impossible then do the work in a room in which there is no fire and which is lighted by natural daylight or an electric light. Never have a lighted lamp near clothes cleansed in any way with gasoline should be hung outdoors in the open air to dry and be left there until the last vestige of the gasoline fumes have disappeared

When one stops to think that it is the vapor from gasoline mixed with air and exploded by a tiny electric spark in our motor car engines that drives these cars at terrific speeds over city and highway, the fact that gasoline vapor is the terrible power of the motor car engine should be taken in its true

Might Solve Problem

Empire Manager Agency Proposed In Old Country

The London Daily Chronicle, editorially, under the caption, "Matrimonial Agencies," says "In everyone knows, there are more women than men in this country, and in some of the Dominions there are more men than women. Here is a surplus of women, many of whom, it is whispered, want husbands, whilst men in the Dominions, are casting their hearts out for wife's.

Sir George MacMunn, formerly Quartermaster-General in India, suggests a remedy. Why not an Empire matrimonial agency, conducted strictly on official lines, by the Council of Empire Settlement, with photographs and testimonials, previous experience not required, it seems an almost feasible plan.

Luxury in Air Travel

New Pullman Airships Will Carry Passengers in Comfort

A journey from Great Britain to Australia in nine days by a luxury Pullman airship will be possible in three years' time, according to the Imperial Airship Mission. These super-airships, two of which are at present under construction in England, will be able to carry 100 passengers in utmost comfort.

Every luxury the traveller will have his own cabin, and there will be comfortable dining saloons, lounges, and sleeping berths will be provided. Even a dance floor will be contained within the air liner, which will be 726 feet long and able to carry 150 tons. Three stops only would be made en route to the purpose of re-fuelling—In Egypt, India and Singapore.

During the past three years some of the best scientific minds in Great Britain have been applied to the problems of airship construction, and the two airships that were now being built for the British Government were designed on purely scientific principles.

They would successfully meet all conditions of varying weather and temperature they would have to undergo, Hitches of housing and mooring airships had also been overcome Major Scott, a very brilliant Air Force officer, had devised a mooring tower entirely suitable for its purpose The navies of only ten men were now needed in manning an airship, and the airship could be moved in almost any weather.

Captain Hughes Hatches said that, although it was hoped that the first of the airships would reach Australia from England within three years, it would be probably seven years before the air service so definitely established.

Alberta Only Province To Express Opinion On Rural Credits

In the absence of legislative action on the part of nine of the provinces, the Dominion Government has not made any effort to organize a rural credits board, in other ways, prepare to put the legislation of last session into operation.

PREDICTS RISE OF POPULATION FOR DOMINION

Toronto.—"There are a great many people who speak of an Anglo-Saxon race, which does not exist and never did exist," declared Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Premier of Saskatchewan, in the course of an address delivered at the Empire Club yesterday luncheon here. The subject of the speaker's address was "Building a Nation in the Northern Half of the North American Continent." After tracing the history of the British people for a considerable period of time, Mr. Gardiner said:

"There is not a Welshman, or a Devonshireman, or a Highland Scotchman with one drop of Saxon blood in his veins."

Mr. Gardiner stated that the problems confronting Canada were in to essential respect different from those through which the United States had passed, and were, after all, merely a repetition of the experience of the rest of the great nations.

He predicted a population of 25 000 000 in the Dominion by 1950

Saskatchewan, said the speaker, was the most cosmopolitan in point of population of any province in Canada.

"I therefore think we are entitled to build a nation be-hereafter," said Mr Gardiner

Consideration of Canada's problems on a broad, national basis rather than territorially, encouragement of the use of so-called Anglo-Saxon, but of other selecting immigration more wisely, and the development of the natural resources in the territory stretching across Canada from either side of the southern part of the Dominion, were characterized by building of additional channels of transportation, were urged and discussed by the Western Premier.

"The great problem before Canada today, becoming just as much to the West as the East, is how to get our products to the markets of the world best, within the British Empire, build a nation on the northern half of the American continent," Mr. Gardiner declared

"There are many ways in which our country can be carried to the heights of wealth and power," said the speaker, "We in the West are known as an agricultural people, and we glory in it to realize and be proud of that fact But we do not feel that agriculture should be encouraged in preference to the exclusion of industry or any other railroad development

He said Quebec City has also flocking back from the

Yukon Taking Up Question With Minister Of Labor

Ottawa.—Percy Reid, gold commissioner for the Yukon, is in Ottawa to take up with the Minister of Labor, Hon. Peter Heenan, the question of applying the old age pension legislation to the Yukon.

Commenting on the visit of the gold commissioner, Mr. Heenan declared that, in connection with the pension of the prairie provinces, he had been encouraged to believe that cooperation between them and the Federal Government in the matter of establishing old age pensions in their respective provinces would shortly produce practical results. The minister cited the example of British Columbia in refutation of the suggestions made that the scheme was unworkable.

"Whatever may be said against old age pensions and the big difference between Federal and provincial contributions," he said, "the fact remains that the old people in British Columbia are now receiving their pensions and that is highly important."

Asking Parliament To Approve Trade Treaty

Canadian-Czecho-Slovakian Agreement Is Being Drawn Up

Ottawa.—Parliament will likely be asked during the coming session to ratify a trade agreement between Canada and Czecho Slovakia Republic, Negotiations which have been going on for some time, it was learned, are now well under way for a trade treaty between the two countries on the basis of the most favored nation treatment

At present a provisional treaty with the republic of trade relations, is in effect. This arrangement, signed shortly before the Christmas last, will expire next spring.

Under the terms of the provisional treaty now in force Canada extends to the products of the Czecho-Slovakian Republic the same treatment as to the products of any other country, with the exception of a rate in provincial elections

This is all added," continued the Prime Minister, that the Government of the province of Quebec might not a preferential treatment as to it is what it should do."

This did not mean that the Dominion Government had said that too exist paths the to the import of the dairies duct, but it must be borne in mind that under the conventions of our many country rentals, which were return to ever the federal parliament which other have the right to say on the matter. The legislature would not be in order to consider matters connected with the federal elections, and which are in the exclusive court," interjected Hon. Ernest L. pointe, minister of justice. This is the reason why the Government has the particular ambit of their jurisdiction the Federal Government may be with the general welfare of the country under the British North America Act

Great Issues Behind Flag Controversy

But Question Settled By Common Sense Is Comment Of Press

London "common sense" is a term used to practically every English newspaper editorial in the discussion of the settlement of the flag controversy in South Africa.

"Common sense has won the day," declared the Daily Telegraph, which describes the result "as a complete settlement, honorable to both sides" to the flag controversy. "If the flag question had come to a referendum as had been proposed by Premier Hertzog all unprejudiced observers believe great damage would have been done to the relations between the two white races in South Africa," the Telegraph says

The Daily News says: "It is a fact that there were great issues behind the flag controversy, otherwise it would be difficult to excite with entire gravity about the detail with which it has so profoundly busied itself during the day of half a century.

The News points, however, that there is no doubt it filled for a time substantial issues

POPPY DAY

The 11th day of November is fast round the corner, so the nation of the Armistice, bringing to an end the four years of slaughter and misery which disrupted the world in blood and tears.

We call this the "Day of Remembrance" and dedicate our thoughts to the many thousands of the flower of our youth and manhood who went forth on the great adventure, gave their lives as a sacrifice on the altar of a threatened civilization, and to the building of a better and more tolerant world.

We have come to regard the poppy as the symbol of remembrance for this day, because its bloom was the marking phase of many thousand gallant dead sleeping beneath, and it is home would seem good stay with the "dead" amid all the desolation, and give promise of life.

And now our outward token of remembrance on this day is a replica of the Flanders' poppy, and in wearing it we pay our humble tribute to those who sleep over there; and who perhaps would be their greatest wish, could they speak, would be help the broken and disabled living who were their Comrades.

These tokens are made by those of our disabled who, through their service and wounds, are inflicted to take their place in the competitive labor market, and in addition afford a pleasant and helpful form of sheltered employment.

The National Campaign is carried on under the direction of the Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service League. The proceeds of the street sales are used for the relief of temporary distressed ex-service men and their families.

In wearing a poppy on Armistice Day we thus serve a double purpose: remembrance of the dead, and help for the broken living.

"Canada expects every man, woman and child to wear a poppy that day."

The Hallowe'en masquerade dance in the Angle Lake community hall on Friday (today) 27th was very much enjoyed by a large crowd.

The grave fire danger involved from flying shingles of a burning building was fully brought home when the Alberta Livery barn was consumed Thursday night last. Flying debris under such circumstances are an ever present menace to nearby property, but they are a vastly increased danger when a large roof, such as covers a livery barn, has wooden shingles. The heavily structures of a building hold and can be combatted with a reasonable probability of confining the fire to its own immediate vicinity, but cedar shingles take unto themselves the winds of the moment and fly wherever they listeth. It is only a just and fair demand that provision be made requiring a metallic or rubberoid roofing on all large frame business premises, which under present town by-laws are permitted in the area of its unrestricted fire areas of the town. Such a precaution against the spread of fire and consequent loss of the property of others would not work a hardship upon anyone as the difference in cost is insignificant.

The three Alberta Livery barns have gone up in smoke in the town of Vermilion; two of these occupied the same commercial area while the last —owing to fire restrictions instituted —was located two lots further east. The first barn was covered with metallic sheeting and when it fell a prey to flames, the fire was fought with buckets, despite this fact, the old Northwest Mounted Police barracks, situated between it and the Alberta Hotel, was hardly scorched; the second barn of more inflammable material, ignited the hotel which was not only measured for a considerable time

Hallowe'en Dance A Decided Success

I.O.D.E. Plan to Make Masquerade Annual Event

One of the most enjoyable functions that has been held in Vermilion for some time was the Hallowe'en Masquerade dance which delightfully entertained more than 300 guests in the C. N. R. community hall on Friday evening last.

The masquerade was held under the auspices of the Frog Lake Chapter of the I.O.D.E. and was entirely successful, financially as well as socially. Both ladies and gentlemen entered into the spirit of the evening and there were many pleasing and striking costumes on the floor. French-backline picnics were there, accompanied by Spanish toreadors and their fair ladies; witches and clowns formed an interesting part of the masquerade and dainty ladies wearing the costumes of many periods graced the floor. Ladies were disguised as men, while the men in turn tried more less successfully to imitate the steps of the fair sex.

Prizes were offered for the best costumes and the judges, after much deliberation and with no little hesitation awarded the ladies' fancy dress costume prize to Miss Newton as the "Butterfly Girl"; the men's fancy ladies' costume award was given Miss Donalda Robertson as "Miss 1960 calendar". Dr. Foster received the gentlemen's fancy dress prize as a Buccaneer, while James Stewart was successful in winning the men's costume as a Hick, in which part he was funny and entertaining.

The delightful lunch was served about midnight and the party dispersed in the wee small hours of the morning. The success with which the delightful evening it is planned by the local I. O. D. E. to make the hallowe'en entertainment an annual event

Eighteen young men, drawn from various parts of Scotland and Scotland recently arrived at the V.S.A. to take advantage of a special course designed to fit them for farm life in the spring.

These youngsters men will spend a great part of their time doing practical work on the school farm, but will also attend regular lectures with the Canadian students in the livestock, field husbandry and engineering courses.

Mr W. D. Gentleman, of Camrose, Alta., will be in charge of the course of British Boys in attendance at the School this winter.

The School of Agriculture, which has been postponed for two weeks on account of the late season, will commence its winter session on Mon. 5th. Some 175 students are expected to attend this winter. This will constitute a record in the history of the School.

A ready response to an appeal for more accommodation has made it possible to provide room for nearly all of the students registered to date.

There is still somewhat of a shortage, however, in the way of boarding accommodation and it is hoped that one or more families in the town will find it possible to take in four or five boys daily for meals.

SANTEE—MAVARAUK

A quiet wedding took place last Friday afternoon, Oct. 28th, 1927, at the United Church when Mr. Harry H Santee of Pelyan, Alta., and Miss Amelia C. Mavarauk of Pelyan were united in matrimony. Rev. M. S Kerr officiated. The happy young couple will reside on the bridegroom's farm near Wainwright —turned down the blacksmith shop of Barr & Weatherspoon and a frame dwelling situated on the rear of the lot, only the improved fire fighting facilities saved both the hotel and another small barn in the vicinity from entire destruction. Several horses were also burned in this fire. In the third fire some animals were burned. So loss than five livery barns have fallen a prey to fire in the town's years' history of the town, some being burned in the rear of the big fire which wiped out the main business section.

Fire Destroys Alberta Livery

Hugh McIntosh Has Narrow Escape

The livery barn owned by Harry Armstrong was completely destroyed by fire at about 11 o'clock last Thursday night, and with several settlers' automobiles, a hot load of hay and while one cow and two horses were destroyed. Seven horses were rescued from the flames, a one-armed hero, hence help came. Lavelle discovered the fire and sent in an alarm.

The two-story livery barn which was all ready outside of the town and he had to jump out of the window to save himself. He was caught in a blanket below. He lost nearly two hundred dollars as he had to rush out in his sleeping clothes.

The fire was first noticed in the centre of the building and spread with such rapidity that when the brigade arrived a few minutes later the entire building was one mass of flame. When the fire got into the hay it spread at a rate almost unbelievable. The horses could only be saved by breaking down the sides of the building. It was a spectacular sight, the fire being seen for miles all over the adjoining parts of the town.

H.M.S. Pinafore Set For Dec. 5

Owing to unforeseen circumstances the date of the production of the comic opera—"H. M. S. Pinafore"—has been changed to December 5th.

Of all the operas written by the inexhaustible collaborators, Gilbert & Sullivan, none has had a greater vogue than "H. M. S. Pinafore." Audiences in all parts of the world never seem to tire of the subtle wit and lilting music of this operatic gem.

Those who have never yet seen this delightful opera, cannot afford to miss the performance on Monday, December 5th, while people who are already familiar with it will be looking forward to renewing acquaintances with Gilbert's famous characters. Note the change of date, and make sure of a seat at the Columbia Theatre for the musical event of the season.

The regular monthly meeting of the Vermilion Women's Institute was held last Wednesday at Mrs. Baker's at which a very pleasant afternoon was spent. It was decided to have the second course of millinery next spring. Mrs. Morrison gave a very interesting paper on Legislation, which dealt with legislation for women and women on for legislation. Some more new members were enrolled

The announcement that Miss Theodora H. Siegel, dramatic reader and entertainer, will appear in recital in Vermilion on the evening of November 17th should be received with enthusiasm. Miss Siegel is an artist of rare ability and one has only to listen to her delightful interpretations to be with all the expression and feeling that one of the most pleasing and sympathetic voices can put into it, to realize why this artist has made such an impression in Western Canada. Miss Siegel's technique is remarkably developed, while given a real finish by her natural dramatic powers. She can draw the smile or tear and stir you with her mastery of pathos and humor.

More Hebridean Settlers Coming
Rev. Father A. M'Donnell Is Arranging for 1928 Arrivals
Plans for bringing out more Hebridean settlers for Alberta are being made by Rev. Father A. McDonell, who has been engaged in this work for several years. He expects to leave shortly for Ottawa and will later on proceed to the old country.
Before any definite announcement can be made as to the number to be brought out next year, certain matters have to be discussed with the immigration officials, said Father McDonell when seen on Tuesday morning. He added that 70 have been brought out to Alberta during the past year, increasing the total who have come here under this plan to around 2,000.
Over 200 farms are now being operated by these immigrants, who are having splendid success in their operations. Many have gone into mixed farming on a good-sized scale and are in a healthy financial condition as a result of the bumper crops during the past season
Applications have been received by him from new families who wished to come to Alberta this year, says Father McDonell. He says that he could arrange for at least 1,000 families, of course if requisite funds were available to assist them in getting to new homes in the West

SOME SALESMEN speak of the quality of their flour as if it resulted from secret and highly mysterious milling.
There are no secrets in milling.
The best flour is the result of intelligent selection of the very best wheat, a good mill, skillful milling and constant and never ceasing watchfulness.

Alberta Trade with Orient Promising

Good prospects for the expansion of Alberta livestock to Japan now exist as a result of the visit of Captain T. Kawahami of Tokushima, who has spent the past month looking into conditions in this province. Following the visit of H. A. Craig, deputy minister of agriculture, to the Orient two years ago and the trial shipment of stock sent over at that time, the extensive interests in Japan which Captain Kawahami represents are interested in the importation of beef cattle for slaughter and beef and dairy cattle, horses, and swine for breeding purposes, on a scale which will greatly increase the volume of Alberta's trade with the far East, if the plans at present contemplated materialize.

Alberta Fish for Chicago Market

A large shipment of salmon trout from Lake Athabasca to Chicago recently indicates a forward step in one of Alberta's growing industries. The Lake Athabasca Fisheries Ltd., had gone into the business of supplying the large markets of the United States with the popular product of Alberta lakes. A large plant and ice houses along with dwelling accommodation for fifty employees have been erected and plans are made for further enlarging the business as the market demands.

Alberta Hospital Association To Meet

The Alberta Hospital Association and the Alberta Association of Registered Nurses will hold their annual joint convention in Edmonton on Nov. 23 and 24. The first portion of the meeting will be addressed exclusively by Dr. McPherson, director of hospitals for the American College of Surgeons who is recognized as one of the authorities on hospital methods on the continent.

"University Sixers" for Royal and International Shows

Many good herds of Alberta cattle will again be represented this year at the Toronto Royal and Chicago International livestock shows by successful breeders in this province and fitted by the department of animal husbandry, University of

Carhartt Cotton Mills Seek Factory Site in West

Edmonton along with other cities in the West is being investigated by the Hamilton Carhartt Mills Ltd., the cotton manufacturers of overalls in the world, as a possible site for the establishment of a western factory and distributing centre. The Carhartt concern it is stated would employ about 50 persons, of this number 30 would be girls. The Carhartt concern is also interested in the establishment of a woollen factory.

figure on that market for this class of cattle for next season. These steers sold at $14.65 per hundred lbs., exceeding the previous high by 65c. Some of the best cattle on the markets have attracted large shipments of cattle from the western provinces during the past few months.

Alberta Grain Again to Seek International Honours

Alberta entries will again be heard at the Chicago International Hay and Grain Show, according to Provincial Field Crops Commissioner W. J. Stapleton and some splendid samples from all parts of the province will compete with those from all parts of the continent. Herman Trelle of Wembley, winner on the world's championships in both wheat and oats at the 1926 show will again be among the exhibitors this year. In addition to a number of prize-winners in previous years, the names of several new growers appear on the list of entries received by Mr. Stapleton.

Manufacturing In The West

The general impression of the prairie provinces of Canada held throughout the Eastern provinces and in other countries is that they are almost purely agricultural and that manufacturing is practically negligible and, where carried on, is on a small scale and local in character. No higher enough people if asked for information on the subject would give you the same opinion. Nor would such a view have been very wide of the mark a comparatively few years ago.

Within recent years, however, a marked change has taken place and manufacturing is now likely to take an important feature of Western activity. Not only in the case but development along industrial lines is proceeding at a fair while in many ways it has the trouble to keep pace with investigate. The growth and rapidity of this growth is only realized when actual official statistics are studied and comparisons made from year to year.

The gathering and compilation of statistics is this kind is none and laborious work, and sometimes quite a number of months elapse before all returns from many industries are obtained and classified. Latest available figures, therefore, are always for a period of one or two years back. Recently the Dominion Bureau of Statistics issued a report on the manufacturing industries of the prairie provinces for the calendar year 1925, remaining them with the figures for 1924. The growth indicated in this twelve month period is quite remarkable and most encouraging.

For the year 1925 the number of manufacturing industries reporting was practically the same as for 1924, but the gratifying fact is disclosed that these industries substantially increased their capital, employed many more workers, largely increased their wage bills, utilized large quantities of materials, produced many more millions of dollars worth of goods of all kinds and operated on a much more profitable basis.

Capital invested in manufacturing industries in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta increased by $14,000,000 during 1925 and at the end of the year amounted to $271,000,000.

The number of employees increased by over 6,000 during the year with the result that a total of 71,154 people were engaged in some form or manufacturing industry on the prairies. $77,178,000 was paid in salaries and wages were paid more than $42,000,000 or nearly eight million dollars more than in the preceding year.

Materials used by these industrial industries during 1925 had a value of $161,592,000 or an increase of over $21,000,000 over the preceding year.

Turning the consideration of labor and materials to the finished product having a gross value of $328,239,000 or an increase of $25,541,000 over 1924. In other words the prairie producers in 1925 produced for each the average twenty million dollars worth of manufactured goods per month, or three million dollars per month more than in the preceding year. The net value of 1925 production was $97,450,000, or $14,000,000 greater than in 1924.

Analyzing these figures to some extent, it will be seen that manufacturing industry in the west, after paying $21,500,000 more for materials, and $6,000,000 more in salaries and wages, increased the net value of production to the one year by an amount equal to the total increase in the amount of capital invested. Certainly a most encouraging showing.

Those who are familiar with western conditions, and the decided improvement which has taken place within the last two years, know that the growth in western industry doubled during the three years between 1924 and 1922 has been further accelerated between 1925 and 1927. Heavy water power and other development in all three prairie provinces and the decided increase in interest in the west and shown by eastern capitalists are a guarantee that the confidence that in a few years the industrial activities of the prairies will be a factor of importance in the economic life of the whole Dominion.

Carrier Pigeon Valuable in War

Is Still Considered Important Factor Despite Changing Methods

Changing methods of warfare are continually passing in review before the United States war department. One very old fashioned means of wartime communications, the carrier pigeon, continues to be a considered factor.

"Its usefulness as a carrier of dispatches," says Frederick C. Lincoln of the United States biological survey, "ensures it a prominent place among communication methods that will be employed by the armies of the future.

"Although limited to one way communication the birds used in the world war made a record of efficiency between 97 and 98 per cent, surpassing all other methods for the transmission of the same information under battle conditions.

"The most famous war pigeon was Cher Ami, which, released with a message October 21, 1918, at 2.35 p.m., during an intense machine-gun and artillery action, delivered its messages 25 kilometers away at 20 minutes. One leg had been shattered and the bird's breast pierced by a bullet. This bird is now stuffed and preserved in the national museum."

Yet another African tribe which is interesting because of its peculiar customs is in the public eye. This is the Ballas tribe. British Empire Stronger

Constitution More Effective Since Dominion Capitals Made Equal

Since the last imperial conference the British Empire has been cut up into a number of independent states. London no longer is the capital of the Empire, the Dominion capitals are absolutely equal," declared Prof. Alfred Zimmern in an address at Harvard College, Cambridge, University.

"This perhaps is the biggest and heaviest single surrender of power ever made by a government," Prof. Zimmern continued. Formally speaking, the Empire has been disrupted, but this constitutional experiment has given the Empire a far more effective constitution than ever before."

Prof. Zimmern is assistant director of the League of Nations Institute of Intellectual Cooperation, in Paris. He was connected with the political intelligence branch of the British foreign office 1910-19.

May Broadcast Storm Warnings From Greenland

Messages Could Be Sent To Ships Two Days in Advance

From the summits of "Greenland's icy mountains," weather prophets soon may be able to broadcast to the world warning of coming storms which work havoc in the Atlantic ocean lanes and the tempestate zones generally. This is the hope of Prof. William H. Hobbs, head of the University of Michigan scientific expedition who started for home aboard the Lethelian today after ten weeks studying the northern storms at the place of their beginning over the great ice cap of Greenland.

"It is probably the longest fjord in the world and affords wonderful scenery on a majestic scale which has been seen by few white men," said Professor Hobbs.

The Hobbs expedition established three observation stations 100 miles apart, one of them being on the summit of Mount Evans. From the observations made at these stations it is planned to make forecasts of coming storms over the north Atlantic 48 hours in advance of the storm arrival over the ocean lanes.

Selected members of the University of Michigan's expedition will winter in Greenland and will send on observation balloons with small lanterns for meteorological study. Two members of the party will spend the winter in more cave on the island ice for the purpose of making observations. Radio sets have been placed and measurements taken for the study of glacier

Declaring War On Narcotics

Working Fund Of Five Million Dollars Urged At Conference

Formation of a world narcotic defence association with a working fund of five million dollars, was urged at the first session of the conference of committees of the World Conference on Narcotic Education and the International Narcotic Educational Association at New York.

The association would be non-profit making and would have the power to utilize "all honorable means to attain the mobilization of the resources of the world in order to overwhelm the social narcotic drug addiction and to acquire and maintain immunity from the child and race menace."

Two million dollars of the five million to be raised, Captain Hobson explained, would be used in hospital work, another two million would be educational work while the remaining million would be working for legislative activity.

Plans are under way to co-operate with the League of Nations, Institute of Intellectual Cooperation, in Paris. He was connected with the political intelligence branch of the British foreign office 1910-19.

Armistice

The war has ceased. The dull thud of the gun-fire has died away and the hollow rumble of exploding shells no longer disturbs the senses. The newsboys' curving lists of dead and wounded nor do we wait in dread for the messenger carrying word of the departure of a loved one. Even most series of the long-drawn out war by being replaced by more pressing emergencies of the day and the nations calmly rises to a new sense of unity and understanding, and a greater feeling of confidence in all its integral parts. Slowly the heartache of the individual is being replaced by a feeling of pride and satisfaction that in the hour of need our youth were ready and willing to make the supreme sacrifice in backing up the ideals of the nation pertaining to liberty and truth. But in the past week it has all been brought back to us very vividly in the celebration of the anniversary of the armistice. All over the country, throughout the whole of the nation, in every country, people have gathered together in groups of varying size to express anew their gratitude for the children have been and to again consecrate their dead.

In our own town the memorial service on Sunday last was a most impressive affair. November 12th, followed by a musical concert in the evening. In the afternoon Captain Gerrie, of Edmonton, who is known for his untiring services to the wounded here and abroad, and for his ever-coming interest in the returned men, and returned man, spoke to us a message of hope and cheer. He spoke of the futile courage of the men on the hour of trial, of the sublime sacrifice of the men for their country and for their fellows and of the fine loyal spirit of comradeship founded on that sacrifice which bound together the men, and the nation, in the days of stress and strife. And finally he spoke of the service of the men to their comrades and to the nation behind them, bound together with ties of love which were stronger than the desire for life in all its fullness, and which made it a man happy down his life for his friend, and he appealed to us all to carry on with that spirit of self-sacrifice that the nation might continue to be bound together so firmly that never again would the world be torn asunder within could possibly cause rupture or disintegration. He appealed for greater knowledge of one for the other and nation for nation in order that through knowledge might arise a greater spirit of trust and friendship and time make impossible of the strife which threatened to end in disaster for the whole of the civilized world. He spoke with feeling and sincerity and we are deeply indebted to Captain Gerrie for his message, and hope that he may have the opportunity which starts from today better equipped to carry on [illegible] in the cause of peace and goodwill to men.

During the afternoon service the Verm on Trumpet Band rendered a number of selections very effectively and our thanks are extended to the Vermilion Band for their contribution to the service.

The Vermilion Band has recently had its instruments overhauled and repaired and has now been taken over by the government to the Demonstration Farm. They are a fine lot of boys.

The C. P. R. have advertised their intention to apply for a charter to construct a line of railway from Wilkie north-westerly and northerly to the Saskatchewan river.

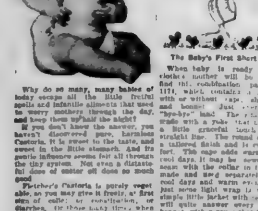
The BABY



Why do so many, many babies of today escape all the little troubles again and infantile ailments that used to worry mothers through the day and keep them up half the night?

If you don't know the answer, you haven't discovered yet. Lurnished Castoria. It is sweet to the taste, and sweet in the little stomach. And its gentle influence saves for all through the tiny system. Not even a diaper full does of castor oil does it not good.

Fletcher's Castoria is purely vegetable, so you may give it freely at first signs of colic, or constipation, or diarrhea, or those baby fevers, when you just don't know what is the matter. For real sleepness, call the doctor always. At any time, a few drops of Fletcher's Castoria.

The flavor often tells you so, for that, and also, says Fletcher's Other preparations may be just as good, just as free from deleterious drugs, but why experiment? Insist on the book, or take and feed it to the baby that needs it with Fletcher's Castoria is worth its weight in gold.

Bentley Made 500 Flight Of 8,100 Miles in Tiny Moth Plane

When brought into competition with some of the epoch making flights to the credit of Lindbergh and other airmen, the significance of the recent breaking flight from London to Cape Town is apt to be lost in the thrilling public

A wholly unthinkable [illegible] at Wynberg aerodrome, Cape Town, marked the culmination of an 8,100 mile solo trip over and, desert and the forests of Darkest Africa, made by an intrepid little South African aviator named Lieut. Gerry Bentley, on a tiny Moth aeroplane provided for his use through the enterprise of The Star, a Johannesburg evening newspaper

A particularly notable feature of this lone flight on a seventy-horse motor of only 40 horsepower is that it was completed in twenty-eight days, whereas Sir Pierre van Ryneveld, who blazed a pioneer trail from Cairo to the Cape in 1920 (and used two machines in his effort), took forty-two days to reach his goal, while Sir Alan Cobham's flight in 1925 recorded intensely fine day

Two More Cases of Feminine Ills Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Barrington, N. S.—"I had terrible feelings, headaches, back and side pains and pains all over my body. I would have to go to bed every month and nothing would do me good. My husband and my father did my work for me as I have two children and we have quite a big place. I read in the paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and then got a little book about it through the mail, and my husband went to Yarmouth and got me a bottle, and then we got some from the store. I am feeling fine now and do all my work and am able to go out around more. I tell my friends it is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that has done me so well." MICAH CHAMPIONS THE OPPRESSED

Golden Text: "He hath showed thee, O man, what is good; and what doth Jehovah require of thee but to do justly, and to love kindness, and to walk humbly with thy God?"—Micah 6:8.

Devotional Reading: James 1:26-27.

Explanations and Comments

I. The Creed Of the Wealthy and Their Punishment, 2:1-3.—"Woe to them that devise iniquity and work evil upon their beds!" Such is the prophet. "When the morning is light, they practice it, because it is in the power of their hand." Micah is here arraigning the wealthy classes. He plans them with lying awake at night to plan and plot evil—how to get the better of the poor—and with carrying out their schemes when daylight comes, because they had the power. They believed that might made right.

"They covet fields, and seize them; (as Ahab did Naboth's vineyard) and houses and take them away, and they oppress a man and his house, even a man and his heritage." He (Micah) does not detail the steps of the process of seizure through foreclosure of mortgages, usurious rates of interest, bribery of judges and the law. No legal procedure can make right in Micah's eyes for the fact that the poor neighbors are being unjustly robbed of their goods by the grasping rich. Compare Isaiah 5:8.—J. M. P. Smith.

"Therefore thus saith Jehovah, solemnly the prophet answers the rich. Micah, against this family (the whole family of Israel) do I devise an evil." While they were devising evil, verse 1, Jehovah was devising a punishment, the prophet declares, and punishment from which there would be no escape. "For it is an evil time." the time was evil, for men were ill living as it God were not, and evil was the worship in the sanctuary. "Men were advancing materially, not spiritually."

"They devise iniquity against their beds, but, Micah tells them, God is making it their bed. Must Protect Forest Resources

If Great Annual Revenue is To Be Maintained

At what rate are Canada's forests being conserved being depleted? This question is asked and answered by a bulletin recently issued by the Canadian Pacific Railway in memoriam over the pulp and paper industry has given to be the luminous a leading manufacturing activity in point of value of production, says the bulletin, remaining increasing supplies of raw material. The export of annual advanced wood to many forms is increasing each year as the demand from established markets grows and new ones are developed. All this means an increasing drain upon Canada's forest resources which, while tremendous are by no means limitless or inexhaustible. An estimate of the total primary forest production of Canada for 1925 has been made by the Forest Products Branch of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, this embracing all manufactured material ready for use in Canadian forests during the year, and developing the value at which Canadian forest resources are being exploited.

"The total value of primary forest production in Canada in 1924 amounted to this estimate, was $299,276,541 as compared with $218,141,418 in 1924 $197,449,231 in 1923, $178,426,956 in 1922, and $164,451,721 in 1921.

The Canadian Government and the Governments of all the forested provinces have policies of reseeding tree-planting which are gaining in greater way each year in meeting the annual destruction. In 1925 the two ministers alone planted 21,000,000 of the forest reserves with trees and 220 acres with seed ; ontario has just introduced a new reforestation law under which the co-operation of the municipalities and farmers is invited, these setting aside tracts of land for the purpose and the government providing the trees.

"Canada's farming constitutes one o the greatest of her natural endowments, remaining at the present time a great annual revenue while it is intended shall be perpetual. Its mands for raw material from room tries which have exhausted their own resources are ceaseless, reb.s ers on the transference of forest possessions without adequate protection. Measures for reclaiming the forest resources are becoming more adequate and effective each year, and reforestation annually clothing a larger extent of the area denuded through commercial operations."

Question Easily Answered

Comparatively Few Would Care to Go Back to "Good Old Days"

How few there were twenty five years ago who thought of owning an automobile. Today, how few there are who don't at least drive one.

Who ever thought that woman would be shorn of her long tresses, obliged to be her beauty and crown of glory"

The man who thought we would fly through the air was considered fit only for the asylum. Now, flying is an ordinary event in our lives

That Indians would be devising ways to secure power to the world rather than ways to bring on war was little thought of

We little thought that some of our finest fabrics for clothing would be made from trees and not sheep.

We never thought that Western Canada would become the biggest granary in the world feeding millions of its population

Who would have said that there would have one of the most extensive rural and oil fields in the world, and Saskatchewan the most extensive grain fields"

How much time was spent on each of all kinds as compared with today?

The question is are we happier and richer in every way by comparison? Is there anyone who would care to go back to "those good old days"?

Not Anxious For Trouble

Russian Dictators Keen Better Than To Start War

It may be into that Russia is preparing for war, but that is no sign that she wants to start it either. Her dictators may be keen or lust war, but they are scarcely as crazy as that. She cannot attack one of her neighbors without bringing most of Europe on her back. She has no navy to speak of, and her army is not equipped to cope with, that of a Britain power Moreover, it is needed for other purposes. If it were withdrawn from Georgia, Azerbaijan and parts of Siberia, local revolutions would be inevitable. Industrially Russia is not prepared for war; her factories could not turn out munitions in such a week country as Russia no doubt they fear that a war of any duration would bring on a revolution that would seal their doom

Windbreaks For Orchards

Permanent Shelter Belt of Which Scrub is Best Protection

In many parts of the prairies provinces windbreaks are necessary for the protection of fruit trees. In addition to those subjected to severe wind storms, the establishment of windbreaks is of great importance. They are capable of moderating the excessive evaporation brought about by high winds, loss of fruit or injury to trees by severe storms, and they provide a baby limit the drying out of trees in winter. The methods of establishing these windbreaks are fully described in a bulletin on the Cultivation of the Apple, distributed by the Publications Branch, Department of Agriculture Ottawa, Canada& hedge, ve, running east and west, across the prevailing winds affords a good degree of protection. For permanent shelter native white spruce is the best tree for the purpose.

Being an evergreen it provides more protection in winter than deciduous trees. For shelter purposes it is planted eight to ten feet apart, in several localities more than one row is usually planted, in which case the rows may alternate, one tree of one row coming between two trees of the other.

Feeding Rabbits

Good Way is One Of the Best Discussed Facts

In raising rabbits one much care cannot be given to feeding. Many attempts at rabbit breeding have failed because the breeders were too deep the impression that the little animals will thrive on any kind of food or weeds. According to a bulletin of Department of Agriculture rabbits, good hay is one of the standard foods for these animals and should always be kept before them when green clovers and grasses are not available. In addition, the morning and evening meal should consist of grain such as wheat or oats, with an occasional carrot or stick of celery Any of this food left in the troughs should be removed the next feeding, during the winter the grain may be ground, and fed in the form of a slightly moistened mash. Water also should be given, and an occasional drink of milk may be given with advantage

Developing A Gold Mine

Operation Providing Both Direct and Indirect Employment to Many Men

It may be a far cry from gold mines of Northern Ontario to the forest slopes of the Pacific coast, but when it is stated that one new plant in a Porcupine mine used a million and a half feet of British Columbia timber to be constructed, it will be appreciated that the development of Canadian resources offers some very interesting possibilities, says the Natural Resources Intelligence Service of the Department of the Interior at Ottawa. The magnitude of the primary industrial operations as indicated by this one incident is amazing. One mine in Northern Ontario decided to put down into the earth one additional shaft to tap an extension of its ore bodies and what one might consider an industrial operation in itself is the immediate result. Drilling and blasting machinery, the big electric sinks of the finest stands of fir, spruce, and cedar of the continent. Canadian engineering knowledge and mining industries have all been called upon to do their share to the extent in this particular city of $1,000,000.

This, it may be said, is merely the start. The sinking of a two-million dollar shaft above ore to be hoisted to mills into the earth's crust is but a preliminary to more extended, more elaborate and vastly more profitable operations. Underground lateral workings then commence. Miles of these workings are made to explore for, follow and excavate the bodies of commercial ore. Hundreds of men and dertakings are made to explore for, follow and excavate the bodies of commercial ore. Hundreds of men, per, nickel, lead, zinc, salt, coal, etc., on the case may be. Even this is indeed preliminary to the highly specialized processes of milling and refining existing vast outings in power plants, smelters, refineries and metallurgical processes giving direct employment to hundreds and possibly even thousands more, and indirect employment to an many again.

Getting Rid of Couch Grass

Ploughing and Cutting in the Method

After hay is cut, there is a long period before timber which offers a good opportunity for the destruction of perennial weeds such as couch grass by ploughing after harvest estimates. The officer-in-charge of the Experimental Station at Fredericton, in describing this process of eradication, states that the land should be cut early, before the couch grass has a chance to ripen seed, and the land then ploughed. A jointer should be used so that all the grass will be covered, and the furrow should be left as little ragged as possible. After ploughing the land should be immediately disked, setting the disk slightly so that it will not turn up the furrows and driving it the same way as the field was ploughed. The disk should be kept so that the field will be disked twice in going over it once. This operation should be repeated with the disk set at a little greater angle until the land is kept clean and free of weeds. After the disking the land should be harrowed and then rolled

Musical Feast For Vermilion

Australian Concert Artists Here Next Tuesday Night

Soloists from the Australian Ballet which has been engaged to appear in Vermilion under the auspices of the Rotary Club, will be heard in the Capitol Theatre, Vermilion, on Tuesday, Nov. 22nd. This is a rare opportunity for residents of Vermilion to hear musicians of world-wide reputation in a concert of symphonic, pure, and emotional selections, in which is added a smart chatter and a relieved undertone to round out a splendid musical feast.

The latest dance music will be included in the repertoire of the Australian Concert orchestra during the concert tour as well as some of the classic numbers. The concert will be a wide variety of entertainment which will long be remembered by the audience. Indeed the only difference from some of the famous metropolitan concert orchestras will be one in size and not of quality.

The roundabout, and the comic pieces have played concert and vaudeville engagements in Canada, United States, New Zealand and Australia. Having to become residents of Canada, they are taking advantage of this opportunity to see the country of their adoption, their previous engagements having taken them to the larger cities only. This opportunity should be eagerly grasped by everyone to hear those famous musicians in music which have won them honors and engagements in the auditoriums

Kerr of Vermilion, from the text "If any man have not the Spirit of Christ he is none of His." The singing was led by a large choir of good singers. Misses Lily and Mary Cooper, very nice teachers, sang a very appropriate duet.

The spirit of Hulda's hard-working, soap-making, dirt hating grandmother stirred at the sight before her. Her big, capable hands craved a chance to show what they could do with the travel-stained, tear-wet, much begrimed face of her little charge and all. The mother was at a low ebb - shrivelled, belt wholly inadequate to cover the connection between skirt and blouse, hair in strands, hair not dressing from one bulging, shoe-less infant, drooping shoulders and slippered feet dropped, and her voice wobbled.

"Let me have him," said Hedal, reaching out for the fat baby, "I believe and kid-like it is his face. It's a moment she had back all her dignity and poise. "How very interesting," she said, turning to her host.

The conductor left, the train at Edmonton, that being the end of his run, and a stiff wind from the train went out. The lady in the "A" drawing-room did not appear, and the public who were interested after a fault in evidence among the passengers.

The conducting stood with bit little hands in his hand watching the baby with its dull grey smoke-wreath and will work on its shoulders, making its way forward through the yards. He is a game little girl," he said to himself, as he laid mourn his valise, to the big blue pipe, "and I would like to know her story. Well, I hope she gets a good man."

Hetal Jourgal left "Argyll" on Hill fully unconscious of the fact that a picture of her was in the evening papers and a short resume of her career as told to an enter zoner reporter by Mrs. Wymark. It said among other things that she was a girl of strong temper who had plenty of grit in the to the Home as hostler

Winter Traffic

Snow on the city streets should mean to all automobile drivers at least one thing, says a daily newspaper,—a driving speed of at least ten miles an hour less than summer speed. And this word of advice to city motorists may well be passed on to motorists in country roads.

Snow is a treacherous thing. It makes good coasting on certain hills, and hard roll when rolling material has not been used on the streets. But it makes the roads slippery. The worst snow storm is the snow combined with a thaw, because then the snow becomes soft and slushy. Under the tires it rolls up and forms a ridge, making other cars swerve dangerously. Even on slippery roads he kept sufficiently under control for safety.

Pedestrians, too, should take warning. The practice of standing on the road surface a few inches away while a motor passes should be stopped. It is death to persons after the snow comes. If the driver has need to apply the brakes suddenly the car will swerve sideways and the pedestrian standing too close is likely to be struck, unless with unusually quick reflexes.

Winter roads are said in brief language, each in different ways. There is a real pleasure in driving over snow on the proper kind of roads. Weather brings another danger which is not so much in evidence in summer. In cool seasons motorists are tempted to start up their engines and allow them to run a few minutes before getting under way. This makes an entire and clean sweep of the car, and nothing in the shape of a warm car and engine to tempt the attention. Nothing could be more thoroughly undesirable than their activities.

Canadian Farmers To Tour

Final arrangements for the Farmers' Maritime Tour of Great Britain and Europe next year under the auspices of the Canadian National Railways have now been completed. The party, which will number over 100, is to sail on the s.s. England from Halifax on January 7th. The entire Ministry in Britain and Denmark will accompany the party as far as Canada from Glasgow on February 19th.

But few people ever get on full of emotion that they have no room for dinner.

Praise For Canada

Mrs. Stanley Baldwin Lauds Work Of Y.W.C.A. Here

On her recent visit to Canada, Mrs Stanley Baldwin, wife of Premier Stanley Baldwin, of Great Britain, was "deeply humiliated" to find Canadians expressed the people of Great Britain in caring for girls who started their own if for Mrs. Baldwin made this statement in a letter read at the open ing of the Young Women's Christian Association annual dinner in London.

In order to live rich to Canada for the purpose, she said, "If I in every had when I was received to admit that we have nothing in London to compare with the splendid work of the Y.W.C.A. club in Quebec, Ottawa and Toronto and we felt that one convert ed Young Girl Young Women's Christian Association, almost inadequate for the growing needs of women workers and incidentally the future mothers of our race."

Toes Kept Free From Sore Corns

When you notice any sign of soreness on the toe or corn, apply a little Blue-jay plaster on a few drops of Putnam's Corn Extractor on this, and you get instant relief. No matter if the corn is hard or soft. Just let be on long enough for the Putnam's will remove it entirely. Don't accept substitutes. Corn Extractor. It does the work — and roots out the corn.

Ready To Sail the Bay Route

Steamship Company Makes Offer To Operate a Line Of Vessels

The offer of a steamship company with offices in London and Montreal to operate a line of vessels from Port Churchill to England and France, in return for a concession in the Port Churchill District is the latest incident resulting from the prospect of the completion of the railway and the preparation of the port for initial shipping within the next two years The Hudson Bay route and its possibilities for the company in making the offer to the Government, claims that it has had a long experience in all the northern waters of Europe, going up to Archangel for many years and also into the Baltic Sea. Conditions for navigation on these routes, he says, are very similar to those on the Hudson Bay route and he expects a steamship service as an ordinary business proposition

The value of a bonus will depend on the terms, but the offer itself helps to dispel the idea held by some people of dangerous perils of navigation which made the route commercially unfeasible Free Press

A Canadian Pioneer of Transportation

Canada has always been a land of pioneers, especially in transportation and one of the greatest of these was Samuel Cunard, the founder of the Cunard Line, who few people realize was born in Halifax. He came of United Empire Loyalist stock, and the 21st of November is the anniversary of his birth 139 years ago, in 1797. It was due to Samuel Cunard's imagination and enterprise that the steam liner, practically the first steamship to cross the Atlantic, made her first run from Liverpool to Halifax and Boston in 1840. This little ship with her gross tonnage of but 1,156 tons, her modest length of 207 feet, inaugurated an uninterrupted trans-Atlantic service which has been one of the great factors in the development of Canada during the past 86 years. The illustration above shows the founder of the Line, his furniture, and the little Britannia contrasted with the modern, representative of the modern, great liner

The British Industries Fair is now recognized as the principal annual trade fair of the world, and buyers from every continent flock to attend it. As has been the case for several years past the Canadian Chamber of Commerce in London, is organizing considerable participation by Canadian manufacturers.

The exhibits at the London section of the Fair will consist in the main of such lines as jewellery, underwear and cloths, cycles, motor cycles, motor cars, optical goods, pottery and glassware, leather goods, stationery and sports goods, fancy goods, clothing and textiles, wireless apparatus, chemists and druggists sundries, etc.

CONDITIONS THAT CALL FOR A TONIC

Symptoms That the Blood Is Thin Should Not Be Neglected

Weak, listless, tired, lacking energy and ambition, nervous sleepless, poor appetite, digestion disordered — these are the symptoms of a great majority of people. Nothing will build them up like the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The great value of this medicine in cases of this kind is proved by the testimonial of Mrs. W. Heaslip, Kingston, Ont., who says: "Following a severe cold I was left in a run-down, nervous condition. I had pains in the back and limbs and could scarcely move about. I did not sleep well at night and was despondent and discouraged. I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and can truly say that after using a few boxes I felt the change in my condition was nothing short of marvellous. The pains vanished, I slept well, had a good appetite, and in every way felt well and strong. I also gave the pills to my daughter, who was in an anaemic condition and feeling quite miserable, and in her case, too, they restored health. I hope my experience may help some other weak person."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or sent by mail at 50 cents a box by The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. Write for book, "Building Up the Blood," which contains much valuable health hints, will be sent free on request

Norwegians Make Good Settlers

Come Of Same Racial Stock As Many Canadians

According to Bishop J. A. Aasgaard, president of the Norwegian Lutheran Church of America, Canada may expect to receive even a larger number of Norwegian settlers during next few years than have come to this country since the United States quota law was adopted. This is due to the success which has been gained by the immigrants who have preceded them to Canada and who have taken advantage of the opportunities which await the settler Few people will deny that the Norwegians, in common with other Scandinavians, make the best settlers Coming of the same racial stock as many Canadians and being used to methods of parliamentary government which are largely the same as those which prevail in this country, they mix well with their Canadian neighbors and make most satisfactory citizens

REPORT ON ICE CONDITIONS AT PORT CHURCHILL

Ottawa.—Present conditions at Fort Churchill and Port Nelson are similar with respect to the ice situation, according to a statement issued by the Department of Railways and Canals. Both rivers are full of ice, moving up and down with the tides. The statement says in part:

"The Department of Railways and Canals is in almost daily touch with temperature and weather conditions at Nelson and Churchill. The latest message received was on the 15th and conditions at that time were exactly the same at Churchill and Nelson, both rivers being full of ice, moving up and down with the tides.

"On November 6 ice formed temporarily at Churchill, but not to an extent sufficient to have presented any difficulty to ice breakers such as are employed in the St. Lawrence and at the head of the lakes in winter with similar conditions. At that time the approach to Churchill was entirely free of ice, whereas a great deal of heavy ice was visible off Nelson. That has been observed to be a recurrent condition from year to year. The facilities associated with navigation in the Nelson estuary where deep water is 20 miles from the mouth of the estuary are another matter.

New York Editor Speaks Of Alliance With United States

THE PROPOSED HIGH SCHOOL.

The petition presented by ratepayers to the school board, asking that a vote be taken in the matter of the erection of the high school building, as proposed by that body, was timely. Just why the law should permit a school board such powers as to issue debentures, subject to the consent of the Board of Public Utilities Commissioners, if the ratepayers do not demand a vote within a specified time from the posting or certain notices, is hard to comprehend. This seems to leave too much latitude in putting a question into operation which would otherwise be defeated in a vote. According to the date on the posted notice, the demand for a vote in the present instance was presented only in the nick of time. The ratepayers have had their views into the management of the school board in the matter of the high school building any more than it is proposed to erect a four-roomed building on the basis of an eight-roomed school. The problem of adequate school accommodation has been as prominently before the public for the past four or five years to at least call for an open conference of school board and ratepayers in an effort to formulate and determine upon a policy of school building, which, while not unduly burdening the taxpayers, would be based upon not only a high school building but the solving of future public school accommodation. The high school proposed does not do this and if erected, the public school demands will be insistent almost before the opening of the new structure.

Consider this: Say the high school is erected. When a fifth room is required, what then? In order to provide for this it is the board's policy to proceed with the erection of the other four rooms to meet the demand of one extra room? How many years would these three rooms lay unused under the edict of an exclusive high school building? No body of ratepayers would entertain for a moment the carrying out of such a short-sighted policy.

To our mind the action of the school board has been precipitate. The matter of a high school building has not been considered on sufficiently comprehensive grounds. A four-roomed high school such as the board proposes, leaves almost immediate public school accommodation up in the air—another problem to be solved. Two of the three rooms vacated by the high school classes, would be occupied immediately by the transferring of the pupils and rooms, leaving the total public school facilities to draw upon as one single room. This situation does not appear very encouraging in the face of past demands. In the event of the ungraded school situated on the south side being closed, then the entire eight rooms of the school would be occupied. The present proposition before the ratepayers, as a matter of school policy, is unsound in its every aspect.

Crowds Attend Rink Opening

It was a fitting climax to the efforts and perseverance of Vermilion's municipal skating rink when nearly one thousand people turned out Monday evening, the ice in magnificent form being then officially opened for the skating season of '27-'28. The rink itself presented a gala appearance with its decorations of flags and streamers of red, white and blue blazing interspersed among the three long rows of electric lights. Four to five hundred skaters thronged the ice and as many more people filled the promenade and shortly after 8 o'clock Major Fallow declared the arena officially opened. The night was open to all and a splendid programme of music was rendered by Vermilion Citizens' Band. A number were present from Mannville, Innisfree, Islay and Lloydminster, as well as from the outlying district, and it was a night of sterling fun for everyone.

There is every indication that skating will be the big drawing card this winter as the management, the Standard understands, is providing music for three nights a week. A hockey league including Lloydminster, Vegreville and Vermilion have scheduled games arranged starting next month and running until the end of February. A number of junior games are also being provided for with nearby centres.

SENIOR HOCKEY

On Monday evening, members of the Elks Lodge and senior hockey teams from Lloydminster, Vegreville and Vermilion met in the Fire Hall and organized the Elks' League for the season of 1927-1928. The schedule of games will be as follows:

also two final home and home games. Arrangements are being made for an exhibition games on Vermilion ice for late. 7th and during Christmas week.

Elks' Community Day

Plans are well advanced for the big community day program on Thursday December 8th, when Vermilion Elks bring in to Vermilion the well known speaker, Captain S. M. Dancey. Secretary completed a two-day program with Captain Dancey last week, and Vermilion is promised a real treat when none men of mettle have sent thousands to Vermilion enumerating every citizen of Vermilion as one who is going to hear one or all of Captain Dancey's addresses here on December 8th. Plans and arrangements have already been commenced him equally as enthusiastically with a special urge to be shown to attend the business men's secondary luncheon.

Captain Dancey has enjoyed an interesting career, aside from his platform experiences and his world travels. Following the armistice, he was called by Allied leaders to address British, French and American troops in the effort to break down a vicious propaganda that was seeking to destroy friendly relations. His work attracted the attention of the French cabinet and he was invited to address this distinguished body. Today, Captain Dancey carries several beautiful tokens from leaders of the French government and Allied heads. The popular soldier has been honored on many occasions, both at home and abroad, being called in to address legislative and governmental bodies.

The program for the morning will include the following: Scheduled hockey games, the business men at noon, a mass meeting of women in the afternoon and in the evening a big community gathering. The committee has made arrange-ments for a musical program for the evening meeting, and in this in addition to Captain Dancey's address which will be brim full of worth while things for the people at Vermilion.

Captain Dancey's war throughout Canada, United States and Alaska, as well as through the British Isles and Europe has brought him into contact with hundreds of organizations. He is a Rotarian, Legionaire and Elk and at present is on a tour of Alberta under the auspices of Elks' Lodges, all the while working in close co-operation with the other organizations. By profession, he is a newspaperman and writer and the author of several successful books. There is no better known man on the public platform to-day and none more universally popular for the character of his messages and the way he puts it across in his audience. Always a strong exponent of Canadianism, Vermilion people can look forward to a program that will stir the community to its very roots.

SCHOOL LANDS BRING HIGH PRICES

High prices have been realized for parcels of school lands sold by auction in various districts in the province during the past week. One quarter section at the Vegreville sale established the high mark of $73 an acre, and an average price of about $10 per acre is reported for the 218 quarters offered.

At Vermilion 21,000 acres were disposed of, the aggregate return being some $360,000 and the high-est priced quarter bringing $31 per acre. Here about sixty per cent. of the lands were purchased by Ukrainian farmers. Most of the land disposed of is to be raised along the new C. N. R. branch line in territory which is settling rapidly.

A similar sum was realized at Lloydminster where 202 parcels were sold, the highest price paid being $39.50 per acre, with the average between $30 and $35 per acre. Three sales have been conducted under the direction of W. F. Rollins and R. E. Woods of the federal department of the interior

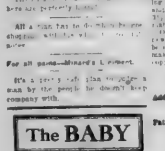
Watch Wings Itself

A Lancashire man has made a watch which winds itself. It is intended to be worn on the wrist and has a small weight ingeniously incorporated in the mechanism. The movement imparted by the arm as it swings while walking causes the swinging weight to give a turn to the spring. The spring will keep wound for forty hours, and only half an hour's swinging is necessary to wind the watch.



No. 1 cures it in a few days; also would not know we had a baby if we did not crow we do. It's simple, as it only requires a few drops of Castoria will right a baby's ailments and almost any little ill. For colds, fever, flatulency, it seems a miracle what it does.

That's because of Castoria's regularity. Mothers soon get what is needs. It's sweet, pleasant to take, and contains no opiates or narcotics. Druggists everywhere sell it. Insist on genuine Castoria.

Flared Shirts Are Shown On Many Of the Newest Frocks

The flared shirt is one of the two piece models which is featured in many of the new frocks for spring. Sometimes the flare is confined to the front panel, but more frequently it is introduced with a panel on the back. The straight panel is usually cut with a slight fullness at the hem, but the flared panel is cut with a circular hem. The flare may be in the form of a godet or it may be introduced by the combination of circular and straight panels.

Albert Champion, Spark Plug Manufacturer, Dies in Paris

Albert Champion, France-American spark plug manufacturer, died recently in Paris while on a vacation from the United States.

Champion, who was devoted to keeping up with men's progress in locomotion, From a messenger boy in Paris at 6 francs a week he became one of the speediest cyclists in the world. With the coming of the internal combustion engine, he turned to the automobile racing circuit.

Champion was a naturalized American, where, in 1905, he founded with W. C. Durant, the automobile manufacturer, the Spark Plug Company, which has since had branches and plants in America, England and France.

Only a few days ago he remarked that the two things of which he was most proud were his bicycle championship cups and the first little spark plug fired the motors that carried Lindbergh, Chamberlin and Byrd across the Atlantic, like sea of fire.

Exhibiting Mystery Wheat

New Variety Will Be Shown At Chicago By Alberta Grower

Herman Trelle of Wembley, the Alberta wheat wizard, has definitely decided to exhibit his "Mystery" wheat at the forthcoming International show at Chicago.

Before such has been made from time to time by this new variety of wheat with which Mr. Trelle has been experimenting, but it was not by any means certain whether he would include it in his exhibit at Chicago this year.

It is the correct preparation among grain men that he will create a still greater interest than his Marquis wheat last year.

Many farmers and others have been keenly interested in the experiments that have been carried on by Mr. Trelle, and it is hoped by stating this new variety will ripen quite ten days or a fortnight earlier than Marquis. Mr. Trelle states that the "Mystery" has been the best wheat grown on his farm the past year. Test samples weighed more than seventy pounds to the bushel and resisted No. 1 North rust.

In addition to previously reported it is claimed that no one knows what is much more frost resisting than any other wheat known. What Mr. Trelle has in mind at present is to produce a wheat that would be: 1. To be rust and brown-leaf by the combine harvester and just as equal, if not superior, to Marquis, particularly so far as its milling qualities were concerned.

Indians Return To Forefathers' Religion

Tribe Of Six Nations Will Restore Old Deities

Closing a three-day religious powwow at the ancient council house just across the St. Lawrence river from Montreal, Indians of the six nations decided to abandon the Christian religion and return to the religion of their forefathers.

Old Indian deities worshipped before the white men invaded America and made famous in Longfellow's "Hiawatha," will be restored.

Chief Americus Horne and Chief Two Axes are the leaders in the movement. The three-day council has been in reality the inaugural of religious services of their forefathers' revival to the Iroquois nation. Chief Two Axes is the leader and he declares they would own a thousand acres of land, and declare the world was a thing at peace.

National Parks Attract Tourists

Many Distinguished Visitors Were Guests At Mountain Playgrounds This Year

Tourist travel to the National parks during the season that is just closing has been exceptionally heavy and the number of distinguished visitors the largest in the history of the parks. The most notable of these was, of course, Their Royal Highnesses, the Prince of Wales and Prince George, who, with Premier and Mrs. Baldwin and other members of the Royal party, spent several days informally at Banff and Lake Louise resting after their strenuous tour across Canada.

Earlier in the year Banff was honored by a visit from Their Excellencies, Lord and Lady Willingdon, who spent a few days there on their first trip to the West. This autumn their Excellencies returned for a couple of weeks' holiday in Jasper park, enjoying with their party the fishing, golf, and horseback riding that superb Alpine playground.

The number of private parties, many of which travelled in special trains, was also unusually large, and included a special party of delegates to the Pan-Pacific Women's Congress at Honolulu, among whom were Sir Frederick Whyte, Viscount Castlerosse, Colonel Curtis, Baronet Astor of the Round Table, Malcolm Macdonald, the Hon. William Astor, ren Lady Astor of Hever, Hugh Wyndham, Sir Arthur and Lady Currie and a number of other prominent citizens of the Empire.

Other visitors were the British Editor party of about 150 a party of Editors from the World's Poultry Congress comprising over 100, and 200 delegates to the Triennial Congress of Mining and Metallurgy special parties from the United States, included two members of the Japanese Parliament, and others travelling in four special trains; the New Outlook Magazine party number ing 300, and delegates to the Pedagogical Institute Men who toured in two special trains several large special parties came also from Ontario and Quebec, including one of about 150 visitors who travelled under the auspices of Laval University, Quebec.

ISAIAH TEACHES TRUE WORSHIP

Golden Text: "Wo shall ascend into the hill of Jehovah? And who shall stand in His Holy place? He that hath clean hands, and a pure heart."—Psalm 24:3, 4.

Lesson: Isaiah 1:1-20.

Devotional Reading: John 4:21-24.

Explanations and Comments

I. The Perverseness of God's People, verses 1-9.—"The Great Arraignment" is an apt phrase given to this chapter by Dwight L. Moody, whose pulpits rebelled against this Even the dumb animals, the ox and the ass, are cognizant to their masters, but this people of Judah do not consider their Lord. This perverseness has brought punishment upon them, and it is only because of Jehovah's mercy that they have escaped the fate of the people of Sodom and Gomorrah.

II. Outward Signs Of Religious Zeal Do Not Deceive Jehovah, verses 10-15.—The prophet now bears in spirit the reluctance of his audience. In thrash thinks, "They would fain represent the accusations which he had just uttered as unfounded by appealing to the exact observance of the divine law; but in opposition to this ground of self-vindication which the prophet has read out of the hearts of those impeached, he but proceeds to pour the divine reproaches which, begins in verse ten."

"Hear the word of Jehovah, ye rulers of Sodom," the prophet cries, "give ear unto the law of our God, ye people of Gomorrah" by addressing them as rulers of Sodom and people of Gomorrah, he reminds them alike of their wickedness and of their danger. The "law" to which he calls them to give heed, is the inspired discourse he is about to deliver.

The combined North American crop of wheat in 1927 is estimated at 431,000,000 cwt., a net reduction of 25,000,000 cwt. on the year, but about equal to the five-year average. India's wheat harvest has yielded some 2,000,000 cwt more than last year's crop Russia's harvest, also, is slightly expected to be 70,000,000 cwt. above the 1926 yield. Hungary's crop will be over average, and Rumania's 7,000,000 cwt more than that of last year. Argentina has some 29,000,000 cwt surplus wheat

World's Greatest Menace

Shiftlessness Appears To Be Growing At Alarming Rate

Some people say the world is going to the dogs, and I am another

But I am not alone. There are several hundred, all of them serious thinkers.

My opinion is the most menace is growing shiftlessness.

Look where you will and you find a lack of respect for the old ideals of industry and honesty.

People are demanding dangerous liberty, dangerous prosperity

Public men, public and private, are piling up People are leaving farms to go to the towns where they become clerks, order fillers, and so decline the world owes them a living.

And where business is transacted with difficulty because of the great number of automobiles occupied by people hurring a good time.

Three mines were in operation now, all owned by the same company and all subject to the same conditions. Every one in the valley felt that his stay was but temporary, so no one called it home

Facing the station stood the Boarding House, where the single men had their meals, a great weather-boarded building, square as a box, ugly and staring. The front of it bore a sign, printed in black letters on a white board

"Ellie Boarding House.
M. McMann, Prop."

M. McMann knew that Ellie Mines could never be low abiding city. Indeed, she had no hesitation in declaring that Canada would lose her just as soon as the made her Prime Minister "go back to God's country," which in this case meant Lincoln, Nebraska. Mr. McMann had often wondered audibly why she had left. Certainly it was not for lack of friends. He was one of them, and many friends, and though absent from them now she was not forgotten. To the boarders she gave verbatim extracts of letters she received. Her letters were very insistent for her return "Why in the world do you bury your self alive in that awful place?" one of they have only three seasons July, Autumn and Winter a woman like you, who can make a home any place" or "Everybody is asking me when are you coming back, you are such a royal worker."

Some of the boarders rather unfeelingly urged her to go and never mind them, but Mr. McMann, and Mrs. McMann grew to her married on the matter It is sometimes a deed to real blunder to give with reasons that is said

Mr. McMann had retired to his native land the year before, leaving all of the modern conveniences, and machinery at the mine, and leaving a letter saying that so far as she was concerned he was dead. But it certain's was not her fault that he wasn't and that he would never be in the farm and he could not help dying. She would sign a paper saying that she would never try to find him. He hoped to God she would never try again, though he really it was a down thing to wish on anyone. And it wasn't easy to get rid of a husband by someone to know for sure I expect new what he had to give to get rid of he said "Verily, life is full of sorrow, hoped she was not in the end of it herself."

Mr. McMann was good [illegible]

"Young Mr. Doran was deeply impressed when Mrs. McMann hinted at some dark and mysterious illness bravely borne: "I am dying on my feet," she had told him the second day he was there, "but no one will know it till I am gone. It's my way. It's the proud Weekes way. I was a Weekes Of me he is inclined to pay Mrs. Hill never complain. Poor Mr. McMann of ton remarked on it. 'Glad, you're a leader,' he often said—'he was a great hand to call me 'girl'—he said I was always just a girl to him.'

"But not here, Mrs. McMann," protested Jack in real concern, 'why don't you get help here? You're not fit to work so hard. You have plenty to do when you do the cooking! Get a girl to do the dining room work — there are lots of girls who would be glad of a job, for the summer any way.'

"No, I've tried girls. They get homesome. It's too far from an ice Arcane and the Alley Theatre I don't like what you get here. You will know today—they won't work. All they want to do is to pimp They can't understand that a woman has to depend on canned stuff when they get married, and starve if they lose their jobs. Anyhow No I won't have an other."

"But there's lot of good girls here and tidy and all that," persisted Jack

"Yes, maybe, but where could I get them?—You tell me and I'll tell you"

This conversation took place at lunch On the four o'clock train came Hilmla.

The sun poured down with [illegible] less care on the rolling prairies of the little town Here and there The kindly white snow which had covered the Bleeding Hills of autumn, and now three cases in full the piles of cans, discarded clothing, old leaves, and boots, with the snow had mercifully hidden Water stood in puddles on the one little street where the general store, the hotel, post office, tailor shop and Boarding House stood side by side all looking at the station which because it belonged to a railroad company was a wonderful thing. It had a real waiting room with a ticket office and had walls of stone a big and hard as far as it could be from a log—a house

GIGANTIC TASK OF ADVERTISING MANAGER

Hundreds of Letters Pouring in from Eager Inquirers

So much interest is being shown in the forthcoming production of "H. M. S. Pinafore" on Monday next that the Advertising Manager is confronted with the tremendous task of answering literally hundreds of letters daily As he has a certain number of shows to do around the house every day, it will readily be seen that it would be folly for him to attempt to give replies to all personal properties of this vast number of correspondents. Moreover, the cost of postage would amount to a very considerable sum, and postage stamps must be paid for in cash.

Under the circumstances, then, the Advertising Manager has decided to use the columns of the "Vermilion Standard" for the purpose of answering the inquiries of some of his correspondents, particularly as he can obtain credit with this excellent printing firm, and can probably delay settling the account for an indefinite period. (Editor's note: Just try it!)

The following are replies of those made of inquiries received during the past two weeks, and it is hoped that the answers of sufficient general interest to cover the information sought by many others.

1. How should I buy a ticket for "H. M. S. Pinafore"?—Tardy One.

Answer—I am surprised to hear you have not bought a ticket, Tardy One! Get one today, before it is too late.

2. (a) Who are the lady principals in "H. M. S. Pinafore"? (b) Can you give any particulars concerning them? —Two Jacks.

Answer—(a) The lady principals are Emily McLean (Josephine), Agnes Newlove (Little Buttercup), and Joan Stephens (Hebe). (b) I do not care to give personal items about the lady members of the cast. Operatic singers are so temperamental, and I might lose my job. However, I do not mind stating (in bold fact that in the opinion of each of these talented artistes, beauty, wit and charm are combined in a manner that is almost unbelievable. Go to the Columbia Theatre next Monday evening and see for yourself.

3 I hear you have big Pinafore for Monday night show. Me wanshee big Pinafore welly cheap.—Charlie Wan Long.

Answer—Sorry, Charlie, but one of your men washed the Pinafore when it was purchased to be borne. He spent so much starch that those taking part in the opera have had stiff necks ever since.

4. Who are playing principal male characters in "H. M. S. Pinafore," and what kind of parts are they in private life? Curious

Answer. The principal actors in Monday night's performance are as follow

Tom Smith, plays the part of Bill Bobstay. Walks on a little more than a year ago to take care of her father and she will have the sympathy of numerous friends in her bereavement

Dr Knowles of Vermilion will be at the Brunswick Hotel, Vermilion, this Friday, November 25th, for the Examination of Eyes and Fitting of Glasses. 22tf

PRESBYTERIANS BUY GOSPEL HALL PROPERTY

This well-known Main Street Building Passes to Local Congregation

The congregation of the First Presbyterian church, at a meeting held after the services Sunday evening last, approved of the immediate purchase of the Gospel Hall property on Main street. Negotiations to this end have been going on for the past two or three weeks and finally matters only awaited the sanction of the congregation to close the deal. The Hall has been under lease for the past several years to the Christian brethren and it is understood their lease will be terminated at once. As soon as the new owners take possession it will become known as the Presbyterian church hall. It is likely that the building will be removed next spring to a new site and considerably renovated.

Spend Quarter Million Dollars on Housing Scheme for Employees

Oshawa, Ont. Nov 25 — The expenditure of a quarter of a million dollars here this year by General Motors of Canada on a housing scheme for employees is being watched with interest by other large companies in the Dominion of Canada and elsewhere.

On land covering about a dozen city blocks General Motors have since 1919 completed the erection of about eighty houses of a five-room residential type and twenty-six more will be completed before the end of this year. Of the total no two will be identically the same. Costing on an average between $4,000 and $4,500, these houses are sold on General Motors' employees on very reasonable terms, usually a small payment down and small monthly payments. The houses are being eagerly taken up by employees, and it is planned to build more next year to fill the demand.

What this employees' housing scheme was being considered it was realized that there would have to be a certain amount of standardization in the interests of economy. The way in which this standardization has been achieved without monotony of any kind—no two houses being exactly alike—is considered worthy of study by town planners and all who are concerned with the housing of their communities, particularly in view of the growing number of streets in Canada either on further finance and brick houses are erected in double adornation, two houses of stucco and two of brick. The stucco houses are of different color combinations; the brick being differentiated by various textures of brick in different patterns of laying. The plans are so arranged, in addition, that they may be reversed, having the approach on the right side of some and on the left side of others.

Vermilion, Alta., Dec. 1, 1927

The public meeting held Friday night to discuss the erection of the proposed high school, was fairly well attended. P. G. Pitts acted as chairman. The financial side was briefly dealt with by H. P. Long, secretary of the school board. J. W. G. Morrison, chairman of the board, followed, dealing with the accommodations of the proposed building. He had assurance from the high school inspector that three classrooms would take care of secondary education in Vermilion for a number of years hence. It was the intention to fit up the fourth room as a chemical laboratory. The appointments of the building and lighting system, he claimed, met the most modern demands and the entire building was the best word in school construction. The matter of the erection of a high school had not been sprung upon the people, having been discussed on a number of public occasions and being particularly before the people for the past several months. He emphasized that the board had not tried to put anything over on the ratepayers.

A. Snape criticized the one-way lighting system and also the arrangement of the cloakrooms which were situated from the classrooms.

S. R. P. Cooper asserted that a fourroomed school was inadequate to solve the problem of insistent demands for increased school accommodation. Even should the proposed building take care of high school requirements for many years to come, he felt the one room margin in the public school would not meet primary education demands for any length of time. The big question was—not to grab a spacious high school but the solving of school requirements for a reasonable distance in the future; in this connection he thought a better policy was a six-roomed building, otherwise it was likely in the course of two or three years we would be called upon to duplicate the present proposed expenditure.

Chairman Morrison was confident the one room left in the public school, after the removal of the three high school rooms and the transferring of the two west end rooms, would not be required for some time. With the readjustments in classes necessarily made each year owing to one or another grade being smaller, seven rooms to his mind would serve, so for some little time with the eight rooms always available to be called into requisition.

Trustee Dunaway suggested that if necessary the fourth room of the high school could be used for Grade VIII and the chemical apparatus moved into a classroom.

Trustee Scott queried enrolment figures so at present to show that with the erection of the new high school, an additional ninety odd public school pupils could be accommodated.

Mr. Morrison stated that it was just possible that there would be no increase in the enrolment for the next meeting of debentures, as when the matter was laid before the town council this year the estimates were quite possible that the municipal rate would be reduced sufficiently to allow of the necessary mill rate required being placed on the school estimates.

P. G. Pitts, chairman, made a few remarks on education generally and more particularly on the nature of school buildings.

After a final request made by the chairman for ratepayers to express their views, and no one responding, the meeting closed with a hearty vote of thanks to the chairman

Olympic Aspirants

The new Vermilion skating rink was given its baptism of fire on Tuesday evening, November 29th when the hockey team representing the local Bachelors' Club met their adversaries-among the fleet team of the School of Agriculture.

For weeks, under their respective managers the teams have been submitting to arduous training between the hours of 4 and 6 a.m. Many, loud and long have been the harangues as the trainers urged them on their journey simulating that success is attained only through self-denial; but surely the end was worthy of the effort.

7 p.m.—Referee Bell sounded his horn, stepped on the starter and the race was on. Away sped the College matchline towards its destination—the Bachelors' Club goal. But, alas, almost within reach its left fore wheel, whether, encountered that well-known rock, Mossey, and for a minute a wreck seemed inevitable. Armstrong, however, with consummate skill swung hard to the right, and, dodging the machine, skirting on all six, bore down upon the new gasoline pabulum fed (Redmond) perfect right in its path in full war paint; past them the stalwart trails cop, Letourneau, stepped our from behind a crutch in the nick and quickly went the Redmond car, however, in perverse Armstrong skidding through. Here it was discovered all constituents were out of gas!

At the next lap-off for the again sold forward towards the goal of the bucks. Jimmy Stewart, however, was there and with a deft 'out turn' and 'full back wallop' slid it toward the opposite 'house' only to see it die before reaching its destination. Skin Sharpe then tried his hand but even with the assistance of Newson who boldly swept the ice behind it, failed to reach the 'long line.' Riggs returned it and Skin Stewart, of pedagogic fame (after a close shave) fanned it in for a count of one. Mahler and Reed succeeded in placing the next winning count and so the end of the first period saw the score 4 to 1 in the Bachelors' favor.

When the rentals rose for the second act, Reeves, Mossey, Bacon, Hechbert and Good, each in turn attempted stunts and received applause. Mr. Mahler with reckless daring assayed many long haired stunts and accurate scratches, but the star turn of the evening was the splendid performance of the mail keeper for the V. Hoodlini in which he travelled over the wizard ice on his own two pedal feet. Mahler and Reed succeeded in placing the next winning count and so the end of the first period saw the score 4 to 1 in the Bachelors' favor.

Third Round—Goodness of the thing—Ross: Armstrong and Mossey each were rushed to the ice minus view from the ringside. Mr. Hechbert had made private arrangement with the boards and almost took the count but was apparently satisfied as he carried on later. Throughout the bout there was much lively action and brilliant footwork, but the song sounded a few times too soon for the College staff to stage their lightning comeback, and so they accepted the final decision with the points 6 to 2—and another episode in Canadian hockey passed into history.

Old Prophecy Deciphered

Mediaeval Magician Predicts Disappearance Of Britain in 2432

Paris will be wiped out in the year 3612 and Britain will disappear beneath the waves that she has ruled so long, according to a prophecy of the mediaeval magician - Nostradamus, that has just been deciphered by the Adyar Society.

The destruction of Paris will be accomplished by "the tonsils" that will hover over the city dropping death and annihilation, says the ancient prophecy. Nostradamus predicted the French Revolution and two hundred and fifty years before the beheading of Louis XVI. he described with the most minute details the clothes the King would wear when he was to mount the scaffold.

Nostradamus presented his prophecies to Catherine de Medici. The cipher now appears to have told a momentous story, harmless and innocuous. Now that the key has been found, a deeper meaning has been discovered.

CHAPTER XII. (Continued) "... Helmi skidded with the ugliness of it all, and looked wistfully after the train as it went on across the bridge to Mine No. 2. But when she looked up her heart was quickly lifted, for above her were the eternal hills and cool, saintly purple, although the sun was so bright in the valley. They reminded Helmi that the misery of the scene below was a recent, temporary thing that could be speedily changed. The hills in July are covered with the strength and exuberance were eternal. The rain and the wind had beaten on them for long centuries, and the artillery of the skies had been unchallenged against them, yet they had not been moved. The strength of the hills was in Helmi's heart when she walked across the narrow pavement and boldly asked for a job at the Pride of Rounding Home.

CHAPTER XIII

Spring had come with its carpet of flowers, its radiant days and velvety black nights, spangled with stars and musical with the sound of rushing waters, for the snow of the winter had filled the river's courses with a foaming flood on whose surface logs rolled, and sometimes broken trees.

The saucer was covered with thick grass, through which the anemones looked up blue-eyed and through their furry cup, shining bell-like from pocket pink through mauve, into pure pale Helmi had never seen flowers before, and wondered if this was their first time to come. The buttercups which followed were drawn up by some home, and no wage the ranchies—and the wild roses! The women brought us to Helmi.

"Dee bullets" said Mrs. Turner, who hired near the boarding house, "it doesn't look much to please Dee Lord girl. A day at a circus would kill her for sure if she makes such a success of it, few little days."

The coming of spring with all its beauty brought no improvement in the interest paid. Spring had always been until the months of labor and blunder and little mill boss crooked, boards in the orchard were still broken.

"There's no use putting on our tales," said Mrs. Turner, philosophically. "Dee dared slug those will be no one can keep clothes a good color — so what's the use of trying? I ain't going to bench and have to clean up the dump. Probably no one tried to clean it for me, and if all goes well we'll soon be shut of it. I'm going to get this stuff about cleanin' up, Helmi, and we'll all like you better. We've been here longer than you, you know."

When Helmi wanted to dig up some ground for a garden, she met rather opposition "I ain't goin' to put in a garden for someone else to eat—shd that's how it may turn out." Mrs. Turner had found it to have her morning chat with Mrs. McMann. Calls were usually between ten and twelve, and this morning Mrs. Turner was delighted to hill the garden idea once for all.

Helmi, with a towel on her head, stood on the kitchen table washing the windows. "That's what I tell Helmy," said Mrs. McMann, patiently, "but she'll get a notion that women should be all the time chasin' dirt or diggin' it out. I tell her she's tryin' to show off before the boss. I'm glad that out the country idea that if you want to make a hit with the man you have to allow Helmi what you're good at, and I think Helmi is tryin' to get the Hon over to this young Jack Doran—but that's not the way to get next to a boy like Jack. He's civilized enough to have the American idea that men make money and women spend it."

Helmi had been scrubbing the upper part of the windows and taking no part in the conversation. Just at this moment she had lifted the china top of a box which had stood for a long time on the top of the kitchen cupboard, and found in the box's interior an assortment of watch-chain seals, of fobs, and a watch-chain made of hair. "Did you know these were here?" asked Helmi, inspecting the articles, as they had been held for many years in the box.

"My stars, Helmi!" cried Mrs. McMann, "there's nothing to beat Housecleaning after all. Mr. McMann planned for his little chain very much, and had words over it. It's old fobs he wore them on the dresser and in cups, and I vowed I would hide them so that I would not see them any more. disappeared and I was blamed for you fiddle' them when the trouble is over, and now I don't know where he is to tell him. Gosh! ain't that the toughest part! It's the last straw that blinds the sanctity every time. Now if I just knew where he was I'd just put them back. Hi-ho, and let the box stay where she is—yes watch it if you like, Helmi. I don't know as it has any sentimental value to me."

The front of the house was a big, bare room, where eight tables, covered with oilcloth, stood. The walls were of lumber, and bore only insurance calendars and posters of the Edmonton Fair, one showing a green child leading a red calf, another a bucking bronco with his heels almost at the stars, his rider unperturbed and smiling, waving his hat at the audience. Two mottoes in frames of light wood, crossing at the corners under gold leaves, stared at each other across the space. One related the question "What Is Home Without a Mother?" the other one gave answer, but oddly enough, "Peace, Perfect Peace" It was here that the men ate their meals, carried in on large trays, which Helmi handled with all the grace of the women of the East who carry their water bottles on their heads.

After the meals were over and the tables cleared the men played cards on the tables. Helmi's manner was detached and aloof. She was remembering Aunt Lill's advice, which was always to follow in every case her own. Young Jack Doran, who washed before each meal, flinging the water out of the basin with a circling sudden, always looked so clean and fresh when he came in that Helmi could not refrain from looking at him. His hair was dark brown and marcelled itself in spite of his regular washings. Mrs. McMann had said it was a pity to see such lovely hair wasted on a man. Helmi was grateful not to show her admiration, but it was hard to keep from looking at Jack. His face shone out as if by its own magic the grimy faces around the table, and though he called her "Finnegirl" it never sounded freak like as'd her to go with him to a dance one Saturday night at the hotel, and although she wanted to go, for she loved to dance, by some perversity of spirit she refused.

"Pius, you're foolish," Jack said, "you should take your fun as you go. It's the only way to get any." But Mrs. McMann commended Helmi by telling her the man would think all the more of her if she didn't jump at the first chance she got to go to a dance. Mrs. McMann quoted many instances in her own past life to prove it. "The seldom seen the most admired," she said was a safe rule for any girl Helmi did not see that it mattered much about being seen once nevertheless three times she was seen every day train, and, anyway, she didn't care whether the men admired her or not but she wanted to dance.

Helmi spent a dull evening in her room, listening to the chinese noise of the Soldiers, which came through the open window, and wondering what Jack Doran was dancing with now—not that it mattered to her she told herself over and over. She wrote a long letter to her sister Anna in Finland, and put a five-dollar bill in the letter for her grandmother, and tried to feel she was a good girl to stay away from the dance—but failed.

Mrs. McMann told the other women that she was glad to be able to say of Helmi that she knew how to keep her self and her room clean, when

UKRAINIANS BUY 50 QUARTERS OF LAND

A. S. Standen, ex-M. L. A., had $20,000 cash and acting for his clients purchased fifty-nine quarter sections at the auction sale of school lands at St. Paul on November 17th.

It shows the huge purchasing power of these farmers who a decade ago were struggling on homesteads that others had passed up.

The Ukrainians are acquiring land rapidly and are breaking it under cultivation swiftly. There is no use in scouting and trying to scoff at them —they have the others licked so far as there and it is not a vain prediction that they will soon lead in commercial activities. Watch what the next ten years will disclose and see how well they will have reasonably occupied the land. Their children are in the front rank in the schools — St. Paul Journal.

New Ford Cars On Display In Cities On Friday

FORD, Ont., Nov. 28.—Announcement that the new Ford car will go on display Dec. 2, was made on Saturday by W. R. Campbell, vice president and treasurer of the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited. Instructions have been issued for full page advertisements in leading dailies and weekly newspapers forecasting a showing of the new car in larger centres of population on that date.

The advertisement refers to the New Ford as "The New Car" and makes drastic claims for its superiority over previous standards in the light car field. The announcement says in part: "This entirely new car surpasses the accepted standards of light car accomplishment; arrangements all boundaries of price class; establishes a new standard of acceleration, speed, power and smoothness that likewise have marked only supremacy cars as fine cars."

No announcement of the price of the new car is made but it is expected that a statement relating to price will coincide with the first showing of the product, in this connection Mr. Campbell said, "The new car will be in the low price field and its price will, we believe, create as much interest and surprise as will its superior appearance, quality and performance."

The initial showings of the new car will be made in Halifax, St. John, Quebec, Montreal, Ontario, Toronto, Hamilton, London, Windsor, Winnipeg, Regina, Saskatoon, Calgary, Edmonton, Vancouver and Victoria.

As rapidly as increasing production permits, these public showings will be extended until all the seven hundred and thirty-six Ford dealer points in Canada have been covered.

ALBERTA LIVESTOCK WINNINGS, TORONTO ROYAL FAIR, 1927

Establishing a record never previously equalled by any other province in the Dominion, Alberta by the awards won this year at the Toronto Royal Winter Fair offers substantial proof of the high quality of its live stock. The winning of forty-nine individual championships by the forty-six head of cattle shown, serviceable awards by the thirteen horses, shown and twenty-one ribbons by the twenty-one sheep shown is an indication of the type of animals sent from Alberta to meet the keen competition which always appears in the various rings at Toronto.

Especially notable is the showing made by the University of Alberta with the beef steers of the different breeds contributed by various breeders in the province and fitted for show by the department of animal husbandry and almost equally good are the awards secured in various classes by other Alberta livestock owners who prepared their own exhibits for this great Canadian show.

Alberta's share of the honours, as announced from Toronto at the conclusion of judging and subject to revision, is as follows: 6 Grand Championships; 3 Reserve Grand Championship; 19 Championships; 6 Reserve Championships and 1 special prize; 26 First Prizes;; 18 Second Prizes; 8 Third Prizes; 4 Fourth Prizes; 5 Fifth Prizes; 6 Sixth Prizes; 1 Seventh Prize; 2 Eighth Prizes; 1 Twelfth Prize.

Forty-six cattle won two grand championships, one reserve grand championship, seven championships, one special, thirteen first prizes, seven second prizes, five third prizes, four fourth prizes, four fifth prizes, two sixth prizes, one seventh, one eighth and one twelfth prize—total 49 awards.

Thirteen horses won two grand championships, two championships, two reserve championships, seven first prizes, two seconds, one fourth, and one eighth prize—total 17 awards.

Twenty-one sheep won one championship, two reserve championships, five first prizes, three seconds three thirds, four fourths, one fifth and two sixth prizes—total 21 awards.

Luxuries Once But Necessities Now

PRACTICALLY any Canadian citizen may own today an automobile possessing elements of style, comfort and efficiency which no emperor of wealth could have commanded a dozen years ago.

For the automobile industry has outgrown its original function as a supplier of transportation, and has in an amazingly short time, brought about the refinements which are accomplished in the present-day General Motors car.

Since its foundations first were laid sixty years ago, this institution has believed that every Canadian has a right to the best his country produces, has a right to satisfy his esthetic needs, his desire for comfort, his need for dependability.

General Motors has at its command the master minds of the industry. It has the finest automotive research laboratories and the greatest assemblage of testing grounds in the world, wherein have been pioneered and developed some of the industry's most revolutionary advances.

And General Motors has used its prosperity and success unstintingly in improving the quality and increasing the value of its products. . . . .

It is thus that General Motors of Canada has played its part in maintaining ever-increasingly better standards of every-day living.

The

NEW CAR

ALL THAT engineers have learned, all that millions of owners have experienced in nearly a quarter of a century, have made possible this car which is today so far ahead of its class as was the famous Model T in 1908.

Sixteen million automobiles, serving their owners in jungle and desert, on mountain and plain, on boulevard and highway, were the test cars that have made this new automobile possible.

Its advent marks a new epoch in automotive engineering in point of beauty, quality—in action of mechanical design, in perfect coordination of many parts, in delicate machining processes.

Nowhere in its construction has there been slighting of either major essentials or minor details. From its commanding hood-cap to its instrument board, the new Ford car epitomed us engineering skill to a degree unexcelled in the history of motor car manufacture.

This entirely new car surpasses the accepted standards of light car accomplishment; sweeps aside all boundaries of price class; establishes a new standard of acceleration, speed, power and smoothness that heretofore have marked only supremacy cars as fine cars.

Yet Ford precision in large scale production, unparalleled in the history of engineering manufacture, places this car within the reach of every purse.

An advance showing of the New Ford Car will be made Friday, December 2nd, in the following cities:

Halifax, Peterborough, Winnipeg, St. John, Toronto, Regina, Quebec, Hamilton, Saskatoon, Sherbrooke, Brantford, Moose Jaw, Montreal, London, Calgary, Ottawa, Windsor, Edmonton, Kitchener, Ft. William, Vancouver, Victoria.

As rapidly as increasing production permits these public showings will be extended until all of the 736 Ford dealer points have been covered.

If you live in one of the cities listed above, visit the exhibit of this New Car. As other points, see your local dealer next Friday. He will give you complete specifications, prices and an excellent conception of its unusual features.

PAYNE—DAVIS

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Friday evening, November 25th, 1927 at the residence of Mr. George McIntosh, uncle of the bride, four and a half miles south of town, when Miss Edith Elizabeth Davis, eldest daughter of Mr. Davis, became the bride of Mr. Charles Henry Warren Payne son of Mr. and Mrs. H Payne, Colling wood Corner, Nova Scotia. Rev. W. H. Kerr officiated

The bride looked radiant in a gown of white silk with wedding veil caught up with orange blossoms. She entered the living room on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. The wedding march was played by Mrs. M. E. Kerr from Wagner's Lohengrin. She was attended by her cousin Miss Beulah Mae McIntosh, gowned in sapphire blue satin, and by her sister Miss Ethel Davis, dressed in a gown of rose silk. The groom was supported by Mr. Lowell Everett McIntosh and Mr. John Hitchcock.

After the ceremony the invited guests numbering over forty, partook of a delicious buffet luncheon, thereafter the happy company entertained in jolly fashion until the early morning hour. The bride was the recipient of many varied and beautiful gifts. The groom's gift to the bride consisted of a beautiful china dinner set and also a cheque, to the first bridesmaid a manicure set and to the second a fountain pen. The gift to the groomsman were gold cuff links and a fountain pen. The best wishes of a host of friends go with the young couple in the new estate into which they have just entered.

Capt. Dancey Next Thursday

Captain S. N. Dancey, who comes to Vermilion on Thursday, December 8th under the auspices of Vermilion Elks, is writing a wonderful record of success through Alberta. There has not been a town or city that has not packed its biggest auditorium to capacity to hear this distinguished speaker and, in most cases, Captain Dancey has been asked to come back for a return program. He has a real message and with an exceptional ability to get this message across, he is getting into the hearts of the people everywhere, and leaving behind him,

CAPTAIN S. N. DANCEY

In Camrose, a few nights ago, it was necessary to take the audience out of one hall and take them to the largest auditorium which, in turn, was taxed to capacity. Provost, Killam, Dunbow, Viking, Sedgewick and the different towns on the schedule of the past few days, have fully sustained the fine record established by the preceding towns.

The school children are taking to the program with unusual enthusiasm so much so that the majority of them are always in attendance at the night meeting. The Boards of Trade, everywhere, are loud in their praise of the splendid work that Captain Dancey is doing, not alone in building up a better spirit of community, but in boosting the town and country together. To Captain Dancey's mind, the farmer is just as much of a business man as the man who stands behind a counter in a store. The needs of women in the afternoon are attracting big audiences and, naturally, the women are enthusiastic in this patriotic endeavour. The night meeting offers different features in addition to the music and the address of Captain Dancey, there is always an open forum question period following the address, when the citizens have an opportunity to discuss, informally, the problems of the day. Universally, there is but one comment at the end of Captain Dancey's talk — "I wish that he could go on for another hour. We want him to take in Medicine Hat! The reason of it all is that Captain Dancey combines entertainment with education and there is not one dull moment in his whole address, any one of them.

MAY BUILD HOSPITAL

A new hospital with an accommodation of 66 or 70 beds, and turning the present building into a nurses' home is proposed at Lloydminster. At the present time the nurses' home is none too large to conveniently accommodate the number of nurses that are required to efficiently look after and care for the patients that are treated in the hospital. A scheme is at present under way with the local government boards at Regina and Edmonton, and two of the rural municipalities are voting on the hospital question early next month. During the past month 133 patients were treated at the Lloydminster institution, and 12 births recorded.

Promoting Health--Preventing Disease

The interest of immigration is creating widespread interest throughout Canada. The various newspapers are full of it, editorials and organizations of all kinds are discussing it—municipal, Federal and Provincial governments are keenly concerned about it. In particular, there is much debate as to whether Canada is receiving the number of British boys' immigrants in proportion to the number of English boys received, as a proper assimilation of the latter and the consequent benefit to Canada, and institutions in this Dominion.

In the small population who become greatly worried up over the alleged [illegible] of immigrants, a good deal of nonsense is talked. Some people have a [illegible] can absorb into [illegible] of the province of this, and others in a small [illegible] are [illegible] to the [illegible] Canada. Last year 400 vessels according to the Canadian Government Immigration Department, arrived at Canadian ports, bringing over 400,000 immigrants to Canada. Of this number 150,000 were British born immigrants from the United Isles.

Why, you ask, with such a large number and expense of going to people and [illegible] Canada, [illegible] while another [illegible] Canada [illegible] Canada [illegible] Canada

Synopsis of "H.M.S. Pinafore" and Celebrities Who Took Part

A COMIC OPERA IN TWO ACTS
BY W. S. GILBERT AND A. SULLIVAN.

SYNOPSIS
ACT I.

The action of this famous comic opera takes place on the quarter-decks of H. M. S. Pinafore. The rising curtain reveals the bo'sun's mate and sailors cleaning brasswork, splicing rope, etc. Little Buttercup, a bumboat woman, enters with her stock of small wares for sale. It soon develops that Ralph Rackstraw, a handsome young sailor, is in love with his Captain's daughter, Josephine, a love which appears to be hopeless because of the difference in rank. It also develops that First Lord of the Admiralty, Rt. Joseph Porter, K.C.B. has intimated that a marriage between himself and Josephine would be desirable. Ralph is encouraged in his tender passion for the fair Josephine by the sympathy of his shipmates, but has an enemy in the person of Dick Deadeye, an ill-favored fellow. Eventually he declares his love but is rebuked by Josephine for aspiring beyond his rank. Later, in a dramatic scene, she confesses her love for him and they plan to elope at midnight to be secretly married, a scheme which is overheard by Dick Deadeye, who resolves to frustrate it.

ACT II.

It is night. The Captain is discovered playing on a mandolin and chanting of the misfortunes that seem to have befallen him, while Little Buttercup adds to his woes by hinting at mysterious mysteries. During the Captain's reminiscence Dick Deadeye enters and reveals the lovers' plan to elope and they are thwarted at the moment of departure. Ralph is ordered to the ship's dungeon by Sir Joseph. In this cruise, Little Buttercup confesses that she was formerly a nurse and had once in her charge, one a pretty child, the other of low degree, and unfortunately she "mixed these children up." Sir Joseph is horrified at the explanation the two children and, calling Captain Corcoran aside, who is now Captain of H.M. Pinafore, Josephine's father tells him his place as a commoner sailor

Last Respects Paid To W. J. Stark

Impressive Funeral Service for Edmonton's Popular Exhibition Manager

Honored by fair board officials from far and near, representatives of city, provincial and dominion governments and citizens in all walks of life, the remains of the late W. J. Stark, manager of the Edmonton exhibition for 18 years, who died three days ago at Chicago, were interred in the family plot at the Edmonton cemetery on Tuesday afternoon. The numerous floral tributes many of which were received from friends as far away as New York, fully testified to the high regard in which Mr. Stark was held and the widespread sorrow over his sudden death.

The funeral service was conducted at Robertson United Church where Rev. T. H. Mitchell, himself a boyhood companion of Mr. Stark's, paid a glowing tribute to the high qualities of the deceased and declared that his passing would leave a gap that would long be deplored.

Acted as Pall-Bearers

President P. W. Abbott with three other ex-presidents of the Exhibition association, John R. Maitland, A. R. McLennan and W. R. West, acted as pall-bearers along with R. A. Craig, deputy minister of agriculture, and John McGallum, superintendent of the fair grounds.

The chief mourners were Mrs. Stark wife of the deceased, and son Gordon, along with members of the fair board's staff. There was a large turnout of citizens, who paid their last respects to a popular member of the community.

From Other Cities

Most of the Exhibition associations of other cities were also represented at the funeral. From Calgary there was President N. J. Christie, Frank Fyvers and E. D. Adams, with Harold Hartley of Lloydminster, George R. Hinton of Calgary, Roy Martin of Stettler, Sheriff L. O. Calder of Redcliffe, and V. E. Forster of Camrose, president of the Alberta Agricultural Fairs association. Members of the Edmonton Exhibition directorate also turned out in a body, along with members of the city council.

During the week-end and on Tuesday morning, numerous messages of condolence were received from provincial officials, provincial fair men and others in Ottawa, Chicago, New York and other cities.

Twenty-First Annual Meeting of United Grain Growers Limited

Reports Show Successful Year and Sound Financial Condition of Company—Delegates Insist on Maintaining Livestock Marketing Service.

Winnipeg, Manitoba, Dec. 8th.—Two outstanding features marked the proceedings of the delegates at the twenty-first annual meeting of United Grain Growers Ltd. which

There was the refusal of the delegates to allow the closing of the company's livestock business in Alberta. The directors' report outlined the development of the new Provincial livestock marketing organizations in each of the three provinces and recommended that the Company's livestock business in Alberta be closed. In Saskatchewan they had already closed their Company's livestock office on the Moose Jaw yards, owing to the fact that the Saskatchewan Co-operative Livestock Producers had declared for co-operator operations in that province. Canada's Gold and what it means to You!

Never in the history of a country has any industry shown such phenomenal growth as that of the Canadian Mining Industry during the past few years

Never before in the history of any country or industry have such unbelievably large profits been returned to the individual investors.

More important still! NEVER BEFORE HAS THERE BEEN A SITUATION SUCH AS THIS WHERE A MAN WITH ONLY LIMITED CAPITAL MAY INVEST A MODERATE AMOUNT WITH SUCH EXCEPTIONAL OPPORTUNITY FOR LARGE RETURNS FROM HIS INVESTMENT.

There is no reason for not knowing what is going on! Upon receipt of a letter or postal card, the company named below will cheerfully furnish publicly information to anyone interested in learning full details of one of the most outstanding mining developments of recent years in the entire North country

THE NORTH AMERICAN DEVELOPMENT LIMITED
CANADIAN PACIFIC BUILDING
TORONTO, ONTARIO

On To The North!

Whatever misgivings the people of Canada have had regarding the building of the Hudson Bay Railway and the creation of a worthwhile port on the Bay, are being rapidly dissipated as more and more work unanswerable to make of conditions and discoveries and new developments in the vast area to be opened and served by the new route.

In one year the optimistic statements, and views expressed relative to Canada's future and the doubtful success of many Canadian enterprises, like pessimistic opinions of Canada would never be accorded a official process to the British Government, be for agricultural activities, the construction of the C.P.R. was described as the apex of folly.—It would not pay for axle grease. Still later it was emphatically declared that wheat could not be successfully grown in the district of Moose Jaw. Even when the idea of making Montreal an ocean port was openly ridiculed, the world being asked to consider the impracticability of creating an ocean port hundreds of miles from the sea, never frozen solid for many months of the year.

But Western Canada has become the granary of the Empire and has made Canada the greatest wheat exporting country in the world, hundreds of millions of bushels of wheat have been shipped from Moose Jaw, the C.P.R. is to be given transportation system under one management in the world today, Montreal stands second only to New York as the chief port of the North American continent

And now that construction of the Hudson Bay Railway is being energetically pushed with enthusiasm and businesslike methods having replaced former extravagance and fictitious based on guesswork, the old opposition is dying away as step by step former claims and misconceptions are removed. So great has the progress been in this direction that all political parties are pledged in support of and are pledged to the project thus removing it from the arena of partisan controversy.

The railway has been completed to within approximately 12 miles of Churchill and over 400 miles have been graded, ballasted and tracked. Work on the creation of an up-to-date fully equipped port is commenced. The rich Saskatoon aerial survey of the straits now in progress has already brought the information, surprising to many about Hudson Bay and the Straits that remained free from ice for a much longer period than was formerly believed to be the case.

Important of the Bay proper always considered that navigation would be as perilous and as a consequence insurance rates on boats and cargoes so high as to be prohibitive that no shipping company would undertake to establish a service in such a route but already a responsible steamship company has signed negotiations with the Government for the establishment of a line of vessels operating in and out of Churchill, while insurance authorities have announced that there is no reason why the rates of insurance to be charged should be unduly high or a deterrent to the success of the route.

As if these things were not in themselves sufficient to justify the expenditure on the road to the Bay there comes official announcement of the completion of arrangements between the Dominion Government, the Manitoba Government and the Canadian Pacific Railway Company for the building of a branch line of railway from The Pas on the H.B. line to the Flin Flon mining area which will be a feeder to the Hudson Bay Railway and port of an export and point of call.

This contract further involves the development of a great power at the Whirl Wind Falls near the Hudson Bay line the construction of a power transmission line to the Flin Flon, and the establishment of great pulp and paper mills which will provide a huge revenue or freight upon the former and local traffic to and from Churchill. The subsidiary expenditures to extend to over two hundred million dollars, and provides for a tremendous development which could not possibly be undertaken without the Hudson Bay Railway

And it is confidently predicted that this, is only a beginning and that with the completion of the Hudson Bay Railway, and this new branch line from the Bay to the Flin Flon, and the establishment of a port, which will become one of the great pulp and paper centres of the world, which will provide a huge revenue or freight upon the former and local traffic to and from Churchill. The subsidiary expenditures to extend to over two hundred million dollars, and provides for a tremendous development which could not possibly be undertaken without the Hudson Bay Railway

Canada in the past has suffered the disadvantage of lacking depth for ocean going vessels in the harbors to the north in the east and the development of the country has been retarded to a great extent by this disadvantage.

Autos for the Army

Other Vehicles May Take the Place Of Horses in United States Army

Even in the army old habits die hard. Some years ago the horse reigned supreme under the plan of the United States War Department. Today, however, the motor truck has become the mainstay of the army. It will be determined to what extent motor vehicles may be substituted for all kinds in military transportation.

Recently public opinion in favor of using motor transportation, according to the United States army officers, has been responsible for the establishment of a hard motor road, where animals are not allowed to use. The road will be made in practically every branch of the army. It will be commensurate with similar investigations in other armies. It is believed

Will Improve Radio Reception

Forecast Made By Chief Of Canadian Delegation To Conference

Commander Edwards who has just returned from the radio conference at Washington foresees improvement in radio reception in Canada

Points were discussions with the technical commission of the United States and especially the establishment of a band between 200 meters to which the power would be limited to 250 watts. By this, power stations would be allowed to use the band and it would take care of the large number of low power local stations which will continue without any interference.

November, 1927, an average for the month of 9 degrees above zero, is recorded as the cold-est November in 32 years. The way December is looking into it. It will soon be time to search back records that compare with the low temperatures now prevailing and see how they stack up against 30 below. The lowest reports from country points give as low as 50 below (Sunday night) and 40 (Monday night). Town readings reached 36 below. The promises of soft weather ushered in Sunday a.m. by a chinook and steady rainfall, were short-lived, being followed in the afternoon by a "black-fog" and rapid drop of the mercury.

The fire brigade responded to an alarm Monday afternoon at the home of Lorne McLean in the east end of the town. Fortunately the fire was extinguished by the chemical engine with very little damage to the contents.

A PROMISE MORE THAN KEPT

When the publishers of the Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal two years ago announced that the owner of the paper wished them to reduce the subscription price from two dollars to one dollar a year, they promised that not a single feature of the paper would be eliminated, but new features would be added, and the paper made more valuable than ever. It is frankly admitted by their million readers that their promise has been more than fulfilled, and today the Family Herald and Weekly Star at one dollar a year is the marvel of the newspaper world. No home in Canada would regret this investment. Just think of a great big 72 page publication at less than two cents per week, and every page of it alone worth the money. No wonder the Family Herald and Weekly Star has over a million readers. It deserves them all, and more too.

French Troops Wear Khaki

Police Have To Discard Their Horizon Blue Uniforms

"The blue horizon" has passed. The shroud of a million heroes it has gone out of style. The French troops which pass the tomb of the "Poilu Inconnu" to pay honor to the Unknown Soldier sleeping in his blanket of light-colored blue, wears another tint — for the French army has gone into khaki and "blue horizon" has gone into history.

What man who saw the war can ever forget the uniform the French wore after they discarded their navy blue and red in the first months of 1915? It made of their soldiers the simplest-looking fighting men in the world. They were a brightness and joy about it that resound to fit the spirit of the poilu.

It did not seem to get wrinkled like other uniforms did, and dust still left it looking good. And the way they pinned back one corner of the skirts of their overcoat, gave any French unit on parade just a touch of chic all its own.

What memories the horizon blue brings back to us. There is Marshal Foch standing to rewiew the German armistice mission ages ago; there is a long line of camions filled with zouaves in their fanned light blue, rattling down the front over roads which most of them never travelled back; and those joyous strains of "Made-ly" come to yield to the roll of attack and the groans of death.

There comes back a sight of a small field atop the bolshiest screen from Verdun, which the French captured in September, 1918. It was a reservist outfit which had made the whole march there in the field lay a thousand bodies, all in horizon blue, and almost every one of them had a beard.

Then there was a lonely black Hungarian lying in the middle of a field, a victim of the bullets of German sharpshooters. He never knew for why! And then there was a town hand clashing from the ground, red crushed by shell fire, while the rest of the body remained buried up on a hill near Port Beaumont. Great Greek days done by men who were that garb
